FIFTY THOUSAND MILLIONS.

Throckmorton and his Bride to Visit us next Summer.

[From The Hudson Register.]

LEBANON SPRINGS, Dec. 9, 1874.

About the 15th of last September a Spanish gentleman came to this place and put up at the Wyomanock House. He appeared to be a very intelligent person and very fond of traveling over the hills about the neighborhood. On his return to the hotel from his daily wanderings he was enthusiastic in his description of the many beautiful, wild, and romantic localities he had discovered during the day. After remaining a week, he began to make inquiries as to the ownership of different tracts of land, expressing a willingness to purchase. One piece of property especially attracted him, which lies east of Columbia Hall on the bridge road which leads to Pittsfield, Mass. This place is a strip of land lying between two gorges made by mountain streams, which every Spring and Fall come thundering down the steep ascent, wearing deeper and deeper every year the glens through which they madly rush, thus forming a peninsula between of ravishing beauty. The peninsula, with the surroundings, embrace about six acres of land, on which stands a suburban cottage which was put upon it several years ago at immense expense by a wealthy citizen of Hancock, Mass., and from the fact that house has been unoccupied for the last four years has been called in the neighborhood "Edwin's Folly."

The Spanish gentleman, after several interviews with the owner of this romantic and valuable peninsula, succeeded in purchasing it for the sum of $50,000, which appears to be rather an exorbitant price; but as the former owner is very wealthy and able to keep it, he could with propriety put his own price upon the property. At all events the purchaser seemed well contented with his bargain, and so expressed himself after he had the title deeds executed and in his possession.

Immediately after the first purchase the Spaniard quietly negotiated with different parties owning lands along the western slope of Taconic Mountain, northeast, east, and south of Edwin's Folly, taking in all the romantic dells, heavy forests, and the elevated portion of the mountain from which extensive views can be obtained of the surrounding country. Having examined the several conveyances of land which the Spaniard succeeded in purchasing, I find that he has now in his possession about 8,000 acres, which he has purchased, including the first purchase, for $689,980, which is not on the whole unreasonable.

DA SOUZA CABRAL'S AGENT.

While the negotiations for the purchase of this property were progressing the Spaniard was non-communicative in relation to the object for which the property was intended, but as soon as he had secured all the land he wanted he told without hesitation the full history of the investment. His name is Don Cæsar Chalcedon Garcia, and he is an agent for a very wealthy man in Brazil, who is the owner of gold, diamond, and silver mines in South America, and is considered worth fifty thousand millions of dollars. This wealthy individual's name is Da Souza Cabral.

The South American Crœsus has lately given his daughter in marriage to an American, who has many years been engaged in Brazil in making and operating railroads, and although the young man was worth but five million dollars, yet his comparative poverty with the enormous wealth of his father-in-law was no barrier to the marriage, the father looking more to the happiness of his child than to a wealthy alliance.

The young couple have gone to Europe to spend the winter, where castles have been purchased or erected in every country through which they will pass on their wedding tour, all of which was secured early in season by this agent by direction of his employer. On the 1st of next June the party will cross the Atlantic, and after a short visit to the native place of the bridegroom, in Kentucky, will pass the Summer at the different watering places in the United States, and the kind old father-in-law has provided that a place worthy of the occupancy of his only child shall be in readiness for her reception on her arrival at any watering place of any note that she shall visit. It is for this object that the above mentioned purchase at this place has been made.

We will now endeavor to narrate the improvements which have been or will be made upon the property purchased for Da Souza Cabral, and which his daughter and her husband, George Arthur Throckmorton, will occupy (the agent says) from the 3d to the 15th of August next, and in order to do so we shall be obliged to consult the several contracts made by the agent with parties who have agreed to do the work allotted to them, and, under heavy penalties, to have completed on or before the 1st of August next.

THE HOUSE AND GROUNDS.

First—The house, which has cost the late proprietor so many thousands to put in order, is to be completely remodeled in all its parts, and workmen have for some time been busily at work tearing off the carved wainscoting from the dining room and library; and walls beautifully and expensively frescoed are ruthlessly beaten off to be renewed with more expensive adornments. The style of the outside of the house is also to be changed and be made to resemble as near as possible the homestead in Brazil. The plans and specifications, which call for an expenditure of $25,000, are now in the hands of J. McFarland, Esq., whom all know by reputation, although he has not been engaged in any public work since he had in charge the building of the wood work in the Crystal Palace at New York, used for the exhibition of the industries of all nations.

Second—The furniture is to be supplied by a French house, but it is not to be delivered until next Spring. As every article of furniture is to be constructed after models furnished by Da Souza Cabral, it will be necessary to construct every article new. No pattern now used in France will suffice for this work. This expense, including transportation, duties, etc., will amount to about $50,000.

Third—The grounds about the cottage, together with good, substantial drive ways to reach every point of the extensive domain, also foot paths winding through glens and thickets, are all under the general supervision of our worthy townsman, N. B. H. Sandford, and we feel confident that Don Garcia has happily hit upon the right man in the right place. All who know the untiring industry of that gentleman, and his refined taste, will at once conclude that he will do justice to the magnificent undertaking. He will have five hundred men upon the work as soon as they can be judiciously employed. Mr. Sandford will receive $1,000 a month for his valuable services, commencing January 1, and by the terms of the contract he will receive a bonus of $2,000 if his work is fully completed on the 1st of August next.

Fourth—Two substantial stone dams are to be built across the east and west glens at the foot of the peninsula, which will be thirty feet thick at the base and eighteen feet at the top, the southern faces of which are to be perpendicular. This will form two miniature rivers or lakes on each side of the cottage, and will also make a fall from the walls which will be a Niagara on a small scale, the point of the peninsula representing Goat Island. This work has been intrusted to the skillful engineering of William Jones, Esq., who, with one hundred quarrymen, will shortly commence getting the stone together from the well known quarries on Churchill Mountain. Mr. Jones has agreed to do this work for $56,000, and has already received advances of $20,000, in order to carry forward the work during the coming Winter, as the agent of Da Souza Cabral is anxious to have this part of the work finished in time for the Spring freshet; and as he has engaged 250,000 fish of different varieties to stock the same, to be delivered in the Spring, it will be necessary to have the work completed by the middle of April. We are confident that Mr. Jones is equal to the task.

THE CAVE AND CRYSTAL SPRING.

Fifth—Don Garcia having heard that the mouth of a cavern was situated on the premises purchased, immediately employed a dozen experienced workmen from the Hoosac tunnel and set them to work clearing it out, as the persons who have occupied the land for the last sixty years have foolishly, and, as we think, wickedly used this curious opening for dumping in stone, rubbish and dead horses. They have now been at work, by sections, night and day, for over a month, and have developed a beautiful work of nature, which will be of incalculable value to the estate. It will be recollected that this cave was broken into two years ago by a blast of nitro-glycerine made by G. N. P. Gale; but this entrance being made through the roof of the cavern it became impracticable in consequence of the danger of egress and ingress. It can now be entered without inconvenience, and the workmen will have finished their work in less than a fortnight.

Sixth—On the lands purchased south of the cottage and within a mile is a spring of ice-cold water, furnishing a constant supply sufficient to fill a pipe of four inch calibre. A pipe will therefore be laid immediately to the spring, and all necessity of an ice house will be dispensed with by a bountiful supply sufficient for all practical purposes.

But the crowning effort to make this the most desirable residence in the United States is an aqueduct which is now being constructed from Berry pond to the house, designed to bring the boiling liquid to that locality for bathing purposes. The manner in which the pipes are being laid will involve an enormous expense, as the pipe is packed with woolen flocks the whole length, a foot thick, encased with plaster of Paris and cement, which it is thought will conduct the water three miles without materially altering the temperature. The contract for constructing these aqueducts has been given to parties in Philadelphia, whose mechanics have always excelled in their manner of laying pipe.

But I am making my article too long for the readers of your valuable paper, yet I don't know that I could give a full history of the subject in a less space. At present, when the work has but just commenced, we can only inform you of the intentions of the projector. When the work is fully finished, perhaps the public will be sufficiently interested in the doings of these South American nabobs, and we will have more to say upon the subject.

P. S.—Since writing the above, I have read an article taken from The Albany Evening Journal, in which the correspondent of the Journal gives an account of the marriage of Da Souza Cabral's daughter to Mr. Throckmorton. As his account of the immense wealth of Cabral coincides with the representations made here by his agent Garcia, I conclude that in this case "truth is stranger than fiction."

SCISSORINGTUMS.

—"The only thoroughly blighted being," says The St. Louis Journal, "is the man who has been deceived in a meerchaum. When he has expended his money in purchasing the costly comfort, when he has consumed tobacco enough to unsettle the nerves of a rhinoceros and the stubborn pipe still refuses to color, demonstrating to him the fact that he has been sold, then does the hollowness of this world and all that therein is become fully and disgustingly apparent."

—As my wife at the window one beautiful day, stood watching a man with a monkey, a cart came along with a broth of a boy, who was driving a stout little donkey. To my wife then I spoke, by way of a joke, "There's a relation of yours in that carriage." To which she replied, when the donkey she spied, "Ah, yes! a relation by marriage."

—A young lady at home from boarding-school for the holidays, was asked if she would have roast beef, when she replied. "No, I thank you; gastronomical satiety admonishes me that I have arrived at the ultimate stage of deglutition consistent with dietetic integrity!" The young lady was never asked if she would have anything ever again.

—A Western paper tells us that "a female book agent at La Crosse knocked a lawyer down with a $22 Bible, and then knocked his teeth out with a $6 hymn book." Arm that woman with an ordinary library of costly religious books, and she will whip her weight in wild cats.

—Corpulent old lady—"I should like a ticket for the train." Booking clerk (who thinks he will make a joke)—"Yes: will you go in the passenger train or cattle train?" Lady—"Well, if you are a specimen of what I shall experience in the passenger train, give me a ticket for the cattle train by all means."

—An energetic lady in Olwein, Iowa, laments her inability to vote. "Why, if I were a man," she said, "I'd go to the polls if I had to be laid on a feather bed, placed on a stone boat, and hauled by a blind ox with one leg broken, but I'd vote? But what's the use of talking?"

—An adroit thief who abstracted and ostentatiously displayed a check for a thousand dollars from the gifts at a wedding the other day, only to find that the old man's balance in the bank was four dollars and fifty cents, thinks there is no chance for honest industry in this city.

—Hard currency forever—A Pennsylvania fool fooled with a pistol. Ball struck a five-cent piece in his waist coat pocket, and took to his boots instead of his vitals. A thousand dollars in paper would not have saved him.

—A little girl, reading the History of England with her mother, and coming to the statement that Henry I never laughed after the death of his son, looked up and said: "What did he do when he was tickled?"

—Benjamin Franklin used to spell soap "s-o-p-e," and yet there isn't a day but that some one holds him up as a great philosopher and a good man.

—It requires no particular skill to make a blunder.

—No church is too weak to take up a collection.

—No Chinaman has ever yet become a book agent.

—It is better to be useful than rich.

—Texas has a town called Lovelady. Old maids are enquiring about the climate there.

—What is the largest room in the world? The room for improvement.

—When was the greatest freak of nature? When Mary had a little lamb.

—"The Beautiful Blue Danube," is a muddy, yellow fraud.

—Time will only hang up his scythe when he is no mower.

—A mother-in law in the house is a well-spring of jawy.

A New School Law.

A bill has been introduced in the Ohio Legislature amending the school law. Its provisions radically change the character of the school system as at present practised. It declares that the English alphabet, spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, geography, composition, conversation and elocution shall be the only branches taught. It restricts the age of the pupil to the period between seven and sixteen years. State aid is to be distributed to several cities and counties, not according to population, but on the average attendance of scholars during the school term of the year, as the case may be. It provides for a careful noting and enumeration of children between the ages during which they may attend school.

Lo, the poor Buffalo.

Next Spring 100 English "swells" are coming for a grand buffalo hunt on the plains. The hunt is to be organized on a magnificent scale. Twenty scouts, headed by Buffalo Bill, will chaperon them, and in addition to a vast retinue of servants, cooks, grooms, valets, etc., they will be accompanied by a brass band, which will discourse sweet music as they gather about their camp fire to partake of the evening meal of buffalo meat.

The useless and wanton destruction of these animals of the plains necessitates the taking of some action on the part of Congress for their protection for some time in the year, and not be made the target for sport by merciless hunters.

Beecher-Tilton.

In the contest at law both parties came up groggy, and are sparring for wind. Franky Moulton, Tilton's second, since a little side-play with Proctor, has finally concluded to step down and git, losing stakes and gate money. Distinguished counsel for both B. and T. are on the ragged edge because of the total uncertainty and uncertainty as to which side she'll be on. It is only in the power of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe to some day unravel her case by evolving "The True Story of the Life of Lady"—Tilton.

The Pistol.

Another woman has shot another lawyer in San Francisco. This is about the sixth deadly assault made by women upon men in that city since the acquittal of Laura Fair, and the public appear to be getting tired of the monotony. As, however, San Francisco Grand Juries refuse to indict for attempts at homicide, while San Francisco Petit Juries refuse to convict in cases of atrocious murder, there is no ground for complaint on the part of that community in the premises.

Another Arctic Expedition.

Mr. Disraeli has informed Sir Henry Rawlinson that the English Government, after due consideration, has determined to fit out another Arctic expedition. He says that this is done because the Government thinks so highly of the scientific advantages to be derived from it, and "the importance of encouraging that spirit of maritime enterprise which has ever distinguished the English people."

Arizona.

The Miner announces that on the 24th of November, and again on December 1st, renegade Apaches (Tontos) were found and attacked in rancherias situated between the old and new Verde roads and at the head of Canyon Creek (in Tonto Basin) respectively; eight warriors were killed and two wounded; fourteen women and children were captured.

Improving on It.

San Francisco stock papers now presume to say that there is only $1,500,000,000 of ore in sight in the Consolidated and California mines. Comstock.

Proclamation.

President Grant has issued a proclamation commanding the White Leaguers of Vicksburg to disperse within five days and submit to the laws.

"Bonanza."

The San Francisco Chronicle gives the following explanatory definition of the popular word "Bonanza:"

The word is Spanish, and the definition given in Newman's Dictionary is "fair weather at sea." The nautical phrase "Ir en bonanza" means to sail with fair wind, etc. Spanish miners apply the term to a body of rich ore, and we have adopted the word in the latter sense. The lucky Spanish miner, when asked how he was getting on, would reply, "Oh, ir en bonanza;" an expression equivalent to our modern Americanism; "Oh, we'er all hunkeydory."

HOLDING OUT.

Having just returned from a second visit to the Panamint mines we are pleased to be able to say that the developments made, in the meantime, are unexceptionably as encouraging as any reasonable person could desire. In the three weeks' interval between these visits the work of sinking shafts and driving tunnels had been prosecuted night and day on several of the more prominent mines, and now, for the first time in the history of the district, some of them have reached such length and depth as to require the use of candles by the workmen. Until recently, the deepest opening upon any of the ledges was a 40-foot incline on the Jacob's Wonder. This particular incline has been visited by a vast number of people, as it was upon the most noted ledge and was also the easiest of access. It had been run with poor judgment: cutting at its lower end, above the ledge and into the country rock. A great many of these visitors, seeing that there was no ore of consequence in the bottom of the deepest opening on the "famous Jacob's Wonder, the leading mine of Panamint," and feeling satisfied in their own minds that they could see as deep into the bowels of the earth as anybody, saw here proofs as clear as holy writ, that Panamint was a bilk, "all on the top, sir; won't go down." Well, out of that incline now comes large quantities of splendid ore; and the deeper the better and more of it. As an instance, last Thursday a chunk, of seven hundred pounds weight, was taken out and kept intact as a specimen. The Stewart's Wonder, at a depth of seventy-five feet at both ends of tunnel and bottom of shaft, is showing better than at any previous time. The metal is evenly disseminated through from wall to wall, both of which are perfectly defined, nearly vertical, and stand three and a half feet apart. The average of the ore is about $80 per ton. Several hundred tons of this class are piled up at the several dumps awaiting the completion of a long, iron bound shute to send it down to a point accessible to wagons; and here, speaking of this mine, we found its foreman, (Sam Massey) to be an old Comstocker, quite as proud to show his acquaintances how finely his mine was panning out, as if it was the veritable Comstock itself.

Crossing to the opposite side of the canyon, we find the prospects of the Wyoming quite as flattering as that of the Wonders. Whitlach's North Chief, a large transverse lode cutting into the main vein, of which the Wyoming is part, is making a splendid showing, and must rate among the best mines of the district. No great depth has been attained upon this as yet, however. Work is being prosecuted on a number of other mines besides those mentioned, but without stopping to give them special mention, we may say, either upon personal observation or the word of parties worthy of reliance, there is not one in the lot that shows any indication of "petering," but quite the reverse. True, the work is, as yet, but comparatively superficial, but with respect to some of them, it has gone quite far enough to prove that all the good ores of Panamint are not confined to the surface by any means. We have the utmost confidence that the bottom of the pay ore in these mines will not be reached in many hundred feet, or for many years to come.

But the incidental business prospects of the camp cannot materially expand above its present fair proportions until the mills are got to running. Jacobs' was to start this week; the others are yet to be built.

A Cure for Intemperance.

The plan adopted, at Mr. Gladstone's suggestion, in Liverpool, of having an official list of the names and addresses of all persons who are found inebriated published among the society gossip of the daily papers, is said to be far more effective than prohibitory laws in repressing intemperance, and has had the incidental advantage of enormously increasing the circulation of newspaper literature.

"The Gilded Age."

Mark Twain's new play, "The Gilded Age," has been running fourteen weeks in New York. It has netted the author over $10,000, and made a fortune for the comedian, John T. Raymond, the Col. Sellers of the piece. "There's millions in it."

A Mistake.

Secretary Bristow is said to have said that the Republican party made its mistake in beginning at the bottom of Southern society, and trying to work up; it should have begun at the top and worked down.

Correct.

When any one man in a community is willing to take the lead and, at a heavy cost to himself, do all the responsible work connected with any project in the nature of a public benefit, the community are generally perfectly willing to—let him do it.

Panamint.

[From The San Francisco Post.]

Going up Montgomery street this morning, a reporter of The Post came across that genial old agriculturist, Senator Tom Keyes, of Stanislaus. The Senator had just returned from Panamint, and, after the customary greetings, expressed his willingness to be interviewed and tell all he knows.

"Well, what do you think of Panamint?" asked the reporter.

"It's a good country, sir, but a mighty rough one to visit just now. A fellow may consider himself in luck if he can find a soft rock to sleep on. It's impossible to find any roof to sleep under unless you have some friend who can accommodate you. Money won't do it."

"And how are the mines?"

"The mines are rich, and there are lots of them, the veins running in every direction."

"It's a big thing, then?"

"Well, its a good thing. The veins are from eighteen inches to four feet wide, and pay from the surface. Why, sir, a man can start work on Monday morning on a virgin mine, and on Saturday night can pay his men off with the proceeds of the week's work. There are mighty few mining districts will do that."

"Of course you located lots of feet?"

"Located? Why, bless your soul, every cropping for miles around was located long ago, and the country hasn't arrived at that stage when they locate blind leads. I spent the days traveling around the country, and my evenings in company with business men, so that I got a pretty good idea of the situation."

"Would you advise any one to go there?"

"Well, not now. It's a pretty rough country to visit. A man with a little money can do well there, though, and can buy some good mines very cheap. There are no mills running yet, but when they get them started the district will turn out a good deal of bullion."

"Are there many people there?"

"Yes, and they are rushing in by the hundreds."

"Do you propose to return?"

"Well, not right away. I have some business at home to look after just now."

"Have you abandoned agriculture for mining?"

"Oh, no. You see I have a partner, and——"

"Is his name Levi?"

The Senator gave the reporter a reproachful look and sorrowfully turned aside to have a little political chat with Tom Findley.

Coal.

Coal is invariably found in seams. There are no veins of coal. A seam runs parallel with the super imposed strata—a vein generally runs at some angle to them, and is the filling of the fissure or crack. Coal seams are called beds when of considerable thickness. A coal field or basin is a region of country basin or trough shaped, which is underlaid by beds or seams of coal. Coal is usually found in nearly horizontal seams. Those in England are much further underground than in America. Collieries, therefore, are much deeper there than here, the deepest one in England being about 2,376 feet. Coal seams are found to vary from one inch to fifty feet in thickness. The bituminous seams in America average from three to six feet.

Artesian Wells as a Source of Water Supply.

It is a fact, although not generally known, that above one million of the people of London, residing on the south side of the river Thames, are largely indebted to artesian wells for their supply of water. But a comparatively small amount of water supplied to the south side of London comes from the Thames. The three companies who supply the water obtain the most of it from artesian wells sunk to the depth of from two to three thousand feet. These wells are located perhaps from three to four miles apart. Time was when the whole of London drew nearly its daily supply of water from the Thames. But as population increased it became apparent that to draw off such large quantities of water as were required for two or three million of people must necessarily interfere with the navigation of the river. An Act of Parliament was, therefore, passed, prohibiting the withdrawal by the water companies of more than a certain number of gallons daily. The consequence was that they had to look to other sources of supply, and they immediately commenced sinking artesian wells from which the bulk of the water is now obtained. There are several large cities of England where the companies furnishing the water obtain their supplies by similar means. At one of these—Sheerness, in the county of Kent—the well is sunk within two hundred yards of the German ocean, but although so close to salt water, an abundant supply of pure fresh water always bubbles up from the earth.—[S. F. Bulletin.

The New Mining Order.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office promulgated the following highly important ruling on the 3d inst.:

A mining claim upon which the amount of expenditures by the Mining Act of 1872 shall have been expended at any time since the 10th of May, 1872, and previous to July 1, 1875, will not be subject to relocation, if the location was made prior to the passage of said Act of May 10, 1872, but that yearly expenditure must be made thereafter.

The Recorder of White River Mining District writes to The Chronicle to inquire if the above order has been actually promulgated, he having seen in a country weekly an expression of doubt on the subject, coupled with the statement that no such ruling had reached the Visalia land office.

The "ruling" in question was made as above set forth, except that the word "January" should be inserted for "July." Several country papers, in copying the order, have given it as above, with July incorrectly substituted for January.—[S. F. Chronicle.

Astonishing.

Since the creation of the world, fourteen thousand millions of human beings have fallen in the battles which man has waged against his fellow-creature—man. If this amazing number of men were to hold each other by the hand, at arm's length, they would extend over 14,583,333 miles of ground, and would encircle the globe, on which we dwell, 608 times. If we allow the weight of a man to be, on the average, one cwt., (and that is below the mark) we shall come to the conclusion that 6,250,000 tons of human flesh have been mangled, disfigured, gashed and trampled under foot. The calculation will appear more striking when we state, that if only the forefingers of every one of those 1,400,000,000 of human beings were laid in a straight line they would reach more than 600,000 miles beyond the moon; and that if a person were to undertake to count the number, allowing nineteen hours a day, and seven days to a week, at the rate of 6,000 per hour, it would occupy that person 336 years. And awful is the consideration! 350,000 pipes of human blood have been spilt in battle.—[Dr. Dick.

Genius and Insanity.

Daniel Mossart, the well-known watch inventor, has just been taken to the insane asylum at Kalamazoo, Michigan. He has been for years at work on a watch which, without being larger than usual, was to show quarter-seconds, minutes, hours, days of the week, days of the month, and months of the year, and every fifth time it was opened was to wind itself. He had completed it, and had received a large offer from persons in New York for the right to manufacture it. A short time ago he took the model apart to fix, and being unable to put it together again, some part having probably been lost, the intense mental application upon the difficulty had deranged his mind.

Large quantities of bridge work for the Cuzco and Chimbote railroads, in Peru, will be ready for shipment from New York this month, also cars for the Puno railway, which penetrates to the large inland city of Titicaca, and is remarkable on account of running over a mountain summit 14,600 feet above the level of the sea—the highest elevation ever attained by a railway. Another road in progress will reach a summit of 15,700 feet. In this same road there will be 68 tunnels through solid rock, constituting, so it is claimed, the most difficult achievement of the kind ever attempted, not even excepting the tunnel of Mount Cenis.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

"What I know I know," said the great surgeon Magendie. "Give me stubborn facts: I care not for theories." This is sound doctrine. Possibly a medical martinet might be able, in a plausible way, to show why DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS ought not to cure Indigestion, Headache, Nervousness, Liver Complaint, Muscular Diseases and Miasmatic Fevers; but as they do in every instance effect that object, his fine theory would be a waste of words. As Magendie said, the world demands facts, not speculative opinions. n233m1

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration f term of subscription.

The Amateur Theatricals.

The large Court room, the extemporised theater, was literally packed to overflowing last evening, the opening night of our Amateur Dramatic Association. Everybody was astonished to see everybody else there, and a good many thought it right and proper to apologetically explain their presence on the grounds of a duty to thus contribute something towards the maintenance of the public school system in general and this school in particular, for the benefit of which the proceeds of this performance was to be devoted. Everybody was still more completely astonished when the curtain fell at the close--for instead of the halting school-exhibition they had screwed up their courage to endure for the sake of substantially encouraging our aforesaid public school system, they had witnessed a really meritorious theatrical performance, which, taken as a whole, is rarely excelled off first-class boards; a judgment the easier and more universally arrived at, perhaps, because the entertainment so immeasureably exceeded anticipations. This much, at least, may be said--that a better pleased, higher toned audience or a larger one never pronounced judgment on the exhibition of any professional troupe in this place. However our citizens may have enjoyed the performances of the traveling troupes who have visited us, the voice of all is now raised to the effect that such show people are hardly entitled to the importance of holding a stage candle to this totally unlooked for combination of local talent. Indeed, it will be seen that the manager thereof was struck with a huge streak of luck when such really talented, though raw, material was put into his hands.

Briefly particularizing, our junior, barring the lack of the look of ancientness becoming an aged and patriotic sire, carried the part of "Mr. Horton," in "Sylvia's Soldier," very commendably; and subsequently as a bumming, boisterous old rounder in "Local Option," showed out quite naturally. Anyway he wasn't afraid to speak out, and in character as well as stage manager, acquitted himself passing well.

Miss Ida A Hardy, as "Sylvia," a thoroughly patriotic, earnest girl, ready to sacrifice even life itself for her country's sake, had the most difficult part of all to play, and she did it well, very well It is a character to try the best powers of a star actress, and we are gratified to know that Miss Ida, on her first appearance and with such limited opportunities for preparation, got through with it so satisfactorily.

If the character of "Bessie Bray" had been especially created for Miss Mary Graham, or vice versa, it could not have been any better rendered. Her easy, vivacious style and piquant remarks seemed so perfectly natural as to make the audience forget it was merely a play. Her song of "Good bye, Charley," was well received.

George M. Gill made a great strike as "Sergeant Sanford," and as "Zekiel Short," in "Local Option," he brought down the house. In his disguised characters, George is far better than most of the professionals. His song and dance "in colors" in the "Days when I was Young," was well executed and very pleasing.

Wm. F. Matlack, as "Arthur Horton," dreadfully in love with "Bessie," who delighted in tormenting him because he preferred to be called a coward and play sick rather than "go to war," played his part with such an nonchalant air, ease and naturalness as to receive the encomiums of all. His singing and representation in character of feeble, white wooled "Old Black Joe," was splendid--some said "they couldn't beat that in San Francisco."

J. Heckel made a strike in the character of a victimized, half drowned darkey. In fact his debut was very striking, for he struck the floor with effect, when "Zekiel Short," who had rescued him from a watery grave, seemed literally to sling him into public notice like an old dead cat, and black as he was he showed as grand and fine a frenzied colic as either of the thieving rounders who had victimized him in order to obtain the "pizen" that set them all up with internal woe and outward repentance—in short, made those old rounders come out strong for "local option." "Zekiel Short" imperturbably lectured while the poisoned darkey and rounders roared with pain, and hope of relief deferred in such an excessively amusing way as to make the audience roar in concert, if not in sweet accord. "Local Option," as a farce, was a success on the stage—before the law, as a law it was also a roaring farce, but to less purpose.

Much of the success of this entertainment, in the way of adding to the general effect was Mrs. D. D. Gunnison's magnificent piano playing. In point of fact, among pianists, she has very few, if any, superiors, no matter where they may come from.

We are reminded by the aforementioned stage manager (Jas. E) that he is under obligations to R. W. Woolard, T. May and G. W. Todd for their very efficient aid in various ways.

We are likewise reminded that of necessity, this being publication day, we are obliged to omit any mention whatever at this time of various other things, in this connection, that would receive attention were it practicable. There is one matter, however, that must not pass unnoticed, though compelled to defer details until next week. That is, the receipt, by the company, of a very generally signed document earnestly requesting the Association to favor the public with another entertainment at their earliest convenience. We hope to be able to give their decision in our next issue.

A grand ball wound up the evening's amusement. This was a fine affair of itself, and was honored with the presence of a number of ladies and officers from the Post, and ladies and gentlemen from Lone Pine and other localities more adjacent.

Road Survey.

Jo Seeley and Dad Moore completed their task of "chaining" the new Coso-Panamint road, and arrived at Tule Station, at the foot of Big Lake on Tuesday last. They give the following as distances:

	Miles.
From Panamint to Darwin	41
" Darwin to Tule Station	19
" Tule Station to Lone Pine	20
" Lone Pine to Independence	16
Independence to Panamint	96

Showing a shortening up of 25 miles on the present road, the new route touching the line of Coso District, and being, for the greater distance, over a solid, perfect road bed. There is some work to be done to connect it with the road at Shepherd's canyon but outside of this the road is now as fine as any teamster could wish. We believe that to our Senior is mainly due the credit for this engineering.

Wild Rose Spring.

A number of important mining discoveries have recently been made in Wild Rose Spring District by Joseph Nossano. Several of these discoveries are remarkably well defined and show quantities of rich silver ore. Among them is the "Garibaldi" mine, a very large lode, showing on the surface hundreds of tons of rich ore. An average sample of the ores of this mine, assayed by J. L. Porter, of Cerro Gordo, yielded $238 16 per ton in silver. This remarkable discovery has been visited by a number of mining men from Panamint, Cerro Gordo and elsewhere, all of whom pronounce it as showing on the surface a larger amount of rich ore than they have ever before seen. Hunter's and Porter's mines, in the same district, are improving splendidly. A new strike on the "Nellie Grant," at the depth of twenty feet, assays from $800 to $1,000 per ton.

Banking and Assaying.

Among other new Panamint advertisements will be found that of the Panamint Bank, Louis Felsenthal, President. This institution is now open for the transaction of a general banking business. Connected with the same is the assay office of Mr. Eissler, who has the reputation of being an excellent and most reliable assayer, and will do work at San Francisco prices, which is about $3 for each assay. Parties, prospecting in the adjacent mountains, sending samples to him, can rely upon getting speedy and reliable returns.

About a Hat.

The Senior of this institution wore his best hat to the theater last night. It cost $3 more or less, some months since, and altogether was a very reliable if not a pretty or valuable one. If the gentleman who took it ain't satisfied with the fit or its general superior shabbiness, and will bring it back he may earn the gratitude of the rising generation, and ours anyway, if he will come and get the plastic tile he left in place of it at the time of the mistake.

Bursted.

We learn that the Cerro Gordo Water Company's pipes have bursted from the effects of frost. In consequence of this misfortune the furnaces will have to be shut down for a short time, if not for the remainder of the Winter. Since the accident water for domestic purposes is being packed in upon pack animals.

The Crystal Spring, about the only water in Coso, some seven miles from the town, formerly owned by Hanson, Elder & Beaudry, has recently been purchased by the latter gentleman, who proposes to immediately conduct the water to the town by means of pipes.

Medical.

We would direct the attention of our readers, particularly those out at Darwin and other points convenient to Panamint, needing the services of a good physician, to the professional card of Dr. J. T. Wells, of Panamint, late of the U. S. Navy.

Masonic Election.

On Saturday evening, December 19th, the following officers were elected by Tuolumne Lodge, No. 8, F. & A. M., for the ensuing year: W. G. Long, W. M.; S. Benas, S. W.; Jas. Bell, J. W.; C. E. Lang, Treasurer; T. M. Yancey, Secretary.—[Sonora Independent.

For the Railroad.

It is a significant fact that both THE INYO INDEPENDENT and The Panamint News are in favor of the Los Angles route. Those rich mining districts want the shortest road to the best country for supplies and to cheap water transportation.—[Wilmington Enterprise.

Christmas at Bishop Creek.

[Correspondence of The Inyo Independent.]

MESSRS EDITORS—Would you know how Christmas passed hereabouts? Well, the morning was cold, with northwest wind, which abated, and the afternoon became pleasant. The evening was clear, calm and rather cold. People well, with few exceptions.

According to arrangement, there were two rather lusty pine trees—one for public and the other for private donations—that reached nearly to the ceiling, placed in the school house, and laden with articles of more or less value to please the expectant recipients. In the evening, after a few appropriate remarks, the trees were illuminated with small wax candles interspersed among their branches, the presents unceremoniously distributed, amid mirth and festivity. But Santa Claus, some like our modern earthquakes—local in his visits—did not put in an appearance.

It was a reasonably "merry Christmas" for the little folks, but for the adults and youth present the appearance of the trees brought sad remembrances of circumstances connected with them—the fact that one of the principal agents, if not the leading spirit, Miss Alice Clark, was no more. She had ridden throughout our settlement and obtained from the generous Bishopites ample means to made the affair a pleasing success, and ere there was an opportunity to make the little ones glad and the older ones happy, she, after a few short hours of sickness, was numbered among those that were; had gone from our gaze forever! The vision of the blithe form, the courteous solicitation to contribute, the agile, receiving hand, and the respectful, appreciative "thank you," was too fresh in the memory of all for them to be easily divested of the impression that she was there among them, with ordinary visual powers, observing the result of her efforts. But the sad, oft recurring mental response was "Alas! she, with all her bright hopes, now 'moulders cold and low' in her grave!" It is needless to state that sorrow prevails among us. I am informed that at its next regular meeting after her burial, Oasis Lodge, I. O. G. T., adopted the following:

Resolved, That a bough of the late decorated Christmas tree, to collect the means for the ornamentation of which our late departed sister, Alice Clark, so laudably and energetically devoted herself--the same being her last labors on earth--be, during our meetings, for the space of thirty days, draped in mourning and placed upon the desk of the Secretary of our Lodge.

CITIZEN.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., Dec. 31.

As this is the last opportunity we will have of giving you, in this year, an item, we will now improve it. Yes, 1874 has stolen by, and the clerk that counts the seconds and minutes warns us of a new year, which, if not marked and timed with precision, will steal by and leave us one year nearer the end of our existence, with probably no more hope in the future than we have at the present time. But, "as long as there is life there is hope," is the motto of the people of Benton.

Times are rather dull here now, for various reasons. There is but one mill running here now; but Mr. A. Mack is pushing the work of building his new furnace with all his might, and is expecting Mr. Howell to arrive soon to superintend putting in the machinery; and as the Panamint emigration has subsided times are not so lively as before.

MR. IKSPKT,

Of Round Valley, placed considerable emphasis on the word Panamint in your paper a few weeks ago, and seemed to decline any favors of Benton or Mono county; but the resolution of the people of Benton is not to be daunted, and that we will Pan out a Mint of money when other places, which have sprung up under the shadow of night, will be in ruins and inhabited only by coyotes.

SOLD AGAIN.

Mr. Creaser has sold his saw-mill and all property belonging thereto to Mr. J D. Channell and another man whose name we dare not mention, because of rage towering to high. However, Mr Channell is an enterprising and energetic young man, and promises, that by the 1st of March, to be turning out as good lumber as anybody.

A GOOD THING.

Billy Marshall has rented and fitted up for a bath house, Mr. Creaser's house, and is now ready to accommodate people with baths from the hot springs, which are said to be very healthy.

To-morrow night there is to be a party at the hotel, at Partzwick, a good time is anticipated, as there will be a general turnout and good music, so if there is no mistake the "ball will go on."

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

True as Gospel.

"We admire by tradition; we censure by caprice; and there is nothing in which we are more ingenious and inventive. A wrong step in prosody sprains a foot in poetry; eloquence is never so unwelcome as when it issues from a familiar voice and hath no echo but from a certain distance. Our critics, who know little about them, would gaze with wonder at anything similar, in our days, to Pindar and Sophocles, and would cast it aside as quite impracticable. These are in tha right; for sonnet and canzonet charm greater numbers. There are others, or may be hereafter, to whom far other things will afford far higher gratification"--Boccaccio.

A Murder.

On Saturday night, between 10 and 11 o'clock, two Cornishmen, named John Skewers and Alfred Rule, got into a difficulty over a game of cards at the Washington House, on the Divide. Rule called Skewers a liar, after which they engaged in a struggle, and Skewers was thrown across the edge of a table, in which position he drew a pistol and shot Rule, the ball entering behind the left ear and passing through his head, causing death in a rew minutes. Rule was much the larger man of the two, and had Skewers completely in his power when the latter fired.--{Va. Chronicle.

--One of the old settlers of the Isles of Shoals seeing the name of Psyche on the hull of a yacht the other day, spelled it out slowly, and then exclaimed: "Well, if that ain't the durndest way to spell fish!"

—A San Bernardino paper mentions, as another evidence of the productiveness of Southern California, that a school near that town is attended by four pair of twins. It is encouraging. The other districts are to hear from.

—King Kanacka is sick. He is greatly astonished at the magnitude of the United States and its resources.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Ugly Sam and Why he Reformed.

[From The Detroit Free Press.]

He had been missing from the "Potomac" for several days, and Cleveland Tom, Port Huron Bill, Tail Chicago, and the rest of the boys who were wont to get drunk with him couldn't make out what had happened. They hadn't heard that there was a warrant out for him, had never known of his being sick for a day, and his absence from the old haunts puzzled them. They were in the Hole-in-the-Wall saloon the other morning, nearly a dozen of them, drinking, smoking, and playing cards, when in walked Ugly Sam.

There was a deep silence for a moment as they looked at him. Sam had a new hat, had been shaved clean, had on a clean collar and a white shirt, and they didn't know him at first. When they saw that it was Ugly Sam they uttered a shout and leaped up

"Cave in that hat!" cried one.

"Yank that collar off!" shouted another.

"Let's roll him on the floor!" screamed a third.

There was something in his look and bearing which made them hesitate. The whiskey-red had almost faded from his face, and he looked sober and dignified. His features expressed disgust and contempt as he looked around the room, and then revealed pity as his eyes fell upon the red eyes and bloated faces of the crowd before him.

"Why, what ails ye, Sam?" inquired Tall Chicago, as they all stood there.

"I've come down to bid you good-by, boys!" he replied, removing his hat and drawing a clean handkerchief from his pocket.

"What! Hev ye turned preacher?" they shouted in chorus.

"Boys, ye know I can lick any two of ye, but I hain't on the fight any more, and I've put down the last drop of whiskey which is ever to go into my mouth! I've switched off I've taken an oath. I'm going to be decent!"

"Sam, be you crazy?" asked Port Huron Bill, coming nearer to him.

"I've come down here to tell ye all about it," answered Sam. "Move the cha'rs back a little and give me room. Ye all know I've been rough, and more too. I've been a drinker, a fighter, a gambler and a loafer. I can't look back and remember when I've earned an honest dollar. The police hez chased me around like a wolf, and I've been in jail and the workhouse, and the papers has said that Ugly Sam was the terror of the Potomac. Ye all know this, boys, but ye didn't know I had an old mother."

The faces of the crowd expressed amazement.

"I never mentioned it to any of ye, for I was neglecting her," he went on. "She was a poor old woman, living up here in the alley, and if the neighbors hadn't helped her to fuel and food, she'd have been found dead long ago. I never helped her to a cent—didn't see her for weeks and weeks, and I used to feel mean about it. When a fellow goes back on his old mother he's a gettin' purty low, and I know it. Well, she's dead—buried yesterday! I was up there afore she died. She sent for me by Pete, and when I got there I seen it was all day with her."

"Did she say anything?" asked one of the boys as Sam hesitated.

"That's what ails me now," he went on. "When I went in she reached out her hand to me, and, says she: 'Samuel, I'm going to die, and I know'd you'd want to see me afore I passed away!' I sat down, feeling queer-like. She didn't go on and say how I was a loafer, and had neglected her, and all that, but says she: 'Samuel, you'll be all alone when I'm gone. I've tried to be a good mother to you, and have prayed for you hundreds o' nights, and cried about you till my old heart was sore!' Some of the neighbors had dropped in, and the women were crying, and I tell you, boys, I felt weak!"

He paused for a moment, and then continued:

"And the old woman said she'd like to kiss me afore death came, and that broke me right down. She kept hold of my hand, and by-and by she whispered: 'Samuel, you are throwing your life away. You've got it in you to be a man, if you'll only make up your mind. I hate to die and feel that my only son and the last of our family may go to the gallows. If I had your promise that you'd turn over a new leaf, and try and be good, it seems as if I'd die easier. Won't you promise me, my son?' And I promised her, boys, and that's what ails me! She died holding my hand, and I promised to quit the low business and go to work. I came down to tell ye, and now you won't see me on the Potomac again. I've bought an ax, and am going up in Canada to winter."

There was a dead silence for a moment, and then he said:

"Well, boys, I'll shake hands with ye all around afore I go. Good-by, Pete—good-by, Jack—Tom—Jim, I hope ye won't fling any bricks at me, and I shan't never fling at any of ye. It's a dying promise, ye see, and I'll keep it if it takes a right arm!"

The men looked reflectively at each other after he had passed out, and it was a long time before any one spoke. Then Tall Chicago flung his clay pipe into a corner, and said:

"I'll lick the man who says Ugly Sam's head ain't level!"

"So'll I!" repeated the others.

Human Strength.

Among the Arabs, the Persians and the Turks you do not meet those undersized, rickety, consumptive beings who are so common in Europe; you do not meet with such pale, wan, sickly looking countenances. Their complexions are bright and florid; they are strong and vigorous, able to ride a hundred miles a day, and capable of performing other most amazing feats. I remember seeing a most striking instance of their powers. A band of men from the Himalaya mountains had come to Calcutta for the purpose of exhibiting feats of strength, and they were indeed perfect Sampsons. Their size struck me with admiration. I know nothing that I can compare to them; but perhaps some of you have seen the statue at the bottom of the stairs at Somerset House: it is Hercules leaning on his club, is seven feet high, looking like being capable of executing the most difficult task; and such were the Athletæ. We selected five men on board the "Glascow" frigate, a similar number from one of the regiments, and likewise from an Indiaman, all fine picked men; and yet upon a trial of strength it was found that a Himalaya mountaineer was equal to two and three quarters of the strongest Europeans. They could grasp a man and hold him in the air like a child, and, if they had not been under control, I am convinced they could have crushed him to death. I felt them, and I never felt such flesh in my life; great rolls of muscle. These men never tasted spirits. —[Buckingham's Lectures.

Defeating a Dream.

When a dream takes strong hold of the imagination, it often occasions its own fulfillment. There are cases on record where persons dreamed that they should die at a certain hour, and the conviction of an inevitable doom possesses them strongly that they actually died at the expected time. A Worcester (Mass.) physician was too shrewd for the fears of one of his patients:

The Worcester Press says that a young married lady of that city dreamed twice last week that she would die at midnight on the first anniversary of her wedding day, and so strongly was she impressed with the vision, that she actually made preparations for her funeral, and even gave a sum of money to a friend to purchase mourning. Her husband, becoming alarmed at her condition, consulted a medical friend, stating all the facts of the case. The astute doctor, after a few minutes' cogitation, discovered a way out of the difficulty. Telling the husband to keep her amused as much as possible till late in the day, he went down to the house and administered a harmless narcotic which kept the lady asleep till the dreaded moment passed. She is now in good health, and joins with her friends in laughing at her superstitious fears.

"Because."

It has been sagaciously remarked that a woman's only reason for anything is "because." This theory is borne out by the way the girls operate with counterfeit notes which come under their hands in the Treasury Department. General Spinner, who has had twelve years' experience in the work, says they are worth ten times as much as the men for such business. "A man always has a reason for a counterfeit," says the General, "forty, may be, but he is wrong half the time. A woman never has a reason. She says 'tis counterfeit because it is counterfeit, and she is always right—though she could not tell how she found out if she were to be hung for it."

Important Announcement.

It is unexpectedly announced that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company have sold their Southern Coast line to Wm. Kohl, who has already taken possession of the steamers and the business. Simultaneously with this announcement, Mr. H. McLellan, the agent of the line at this point, was instructed to open a new set of books in account with the new proprietor. It is surmised that Mr. Kohl is of the firm of Hutchinson, Kohl & Co., now in the Alaska trade. We hardly know what to say about the effect this change will have in our commercial relations. The P. M. S. S. Co. gave entire satisfaction, and we regret to lose it from our coast trade.—[Los Angeles Express.

A Big Steal on the Tapis.

The San Francisco Post is exposing and trying to defeat a tremendous steal contemplated by the Atlantic and Pacific, or thirty-fifth parallel, railroad company. This company intend, if possible, to make their land subsidy extend clear from the boundary of the State where the road strikes it to the terminus at San Francisco, and thus literally steal millions of acres of lands, the homes of thousands of settlers wherever they can be reached and gobbled up. The original charter of the company expressly stipulates that the road is to have no subsidy whatever west of the California boundary; but it is leaving no stone unturned to have this restriction set aside or ignored. It looks like it would be out of the question to get such a bill through Congress, but money will do anything these days. We shall endeavor to present this important matter more in detail hereafter.

Appleton's Journal.

Appleton's Journal, the favorite and most popular of magazine's will begin the new year with renewed spirit. A new novel, entitled "Ralph Wilton's Wierd," by the author of "The Wooing O't"--a novel that was among the marked successes of last year--will be commenced in the first number for January. A series of illustrated papers on the Industrial Arts will be a feature of the year. Christian Reid will contribute a series of papers, illustrated, descriptive of "Southern By-ways." A new novel by Rhoda Broughton is promised. Travel, Adventure, Exploration, Natural History, Social Themes, the Arts, Fiction, Literature, Current Topics, will each have large place in its plan. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

The Panamint Mines.

The San Francisco papers note the departure of Mr. Trenor W. Park, President of the Panama Railroad, for the Panamint mines. He gives to The Post the following information concerning the shipment of ores via Los Angeles and Panama:

Through contracts can be made for ore from Los Angeles to Liverpool at the rate of £4 10s per ton of 2,240 pounds, and if large quantities came forward the rate would be made £4. He says the Surprise Valley mines could furnish 300 tons a day at a fortnight's notice, and the district 1,000 tons, but this cannot be done while the ore has to be hauled from the interior to the sea port. A railroad, broad gauge, from Truxton or Shoo Fly to the mouth of Surprise Canyon can be built and equipped for $2,000,000, and this ore traffic, with the accompanying merchandise and passenger business, would make it the best paying road in the United States. A narrow, three foot gauge could be constructed for about $1,200,000. There are other mines of immense value in the lower part of the State, the ore of which can never be worked on the spot for the want of wood and water, and which must lie dormant until there is railroad communication with the ocean. Speaking of the handling of ores twice at Panama, through the distance which ships have to lie from the railroad wharf, he says the inconvenience is not so great as is supposed, and that the total expense is less than the interest on the $2,000,000 it would take to build a wharf at the anchorage. In regard to the cost of sending these ores by steam and rail to England instead of by the cape and sailing vessels, he says the saving of insurance, with the interest, on high grade ores compensate for the difference on freight. These ores when rich in copper will continue to be sent to Swansea; as the copper, which otherwise would be lost, pays the cost of freight and reduction.

A Careful Judge.

Judge Green, of the Second District, Washington Territory, may fairly claim to be considered the most cautious occupant of the bench extant. A case recently came before him in which an Indian was charged with the murder of another nomad, who was a medicine man. The defendant's wife had been very ill, and labored under the firm conviction that the medicine man had bewitched her. The husband went to the medicine man and requested the release of his wife from the spell which was killing her. The demand was refused by the reputed wizard, who further said that the woman was in his power, and would die the next day. Upon this the husband very naturally killed him. The defense took the ground that a belief in witchcraft was sanctioned by the Bible, and was common all the world over. The Judge in charging the jury observed that he did not feel at liberty to assume that there was no such thing as witchcraft; that he would not take upon himself to deny the possibility of the enchantment of the sick woman; and that as the defendant believed it to be his duty to save his wife by killing the medicine man, it was proper for the jury to find a verdict of not guilty. Which they accordingly did, to the confusion of all future medicine men. It is a funny case.—[Walla Walla Statesman.

LET US REJOICE.

We feel very much disposed to crow a bit; our railroad will, in all reasonable probability, soon be an actual reality, a fixed fact. Work upon it has already begun, and as we hope and believe will not cease until the last spike is driven right here in this village of Independence. There can be no doubt on this point now, under the new aspect of things, if the people of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Inyo are true to themselves and manifest the least disposition in the world to help themselves.

But before urging any one to help to build this road, that he may help himself at the same time, it is well that the new phase of the great enterprise be better understood. As will be seen by the articles of incorporation given elsewhere in this issue, a new and most capable company now have the matter in hand; it is a corporation established under the general laws of the State, not as organized under the special law of the last Legislature. The only member of the original company now taking a leading part is that of F. P. F. Temple, of Los Angeles, who above all others of that city or elsewhere is entitled to high praise for his untiring energy and liberal hand in working up this enterprise to its present promising condition. He has shown by his acts from the beginning that he duly appreciated its great importance to his own city and this portion of the State generally. And but for his labors and liberal pecuniary contributions, in putting the project in a tangible shape, it is quite possible the franchise would have been permitted to lapse by limitation. But in thus according individual praise we do not wish to ignore the persistent and valuable aid to the same end afforded by the Los Angeles press: notably that of The Express and Herald.

The names of Senator John P. Jones, President of the company, and Trenor W. Park give the undertaking an immense weight. Park, as we learn by The Herald, is one of the great capitalists of the East, actual President of the Panama railroad company, and an extensive stockholder in the Pacific Mail Steamship company, these last two facts having a bearing of much more value in this connection than may appear at the first glance. It means that this road is to carry the rich ores of this inland region to the sea to furnish loading for his ships, via the Panama road, while being sent to England for reduction.

The other incorporators are likewise men of capital and extensively interested in the mines of this county and business at Los Angeles. Together they represent capital quite sufficient to build a dozen such railroads as this, and each has a vast individual interest in the completion of the project. But they do not propose to do all the work themselves alone. The people of those counties especially interested must contribute something toward it. The committee appointed at the meeting of the 12th of December are preparing to make an energetic canvass for this purpose, and if this effort meets the response that it most assuredly should do, the road will be built beyond peradventure. It is confidently asserted by those who ought to know, that the Los Angeles and Independence railroad will be the best property in the United States, considered merely in the light of an investment. This we do know: that nothing can add more to the prosperity of the people of Inyo than this road; it is vitally necessary to our prosperity. It is an absurdity to look for any material improvement over present conditions from any other source or any other railroad.

THE CHANGE OF BOOKS.

In a commendable effort to establish as near as possible a perfect system of public education, the wise heads of California have thought that one of the requisites of such a system was a perfect uniformity of school text books throughout the entire State. In view of the presumed improvement in school books as the years grew apace, and desiring to avoid an arbitrary law designating which particular series should be used, the Legislature hit upon the unhappy expedient of creating a State Board of Education, granting them full powers in the premises. Experience having demonstrated that the natural frailties of these men rendered them incapable of resisting the "influences" of the wily book agent, and that the Board had become, perforce, a source of great expense and annoyance to the whole people, subsequent Legislatures materially modified and restricted their powers by limiting the times at which such sweeping changes could be made. The amended Code further provides that no substitution shall be had of books which are inferior in contents, in binding, printing or press-work.

The State Board of Education consists of the Governor, State Superintendent and the County Superintendents of the several largest counties of the State: On the 8th instant, by a majority of a single vote—Governor Booth and Superintendent Bolander voting with the minority—the Board adopted the Bancroft series of Pacific Coast Readers, to the displacement of McGuffey's manuals, and passed resolutions effecting some other changes of lesser note. Pending the change it was estimated that the aggregate cost of this to the people of the State would amount to $318,000. But the publishers propose to exchange their books for the old ones, provided those returned shall not be so soiled as to render them unfit for sale. Aside from this palpable admission of the inferiority of their own, the gauze-like thinness of the proposition is amusing—for there is yet to be a case put on record where a school book, used three days by little hands, that was not pretty thoroughly "soiled."

A word for the express benefit of the Bancroft book and stationery firm will not be out of place at this point. A neat and well worked up scheme of theirs to dispose of a dead stock of Supreme Court Reports, at the expense of the State, was knocked higher than Gilderoy's kite by the last Assemby, after they had insinuatingly invoked the aid of various county officials of the State. At the hands of the press, by their presumption in asking for it, they have received more gratuitous alvertising than any other firm in California. Country merchants, solicited to purchase from them, have found the same articles sold to their own customers for the same prices. It is enough, in this matter, that the public believe a majority of the State Board to have been bought for the occasion.

The thing should, and will, be resisted to the utmost. Let our County Board, and the schools generally, pay absolutely no attention to the matter whatever, and sail right along as though nothing had happened.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT.

No political event that has occurred since the collapse of the rebellion has stirred the heart of the whole Nation deeper than the recent acts of General Phil Sheridan at the State Captal of Louisiana. As every one knows there has been an irrepressible conflict going on in that State between the Kellogg and M'Enery factions. The sympathies and support of all the better class of the Louisianians has been with the latter; the carpet-bag chicanery, and as it appears, technical legal right upholding the former. Both parties claimed the late election, but President Grant refused to recognize the M'Enery or White League legislature. In anticipation of trouble, when the time for the Legislature to assemble should arrive Sheridan was sent down with carte blanche powers to suppress a possible outbreak, and any way to sustain the Kellogg legislature recognized as the proper one under the law. The M'Enery members met, but at the point of the bayonet were compelled to give place to the other faction. Sheridan at the same time asked that the leaders of the White League be officially proclaimed banditti so as to bring them under military authority. These acts are denounced by all classes and parties as outrageous to the last degree and equally threatening to civil liberty, both of which they certainly are. If Grant does not recede from his position it is quite probable some very serious results must follow these acts, let the real right rest where it may. We do not, however, believe that such a man and soldier as General Sheridan would coolly and deliberately do as he has done in these instances unless compelled to do it as a matter of duty, and in the belief that there was no other recourse.

The Beauties of It.

A Mormon paper at Salt Lake places the number of polygamists in the Territory at 1,000 men, 3,000 women and 9,000 children, and thinks that the Courts would have around them 3,000 crying women and 9,000 crying children. This is probably a pretty accurate computation. One of the beauties of the polygamous system is shown by a statement that within a stone's throw of a prominent church in Salt Lake is the residence of an aged Mormon who is the husband of a woman and her two daughters. Thus his first wife is his mother-in law, his step-daughters are his wives, his son by his first wife his half-brother to his other wives, and a sort of uncle to his other children, and, and—you can study it out further, if you want to.

Monument to Livingstone.

A movement to erect a monument by public subscription, in honor of the late Scottish explorer, Livingstone, has met with gratifying success. The sum required has nearly all been collected, and the work will rapidly be pushed forward.

CONSISTENT, VERY.

Old Intellect of The Kern County Courier, tells us we are either a "fool or a knave" because we favor the construction of the Independence and Los Angeles railroad and do not howl for the Southern Pacific and the Bakersfield route. To show what we may expect from the said Southern Pacific and at the same time how remarkably consistent is the gentlemanly editor of The Courier, we give place to the subjoined extract from his last issue, leaving out all of his prolonged howl because of the railroad town of Sumner, designed and destined to be the ruin of the "city" where The Courier is printed and published:

The rates of fare between San Francisco and this point are about eight cents per mile or more than double those of any other part of the Union. None but well-to-do people, or those who are compelled to a large sacrifice, travel over the railroad. The road passes the entire distance over a level plain, and it cannot be alleged that such rates are justified because of the cost of construction. It has cost no more than any similar length of road in the State of Illinois. It can be demonstrated, if the rates of fare were reduced one half, five times the travel would pass over it that now does, while it costs no appreciable amount more to run crowded than empty cars. Besides the immense pecuniary benefit the company would directly derive from the reduction indicated, the indirect one of populating a vast fertile country would soon be equally great. A reduction in freights and fares, however, we do not look for. Their previous course is not prolific in precedents of this kind. About all then can be said in their favor is that they are good builders. The resources they are able to devote to the extension of their roads are used to the best advantage in substantial work. But of that business policy that brings unbounded success to the adepts therein, they have none. Wherever their roads pass, they cannot avoid showing a disposition to place themselves in antagonism to the interest of the people. Fares and freights between here and San Francisco, it is safe to say, are more likely to be raised than lowered, but we could not refrain from speculating just a little on the good effects of a reduction both to the Company and the country upon which so much of their future prosperity depends. It would seem just as easy for a great transportation company to operate in friendly accord with the people as otherwise, when to do so means the grandest success, and the contrary course, long delayed though it may be, ultimate ruin.

It is likely our talented friend was in the enjoyment of better health than usual when he penned the above mild wail, or he would have interjected a few words about "knaves," "scoundrels," "fools," and such like as he usually does—when the parties he refers to live a long way off.

As the length of rail from here to San Francisco via Bakersfield must be full six hundred miles, with about two hundred of it this side of that place sufficiently mountainous to afford an excuse for charging the maximum passenger and freight rates, it is easy to figure out the glorious good times, The Courier lately said, the people of Inyo were so eagerly looking for, to follow the completion of the Southern Pacific. Presuming that that road will continue the same kind of a liberal policy toward Inyo it now displays toward Kern, both passenger and freight rates will be the same as by stage and wagon at the present time, possibly a little higher. Besides this our towns will each have to be moved a mile or two one side or the other to be convenient to the depot. Blow us another consistent blast, please, Mr. Hardnut.

Where's Josiah?

A Washington dispatch of January 11, says that on the following day Luttrell would introduce a bill, which will be supported by Clayton, Page and Houghton, to provide for reclaiming desert lands in Lassen county, California. It authorizes any citizen to file in the local land office a declaration that he intends to reclaim a particular desirable tract of desert land not exceeding one section, by conducting water thereon in two years thereafter; and upon making proof of doing so, he shall be allowed to purchase the same on payment to the Government of $1 25 per acre. All non-mineral lands or timber lands, which do not produce grass, or which will not, without irrigation, produce some agricultural crops, shall be considered desert lands in the meaning of this bill. The measure is carefully guarded against monopolies and other abuses. It will be heartily supported by the Pacific Coast members, as a means for giving value to large tracts of alkali and sage brush lands now returned by the Government Surveyors as worthless.

This is doubtless a very good bill, if as carefully guarded against monopolies as stated. But if made general wouldn't it afford our own Josiah a splendid chance to find lands that wouldn't produce crops without irrigation? How nicely his "swamp and overflowed" lands would come in under this new law. He could prove this whole valley and Los Angeles and many other places to be "desert lands."

Articles of Incorporation.

Following is a copy of the articles of the new incorporation of the Los Angeles and Independence railroad company, now duly filed in the office of the Secretary of State:

John P. Jones, James. A. Pritchard, Trenor W. Park, F. P. F. Temple, R. S. Baker and J. S. Slauson, do hereby certify and declare that they and their associates intend to form a corporation, according to the provisions of the Civil Code of this State in such cases made, in the manner and for the purposes hereinafter stated, to-wit:

3. That the city of Los Angeles is the place where its principal business is to be transacted.

Slauson, who reside in said city of Los Angeles.

Died by His Own Hand.

Shortly after dark, Thursday evening, this community was much shocked at the announcement that Judge D. D. Gunnison had just committed suicide. by shooting himself through the heart. In the forenoon of that day he had been engaged in transacting some business in his official capacity as Justice of the Peace, but was too unwell to get through with it without several interruptions. At noon he requested his wife to go to her sister's room and keep her company, stating that he felt so unwell he would lie down in his own room and did not want to be disturbed. At about 4 P. M. his wife called him, but obtaining no reply essayed to open in tu n each of three doors leading into the room, but found them all locked. Becoming alarmed, but anticipating nothing worse than that he had fainted away or was too sick to make himself heard Mrs. Gunnison called in assistance and had the door broken open. Deceased was found lying on the floor beside his bed, in such an easy and natural position that it was some moments before the parties entering could be satisfied that he was dead. His right hand yet, however, grasped a pistol, a Smith & Wesson five-shooter, with which he had deliberately murdered himself. Coroner Wayland and Dr. Blair were immediately called in and a jury summoned. On investigation it appeared that deceased had lain down on the floor and grasping the barrel of the pistol with the left hand so as to more surely place it as desired had pulled the trigger with the other. The ball, before entering the body, had cut half its depth into the lower portion of the palm of the left hand, showing that he had executed his intent as above stated. In his vest pocket was found a scrap of paper, carefully folded, on which he had written these words: "I, D. D. Gunnison, declare this to be my own act." The upper portion of this scrap had been torn off; but there still remained as a part of some preceding writing the words, "is up," showing that he had made a statement more at length, but had subsequently destroyed all but the portion quoted. As the wind blew with great violence during the afternoon there was so much noise that a dozen shots might have been fired in the room where the body lay without attracting attention in the distant portion of the same building where Mrs. Gunnison and her sister (Mrs. Cook) were sitting, and hence no report was heard to create alarm. It appears that deceased had been in failing health for some months and was unusually unwell and despondent the last day or two before his death. and this fact affords the only plausible clue to the cause of the act. Though somewhat involved pecuniarily, yet no obligations of this kind were at all pressing, or of sufficient moment of themselves to seriously harass his mind when in sound health.

Judge Gunnison was one of our oldest pioneers, highly respected as a man and citizen, an exemplary husband, and the last man, it would seem, who could contemplate taking his own life. He leaves a wife, a most estimable lady, but no children to mourn his loss.

The coroner's jury did not complete their inquiry until yesterday, when they submitted the following verdict:

We, the Jury, called to investigate the cause of the death of D. D. Gunnison, do find that he was a native of Montpelier, Vt.; that he was 53 years of age, and that he came to his death by a pistol shot inflicted by his own hand. Dated Independence, Inyo county, Cal., January 15, 1875.

Signed, H. L. Childs, Jos. Schalten, B L. Brown, A. Wapelhorst, Thos. W. Hill, Abraham Parker and A. B. Kitchen.

A Strong Blast.

A little before noon, Thursday last, old Boreas (we are not positively sure it was Boreas) blew us a little blast right out of Kearsarge canyon as fresh and strong and dusty as is often witnessed in these quiet latitudes. It never stopped to take breath or a fresh hold for about four hours, then it wound up long enough to give over particular people a chance to get some of the dust and sand out of their houses and eyes, then went at it again with slightly diminished force till it got a mild rain storm fairly started, since when it has been calm and commendable. Some signs and one small dwelling went down in that semi-fearful gale and many loose boards and everything of that sort went a kiting toward the river. In the way of sweeping door yards and streets this gale did more effective and needed execution than could forty female Indians ever so well boosed.

Curious Phenomena.

A very singular electrical phenomena occurred at Mr. J. N. Rose's house during the severe wind storm, Thursday. While the women were preparing dinner Mr. Rose's little boy directed his mother's attention to what he called a butterfly humming over the sheating under the cooking stove. It proved to be a ball of fire, which rapidly passed back and forth and up over the stove, buzzing like a small galvanic battery. The pots and kettles on the stove were so heavily charged that in taking hold or touching any part a stunning shock was experienced. The ball of fire continued to play for about eight minutes and cooking had to be suspended for an hour.

Fire in the Mountains.

Tuesday morning last the mountain side, just west of town, was the scene of a wide spread conflagration which had raged all of the preceding night. It is not certainly known how it originated, nor does it matter much, but it ended with the destruction of a large quantity of cord wood, a good portion of it belonging to A. B. Kitchen, who also lost a wagon and harness for four animals and some other articles, in all to the value of some $500. The fire even spread widely through the sage brush along the foot hills, a very unusual thing for fire to do.

Benton.

Albert Mack's new furnace, as we learn by a letter from Benton, of the 7th instant, was expected to arrive in a few days. With good weather in which to do the mason work, the furnace will be in operation in a very short time, when the good people of that burg will hear the rattle of the stamps night and day, instead of only twelve hours out of the twenty-four, as heretofore.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. Densmore's house, just east of the Post, came very near utter destruction by fire Thursday last, while that terrific wind was at its hight. At all events one side of it got in a blaze, and George Gill had simply to spread himself to save the building which, happily, he succeeded in doing before any serious damage was done.

Bullion.

The exact number of bullion bars shipped from Cerro Gordo by the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co. from January 1, 1874, to the 1st of the present month, was 123,176, averaging 82½ pounds each—5,050 tons.

Come and Get It.

The Funeral To-Day.

The Independence Grange will conduct the funeral of their deceased brother, D. D. Gunnison, which takes place at 2 P. M. to-day.

Departed.

L. C. Gray, of the Kearsarge Mining Co., started for the Bay Monday last.

Our Mono Letter.

[Correspondence of The Inyo Independent.]

BENTON, Cal., January 14.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The weather hereabouts, though quite cold at nights, was scarcely ever known to be so pleasant at this season of the year as during the past few weeks, and parties who talk of going to the other side of the mountains have about concluded to go directly across, instead of around by Walker's Pass. But at the present time we are having a breeze almost equal to one of those Iowa zephyrs.

MILLS AND MINES.

But little can be said on this topic at the present, although the mines are looking splendidly, and producing ore that will mill from $250 to $400 per ton. There is, however, but little ore now being taken out by parties not having facilities for crushing, as it is difficult to get any of our mill men to work ore for individuals or small companies. Per consequence, it is very discouraging to prospectors. A small custom mill would be a paying investment; besides, it would assist more in the development of the mines and be better for us generally than for a company of any reasonable amount of capital to invest here, unless they should make the working of custom ore a specialty. Madam Rumor says that Mr. Witherill has sold his mill and mine to a party from Virginia, and that the new proprietors are going to erect extensive reduction works. Pat Forey has sold to J. A. Creaser a one-third interest in the St. Louis mine.

STAGING

Has attained the hight of perfection between here and Aurora. From that point to this it is about 90 miles the way the stage now runs, and I am told that persons have got off the stage here and traveled the old road afoot, beating the stage to Aurora. The way they are now running has created a great deal of dissatisfaction both here and in Aurora, as well as stirring up considerable speculation about putting on a direct line.

ANOTHER BRANCH

Of the civil service has attained the extreme hight of all perfection in one of your sister counties. That is the educational, which I propose making mention of at some but not distant day in the future, but under a different head and over a different soubriquet from that of this letter. [Send along your documents.—EDS.]

PERSONALS.

Mr. John Howell, of San Jose, arrived a few days ago to commence the work of putting up a roasting furnace for Mack. Dr. Middleton and lady, of Deep Creek gave us a call a few days ago. The talk is that the Dr. has bought out the Partzwick drug store. D. Jeffreys has gone to the Piute District to look after some mines. J. A. Creaser is expected to arrive this evening from Carson. Frank Miller and Henry Myers arrived last evening from the Piute mines, and give very flattering reports of that district. SNOB.

Real Estate Transfer.

Among the transfer of real estate recorded yesterday was the following: R. S. Baker to John P. Jones, undivided three-quarters of Rancho San Vicente, also undivided three-quarters of all interests of grants in Rancho Santa Monica; consideration, $162,500.—[Los Angeles Herald, January 5.

Letter from Round Valley.

[Correspondence of The Inyo Independent.]

GRIEF.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Very seldom do three deaths occur within one week in the same house, but in Round Valley such is the lamentable fact. The brothers, A. and J. McGee, have lately lost three beloved children. The entire community sincerely sympathize with the afflicted families.

JOY.

The Round Valley school house was crowded Christmas eve., and all the little jokers' hearts were gladdened when slyly glancing at the Christmas tree, loaded and decorated with things valuable and otherwise. A veritable Santa Claus, gorgeously arrayed and with a girdle of bells jingling about him, tumbled in through the window, and hastily informed us that he came from a cold country, 900 miles away—Alaska, probably. Nevertheless, the old gent possessed a warm and generous heart. He distributed the pretties at a lively rate, and by his agile manœvers and humorous remarks caused much merriment, not only among the juveniles, but also among the gray-headed, whose laughter quickened the flow of gastric juice, so that their big dinner of turkey, roast beef and squash pudding was vigorously digested. The youngsters don't know who may die before next Christmas, but they hope that this jolly Santa Claus will survive, anyhow. I almost forgot to mention that even the delicacy of Santa Claus was somewhat shocked when a miserable specimen of a rag doll-baby was presented to a certain respectable bachelor. Somebody threatens that before next Christmas he will commit matrimony (friend Goodridge calls it suicide.) If babies are essentially necessary to replenish this mundane sphere (Goodridge thinks horses are more profitable), the aforesaid bachelor would much prefer, in the future, a dozen or more of the genuine stock.

FRIEND SNOB.

We like to read your spicy correspondence, and like to hear frequently from our old stamping ground. Did you get a trifle envious when this hombre "placed considerable emphasis on the word Panamint, and seemed to decline any favors of Benton or Mono county?" Ah, friend! that's too hard on "punkins." You know I didn't mean that. The taboose eaters never "decline favors" from Benton or any other man. However, we cannot afford, did we desire, to quarrel; Snobs and small potatoes have no time to "jaw." The high toned clergy, the Beechers and Tiltons can go it, magnificently. "The resolution of the people of Benton is not to be daunted; we will pan out a mint," etc. That's bully! Round Valley and Bishop wil shout hurrah! Panamint to the south of us, Panamint north of us—and how many Panamints will there be east of us before twelve months? What a fine bonanza country!

Yes, sir! We'll raise more corn and squash next year. Round Valley hopes to be able in the future, as in the past, to partly supply Hot Springs. We are only 25 miles apart, while from us the great Panamint is 150 miles distant. Our interests are mutual. The fact we don't conceal—we need and admire the "Benton bits," as well as your "foosht rate lawger;" but we cannot praise your whisky, "tarantula juice," "wrath of God," or whatever it was that caused the "Owens River rancher's" fighting qualities to shine forth on the occasion you mention. By the way, Owens River has no claim on said rancher; he resides upon and cultivates the Grasshopper Ranch, north of the great Mud Lake Valley, in the Rocky Ridge Territory. We'll send you a copy of our revised geography. Nuff ced.

RETROSPECTIVE.

In 1864 a small party of us "got stuck" when viewing and licking the rich mineral specimens on Hot Springs Hills. No Benton then, only a solitary shanty there. Shortly after, this scribbler, with others, rooted in the mines, blasted and blowed thunder out of the "country rock;" as Cousin Jack says, "Put a pop in't, lad, and knock a bloody snipper out, sir!" Even at the dead hour of night, in the depths below, we used to sing lustily "Hoist, hist away!" Many a hundred tons of rich black mineral—the "pure quill"—which assayed up in the thousands, did these fingers assort on the celebrated Cornucopia and other mines of the S. B. S. M. Co. We did even prospect the distant planets, "Venus," "Mercury and "Jupiter." But it is useless to boast of past achievements; fame, even, is only a bubble. More substance in Owens River squash and pumpkins. Good bye, pick and drill; more fun to scarify the soil and fight the calves.

Years have rolled by, and many of the boys have vamosed. Some of the brave are mouldering. The genial Bob. Morrison, whose heart overflowed with generosity, has departed. Judge Wilson, Hicks Graham, Frank Edgerly and the witty Tom Mason, with others, have shaken off this mortal coil. The irresistible Irish Tom didn't die in his boots. Where is that noble but singular character, Col. Dowd? Many familiar faces still remain, "fixtures" in camp. There is Mr. Mack, shrewd and energetic, who has probably done more than any other person to develop the mines; Mr. A. B. Williams, equally pessevering; the ever jovial "Pap" Kelty, Wetherill, Lyford, Wickland, Allbright, Cutter, Merriman, Everett and Wheeler. Most of the above veterans have been indissolubly connected with Hot Springs and vicinity since '64 5.

Pacific Coast Millionaires.

No city upon this continent can show more men of solid wealth than San Francisco. Mines of fabulous possibilities pour their dividends into the pockets of the Licks, the Lathams, the Sharons and the Haywards. Many of her citizens could sell out at a month's notice for $5,000,000. Palaces have risen from silver bricks, and the proudest buildings in the city owe their origin to ores and bullion.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

This was true enough three months ago, but The Inter-Ocean is one of those old fogy journals who do not keep pace with the times. Lick, Latham, Sharon and Hayward are all poor men. Worth $5,000,000! Well, yes; they may be worth that paltry sum. So are Reese, Mills, Luning, Baldwin, Lux, Miller, Jones, Ralston and Stanford. These are only our "well-to-do" citizens, men of "comfortable" incomes—our middle class. Our rich men The Inter-Ocean has not named. They are Mackey, Flood, O'Brien and Fair. Twenty or thirty millions each is but a moderate estimate of their wealth. Mackey is worth from sixty to one hundred millions. They have not yet heard of our new bonanza in Chicago—a lump of silver ore as big as their Grand Pacific Hotel, worth from $100 to $20,000 per ton, so far as ascertained, while its depth, breadth and thickness has not yet been reached. In a small interior village like Chicago a man worth a million is esteemed wealthy. Not so in the grand commercial emporium of the Pacific. Here we speak as familiarly of millions as maids of thirteen speak of puppy dogs. Five million dollars, indeed! Even New York, London, Frankfort and other cities can boast of their five million men. We do not call a person wealthy unless he advances beyond ten millions. Next year we will speak only of those who possess hundreds of millions.—[S. F. Chronicle.

Palmetto.

This mining district in the lower portion of Esmeralda county, has been so long dormant that even the name had almost passed out of memory. At one time the camp boasted a splendid mill and well appointed reduction works. The improvements were substantially built and well finished, a large portion, including stables and various outbuildings being of brick. To-day not a vestige of these remain to mark the spot which was once the pride of the district. For one of those reasons which ever remain a mystery to the uninitiated, the works were abandoned and left unguarded. The mill building and all its ponderous and various machinery, engine, boilers, mortars, batteries, pans, settlers, pulleys and belting, roasters and infinite trappings and shops and tools, and dwellings, cabins, stables—all the entire outfit—has been "spirited away." Vandals found the unguarded property and "marked it for their own." One solitary hidden sentinel holds undisputed silent vigils over the scene of the spoilers—a well. The difficulty of digging up and hauling the well away, was probably the only reason it did not form a part of the plunder of the spoilers. We are told by a gentleman, recently in from Aurora, that a well founded report is current at that point to the effect that the Palmetto mines have been bonded to an English company, and that agents and experts are to visit the district immediately. All those who are familiar with these mines, say they are of immense value.—[Borax Miner, Jan. 9.

Vasquez.

The fate of this redoubtable cutthroat seems to be sealed. The verdict of the jury, brought in on the fifth day of the trial, January 9, was in effect murder in the first degree, with death penalty Motion for delays to give his counsel time to file bill of exceptions, etc., have been entered and a suspension of sentence asked for, but no importance is to be attached to these moves. Vasquez will soon hang without doubt.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—At a competitive examination for a prize for the best composition at a grammar school in this city, one of the effusions handed in contained the following passage: "A man who has been born and bred in the lap of luxury is more apt to succumb to bedbug poison than the hardy pioneer of our Western forests."

—What does General Shaler think we are made of? Does he fancy Chicago has Sharon's bonanza to draw upon, and that the taxpayers of the city are Souza de Cabrals, whose wives and daughters blaze with diamonds like headlights of locomotives?—[Chicago paper.

—When old Sam Crowder, down in Pike, was running for Justice of the Peace, his wife, in anticipation for honors in store for her, said: "My dear, when you get to be Justice of the Peace, what will I be?" "You," said old Sam, "Why, you'll be the same old fool you always was!"

—At one of the depots recently, was a family of seven persons, out of money and not knowing where to go or what to do, and they bore names as follows: "Hortense," "Viola," "Augustine," "St. Clare," "Percival," "Clementine," and "Flora Belle."

—Maria is a very popular name in Illinois. When a cat climbs a back fence in a well populated neighborhood and plaintively calls out "Mariar!" twenty or thirty windows are hastily thrown up, from which protrude twenty or thirty female heads wildly answering "What."

—"Is there any person you wish me to marry?" said a wife to a dying spouse, who had been somewhat a tyrant in his day. "Marry the devil, if you like," was the gruff reply. "No, I thank you, one husband of the same family is enough for me."

—When a Chicago woman answered the door bell and was informed that her husband had been drowned, she sank down and whispered: "And the bill for $50 worth of false hair is to come up at four o'clock—ooh—hooooh!"

—"Have you Goldsmith's Greece?" was asked of a clerk in a store in which books and various miscellaneous articles were sold. "No," said the clerk reflectively, "we haven't Goldsmith's Greece, but we have some splendid hair oil."

—Dr. Carpenter asserts that Newton's law of gravitation is a mere hypothesis. This is an age of disenchantment. Even the man who falls in love with a beautiful head of hair too often discovers that it is a mere hypothesis too.

—Another Atlantic cable has gone to the bottom of the sea. Whales with rheumatism in their knot-joints can now try the boasted benefits of electricity.

—A young lady up-town has discarded the use of false hair, and thrown away her chignon, with the remark, "There's millions in it." Very probable.

—A Milwaukie woman's bonnet costs upon an average, about $15, but she has the bill made out for $30 or $40, in order to show it to the woman next door.

—A young fellow in Grundy county, Iowa, wanted to charge his girl 20 cents for his picture, informing her at the time that it originally cost a quarter.

—When we see a man begging his tobacco, we feel like reminding him of the old adage, "that beggars must not be chew-sers."

—In some parts of the country, when a woman begins to get red at the roots of her hair, it is regarded as a storm-signal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

A Solid Argument.

The agricultural and commercial relations of this city and county toward the inland railroad project have been very thoroughly debated in these columns. Our people are now well informed on the subject, and ought to be in position to come to an intelligent and just conclusion. That the road will prove an important factor in our future prosperity is generally admitted, and that a failure to build the road will result detrimentally to all interests, is also generally recognized. The most superficial observer sees that the complement of the peculiar industries and interests of this section is the trade of the great mining region which forms our natural back country. We are not only in possession of the kind of supplies which a mining community requires, but we hold the most proximate and economical outlet to the ocean, for the ores of our interior region. With the facility of direct railroad communication established between Los Angeles and the inland mines, we shall be placed in permanent control of the trade of a wonderful extent of country. We shall be beyond the reach of competition for that trade by other communities, and our prosperity will be founded on an independent an immutable basis. Land and other values will be greatly increased in this and the adjoining counties. Farms that are worth $1,000 will enhance in value to $3,000, and real estate values in cities and towns will take a corresponding appreciation. The assessed value of the real and personal property in this county is now a little over $15,000,000 and the assessment may be safely estimated to be only about one-third of the actual value of our possessions. This would give the county of Los Angeles alone a valuation of $40,000,000. With the successful completion of the Independence railroad, that figure would be doubled in a very short time. This is the universal exp rience of the effect of judiciously located railroads. The road will cost less than $3,000,000, and can be built by an actual capital, properly handled, of less than $1,000,000. If the people of Los Angeles will subscribe $500,000 they will have the control of this vital railroad in their own hands, and they will be possessed of a stock which cannot fail to prove a most profitable investment. It should not be difficult to raise such a subscription from a people who are worth $40,000,000 actually, and who prospectively will be enriched to double that amount by the building of the road. Let no man, when the Committee calls upon him, refuse to subscribe. If our people will take stock proportionate to their means we shall have more than enough money; but they are only asked to help this enterprise by subscribing about one and a fourth per cent of the actual value of their present possessions. Surely this is a small fraction to pay for so great a boon.—[Los Angeles Express.

Singular Hallucination.

Nicholas Borolajovak, a Servian nobleman, died in Paris recently under peculiar circumstances. He had been forced to leave his own country by an ugly legend which had pronounced his family vampires. It was said that for three generations the eldest son in his family had invariably returned from the grave to drink the blood of its living members. Strange to say Prince Nicholas himself believed the legend,—and when he was first taken ill, five days before his death, he asked his host of the Hotel de France et de Roumanie to have his heart taken from his body as soon as life was extinct. This, he believed would prevent him from leaving the tomb. He was a man of brilliant powers and high culture, and but for this mania regarding vampires, would have proved an ornament to any rank. He was buried in Paris.

The Pass Secured.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. Temple has received a letter from Mr. J. U. Crawford, engineer of the Los Angeles and Independence railroad, announcing that he broke ground on the 9th in the narrowest portion of the Pass, thus securing possession of this important gateway in advance of the engineers of the Southern Pacific railroad.—[Los Angeles Express.

A Ghost Story.

For twelve years George Neet of Nicholasville, Ky., maintained the truth of a ghost story that he repeatedly told. Although he was a man of good character, his narrative was of course disbelieved or attributed to hallucination. He died recently, and his last words were in affirmative of the old tale, showing that it had at least one firm believer. It ran as follows: In the neighborhood is a lonely valley in which is an old graveyard. Through this Neet rode one night. Suddenly he saw a man riding at his side, whose horse's hoofs made not the slightest noise on the hard ground. Frightened by this strange silence, he reached out his hand only to find that neither the man nor the horse had any more substance than a shadow. He spoke to the phantom, and was in response led to the graveyard. There the ghost said that a tombstone had been removed from his grave to another, and he wanted it returned. Neet, trembling, performed the task, whereupon the ghost said "Thank you," and disappeared. The present population of the town is German, and they accept the dying declaration of Neet as positive proof. Consequently the valley is shunned by everybody as haunted.

Bells and Age.

A fiddle improves by age and use; a piano does not, neither does a bell. There is, perhaps, a slight improvement for the first few years, but afterwards the quality deteriorates. Metal, we know, is altered, by repeated and long continued hammering. Thump a piece of iron, and you change the quality of its magnetism; the shock of the waves modifies the magnetism of an iron ship; and some of the music is knocked out of a bell by long continued use of the clapper. A peculiar effect is noticed in the bell of Cripplegate Church when it strikes twelve. The first two or three strokes are distinct and clear, then a discord begins, which accumulates with every stroke, until with the eleventh and twelfth a complete double sound is produced.—[Chambers' Journal.

—Apropos of the general interest in "spiritual" phenomena, The Hartford Courant tells of a young man who came to that city from the country, some years ago, who was surprised to see a table which was fastened to a wall, and upon which he leaned his head, break away from its fastenings and dance about, and to see a box of files, so heavy that two men could not lift it, float in the air at his touch. He himself could not explain the cause of the phenomenon, which was accompanied with twitchings and convulsions of his body, and, one morning, after having exhibited his powers the night before, he was found dead in his bed, his little limbs drawn up and his countenance distorted, as they disappeared when exercising his power to amuse his friends.

—When I was a boy there was but one permanent ambition among my comrades in our village on the west bank of the Mississippi river. That was to be a steamboatman. We had transient ambitions of other sorts, but they were only transient. When a circus came and went it left us all burning to become clowns; the first negro minstrel show that came to our section left us all suffering to try that kind of life; now and then we had a hope that if we lived and were good, God would permit us to be pirates. These ambitions faded out, each in its turn; but the ambition to be a steamboatman remained.—[Mark Twain.

The Steam Wagon.

On Tuesday, a considerable concourse of people assembled at the farm of W. B. Carr to witness the performance of the Hyde Steam Wagon as a plow propellor. The ground was a sandy loam, covered with weeds and filled with tenacious roots. Attached to the wagon was a gang of plows. These were not of the proper description and set at the wrong angle for the work to be done. As might have been expected, they clogged up at every few yards distance and did not work in a manner at all satisfactory. But the trial was a success nevertheless. The machine was demonstrated, to the satisfaction of all present, to be perfectly manageable and manifested power enough for anything. With the proper plows there is no doubt of its ability to plow, harrow and seed twenty five or thirty acres per day. No doubt the inventors have discovered the true principle of the steam wagon and in a few years we may expect to see them in common use on every farm and running on all the roads. We were shown some excellent work it had done in the way of ditching. There are two ditching machines on the farm, of ingenious construction, that work admirably. The wagon travels along with them without the least difficulty.—[Bakersfield Courier, Jan. 9.

There is Hope Yet.

The San Francisco Call has at last found out where Panamint is, and a late issue publishes a few extracts from Professor Stetefeldt's Report, relating to location, etc. As long as the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may find out that forgiveness is worth two in the bush.—[Panamint News.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

NOTICE.

The attention of our patrons is respectfully invited to the important notice under the head of "New Advertisements." This means business, and complete and full settlements must be had.

People's Independent Party.

A meeting of the People's Independent State Central Committee has been called and was to be held in San Francisco on Thursday, January 21, 1875, at 12 o'clock M. The object of the meeting is understood to be to take measures for the nomination of a State ticket—Members of Congress, Judges, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and city and county officers, in all the counties, cities and towns, to be voted for at the September election, and to provide generally for a thorough and spirited campaign. Letters received at headquarters from members throughout the State promise a full attendance.

Patents to Aliens.

Senator Sargent introduced a bill authorizing the issue of mining patents in certain cases, which provides that foreigners may be granted patents for bona fide mining claims purchased by them from citizens prior to May 10, 1872, if all the provisions of the law of that date have since been complied with. The bill also provides that citizens in bona fide possession of mining claims shall not be refused patents on the ground merely that one or more of the locaters thereof may have been foreigners at the date of location, provided location was made prior to May 10, 1872.

The Storm.

The late storm seems to have extended throughout the entire coast, and has made glad the hearts of thousands of farmers who, but for this timely rain, would have been ruined. No doubt is now expressed, but good crops will be raised everywhere. At Virginia City, Nevada, the snow was three feet deep. At Los Angeles, also in the San Joaquin, over six inches of rain have fallen. All the wires across the mountain were broken down by the weight of snow, and doubtless the railroads are blockaded in many places.

A Military Post.

The San Diego Union asks that a military post be established at some point in that county. It says that the dreadful murder near Campo is the tenth that has occurred in that part of the country within the last five years, and adds:

It is utterly impossible for the authorities of this county to effectively police the wide stretch of frontier country extending nearly two hundred miles from San Diego to the Colorado river. We should have military protection; and we call upon the representatives at Washington from California to press this matter with energy, and without delay.

The Comstock.

In a report of the mining situation along the Comstock, the editor of The San Francisco Stock Report gives utterance to the following sentence:

We make the assertion to-day that the next ten years will see the Comstock ledge pierced with shafts to the depth of five thousand feet and every foot of ground, from American Flat to Gold Canyon on the south to Utah on the north, will ring to the strike of the miner's pick.

Railroad Postoffices.

Mail business on the Central Pacific railroad is said to have increased fourfold in the last four years. At present 1,500 to 2,000 pounds of mail matter are taken daily on the route and distributed by the clerks on the cars between Ogden and San Francisco. Two clerks accompany each postal car, one of whom is kept busy all the time, day and night, distributing letters and papers.

The Nevada Senator.

The Nevada Legislature elected William Sharon, to the United States Senate, on the first ballot, by a large majority. The vote stood for Sharon, 49; Mitchell, 21; Hawley, 4. Nevada is too small a State to send anything but millionaires to the Senate.

All Along the Line.

Work is being inaugurated all along the line of our new railroad from Cajon Pass through Los Angeles to Santa Monica. The latter is the new city which Messrs. Jones and Park are going to build at the new landing or port which is to be the southern terminus.

Resigned.

Indian Agent Dr. Tonner has resigned, and having got tired of practising on poor Lo is going to try his prescriptions on the sick people of San Francisco.

ARE YOU WILLING TO HELP?

This is the question that will soon be submitted to the people of this county. The help required is to assist in building the Los Angeles and Independence railroad. The whole matter stands in just this way: Certain wealthy men, viz: Trenor W. Park, J. P. Jones and others are willing to assist us in building this road. They do not wish or intend to go into the railroad business as a speciality. They do not ask a controlling interest in the road; they want it to be owned and managed as near as possible by the people whose fortunes are wholly identified with it and the section in which they live. Their own great interests demand the road, but their interests will be quite as well subserved by a people's road as by one wholly their own, and at the same time relieve them of responsibility in management that, in justice to those other interests, they cannot or will not undertake. But, should circumstances compel them to go ahead and do this work all as their own it would only be at the risk of their turning its management over to the first monopolizing company that submitted a reasonable bid. All that Jones & Co. want is a cheaper conveyance for their ores and the convenience of a railroad to their great landed estates near the ocean. These they could have, after building the road, by special stipulation when selling it to the great anaconda. The railroad is indispensable to these wealthy men, but its continued ownership is of small consequence. To us—the farmers and business men of all classes of Los Angeles and San Bernardino and above all others, to the mines of Inyo—the road is a necessity, and will prove the greatest boon so long as our interests are allowed to shape its management. The only positive security for such management is to do as we are asked to do by these monied men—take enough of the stock to retain the control in our own hands.

Jones & Co. have subscribed $300,000 conditionally that a like, or greater, amount be subscribed by the counties interested. With this sum it is calculated that the road bed can be graded and the ties laid, when it can then be bonded for a sufficient balance to equip it with rails and rolling stock. But a determined effort is to be made to induce the several counties interested to take at least double this amount of the stock. First, to secure the whole management of the road and to prevent it from being absorbed or practically put out of existence by the great monopoly; and secondly, because it is universally believed that with such management the investment will surely pay a fair profit, which the people most interested ought to share.

It is a fact susceptible of positive proof that the Utah mining railroads—those whose business is almost exclusively limited to the transportation of ores—are paying bigger dividends than any other class whatever; and, if those short roads will, as the Utah Central does, pay 12 per cent per annum on the investment and 6 per cent on the bonds, what might we not expect of a road having the ores of San Bernardino and Inyo, to say nothing of a good portion of those of Arizona and southwest Nevada, to carry? We really think the road would in a short time be crowded to its utmost capacity.

Park, who was at Panamint a few days since, says his company at that place will alone furnish 500 tons of ore for shipment every day. Counting in Rose Spring District (a larger and richer one than Panamint to-day) Coso, Cerro Gordo, Eclipse, Kearsarge, Waucoba, Pine Mountain, Piute and incidentally many other mines, if not districts, this amount will be more than doubled. The ore shipments from this county alone will not be less than 1,500 tons per day—certainly need not be less than that, because the ores are obtainable without question, and will be worth obtaining when it is understood, as it is, that the freight on this ore will only be $10 or $12 per ton to Los Angeles. At the former figure this would give a daily freight receipt on ores only of $15,000 per day. This is not at all an extravagant or unreasonable anticipation. The amount of business the road will do, as well as the development of the county and every contingent business, depends very much on the freight rates. At $40 to $50 per ton as at present, and as it will be should the Southern Pacific be the only dependence in addition to wagons, it would be absurd to talk of even 100 tons per day for this whole county. For the past year, and since Panamint began to ship, the average shipment of ores has been only 25 tons per day. The construction of a railroad that will carry ores at $10 per ton is equivalent to a bonus to miners of $40 for every ton they prepare for shipment. Where is there a ledge in this county which shows a color at all that would not pay to mine when the total cost of shipping and reduction can be paid by the base metals they contain, or a total cash outlay, if preferred, of not to exceed $20 per ton?

This is the precise guarantee offered by this road through its cheap freights. It offers to pay to the miner every cent of silver and gold his ores contain, the base metals accompanying being sufficient to pay all cost of transportation and reduction; or, at the most, the total expense for these two need not exceed $20. Contrast these figures with those of the present day, and then after a survey of the thousands of mines in this county, lying now in perfect idleness, that will produce ores worth from $25 per ton and upwards, see if our estimate of the business of this road is at all unreasonable. Then take this difference in values produced by cheap freights and those existing to-day, and say if it does not seem that this county would be making money if it built this entire road alone, were it able to do so, rather than not have it, even though it received not a cent back directly on the investment.

But assuming that estimate to be too large by two-thirds and that the whole business of the road did not exceed Park's estimate for Panamint alone, to be divided up among all the districts, the daily receipts of the road would still be not less than $5,000 per day, or a total of say $1,725,000 for the year. It is hardly possible, in view of apparent facts, for the business of the road to be less than this for this county alone, and certainly not when we take in consideration its passenger traffic, its San Bernardino and Arizona freights. Considered in the light only of an investment it looks as though no better offered any where in the world. It is only a question of management, and this is the question for us to determine for ourselves. Every man, woman and child almost in this county ought to subscribe something each to this road. The stock received in return will always have a marketable value and can be sold at any time when the road has an actual existence. But supposing it could not, it is better for every one to take as much of the stock as he can pay up in 10 per cent assessments by the time the road is complete, and consider it in the light of an absolute donation, than not to have the road at all, a great deal better.

INDIGNANT.

The people of Los Angeles are very indignant at the attempt now being made in Congress to change the route of the Southern Pacific railroad so that it will run through the Cajon Pass and leave their city one hundred miles to the westward. The bill, or rather an amendment, was introduced by Houghton, who seems to know no constituency other than the great railroad company.

If the amendment becomes a law a positive injury will be inflicted on Los Angeles. It will not occupy a prominent position on the main trunk of the overland road but will only be connected by a side track. The real meanness of the proposed act will be better appreciated when it is understood that the company begged and, by a vote of the people, secured a magnificent subsidy from the city and county of Los Angeles on the clear understanding that the main line was to extend through or to the city. The sum voted was some $600,000. But it appears as though the model Congressman, Mr. Houghton, thinks it quite right not only to rob the city of its commercial position, but, at the same time, the people of their money and use this free gift to aid in doing the other wrong.

The universal expression is: that, should this thieving amendment pass an attachment should be made forthwith on all the property of the company in the county to recover money paid the company on the contract which it is now seeking to nullify. It is to be hoped this will be done. Meantime the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce are doing all in their power to defeat the nefarious scheme, and while doing this they should send forward a plain and decided request to Mr. Houghton to resign.

No Cause for Alarm.

From results obtained by the late observations of the transit of Venus, it seems that we are some 6,000,000 miles nearer the sun than astronomers have placed us heretofore; that is to say, the earth has made that much progress toward the sun since Encke's observation of the last transit. But if this ratio of approach were constant, it will take 440 years for us to plump into old Sol and be burned up, by which time this generation will have become so used to fire as to feel but little interest in that consummation.

Not a Candidate.

Ex-Governor J. G. Downey announces through The Los Angeles Herald that he will not be a candidate for nomination before the Democratic State Convention for Governor.

GETTING BETTER.

We note with pleasure that the late rains have cooled and partially straightened out the immense brain of our intellectual friend of The Bakersfield Courier, and that once more he can draw as logical deductions from obvious facts as at any time before the contents of his skull were so jumbled by the shaking intermittent. He inveighs with some force and a good deal of scattering precision against the gouging policy of the Southern Pacific toward Kern county, among other things giving vent to the following:

It would seem, on every principle of business policy, that this part of the State should be treated fairly in the matter of fares and freights—that is, that no more would be charged over the road than any of their other roads. The fare between here and San Francisco is $22, while if the same rates were charged as over the road between San Francisco and Sacramento it would only be $12. The same with freight. We are charged almost as much per 100 lbs from San Francisco as is charged between that city and New York. Lumber is freighted reasonably cheap because otherwise the demand would be supplied by our own mountain mills. This shows that their business (if it shows anything) is conducted on no fixed principles, unless to grab everything could it be so designated. * * No wonder Los Angeles flourishes, and that this greater and richer valley does not fill up and improve as it ought, and no wonder that every narrow gauge enterprise finds so much favor, the universal cry being anything—any present sacrifice to relieve us forever from the extortionate charges of the Central Pacific railroad.

And then right in the same column, after one of his usual complimentary notices of the intelligence and honesty of this paper, he makes the logical and overpowering deduction set forth in the second sentence of the following:

No, the opposition of THE INDEPENDENT to the trade of Inyo taking this direction originates with itself, and is probably based upon the known extortionate disposition of the railroad company. But nothing is more certain than that their charges will be such as to make it advantageous to freight in this direction, and that at no distant day there will be such legislative and Congressional action as will sensibly abridge the power of this monopoly, unless, in the meantime, it may determine to promote its interests by doing the fair thing in advance of this outside coercion.

"But nothing is more certain" than that the confiding old soul needs another dose of something to cure him of this renewed attack of the simples. Of course, now that Mr. Hardnut says so, Inyo will be mounted on the highest pinnacle of railroad favor, and we will all be dead-headed so as to "make it advantageous to freight in this direction."

Nevada Financiering.

As indicating the financial status of a mining State, which a few years since bid fair to become bankrupt, it is interesting to know that Nevada proposes to invest her surplus cash in California State bonds; at least, the Nevada State Controller submits a recommendation to that effect to the Legislature, which will probably authorize him to carry out the plan. That State, with plenty of money on hand, is paying ten per cent interest on her bonds, the surrender of which is declined by the holders. As a partial "stand off" to this necessary outlay, the State proposes to "hedge" on California six per cents.

Assurance.

We observe that the Grangers have established a Life Assurance Company at San Francisco, the plan of which is that the heirs of each deceased member is entitled to receive $1,000 to be raised by assessment on surviving members. This is all well enough, doubtless, but the beauty of the plan shows forth in the selection of directors, one of whom is that particularly "retiring" individual, Josiah Earl. If this company don't do a good business it won't be for the lack of one necessary pre-requisite, as far as this one director can supply it, and that is assurance. It will have more of that than a government mule.

A Smash Up.

Three heavily loaded cars broke loose from a train on the Virginia and Truckee railroad, at American Flat, the other day. Running back on the steep grade, finally attaining a speed of sixty miles an hour, they met the up passenger train headed by two locomotives. These were literally swept to the trucks, their boilers and everything being carried away; but, notwithstanding the terrific force of the collision no lives were lost or other damage than the utter destruction of locomotives and runaway cars.

No Celestial Citizens.

Some time since, Sargent, in the Senate, and Page, in the House, introduced a bill to prevent Chinese naturalization. It proposes merely to restore the naturalization laws as they existed prior to the late codification, in which the implied discrimination against Chinamen was inadvertently omitted.

Not Ended.

The Beecher-Tilton treat is still going on. Sometimes one party seems to have the best of it, sometimes the other. Tilton put in some telling shots against Beecher, but on the whole the chances are the Plymouth pastor will be able to get a favorable verdict at law and from his own congregation, but not a very resplendent one from the general public.

Just in Time.

That was a pretty close contest for the right of way in the Cajon Pass. Engineer Crawford, by hurrying up a little, got there and took possession of it for the Los Angeles and Independence railroad only about an hour before the arrival of the Southern Pacific party sent to do the same for that company.

Not American Soil.

Several American couples in Paris, who were anxiously waiting to be married, were greatly disappointed by Secretary Fish's decision that marriages at United States Legations are not valid, the Legation not being considered American soil for such purposes.

Some Coin.

The Southern Coast Trade.

The formal agreement regarding the California coast trade between the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and Goodall, Nelson & Perkins was filed in the Recorder's office on the 12th instant. The ownership of the steamers whose names follow is transferred from the first corporation to the last: Mohongo, Orizaba, Sen tor, Pacific, California and Gipsy. The price paid for them, with other property, is $250,000 in gold coin, $125,000 payable in New York and the remainder here. The smallness of the purchase price will attract attention. The auxiliary property consists of wharf, wharf franchises and real estate in San Diego, outfits and supplies. The Pacific Mail Company reserves for twenty five years the right to use the dock at San Diego free of charge. The Pacific Mail Company agrees not to run any way steamers in conflict with the coast lines for twenty-five years, not to bring to any of the State ports or to take from them any "way" freights, although the right to take to or from them any through freights to or from Panama or Mexican ports is reserved. If these conditions are violated Goodall, Nelson & Company may demand $10,000 in gold coin for each offense, and may, if they choose, afterward exact other legal redress. The invalidity of any portions of the agreement are not to affect the validity of other portions.—[S. F. Chronicle.

The Next Pope.

Many European journals have lately spoken of Archbishop Manning as likely to be the next Pope. His distinguished talent, his tact in the controversies about the infallibility and secular power of the Papacy, his headship among the Catholics of England, the hostile portion of the Continental Governments, especially Italy, to the Church, and the importance of pleasing the wealthy and numerous British and American adherents of the faith will, it is thought, have a strong influence in favor of some candidate outside of Italy, which has had nine out of ten of the Popes, though it has scarcely one out of ten of the faithful Church members. But Pius may outlive Manning, who saw the last of his youth many years ago.—[S. F. Alta.

To be Extended.

A Salt Lake dispatch, of December 31, says:

A company has been incorporated in this city to build a broad-gauge railroad from the terminus of the Utah Southern, seventy five miles south of here, to the navigable waters of the Colorado river, and will commence work immediately on the completion of the Utah Southern, of which about 60 miles are completed and iron is being laid on the remainder at the rate of about half a mile per day.

A Sudden Change.

Though suggesting the old saw that "it never rains but it pours," there seldom occur events which so effectually break the smooth, everyday existence as those which have, within a single week, completely changed the surroundings of Mrs. D. D. Gunnison. A week ago the suicidal shot deprived her of a kind and respected husband; within three or four days thereafter comes advices from England requiring her immediate presence there to receive a heritage from a dying relative, and almost upon a day's notice she started on her unexpected journey to the continent. We are in receipt of the following note from the lady, which explains itself: "Mrs. D. D. Gunnison returns many thanks to her generous friends and the public for their kindness and sympathy shown to her in her sad bereavement.—MRS. D. D. GUNNISON." Certainly there are none in this community but who will wish the estimable lady a bright and happy future.

A Flying Visit.

M. J. Newmark, of Newmark & Co., Los Angeles, paid us a very brief visit early this week. Mr. Newmark undertook this trip in connection with our all-important railroad project, and goes home more enthusiastic than ever in its advocacy, based on what he has seen and heard of the untold mineral wealth it is destined to develop. Mr. Newmark is a very observing and intelligent gentleman, and brief as was his visit we doubt not his observations will be of much benefit in forwarding the great enterprise. One object of the visit, perhaps the principle one, was to see what we, as a people, are willing to do in aiding the undertaking and in making it essentially a people's railroad, for which purpose a thorough canvass is to be inaugurated as soon as may be.

Big Teams.

Wednesday night last there were camped in town four of the largest teams which, probably, ever passed through this section. Attached to each "train" of three and four wagons were one sixteen, two eighteen and one twenty animal team—the property of Al. Workman, Clem Ogg and Dan Paine, of Nevada. The teams were loaded at Wadsworth for Lida, after delivering which freight they crossed to Big Pine and there went to Tim Lewis' and hoisted in a cargo of about 45,000 feet of lumber for Panamint. The appearance of the "fitouts" was a very forcible reminder of ante-railroad days in Washoe, where all these originally hailed from.

Recovering.

E. P. Welch, confined here in jail under sentence of death, was very much demoralized at the unfavorable result of his second appeal to the Supreme Court, the news of which reached him a couple of weeks since. For the last twelve days he scarcely touched food of any description, and whether from actual disease or a determined will the prospects till within a day or two past were quite flattering for him to go hence without the intervention of any artificial appliances. But if this was his real intention it appears now to be ended, as he is regaining both health and willingness to eat that he may live.

The Amateurs.

A pleasant ripple of anticipation will be raised by the announcement that the Dramatic Association have determined upon giving us another theatrical treat, in an entertainment on the evening of Washington's Birthday—the net proceeds, as before, to be devoted to the district school fund. In view of the public's very flattering appreciation of their previous effort, we presume the company will essay a play or two that will bring out the fullest powers of the talent they possess, and we doubt not that there will be many things well worth witnessing.

From Panamint.

T. F. A. Connelly returned from Panamint a day or two since, and says things are running remarkably quiet there just at this time, but thinks that as soon as Spring fairly opens times will be livelier there than ever before. ....B. H. Roberts, of Bishop Creek, also got back a day or two previous, having taken out an eight-horse load of general produce, which he disposed of at tolerably fair rates; but he does not speak in high terms of the immediate prospects of the market for such things.

Sewing Machines.

Mr. C. L. Schwarz, whose advertisement will be noted on our fourth page, has been canvassing the town during the past week in the interest of the Wheeler & Wilson's sewing machines, and has met with great success in making sales. He will shortly have an extensive stock of machines on hand at this point.

Pay Day.

The troops at Camp Independence were visited by the paymaster's clerk on Wednesday last and paid up in full. Per consequence, greenbacks have been more plentiful hereabouts for the past few days.

Will Probably Start Up.

It is quite likely the late fall of snow at Cerro Gordo will enable the furnaces to obtain water to start up and keep them running till a supply can be got through the water company's pipes.

Absconded.

It seems to be a settled fact that Wm. Savage, lately teaming to Panamint, has left for parts unknown. He had under charge two teams, belonging, we believe, to Dr. C. B. White, with which—after much bad luck and unusual delays—he had made two trips from here to Panamint. Since delivering his last load at that place and receiving the freight money, about $500, he has been seen no more. He sent the teams back all right, reserving one horse, upon which it is supposed he "gently stole away" for Arizona, where he formerly lived or was stationed as a soldier. He received his discharge from Co. D, 12th Infantry, at Camp Independence, a few months ago, having held the position of Sergeant in that company; and, generally speaking, he enjoyed the confidence and respect of officers and men. His teamsters and numerous creditors along the road are left to whistle for considerable sums he owned them. The worst of all is, he leaves a wife and three small children, now at the Post, to look out for themselves. Company D will care for these unfortunates, however, as long as circumstances require it. It is to be hoped that the husband and father may live to fully appreciate the thorough meanness of his heartless and cowardly abandonment of his family and dishonesty toward those willing to lend him a helping hand.

Rose Spring District.

We and others have been in the habit of speaking of this promising district as "Wild" Rose District. It was organized and stands recorded as Rose District simply, no wild about it. As it is certain to attract a great deal of attention soon we will again state that it is located about thirty miles nearly east of New Coso and about twenty five miles north of Panamint in the same range. Many valuable locations are on the Death Valley slope; though Rose Spring Canyon, from which it takes its name, and a number of its most promising ledges are on the Panamint Valley slope. Unless it should be found that it lies partially on its sides, thus giving it a desceptive width, the Nossano discovery is the largest and most uniformly rich ledge of which we have any account in all this portion of the country. It is demonstrated by actual assays and estimates that enough ore is shown above ground to produce not less than $140,000 in silver. Yet this is only one of a dozen or more of other ledges in the district which, if not so large, are still above the average in size and known value. The first annual election for Recorder takes place in March next, of which due notice will be given. We hope to visit this district soon.

A Town Hall.

It would be a most excellent plan for our citizens to form a joint stock association and build in this place a large and commodious town hall, for various public uses. If arranged to accommodate public, religious, political, theatrical, dancing and society meetings, it would undoubtedly be a fair investment. Anyway, such an institution is very much needed, and could be had with a comparatively light individual outlay, by a little effort toward a joint stock operation. If somebody wishes to see what can be done in the matter, they may count this concern in for ten $10 shares.

Weather.

A rain storm, a regular old forty-niner, set in on Saturday night and continued till Tuesday evening, almost uninterruptedly, on which day it came down good and strong. The Sierras, down to a regular line a few hundred feet above the valley, are covered deep with snow, and a prettier or grander picture than they present these moonlight nights never enthused the pen or pencil of poet or painter. May they wave till a painter of moonlit pictures is born and trained up who can do full justice to their beauties—and that will be long hence.

Fast Freight.

Mr. S. Zaun, a go-ahead business man of Lone Pine, has established a regular line of fast freight teams between that point and Darwin. Running twice a week, they leave Lone Pine every Wednesday and Thursday, and return on Wednesdays and Saturdays, carrying freight and passengers. Mr. Zaun is a correct business man, and his venture is one of the enterprises that should be encouraged by a liberal patronage. See his advertisement.

On a Pascar.

Those three prominent Cerro Gordo-ites, V. Beaudry, Wm. Barrows and John Belshaw, were this week down here on an extensive pasear. They inveigled B. L Brown, who is an orphan, to take them up to the Taboose Ranch or somewhere in that direction, and it may be we'll hear of a mining excitement or something up that way soon.

A New Plan.

Superintendent Craig, of the Cerro Gordo Water Co., has gone below after machinery which is to be used in forcing hot air or steam through the water pipes to keep them open in cold weather. It turns out that the pipes were not bursted as reported, but simply closed with ice, which is to be removed by the new plan.

Stage Robbed.

The Lone Pine and Bakersfield stage was stopped by two masked men, about eighteen miles out of Bakersfield, January 15, and robbed of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box, containing about $500. The passengers, of whom there were several, were not molested.

Married.

We observe by The Columbus Miner that on the 16th instant E. Olinghouse, formerly of this section, committed matrimony. Miss H. Eldred was the other party.

Shut Down.

The Black Rock and, we presume, the other saw mills up the country have been compelled to suspend operations on account of the deep snow in the timber where they procure their logs.

Granger Hall.

The Grangers, of Bishop Creek, propose to build a large hall there soon, we understand.

For Gilroy.

Mrs. J. R. Hughes and family started to-day for a visit to her relatives at Gilroy.

Panamint Items.

We learn from The Panamint News, January 19, that Manager Harris, with his lady, had returned from his trip to the Bay, where he purchased material and press for a larger paper and job office. The new material will probably reach its destination about the 7th proximo. The same issue has the following:

We were told by Mr. Knowlton, agent in San Francisco for Buckley's stages, that a daily line would be put on between here and Indian Wells, as soon as the stock and stages could be obtained, which will be in a short time. This is a change greatly to be desired, as the chances for mistakes in not starting from San Francisco on the proper day so as to connect the next morning at Bakersfield, and consequently being compelled to lay over there, is very annoying.

While in San Francisco, last week, General Geo. S. Evans, late Senator for San Joaquin county, informed us that he would start for Panamint about the 22d inst. He will be accompanied by several other gentlemen of means, all of whom are coming here to look at the country, and if satisfactory, will invest in mines or other business. The General, while Lieutenant-Colonel of the Second Cavalry, established Fort Independence, in this county, in 1862; was afterward promoted to be Colonel of the Regiment, and on resigning his commission, was made Adjutant-General of the State by Governor Stanford. He resigned this position, when he engaged in the wholesale mercantile business in Stockton, which, we believe, proved very remunerative. Having sold out his interests in Stockton, he comes amongst us to make investments.

An Asylum Burned.

Oakland dates of the 17th gives the following account of the burning of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum at Berkeley. This Asylum is a State institution, having an endowment of $36,000 a year:

A fire broke out in the roof of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute, at Berkeley, about a quarter past 4 this afternoon, and in less than two hours the entire woodwork of the spacious structure was consumed. All the inmates were removed; none were harmed. The children were conveyed in separate parties, some to McClure's Academy, others to the University, near by; others were taken to private residences. Offers of shelter for the children were freely made on all hands. But little furniture was saved from the first story, and all above that was burned. The shops near the main building are uninjured. The fire originated from sparks from the kitchen chimney, and the flames spread with such rapidity that nothing could be done by the officers toward saving the building. About 7 o'clock the outer and inner stone walls fell, one after another. The report of the fire drew a large number of people from Oakland and the surrounding country. Many students of the University were on hand, and aided in saving the furniture and the adjoining workshops. No insurance on the building, which was valued at $150,000. The loss in furniture is estimated at $20,000, not including the splendid organ, which, of course, could not be saved. The children were much excited, and had the fire occurred at night the loss of life would have been terrible.

Lines Down.

The storm on Thursday was very destructive to the telegraph lines in both directions from town. Between here and Boco all the lines were down for about five miles, and also for several miles toward the Summit. They were repaired during the day so that communication could be held all along the line after about 5 P. M. Not much trouble was experienced on account of broken lines on Friday. The Stock Board at Virginia City are said to have been very anxious to get reports from below, and commenced to send a dispatch inquiring, it is quite reasonable to suppose, in language more expressive than pious, why the reports were not sent. When the words "Why in ——" was sent, the lines came down, and the rest of the query was not transmitted. There were ninety breaks between here and Boco, and at Virginia City they were even in a worse state. The sleet storm extended from about three miles west of Truckee to Boca.—[Truckee Republican, January 16th.

A Grange Revival.

There is said to be a great "revival" in progress among the Granges in the southern portion of New Jersey. The increase of members is very rapid. Hundreds of farmers who six months ago wagged their heads in derision at becoming Patrons are now knocking loudly at the outer gate for admission. Several of the whilom weak Granges have now turned the corner with 100 members, and many more are close upon that number. In six months more, says The New Jersey Granger, the outside farmers will be so few and lonesome that they will hardly dare to venture out o' nights.

—Instead of waiting for a chance make one.

—A friend indeed is one who is not in need.

Bear Valley.

We are in receipt of a letter from J. A. Thomas, dated Bear Valley, San Bernardino county, where several parties went from Sonora. The place is forty-five miles from the town of San Bernardino, near a lake five miles long and three wide. The writer says "this is a place where everything is quartz, there is but little else. The Gold Mountain mine is a mountain of quartz, and is likely to last for many years. Colby, Owens & Co. have a mine called the "Orient." Colby is at work in it every day, bringing home good rock every evening. Every man you meet can show you rock that he will say prospects good. But to speak as I have found things: I have examined a good many pieces of rock and seen many prospects which I consider will pay from $5 to $25 per ton. All the ground around here is claimed and I think in the Spring there will be a big excitement. This camp contains about two hundred persons, fifteen or sixteen buildings including three stores, three boarding houses and butcher shop, and all places of importance sell whisky.—[Sonora Democrat.

The Atlantic and Pacific Grab.

The following Washington dispatch of the 16th gives the latest phase of the Atlantic and Pacific grab, to which we made allusion last week:

Senator Sargent called on the Secretary of the Interior to urge the issuance of an order wholly rescinding the reservation of lands in California for the benefit of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad company, or at least the abrogation of the order of last year, which dated back the reservation to 1872, and thereby threw a cloud on numerous settlers, preventing the completion of their titles. He argued that it was very doubtful if the Congressional grant was intended to run beyond the California boundary line, and at all events the ex post facto order was clearly unjust and unadvisable. Delano took the matter under consideration.

Wants Them to Remain.

Old Winnemucca has been down to see Gen. Schofield, wanting him to retain the soldiers at Camp McDermitt. He says that if they are removed the settlers will not permit his people to hunt rabbits, their main dependence for food, on the grounds that it frightens the settlers' stock. It is not long since that the old chieftan held different views on this point, even going so far as to kill the post commandant to get the soldiers away.

A Poser.

It is related of the witty Theodore Hook that, strolling along the Strand one day in company with a friend, he observed a dandy approaching them, dressed in the first style of fashion and sailing down the street with the air of an emperor, passing by the ordinary mortals who surrounded him with immeasureable disdain. Just as he came near, Hook stepped up to the exquisite and humbly inquired, "I beg your pardon, sir, but are you anybody in particular?" The disconcerted beau looked at the grave querest in utter amazement, and walked away without a particle of dignity left.

Utah Weather.

A Salt Lake dispatch, dated January 14, says: "A terrific snowstorm is prevailing throughout the Territory. The canyons of Cottonwood are completely blocked with snow. Avalanches are occurring hourly. Citizens of Alta, Utah, are fearing the destruction of the town from snow, and have guides out daily for the purpose of warning the people. The four men killed by an avalanche on the 12th inst. will be buried morrow, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

—A Cairo man warns people not to trust his wife, and she retorts by saying that he'll go without clothes all Summer before she'll take in washing to rig him out again.

—Now is a good time to buy thermometers. They are lower now than they have been since last Spring.

—Speaking of the round world, much can be said on both sides.

—A man sticks at nothing when he tries to stab a ghost.

—Better run in old clothes than run in debt.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—While some negro steamboat men were being paid off, the clerk inquired of each one as he came up to sign the pay roll: "Will you write your name or make an X?" The first one said he could write his name, and the pen was handed him. He looked at the pen, scrutinized the pay roll, and hesitated so long that the clerk poked him up. "Let's see," mused the darkey, as he looked up at the clock: "it's now 10 o'clock, and as I've got to meet a feller at the City Hall at noon, I guess I won't write my name, but I'll put down an X."

—Ellen Larrabee, an Illinois farmer's daughter, just missed being a heroine. Seeing her father's barn on fire, she got a pail of water, ran toward the blaze and —fainted on the way. The barn was destroyed, and her father, rating her intentions by the slow standard of her failure warmed her shoulders with a strap.

—A Sacramento lawyer remarked to the court: "It is my opinion, Judge, you are an old fool." The Judge allowed his mildly-beaming eye to fall upon the lawyer a brief moment, then in a voice husky with suppressed emotion, said: "It's my candid opinion that you are fined $100."

—At this period of the year a voice steals at early morn through the keyhole of domestic chambers: "Mary Jane, get up and fix the fire;" and a prompt and cheerful echo responds, "I'll see you dodrotted first, and then I won't, you old brute." Such are the celestial harmonies of domestic life.

—A Missourian who attended prayer meeting with his daughter felt compelled to rise up and remark: "I want to be good and go to Heaven, but if those fellers don't stop winking at Mary there will be a good deal of prancing around here the first thing they know!"

—A Chicago boy of ten says that when his parents get into a fight, and his mother calls for a flat-iron and his father yells for the stove handle, he is placed in a most embarrassing position, as he is sure to get licked, no matter who he minds.

—The blab belongs to the very worst class of talkative people, has always got his ears and eyes open to see or hear a little, then proceeds on his errand to retail it to his fellows, who magnify what may have been a slight indiscretion to a heinous crime.

—It is to the interest of missionary societies to diffuse the statement by M. Moca, a French savant, that "the flesh of the Caucasian is bitter and salty, while that of the Negro is of finer flavor, and will keep much longer."

—New York boarders object to the pudding being mixed in a coal-scuttle, on the ground that in these hard times the waste of fuel consequent upon the pieces being cooked with the pudding is a flagrant neglect of the poor.

—Texas would have been a splendid place for Micawber. When he sat down, waiting for something to turn up, the playful nibble of a tarantula would have turned up what he sat down on in a very lively manner.

—Benjamin Franklin occasionally stumbled upon the truth. He said: "The eyes of other people are the eyes that ruin us. If all but myself were blind, I should neither want a fine house nor fine furniture."

—Ayer, the pill-man, who was defeated for Congress the other day, manufactures an excellent expectorant, but Ayer don't expect to rant in the Fourty-fourth Congress.

—The Manchester, N. H., Mirror wittily says: "Within a year we have known an apparently hopeless case of consumption cured by an appointment to a probate judgeship, and we don't know of a disease which a Congressional nomination would not cure."

—"I can't say as he went to Heaven," remarked a Fort Scott citizen of a deceased townsman, "but he paid a bill of eleven years' standing only the day before he died, and you can judge for yourself."

—A clergyman at Kansas City said if there was any one within hearing of his voice who would try to put a stop to Sunday dog-fighting he'd like to have 'em rise up. A small boy and an old woman rose up.

—This world would be a sandy desert of lonesomeness if women were not privileged to attend auction sales and pay more for an old bureau than a new chamber set would cost.

—There is none of God's creatures for whom the recording angel reserves a larger share of pity than the man condemned to wrestle with the average boarding-house sirloin.

—When a Peoria youth goes to spark a girl he finds the old lady in one corner of the room, the old man in another, and a dog under the melodeon, and he is required to speak up like an orator.

—A Milwaukee man hid in a public doorway and jumped out and kissed his wife. She didn't whoop and yell, as he expected, but replied: "Don't be so bold, Mister—folks around here know me!"

—An inebriate man, walking along the street, regarded the moon with sovereign contempt: "You needn't feel so proud," he said, "you are full only once a month and I am every night."

—It is generally believed in some of the counties of Michigan that men will do more plotting and planning to rob a hen-coop, than would be necessary to insure a bank burglary.

—The Duluth woman who put the kerosene can on the stove-hearth while she went out to trade with a peddlar, is now keeping house in a barn, kindly loaned for the occasion.

—They take life easy in Missiesippi.

Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cur by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

A Just Tribute.

The Washington Chronicle publishes the following letter from General Sherman, called forth by the announcement of the death of General Morgan L. Smith:

ST. LOUIS, Mo., December 30th, 1874.

Dear C——: In glancing at The Globe this morning I was startled by reading a paragraph referring to General Morgan L. Smith as having been found dead in his bed in Jersey City, and giving an outline of his history that cannot be mistaken. I shall look for The Chronicle for full particulars. You must know how very much I was attached to him, and as you may desire to make some friendly and lengthy notice of his eventful life, I can give you some data. He was Colonel of the Eighth Missouri at Cairo, Paducah and other places in 1861 and 1862, and was with General Grant at Forts Henry and Donelson. At Shiloh his regiment was in Lew Wallace's division. It did not share in the first day's fight, April 6th, but reached the battle ground about dark. The next morning we all advanced our line about a mile. Wallace's division on the extreme right, next mine; next McClernand's, etc.—and closed on the enemy, a wooded ravine separating us. Then we paused for some hours, our skirmishers engaged in the ravine, and both parties using artillery across the ravine. I was sitting on my horse, when a strange Colonel joined my group, and after some time inquired of me what we were waiting for. I asked him who he was, and he answered, Colonel Morgan L Smith, Eighth Missouri. I explained to him that in the night General Buell had crossed the Tennessee with three divisions, and was advancing slowly and cautiously on the general left (we could hear his artillery to our left rear) and that all we had to do was to patiently wait till they were abreast of us, when all could advance simultaneously. He explained to me the position of his own regiment in the valley below, and said there was a force in front of him which he thought he ought to charge. I advised him to lay low, and perhaps they would feel forward for him, when he could knock them to pieces. He left me, and in a short time I heard the firing of skirmishers; and very soon three or four full volleys, when silence ensued in that quarter. Smith soon reappeared, sat on his horse with his right leg across in front of the pommel of the saddle, and said it had occurred just as I said, and that he "knocked" them. His manner was so undisturbed, so perfectly cool, and he seemed to comprehend so well the whole situation, that I was at once attracted to him. After the battle, when we were rejoicing, I asked for the regiment, and General Grant assigned it to my division, and I gave him command of a brigade. With the exception of a short period when he was absent, seriously wounded by a ball in his hip, received at Chickasaw Bayou, near Vicksburg, he served with me during the rest of the war as a division commander, and I always esteemed him as one of my best practical officers. He was perfectly familiar with the drill from the company up to a division, and at Memphis, in 1863, his was the model division of the army. In the many battles in which we were afterward engaged his force always bore a prominent part, and his personal conduct always drew from General Grant and myself the highest praise.

His perfect self-possession, coolness under fire, and good judgment in action, manifested a special fitness for the military profession, and had he desired it at the close of the war, I am certain he would have been retained as a Colonel of the regular army; but he preferred to return to civil pursuits. I saw him almost daily in Washington, and on the last day I spent there he took me to see his new house, approaching completion. I understood him to say that he and his family would occupy it about New Year's day. I am as yet uninformed of any of the particulars of his death. I beg you will give to Mrs. Smith the assurance of the heartfelt sympathy of all the members of my family, who were equally attached to him. There are a great many persons here who knew the General well, for he belonged to St. Louis, and started from here in his military career. When I last saw him he was so hearty and well that it is hard to realize that he is really gone, but the paragraph to which I have referred is so specific that it can refer to no one else. Ever your friend,

W. T. SHERMAN, General.

A Blighted Marquis.

Though the Marquis of Lorne married into the Queen's family, he is reported still to be not happy. Everywhere, when he travels with his wife, he is snubbed because he is but a nobleman and she a princess. At Courts he is made to stand elsewhere than with his wife, and even at home he cannot contrive to be treated as an equal. It is said that his wife is anxious to tone down as far as possible this incongruity, and that the princess asked that when her husband should bring her under the roof of his ancestral home she might be allowed to be no longer the princess, but merely the marchioness. But Maccallummore had not married his heir into the royal family that the bride of that heir should hide her royal effulgence under the bushel of a marchioness. Standing on the doorstep of his castle, with the aspect of a bantam cock into whose breed has been infused a cross of the pouter pigeon, he demanded from his tenants "Three cheers for the princess, my daughter," as the carriage containing that lady (along with an incidental chattel in the shape of a marquis husband) drove up the avenue. The jackanapes brother of that husband had no other name for his Queen than that o "Lorne's mother-in-law." And so the anomaly was ruthlessly perpetuated in all its intensity, where a means offered at least for its mitigation, and the fetters of the blight were riveted on the limbs of the unfortunate victim of a rash experiment. He lives to hand into her carriage the princess whom he married, when that lady goes to a drawing-room to join her august kinsf lk on the dais, if haply her equerry happens to be out for a stroll. The equerry, retired marching captain as he is, has a more defined position than he who is the nominal head of the household; for the former knows that the latter, although he feeds him, owns not one tittle of him. The blight of a false position has withered even the fluency of the once ready speaker who occupies it. He seldom essays oratory now; when he does, he stammers feebly through futile efforts to fix fugitive fragments of flaccid platitudes. No new edition of his book has been lately called for, and he has never written another work. If he ever does, we might hope it may be an autobiography.

For the Girls.

That's right—take good care of your hands. They are like any other machine, and it no more improves them to plunge them into hot water, knock the skin from the knuckles, and make them hard and boney by garden-work, than it improves a new hat to bang it about. Keep them well gloved when you go abroad. Gloves are expensive? To be sure; but your old "black kids" can be renovated with a little trouble. Cousin Eleanor was a type of a frugal age, now almost out of date. She never thought of buying anything when she had on hand something that could be made to answer the purpose with forethought and labor. She sewed the seams of the old gloves with the greatest care and neatness, and then mixed a little sweet oil and ink, two parts ink to one of oil. To this she tied a bit of sponge, and then touched the seams of the gloves with the mixture. "Just keep the bottle handy, and you will find it an excellent thing to rub over your kid gloves when they begin to look rusty." The next in order is a pair of light kids very much soiled. These are laid on a folded towel and rubbed with a bit of white flannel first dipped in milk, and then rubbed on a cake of white soap. The gloves are thoroughly cleaned from the wrist to the tips, and then stretched crosswise and laid on the towel to dry. They are a success, and look almost as good as new.

California's Contribution.

Elihu Burritt says that a country's productions is a true measure of its usefulness and therefore of its greatness. Applying this measure to California we have a result highly gratifying, as the following will show: During the year 1874 we produced 20,000,000 centals of wheat, $85,000,000 of gold and silver, 40,000,000 pounds of wool, 7,000,000 gallons of wine, in addition to barley, fruits and the hundreds of other things of which we have no aggregate estimate. If any other State can show anything like this we want to know it. All this addition to the wealth of the world has been produced on but a fraction of the territory of our State. Take notice, also, that we have not to exceed 600,000 inhabitants.

Manufactories at the South.

It is said that the cotton factories recently established at the South are the best paying industrial institutions in the country. They have proved that the fabric could be worked to more pecuniary benefit where it was grown than in those portions of the country generally known as the manufacturing districts. An important point, this, for California capitalists.

--Dr. John Hall says that in England people are divided into churchmen and dissenters, but that in America they might properly be divided into churchmen and absenters.

--An old hymn says, "The vilest sinner may return," and he is sure to do it when he wants to borrow twenty-five cents.

—The wave on which many a poor fellow has been carried away is the wave of a lace-edged cambric handkerchief.

The Wonder Land.

We are indebted to ex-Sheriff Mulkey, who is at Gaffney, Montana, for a letter and a copy of H. J. Norton's book entitled "Wonder Land Illustrated." It is an illustrated description of the wonders of the National Park on the Yellowstone, and of the Territory generally. It is a decidedly an interesting and well written book. Mr. Mulkey is about half inclined to think he likes that country very much; it's a splendid stock country and healthy and all that sort of thing, but "cold, you bet." Still, stock keep fat with no other food than what the ranges afford, cold as the weather may be. The quartz mining outlook is spoken of as very flattering.

Avalanches.

Snow slides or avalanches have been of frequent occurrence up in Nevada, lately. One at Genoa killed 14 Chinamen at a wood camp and crippled up a number more. It was erroneously stated at first that 28 of the Chinamen were killed. Several avalanches came down from Mount Davidson into Virginia, destroying several houses, killing three persons and burying up others, who were rescued with but slight injuries.

Discouraging Outlook.

And now comes a certain learned Dutchman with the startling information that cremation is not philosophical, since, in burning, the ammonia of the system is all destroyed. The learned gentleman reckons that if cremation should become universal in about ten millions of years there wouldn't be a bit of ammonia left in the world. But there will be this compensation for the loss—stables and such places will be less peculiarly fragrant.

Army Supplies.

A telegraphic dispatch from Washington states that one of the requirements of the new law regulating the purchase of army suplies is that whenever purchases can be made in the vicinity of the points to be supplied, without extra cost, the local manufacturers and producers must be patronized in preference to contractors at a distance. This is as it should be.

The Musical Review.

This monthly, Sherman & Hyde publishers, San Francisco, has been materially improved in several particulars for the current year. It always contains music and words of one or more of the newest songs and a number of instrumental pieces, besides enough of interesting reading matter to make it worth more than the subscription price, which is only $1 50 a year.

His Ignorance.

Lord Roseberg, in a recent speech in London, said that "he could walk up to a map in the dark and put his finger on the site of Cicero's villa, but if any one asked him where San Francisco was he should have to think twice." All of which shows what an old fogy Lord Roseberg is.

Lengthy Testimony.

The examination of Frank Moulton in the Beecher-Tilton matter has already lasted six days. Among other things, he swears that it is his private opinion, expressed publicly, that Henry Ward is an unqualified liar and perjurer.

On Trial.

Joseph Carey, one of those San Francisco poll tax forgers is undergoing his trial in that city. He and his pals, it is thought, managed to nip about $200,000 or $300,000 by these forgeries.

Marysville.

This city suffered greatly by the recent flood. A Relief Committee was organized and a call for help issued, which is meeting quite a liberal response in Sacramento and San Francisco.

Coming.

It is rumored that Harry Meiggs will visit us in March. That's all right; let him march in. The Legislature gave him permission.

TO WHAT PURPOSE?

We note a disposition on the part of some of our Nevada contemporaries to rather exult in the belief that Panamint "has got a black eye," or, in other words is a humbug. Supposing such to be the case we see no cause for exultation, as its failure can in no degree help build up or inspire additional confidence in Nevada or any other mining district, but quite the reverse. The conclusion that it is a bilk seems to be predicated on the fact that Jones, Stewart & Co., the big Company of Panamint, are contracting their operations, having recently discharged a large number of their employes; the wish, if such it is, that the district is turning out a bilk, is probably based on the hope that the principals of this company may thereby suffer some retribution for their alleged Emma mine swindle. It is furthermore argued that because this company is shipping their best ore to England they are merely setting a bait to catch another English compahy—that the whole intent and aim from the first has been to sell to and rope in some such company.

Now, there are two or three obvious facts these croakers overlook in thus jumping at conclusions: The first of these is that, however vast the quantity or rich the quality of the ores Panamint can produce, no other profitable disposition can ever be made of any portion except to ship them in the crude state to some place for reduction possessing better facilities than that camp or the coast itself now affords. For this purpose Swansea (England) offers better inducements than any other. It is likely it will always continue to do so. It is quite as likely, owing to the peculiar characteristics of the ores of Panamint and many other districts in this portion of the country, that not a single bar of silver bullion will ever be produced profitably in any one of them. It is no less certain that the ores from all, in quantities wholly beyond estimate, can, under favorable circumstances, be shipped across land and sea, and then reduced at an immense profit simply because of cheaper labor, fuel and more perfect facilities for extracting and profiting by every mineral of commercial value they contain. It is needless to say that no facilities are now afforded on this side the water by which even a fair proportion of the silver alone can be saved from such ores, much less their base metals. Whatever their ulterior designs, Jones & Co. are, and will be, compelled to send the ores of Panamint to elsewhere in order to obtain any profit whatever for handling them. It is clear enough to a common understanding that no profit can result from sending any then except such as will stand a drawback of not less than $65 per ton for transportation alone, hence none but the best are sent.

But it is said the company are discharging their men instead of going on and developing their mines, and therefore they have concluded that these mines are good for nothing except to sell to an English or some other company. An understanding of the actual situation will show this logic to be nonsense. In view of what may be anticipated from the completion of the proposed railroad every ton of ore they now ship to England involves an unnecessary loss of not less than $30 per ton for the land transportation alone. Could they make money faster than to hold these ores a few months longer on the certainty of making this saving? Next, in order to procure one ton of high grade ore, such as will now pay to ship, it is necessary to extract and handle and re-handle perhaps as much as five or six tons of a quality too poor for shipment, but rich enough to yield a much greater profit in the aggregate when prepared to reduce them on the ground. These can be made available by a literal reducing process, and until prepared to do this, it is an inexcusable waste of money to continue to pile out and handle ores over and over again to no purpose other than to keep men employed. The reducing process cannot be executed without concentrating mills, and it will take several months to put these mills in operation. But these mills will not turn out either amalgam or bullion—they will merely concentrate all the valuable minerals contained in say ten tons of ore into one ton of pulp, and even this will have to go to England before it can be made to yield its treasures, or "bait an English company." We can assert from a personal knowledge of most of the mines of this company that full five hundred men could be set to work in the direct extraction of ore at any moment. It is not necessary to sink a preliminary shaft or run a tunnel a single foot merely to obtain ores. Whenever the ledge crops to the surface then the work of extracting pay ore can begin. But the company have prepared every mine for stoping by numerous shafts and tunnels at different levels; have their roads, too, in good condition and everything in readiness to produce hundreds of tons of ore every day, until the bottom is reached, if it ever is, or till the surface croppings, extending for miles we might say, are exhausted. We are not speaking of these things from hearsay, or, except in a very general sense, from any interested stand point, but from personal observation and a natural desire to see justice done both the district and those who have done so much for it. Their present operations are undoubtedly in perfect harmony with legitimate business prudence, and so far from indicating a desire or intention to perpetrate a fraud prove exactly the reverse.

The future of Panamint depends almost wholly upon the degree of success that may attend the proposed concentrating process. If that plan comes up to reasonable anticipations, Panamint will be a flourishing camp and continue as such for long years to come, almost as certainly as such a camp exists today. We think truly that within a year hence it will take a higher rank than a merely "flourishing" camp.

THE "GRAND" AND "DEFIANCE" MINES, NEW COSO.

It is gratifying to know that this new district is developing in the most satisfactory manner. We are told by friends, lately in from Darwin, that at 50 feet, the deepest working, the Grand "is the finest prospect I ever saw," to use the words of one of those parties. There is not less than 20 feet of good ore in this shaft. Another of the same depth is to be sunk near the south end of this mine, which completes the contract. V. A. Gregg, Esq., and J. L. Darrah will then be half owners of a mine which certainly bids very fair to make them a fortune.

On the same grand vein to the south, one unworked claim intervening, is found the Defiance, originally the Ventura, owned by P. Reddy, Esq., and others. Mr. Reddy has pushed work on this mine right along, working two shifts from the start. It is being prospected by a tunnel beginning in the face of the croppings or east side of the ledge, which, as can plainly be seen is here divided into three parts, each about 20 feet in width, with a dyke of porphyry of about the same width cropping out between. The tunnel is now through the first vein a total distance of 26 feet, 20 of it all ore, of the average value of $110 per ton, as shown by the series of assays subjoined. The tunnel is being driven through the intervening country rock for the middle vein, some 30 feet distant. The croppings of this vein indicate that it is still wider than the first, the third or most westerly being about the same as the first. The amount of rich ores here presented almost exceeds belief.

Here are the several assays made of the ores from the tunnel in cutting across the first vein:

Work at Cajon Pass.

From Joseph Brown, who arrived from the Mojave yesterday, we learn that two companies have pitched their tents at the Cajon summit, one the L. A. & I. party, and the other, the Southern Pacific party. The Inyo company have a squad of thirty-three men at work grading, and the other party have nearly as large a force. This would indicate that both companies were striving for the control of the pass. Mr. Crawford was in town yesterday and stated that the Inyo Company would certainly build the first 113 miles, and that as speedily as possible. This would take them to the Point of Rocks, or within about one hundred miles of Panamint. He expects one hundred Chinamen in the course of ten days to work on the road. Yesterday he secured carpenters to build quarters at the head of the Cajon for the accommodation of the working force.—[San Bernardino Argus, January 11th.

About Souls.

Let there be no more doubt about the constitution of the soul, for, according to Pinel, the seat of the soul is the pineal gland of the brain; and, according to Dr. William Hitchman, a spiritual scientist, being C 48, H 36, N 6, and O 14.—[Austin Reveille.

DIED.

At Independence, January 24, Captain A. U. Chase, a native of Massachusetts, aged 65 years. Chicago papers please copy.

Captain Chase was one of the early pioneers of this county, and up to the last ever commanded the high esteem and respect of all who knew him. He was a prospector in the true sense, ever persevering and hopeful, hammering and drilling, solitary and alone, in his long tunnel over at Chrysopolis and elsewhere at times, always full in the faith that in a "few feet more he would strike it," never giving up to doubts, discouragements or feeble health. But his hopes outlived his physical powers, for he literally wore his life away, and died with the "ledge still a few feet away." In all his later efforts and dying moments he ever found a steadfast friend and support in Mr. Abraham Parker, at whose house he breathed his last.

He has relatives living at Ottowa, Illinois. It may not be out of place to remark that he was also one of the heirs of the great Chase estate of $280,000,000, of which so much has been said of late. But to his credit, be it said, he built his hopes of affluence or comfortable circumstances for his declining years not on the Chase estate, but upon the results of his own exertions as a prospector and miner.

Generous.

As most of our readers are painfully aware, there is an untold amount of actual suffering among the settlers of Kansas and Nebraska, all by reason of the utter destruction of their crops last season by the grasshoppers. Whole counties were entirely devastated by these voracious insects, and in consequence, the people, (many of whom had but just reached the country and were poor enough to begin with) were left totally destitute, having neither food nor means to procure it, or scarce a domestic animal left. With a Nebraska Winter to face right on the heels of all this the prospect was gloomy in the extreme, and but for outside aid many would doubtless perish. A call is being made for help and is meeting with a generous response almost everywhere. Wells, Fargo & Co. have taken a most creditable part in this matter, having instructed their agents everywhere to make personal effort toward procuring money, food or clothing, all of which the company agree to forward to the point of distribution free of cost. Right well, so far as we have heard, these agents have exerted themselves in the good cause. In this place this work devolved mostly upon H. M. Isaacs; Mr. Rhine (the agent proper) no doubt, thinking Harry could beat him at it, perhaps. Anyway, in a short time $101 cash was raised and forwarded, which speaks pretty well for the generosity of our citizens at this particularly chilling juncture.

Another Mining Suit in Prospect.

Among the first, if not the very first, locations made in the new mining district at Coso was a ledge called the Promontorio. It was located by Rafael Cuervo in his own name. On the same day Cuervo located in the same manner the extension of the same, and as an extension, calling it the Rafael. Subsequently E. Gomez, W. J. C. Gill, A. C. Hanson, L. Lasky and Antonio Viligas became parties in the ownership of the Promontorio, and together have done work enough thereon to show it to be a valuable prospect. Now comes D. P. Tarpey and Thos. Carroll, through their attorneys, Reddy and Gregg, with a suit against all of the above named parties for the restitution of a mine called the Creole, and $25,000 damages. It seems that these plaintiffs re located or jumped the Promontorio, and in the hope that it might smell sweeter, gave it the other name. The complaint was filed in the Clerk's office on the 27th. The questions at law are: Can an individual, or company as such, hold a claim (1,500 feet) and an extension of the same, or two locations on the same ledge or lode? And, if this point is decided in the negative, as probably it will be, then does it work a forfeiture of both in case of contest for both, or can such locator make his own election as to which, and retain one or the other? Lastly, how much damage does the discoverer and first locator inflict on the second comer?

Cerro Gordo.

A correspondent at Cerro Gordo, writing under date of January 29, sends the following items: "We have had a regular snorter of a storm; there is an abundance of snow, and on this account the furnaces can start up as soon as may be. It is thought they could keep running on snow till June. It is hard to tell when the water will be in again. There is not much doing in the way of mining. Mr. Hamilton, of the Boushey Company, with Thos. Passmore, came up in the storm to pay Mr. Crapo for the Boushey Tunnel and some seven or eight other ledges on Buena Vista Hill, the titles of which would seem to have been involved in a dispute. The Potosi Tunnel is still progressing slowly. Mr. Simpson has been in San Francisco for some eight weeks, on business, but his return is daily expected. Mr. Beaudry has gone to Coso; has been laying pipes—not in a political sense, but for the benefit of the taboose-eaters and himself. If the public don't want to purchase the water which said pipes will introduce, he can use it himself; or Dan and V. G. can start a distillery."

Personal.

P. Reddy, Esq., has gone to Bakersfield to attend Court there....V. A. Gregg, Esq., goes to Darwin to see after his valuable mining interests out there. J. D. Sears and Paddock, just in from that camp, report things as generally flourishing as regards mining developments, but plenty of snow and cold....P. W. Bennett, Esq., and wife, and J. P. M. Perham are expected to arrive here in a few days.

Stormy.

The roughest snow storm seen here for many a day raged from daylight till dark on Tuesday last. The wind blew a strong gale from the north, driving the falling snow in blinding clouds before it, so that traveling against it was almost out of the question. The weather since has been quite pleasant, and now but little snow remains in the valley except where it lies in drifts.

The Welch Case.

Judge Reed has notified the officers here that he will not call up E. P. Welch for re-sentence until the regular term in May. A petition is being circulated praying that the sentence be commuted to imprisonment for life. It is a simple plea for mercy.

Maps Filed.

The following maps, embracing the Coso region, have been filed in the Land Office here: Townships 18 and 19, Range 39 east, Townships 18 and 20, R. 40, and Townships 20 and 21, R. 41. Also Townships 8 and 9, N. R. 23 east, being in Mono county.

Exhibition.

We are informed by one of the Trustees thereof, that a school benefit is being arranged for Milton District, Camp Independence. It will take the form of an exhibition, with some of the best talent of Company D participating.

Perished by Cold.

It is reported that an intoxicated man out at Darwin got lost in the storm Tuesday last and was frozen to death. There seems to be truth in the report, but the name of the unfortunate or other particulars are not known here.

To Meet.

The Board of Supervisors meet in rugular term next Monday, February 1.

RAILROAD ADDRESS.

The committee selected at the Los Angeles railroad mass meeting, held December 12, to prepare an address to the citizens of the three interested counties, have completed their work. The document submitted is an able and exhaustive one, and ought to carry conviction of the prime necessity of crowding the great work to completion. It covers, particularly from the Los Angeles standpoint, the whole ground. We make room for the following excerpta, remarking that the committee's estimates as to the present business of this county are erroneous—but they err on the safe side. Some few corrections will be noted in the proper places. We quote:

When an entire community or several entire communities aggregate or unite their efforts in any one direction, the results are sometimes simply astonishing. If every person in these three counties would take hold of this enterprise, and each subscribe according to his or her means, with the understanding that only, say, one-half should be called in during the year 1875, July 4th, 1876, the Centennial of the Nation's Independence, would see the road built!

And if the road is once completed to Independence, stimulating enormously along its way the development of a vast mineral region, it will inevitably go on till it becomes a part of a great continental line and of the general railroad system of the United States.

Cannot there be found in these three counties ten men who will invest $25,000 each, which would aggregate, say, $250,000; 25 men, $10,000 each, $250,000; 50 men, $5,000 each, $250,000; 250 men, $1,000 each, $250,000? If so, the result would be, in round numbers, $1,000,000. Are there not 1,000 men among the 5,000 voters in these three counties who would subscribe from $100 to $500 each? If so, the result would be an additional $100,000 to $500,000. Or, can anything like these subscriptions be obtained? If so, the road can be built.

While this road might not pay at first as high a rate of interest directly it would indirectly, in time, to the investors, and immeasureably promote the material prosperity of the entire three counties—or, better still, of all Southern California.

Let the question be put to each one by a personal canvass by committees in each township, and let the question be practically tested, whether the people will subscribe the above amounts which, in total, will justify the undertaking of this great but not impossible work. Let the road be a People's Railroad! Let them elect good, honest and capable Directors; and let them see to it that the road is economically built and managed, and they will thus create a property that will be not only a source of profit to its owners, but a mighty developing agency to this southern portion of the State—and that to an extent that we now hardly dream of.

But the question recurs—and it is a serious one—Can we carry the work through, if we undertake it? What resources, what basis of credit have these three counties to depend on, to furnish the coin necessary to build the road?

Experienced railroad men tell us that if we can grade, and lay the ties, we will find no difficulty in borrowing to iron and equip the road.

What annual surplus have we to sell, wherewithal to engage in building this road? Among our products we name a few representative items, which are: Our 3,000 tons of Bullion; [Inyo shipped 5,050 tons last year.—EDS INDEPENDENT]; our 2,000,000 gallons of Wine; our 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 lbs. of Wool; our many thousands of tons of Corn, Barley, Hay, etc; our endless resources of rich ores; our Orange crop, our Asphaltum, etc, etc, all of which yield us yearly, in the aggregate, several millions of dollars.

Really, what the present productive resources of Southern California, in their totality, are, we have but little idea, and less what they will be when the vast mining regions of wondrous wealth, over the mountains, are connected by rail with the series of extensive and fertile valleys on this side—and all with the sea!

Will the road pay? We are reliably informed that the average monthly freight of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company has been 200 tons up, and 400 tons of bullion down; and that since the Panamint excitement, or during the last four months, the up freight has averaged 450 tons monthly, making 850 tons per month—besides 100 tons of feed which is sent out on its line each month—and all this by only one company. When we take into account the large number of teams outside of that company, in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties, that have been mustered into this colossal carrying trade, we conclude that not less than 1,000 tons, but more likely 1,500 tons or more, of freight per month have been transported between these valleys and the mines during the last four or five months, and liable, nay, certain, to double and treble with the increased facilities of a railroad over mule teams.

By the provisions of the charter of the Los Angeles and Independence railroad, the freight would be about $23 50 per ton from tide-water to Independence.

Estimating the present traffic at 1,500 tons per month, the freight alone would yield $423,000 per annum—and this without taking into account the passengers, mails, express, etc., or the enormous increase of business certain to accrue from the building of the road.

Basing our calculations, for our present purposes, on the actual business now done, we think the following showing not wide of the mark:

Suppose the Cost of Road to be.....		$4,000,000
Annual Earnings { Freight....	$423,000
{ Passengers.	141,000
		$564,000
Interest on Cap. Stock, annually, 5 pr. c....	$200,000
Operating Road.....	200,000
		$400,000
Leaving net profit of, say.....		$164,000

The foregoing reasoning is based wholly on the theory that the people of these three counties shall build and own the road themselves. But if it shall seem to be too great an undertaking, we have reliable assurances from capitalists, who are deeply interested in having the road built speedily, that if the people will take stock to the amount of $300,000, the road will be built without delay. We would rather urge that the people subscribe to at least $500,000 of the stock.

If a Narrow Gauge Road be built, the cost will be less and profits greater But whatever the gauge, or whoever is benefitted incidentally, these are matters of minor importance, compared to the transcendent benefits the building of the road would be to the communities it would connect and the regions it would develop.

We cannot refrain from calling attention to one very important consideration in connection with this matter. Those who seek to transfer the "Owens River trade" from the Los Angeles to the Bakersfield and Tulare route, aver that TIME is a prime factor in determining the question; they say that freight can go from Independence to Tehachapi in eight or nine days, and through to San Francisco in ten days.

Build this road, and freight from Independence can be laid down here at tide-water in twenty hours, and in San Francisco in thirty-six hours more—say in two and a half days! and that far cheaper than by an all-land route of 500 miles.

The address closes with a further appeal and strong argument, and is signed by Messrs. Downey, Temple, Woodworth, Meyer and Barrows.

How They Look.

The News of the 23d gives the following report of a few of the Panamint mines:

JACOB'S WONDER.

The main tunnel, running east from Big Canyon, is in splendid ore and looking better than ever. A general improvement is noticeable in all the different openings. In fact the prospects exceed the expectations of the most sanguine when work first began on this mine.

WYOMING.

This mine, in which a vein of black ore was struck two or three weeks ago—assays from which went as high as $12,820 per ton—is still looking as well as usual, and a large amount of very fine ore is daily being taken out.

HEMLOCK.

The shaft in this splendid mine has cut the ledge at a depth of about one hundred and fifty feet, which has developed a large, fine body of ore. The shaft being vertical and the ledge having but little pitch it is difficult to tell how wide this ore-vein is until the foot wall shall have been reached. The mine, thus far, gives evidence that it will prove to be one of the greatest ever discovered on the coast.

ALABAMA.

This mine lies a little southwest from the Hemlock. The shaft is now in good ore, and has greatly improved in appearance generally in the last few days.

A later account of the Jacob's Wonder is to the effect that the ledge in the lower tunnel was the full width of the tunnel—four and one-half feet. The ore runs about $275 per ton. The Company are pushing work ahead on both their mills, one of which is to run twenty, the other thirty, stamps. The machinery for these is at Spadra.

From Coso.

Messrs. Colby, Jewett and Brundage bring favorable news from New Coso. Several hundred men are on the ground and new discoveries are constantly being made. About two miles from the first locations some leads of milling ore have been found similar to those of Panamint. The specimens shown us by Mr. Brundage look quite as well as any ore we have seen from that place. Judge Colby brought a sack of ore from the Defiance, the lead owned by himself and P. Reddy. Those familiar with the ores of the celebrated Union mine at Cerro Gordo say it is impossible to distinguish it from ore of that mine. The formation in which this mine is found is precisely similar, but is more favorably situated for work and vastly larger. The measurements of the U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor give it a width of 196 feet. A cut or tunnel is now being run across it with a view to better ascertain the solidity and continuity of the vein and character of the ore. A town is being built contiguous to the mines, called Darwin. A hotel conducted by Mr. V. G. Thompson is already in operation. Water will be supplied by means of pipes laid from springs, six miles distant, from which the grade is downward. As the leads here are richer, larger and more numerous and easily worked than at Panamint, a still greater excitement is sure to spring up. The galena ores may be worked far cheaper than the milling, and the necessary preliminary outlay is not half as much. But it is too early yet for men of prudence to visit this promising locality. The weather, for two months to come, will continue uncomfortably cold in that quarter. We may expect lively times there this Summer.—[Bakersfield Courier.

Nip and Tuck.

It is a close race between Andy Johnson and Governor Brown for the Senatorship for Tennessee. On the fifty-third ballot Johnson got 44 votes, 49 being necessary for a choice. It was thought the next battle would end the struggle. Both parties were very confident of success.

Running.

Nearly or quite every railroad in the State was more or less damaged, and trains interrupted by the late storm, but most all are in running order again.

At Bakersfield.

Grand Worthy Chief Templar Jabez Walker was to deliver two lectures at Bakersfield last week.

—"Are you going after that sugar?" called a Marquette, Mich., mother to her boy, who was in the street. "Am I going after that sugar?" drawled the youth in a saucy and impudent tone; but just then he happened to see his father coming up behind him, and he said very respectfully and lovingly, "Why, of course I am, ma—I didn't know you needed it right away."

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Brightly Breaks the Morning of a new era in the annals of medicine. Alcohol will soon be banished from the list of remedies, and only known as a poison. DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, composed entirely of wholesome botanic extracts and juices, are everywhere superseding the fiery astringents, which no man or woman ever yet took without bitterly repenting their credulity. There is no disease, acute or chronic, in which the new tonic may not be administered with beneficial effect.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series so made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac simile signature of James Sutton, President.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—Nellie Collins, a "variety girl" at Dallas, Texas, was the only person among the large population with sufficient heathen charity to take in and care for ten women and children, immigrants from South Carolina, who arrived there starving, shelterless and penniless. She gave up her room to them, bought them food, and brought their case before the public authorities, who provided for them.

—A case of sickening cruelty on the part of the Sheriff of San Antonio, Texas, toward a prisoner coufined in jail, is reported. The prisoner was held for murder, and when a circus came to town the other day the Sheriff refused to allow the man to attend. Public indignation at San Antonio is naturally aroused by this barbarous and heartless innovation.

—The theory has been started that since the usefulness of whales has largely diminished through the discovery of mineral oils for illuminating purposes, the animals might be domesticated and employed for towing ships.

—The boss thief of Europe was the ex-Prince Demetrius Tschwtsawadze. He was the foe of all proof readers and the dread of all interviewers; but nobody ever called him any harder name than himself.

—When a Louisville dry goods store is robbed the proprietor pays The Courier-Journal a dollar and a half to report the item under a head like this: "Burglars of Good Taste."

—Man was built after all other things had been made and pronounced good. If not, he would have insisted on giving his orders as to the rest of the job.

—"I am very happy," said a French mother, "I have a son-in law whom everybody discusses and a daughter whom no one talks about."

—Adam had one consolation when he fell. Fifteen or twenty acquaintances didn't stand on the opposite corner and laugh at his mishap.

—With the approach of the Centennial, everything in Philadelphia except spinsters is trying to make itself out a hundred years old.

—Rutherford, Maryland, promises to become unusually healthy. The doctors refuse to attend people without receiving pay in advance.

—Chicago is rapidly becoming an "art-center," as well as a "grain-center," "hog-center," faro-center and head-center generally.

—"The value of a gift doesn't depend upon the price," said the fellow who gave his wife a patent medicine almanac on Christmas.

—A man may be properly said to have been drinking like a fish when he finds that he has taken enough to make his head swim.

"Amateur gentlemen," says an old lady, "is a pretty good description of a certain class of young men."

Alfalfa.

Alfalfa is naturally an evergreen clover, and where the seasons are uniformly warm, as in many portions of California, will grow perpetually and furnish pasture for stock the year round. We believe there are no portions of the valleys in California south of Mount Shasta in which alfalfa does not flourish well and furnish a good quantity of growth during our severest Winter. Even during the present Winter, which has given us a longer succession of frosty nights than any other Winter within our recollection, well-seeded meadows of alfalfa in the Sacramento valley have furnished very good pasturage for cattle at the rate of three or four to the acre.—[Sacramento Record.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

A New Invention in Telegraphy.

The Frankfort Zeitung announces that an official in the Bavarian Telegraph service has succeeded in making an apparatus which, if found to be of practical utility, may effect a revolution in the present system of telegraphy. The name of this gentleman is H. Becker, and the apparatus he has constructed, to which he has given the name of "Electro-magnetic copying machine," appears to be a perfecting and improvement of Daseli's invention. The proprietorship of the apparatus has already been purchased by the banking firm of Messrs. Oppenheim and Weill, of Frankfort. Without any assistance from the operator it gives a fac simile of the original manuscript telegram in whatever language written, signatures, portraits, music, plans, etc., conveyed telegraphically to any distance, and in such admirable perfection that in comparing the original with the copy scarcely any difference can be discovered. "We, ourselves," says the above named journal, "witnessed the transfer from one apparatus to another not only the lines of welcome issued by the committee of the musical festival recently held in this city, profusely ornamented with instruments, wreaths of laurel and oak leaves, as well as symbolical arabesques, but also bills of exchange filled up and signed. State dispatches in cypher, telegrams written in Greek and Hebrew characters, police notices with the portrait of the person wanted, military maps, such as a general might send to his subordinates to explain the situation described or mentioned in his written dispatches or orders, together with the usual service communications as telegraphed from one station to another. All objects intended for transmission by this apparatus are written or drawn with prepared ink, on silver paper, which is then placed on a revolving cylinder, and then telegraphed off to its destination, where it is received on clean tissue paper, and reproduced with the most wonderful exactness."

The Check-Rein.

The following communication to The London Daily News from Mr. Flower, an enthusiastic horseman, on the cruel practice of straining up the heads of horses in an unnatural position for the sake of the supposed "stylish" appearance, is as applicable to Canada as to England: "Much has been written and said about cruelty to animals, and a very excellent society is doing much to suppress it, in many ways very successfully; but there is one most cruel and barbarous practice going on all around us, of which they take no notice, possibly because the perpetrators are in the higher classes of society, which really makes it much worse, for they ought to know better. This stupid and cruel practice is the use of the gag or Bedouin bearing-rein to carriage horses, which not only puts the animal to present torture, but by forcing the head into an unnatural position, brings on many painful and fatal disorders. Let any one watch the horses in the Park, or standing as they do for hours at the theaters, shops, etc., with foaming mouths and tongues swollen and hanging out, trying to get a little ease to their poor heads and necks by tossing them up, putting them sideways or in any possible position, vainly appealing to their unheeding or ignorant masters or coachmen to slacken, if only for a few minutes, the torturing rein, and then say if we can call ourselves a humane people."

Whirlpools.

The Colorado river is noted for "swirls," so-called. They occur everywhere, but only at high stages of water. A bubble rises from the bottom, and breaks with a slight sound on the surface. The water at the point begins a rotary motion, so small that an inverted tea-cup might cover it. Larger and larger grows the circle, till a surface of forty feet in diameter is in motion, spinning around a funnel-shaped hole in the center, two or three feet across at the top, and coming to a point at the depths below. Often a large tree floating down stream is caught and its foremost end thrust up in the air twenty or thirty feet, while the other passes underneath—the exposed end to be slowly drawn down again, and to disappear. Three soldiers—deserters from Camp Mohave—passing through the ravine in a skiff, immediately below the fork, suffered their craft to run into a swirl. One of the crew, at the first intimation of danger, threw himself overboard beyond the charmed circle; and as he swam away, he turned his head and saw the boat spin round and round until one end being drawn into the vortex and the other upheaved in the air, it slowly sank, as it revolved, into the turbid bosom of the river, its human freight to be seen no more; for the Colorado does not give up its dead—no corpses lodge on its shores.

A Prospector's Fate.

We published recently an extract from The Virginia Enterprise which stated that Comstock, the discoverer of the great silver lode which now bears his name, committed suicide in Idaho. We have since learned that he did kill himself by blowing out his brains, but not in Idaho. He shuffled off the coil at Bozeman, Montana, in the Fall of 1870, and was led to the rash act by dissipation and want. Virginia and San Francisco can well afford to erect a monument of silver to the memory of poor John Comstock, who disposed of the lode for a mule, a shotgun and a bottle of whisky. —[Salt Lake Tribune.

—K. K. was surprised to hear an Omaha man call him Mr. King.

A Substitute for the Channel Tunnel.

The project of boring a tunnel under the British Channel, connecting the opposite shores, has been widely discussed of late with a view to speedy and practical action. It has been pronounced perfectly feasible by respectable engineering authority, and estimates have been made of the probable cost. But the ventilation of such a tunnel presents a difficult problem, and so long a passage beneath the waters of the sea would in most minds be attended by some disquieting sense of danger. Another plan for accomplishing railway communication across the Channel, and one not liable to the objections referred to, has recently been proposed. It is to construct an artificial Isthmus between the French and English sides, leaving a small space in the center for the passage of ships. If the Oakland bridge were to be filled in between the piles with stone and earth, and continued to the San Francisco side, it would constitute an "artificial isthmus," somewhat similar to that proposed, and over a third of its necessary length, since in the vicinity of Dover the Channel is only some twenty miles wide. The cost of the tunnel, which, it is stated, two associations of capitalists are about to undertake, is estimated at $50,000,000. The cost of the made isthmus is placed at a somewhat higher figure. But the constant action of the waves upon it after being completed would probably entail a continuous additional expense to keep it in repair. The tunnel, it is thought, can be finished in two years, though it required more than that to construct the first 600 feet of the Thames tunnel. The latter undertaking was not completed until several successive engineers had taken it in hand, nor until after repeated failures. Four times, after a certain amount of headway had been made, the waters burst in, either destroying or greatly damaging the work, and drowning a number of the workmen. When completed and opened to foot passengers in 1843, it was the most costly and the most unprofitable tunnel ever undertaken. The construction of the Channel tunnel would not be attended by similar difficulties and dangers. New boring machinery has since been invented, which greatly facilitates such work, and it is believed that the proposed line of construction will lie through a chalk formation, instead of a bed of loose sand, as in the case of the Thames tunnel, thus diminishing the danger of a break or of the influx of water. If the work is successfully carried through it will not be likely, for a time at least, to engage the whole travel between England and the continent, in consequence of the prejudice or timidity which will naturally tend to deter a great many persons from venturing upon a journey of twenty odd miles underground and under sea. If the Artificial Isthmus plan is really practicable, and if not very much more expensive than the tunnel, it would probably pay better.—[S. F. Chronicle.

Indian War Imminent in Nevada.

From Mr. Easum, of Hiko, who arrived in Pioche this morning, we learn that Indian matters are still becoming more alarming in the neighborhood of Hiko. So imminent is the danger, in fact, that it has been found necessary to remove families from the settlements in Pahranagat Valley, to places of safety. Some have been taken to Hiko, some to the Muddy, and others to Pioche, these being the nearest localities at which it is deemed safe for women and children to remain. It has been ascertained from the Indians themselves that since last July fifteen white men have been killed by the savages, within ten miles of Hiko. Quite recently the Indians have been killing and driving off the cattle of the settlers in the valley, and it is the belief of the best informed people at and near Hiko that the Indians are determined to put into force their repeated threats to drive the whites out of the valley entirely. A great many Indians were in Bullionville yesterday, and the same crowd are in Pioche to-day, but it is supposed that most of the warriors have gone towards Hiko. Mr. Easum came to Pioche for men and arms, to assist the people of Hiko. To the end that prompt aid be extended to Hiko, it is suggested that a public meeting be held this evening to take action in the matter.—[Pioche Journal, January 23.

A Mule Willing to Go.

A bad little boy in Portland lit a pack of shooting crackers and threw them into the street to see them "go off." One of Ike Bateman's mules came along and swallowed them before they "went off" The mule walked about fifteen feet and stopped. Things wasn't acting right inside. He began to taste the smoke of fire-crackers. He laid his left ear around against his ribs, and heard something. It was them crackers having fun. The mule picked out about three and a half miles of straight road, and started. A negro met him about a mile the other side of the alms-house, going south, white with perspiration, with streams of smoke shooting out of his nostrils, mouth and ears, while his tail stuck straight up, and a steam of blue and green smoke about ten feet long followed in the rear. Ike found his mule yesterday morning sticking half way through a farm house near Paddy's Run, still smoking. The man had got his family out and put 'em up into a lot of trees. Ike hauled his mule home, when he got cool enough, on a dray. The man is going to move his house further back off the road, and his wife and oldest daughter will be baptized when the water gets warm.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

Safety Vault.

The Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise claims that the fire-proof vault in the Court-House in that city is unlike any other vault in the world. It is built under a patent held by a Mr. Fraser, Chief Engineer of the Gould and Curry Mining Company. It consists of three parts. First, the vault proper, which is immovable; second, the bookcase, which is at night under ground with the vault proper, and by day is hoisted up into the Court House by machinery governed by a crank which is worked by a janitor of the building. This part of the complex vault is spacious enough to contain all the priceless documents, such as deeds of silver mines, that are likely to accumulate for years to come. The third part is a cover, shaped like an inverted scow, which, by the same machinery that hoists the bookcase, is removed from the chimney through which the bookcase comes, and which is replaced when the bookcase retires for the night. The patent protecting the vault also covers an automatic system of clock work for opening and shutting the whole thing, but a janitor is considered more economical at present.

The Flood.

The rain has poured down with extraordinary vehemence in all parts of the State north of Los Angeles and west of the Sierra Nevada, and, as a consequence, the streams rose very rapidly, many of them being at flood hight on the 19th and 20th. The Yuba, the American, the Mokelumne, and the Kaweah, are those which, so far as reported, have done the most damage, especially the first, which caused the flooding of Marysville. That town had never before suffered much by high water, though on several occasions small portions of its area had been covered for a short time. But at the highest tide the greater part of the town had mud and water seven feet deep in the streets and in the lower stories of their houses, most of which had but a single story. The flood came on them so suddenly that they had little time to save furniture, or even to gather up their clothing. Cut off from communication with their friends, without fire and with a scanty supply of provisions, and fearful of a still higher rise, which might carry off their houses, the night must have been far from happy. A liberal response to their appeal for aid has been made in nearly all parts of the State.

Tennessee's Senator.

The Senatorial contest in Tennessee, which has waxed so warmly as to attract the closest attention from politicians everywhere, has closed with the election of ex-President Andrew Johnson—giving the first instance of an ex-President reaching this branch of Congress, though John Quincy Adams, after the expiration of his Presidential term, was sent to the House of Representatives. The particular turning point in Andy's favor is said to have been a dispatch from one of the Butler family at Washington, to the effect that the Administration wanted Andy's defeat secured at all hazards. Whatever his faults, Andrew Johnson is an honest statesman—the kind needed nowadays, and the outside world may say "Well done, Tennessee."

The Sumner Gold Mine.

John P. Jones and E. R. Burke have purchased the interests, one-twelfth each, of John O. Earl and Charles Strong, in the Sumner Gold Mine, Kern county, for $150,000. This makes the value of the mine $900,000, and gives the first named gentleman the entire ownership. The title is now clear, and a limited State's patent has been applied for. The new hoisting works, costing $100,000, have been started up and are equal to the best on the Comstock. The new eighty-stamp mill will be ready for work in thirty to sixty days, and then this valuable property may be expected to be heard from in large bullion shipments.

Sea Coast Defences.

The President has sent a message to Congress, calling especial attention to the armament of sea coast defences. He urges the necessity of such action as will put our fortifications in such condition as regards armament that they will be ready for any emergency, and encloses copies of the reports of the Chief of Ordinance and of the Board of Ordinance Officers on the trial of eight-inch rifle guns, converted from ten-inch smooth bore, as indicating an economical means of utilizing the useless smooth bores, and improving the armament.

Judge Lynch in Nevada.

Two Indians were lynched by hanging a few days ago near Pioche, Nevada, as they were being taken to Hiko for trial. A raid was subsequently made on certain other Indians, also implicated, during which seven or eight more Indians were shot.

Valuable Periodical.

We have received The Statistician, issued by L. P. McCarthy, at San Francisco, for 25 cents per copy. It contains a large compilation of statistical information, and is well worth the money.

THE SITUATION.

Did we not know that the inaction of our leading men in regard to the railroad enterprise is mainly due to other causes than a want of unanimity upon the subject, we should feel like severely criticising their passiveness. It, however, seems to be the general hope of all that the road shall be completed at the earliest possible day, and it would seem that the delay in taking active steps towards aiding it must be on account of the peculiar circumstances of the situation. At present, we believe there is but one of the franchise holders in the county, and at no time, since the subject has been properly brought up has there been more than three or four who may be called our leading financiers in the county at the same time. This, together with the fact that no local committee has been appointed for this county by the main one at Los Angeles, may account for the lapse of so much valuable time without something being done.

That the people of this county should do something in the matter, and that very soon, is certainly a proposition too evident to need illustration. It will not do for us to lay back and wait, simply because it has been intimated that certain wealthy men have said that if Los Angeles did so much they would do the rest. If we would make an investment absolutely certain to realize the handsomest dividends, and by making it a people's road avoid all danger of a future monopoly, we must strain a point, or several of them, to become interested to the fullest extent. We do not believe that this section will ever enjoy adequate railroad facilities and consequent high commercial importance unless it is done.

Another Phase.

How to get the people to build a Pacific railroad for Tom Scott and associates is one of the problems now being extensively figured upon by subsidy hunters. A recent phase of the matter is that Senator Clayton, of Arkansas, presents a proposition to secure the completion of the Southern or Texas Pacific without the intervention of Tom Scott or any corporation whatever. His plan is to have the Government do the entire work, and own and control the road-bed. He figures that the sum of $30,000 a mile will be sufficient. He would raise this by the issuance of United States five per cent bonds, the Government being of course responsible for the interest and principal, to be repaid: 1. By a reservation of ten miles of land on each side of the road, to be sold at not less than $2 50 per acre, the proceeds of the sales to be set apart as a fund to redeem the bonds at maturity. 2. The road-bed to be leased by the Government to the highest bidder for transportation at a price not less than will be needed to cover the annual interest on the bonds.

Liberality.

Since the advent of '75, many of our exchanges have reached us through the iron-bound boxes of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express. This proceeding on the part of said X's was regarded as somewhat phenomenal, until there appears the explanatory announcement that Wells, Fargo & Co. propose to carry them free of charge—that company recognizing the impolitic action of Congress in imposing an advance postage tax upon exchange newspapers. This is indeed a public spirited liberality on their part, but we doubt if it will work. All letters must pay Government postage, whether forwarded by mail or express, and where postage is imposed on newspapers, Government will see that they pay it, no matter how they may reach their destination.

A Monied Society.

The National Grange is quite a respectable moneyed institution, if we may rely upon the "facts and figures," furnished by a correspondent of The Chicago Times, who certainly has the air of being well posted. There seems to be enough money in the treasury to do a vast deal of good with—for instance, to relieve the distress of all the grasshopper-afflicted farmers of Kansas, Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska. Initiation fees alone paid in up to July last amounted to $6,000,000. The monthly dues yield $2,400,000 per annum. The six-cent quarterly dues to the State Granges aggregate $480,000, per annum; in addition to which large sums are derived from charters and dispensations.

Oregon Weather.

Mart. Brown thus describes a late spell of Oregon weather: "Jee-whiz—Wednesday morning our jowboliker stood 365 degrees, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 37 drams and 19 scruples below Jericho, and the snow flopping about like the white lace frills on an old maid's night cap."

To Hang.

Vasquez's motion for a new trial has been denied. He is sentenced to be hanged on the 19th of March next.

ITEMS OF NEWS.

The devastation of the avalanches in Utah has become fearful. Another one occurred on the 20th ultimo at Big Cottonwood, which killed several persons. The population has become terror stricken, and are leaving Alta and the neighboring towns.

The steamer Dakota, for Panama, on the 23d ultimo, took on at Wilmington 738 sacks Panamint ore, weighing 81,310 pounds.

Joseph Casey, one of the poll-tax forgers of San Francisco, who has been on trial in that city, was found guilty.

That never-ending McGarrahan is before Congress this Winter in the form of a resolution empowering the Commissioner of the General Land Office to institute proceedings to procure the reversion to the Government of the lands in which is the New Idria quicksilver mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Sartoris, nee Nellie Grant, are in Washington visiting the parents of Mrs. Sartoris, and will remain several months before returning to England.

The Louisiana Investigating Committee suggest to the Democrats of that State arbitration of the trouble by that committee. The Democrats say they will accept if a settlement can thus be made on what they would deem a fair basis. It is the impression in New Orleans that a compromise will be effected.

Mrs. Fitch, General Sherman's recently married daughter, has received a wedding present of a magnificent diamond necklace and ear drops of diamonds from the Khedive of Egypt, of the reputed value of $250,000.

Mayor Stokeley of Philadelphia offers a reward of $5,000 for the recovery of Charles Ross, and no questions asked.

Two women who keep a baby farming establishment at Hollister, Connecticut, have been arrested on a charge of poisoning infants.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company has forwarded $5,000 to the sufferers at Marysville. San Francisco has forwarded $10,000 and clothing of various kinds to the sufferers.

Andrew Johnson was elected Senator from Tennessee, and General Burnside was elected to the same honor at the same time at Providence, Rhode Island.

Vasquez does not seem to be in as good spirits as before his sentence. He seems now to realize his position. He confidently believed before his trial that he would escape the death penalty, having been made to believe that he would only have against him the testimony brought out in the Moreno trial.

Artesian wells have been successfully sunk in the Sonoma meadows, finding excellent water at from 150 to 250 feet in depth. Such wells, with iron tubing, cost from $300 to $450 each.

Donner Lake is frozen over for the first time this year, and furnishes the finest skating park in the United States.

The Eureka Sentinel says there are over 1,000 tons of bullion, in bars, now corded up at the Richmond smelting works awaiting shipment.

Thad Stevens was sold at San Francisco for $1,125, and Nell Flaherty for $1,000.

Almanacs.

One of the neatest little books of reference that we have seen for many a day comes from George W. Childs, of The Philadelphia Public Ledger. The almanac is superb, gilt edged and all that sort of thing; and accompanying it is a card photograph of the paper. The print, by far too fine for the human eye, can be clearly read with the aid of a strong magnifying glass. The San Francisco Alta folks also favor us with their valuable "Book of Facts." Thanks, gentlemen.

Railroad Lands.

The Supreme Court has decided, in a case appealed from Kansas, involving the right to sell N. P. Railroad lands for taxes, the United States should retain the legal right to the lands of the company as security for the payment of the cost of surveying, etc.; that the States cannot be permitted to defeat this right by the sale of lands for taxes, but when the original grant has been perfected by the issue of a patent, the right of the State to tax is perfected.

Railroad Items.

Engineer Crawford says that the survey of the Los Angeles and the Independence railroad out from this city is progressing very satisfactorily. Mr. Yorke's party is now camped eleven miles from the city at the foot of the San Gabriel mountains. They found an advantageous grade up the Arroyo Seco. About the end of next week they will connect with the upper surveying party near Cucamongo. The line will run through the Azusa ranch and Mud Spring valley, thus securing a shorter route than that proposed by the Southern Pacific railroad.—[Los Angeles Express, January 25.

Mr. Crawford, the general manager of the Inyo and Los Angeles railroad, was in town yesterday buying supplies for his camp. He has at present 15 white men and 25 Chinamen at work grading at the Cajon. He started last night for Los Angeles to advertise for bids for a section of the road approaching the tunnel, and states that the first contract let will amount to about $25,000. He expresses the utmost confidence in the completion of the road in the time specified—nine months.—[San Bernardino Argus, January 25.

A Narrow-Gauge.

As we go to press we learn there is a movement afoot that may lead to the organization of a company for the purpose of building a narrow-gauge railroad from Santa Barbara to Panamint and Cerro Gordo, via San Buenaventura, and Elizabeth Lake. Nature's route to the sea for the trade of the Great Interior, is down the Santa Clara valley—and this fact is at last receiving the attention of the right men.—[Santa Barbara Index.

Bold Robbery — Another Vasquez Gang.

We have the following particulars of the recent operations of a gang of Mexican thieves who are evidently striving to emulate the example of the late Vasquez gang: Last Monday morning, seven or eight Mexicans went to the store of a German named Scodie, at the south fork of Kern river, and, after tying Scodie and another man named Jacoby, proceeded with great deliberation to "go through" the entire establishment; securing all the money to be found, some $800, each thief selected an outfit of wearing apparel, leaving their old duds and boots in exchange therefor; then going to the stables or corral they fastened on a complete mount all around of good horses and mules, and left. Scodie soon after succeeded in releasing himself and Jacoby from their bonds and gave the alarm. A small party was now organized and started in pursuit, following the robbers trail over into the neighborhood of Indian Wells, when they gave up the chase. A few days prior to this robbery a Mexican informed Scodie that some horse thieves were in the neighborhood, and advised him to corral his stock, which he did, thereby greatly accommodating this solicitous Mexican gentleman, who proved to be one of the thieves, and his pals, all of whom preferred to have the stock conveniently at hand rather than running at large. This little circumstance vexed Scodie very much, but it won't help the matter any to repeat what he said about it. Scodie came here to get the assistance of the Sheriff of this county to organize pursuit in conjunction with the Kern officers, and the intention is to hunt the freebooters to the last ditch.

Shooting at Bishop Creek.

Wednesday last John B. Griffin, son of Mrs. Markley, residing at Bishop Creek, in this county, shot and badly wounded John Reynolds, the ball lodging in the lung, after shattering to pieces the bone of the right arm, near the shoulder. Performing this deed, the filial young hoodlum than fell to shooting at his mother, through the door, one ball slightly grazing her neck. Immediately afterward, he took a couple of horses and left for the hills, but was captured at an Indian camp and brought back by the Inman brothers on the following evening. As soon as possible Dr. Middleton was called upon to attend the wounded man, but could do but little to alleviate his great sufferings. The Doctor is in hopes, however that the wound will not prove fatal. The cause of the shooting is stated to be about as follows: Griffin is so much of the hoodlum order that his mother could not safely intrust her business in his hands, and she therefore obtained the services of Reynolds to assist her in carrying on her farming and marketing business, thereby engendering much animosity toward both herself and Reynolds in the bosom of the delectable young man, which finally culminated in the above related instance of emotional insanity. It is said that the only perfect antidote for this species of insanity is expressed in the formula "101."

Homicide at Panamint.

Ramon Montenegro, a young Californian well known in this section, shot and killed Phillip De Rouche at Panamint, January 29. The shooting took place after night, immediately in front of Boultinghouse's saloon, two shots being fired, both by Ramon, but one taking effect, causing death in a few moments. The parties had had trouble previously on two occasions. The first time Ramon had knocked down and beaten De Rouche because of an insult by the latter to a young girl in a saloon; in return, sometime after, De Rouche broke Ramon's nose with a pistol, using it as a club. The final shooting was a sequence to this. Ramon gave himself up, and after due examination by W. C. Smith, Justice of the Peace, was committed to await the action of a grand jury. Deputy Sheriff F. P. Ball brought him here and lodged him in jail last Thursday.

Relating to Panamint.

We were favored with a call from Judge Wallace, ex-Assemblyman of Lincoln county, Nevada, just arrived from Panamint. Judge Wallace is running what is called the Bradley tunnel, now in about 100 feet, which is to tap the Little Chief, Esperanza and numerous other ledges on the mountain side south of town. The Judge is as perfectly confident as any one can possibly be that Panamint is to be the grandest success as a mining camp of any in this State or any other, the Comstock excepted. He entertains no doubt whatever as to a great future for Panamint. It is only a question of time, and that nowise remote. It is dull there now, though, and must remain so for a few months.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected at the last regular meeting of the Oasis Lodge, No. 352, of I. O. G. T., and will be installed on Saturday, the 6th instant by R. W. Woolard, D. D.: W. C. T., J. W. Inman P. W. C. T., D. E. Hunter; W. V. T., Mrs Minerva Inman; W. S., G. McLeod; W. M. Willie Clark; W. F. S., Fred Swartz; W. T., Thomas Clark; W. C., Charles Inman; W. I. G., Hiram Daughters; W. O. G., G. A. Fell. John C. Mills has been recommended as D. D., vice George Clark, term expired.

Earthquake.

A short, quick and lively earthquake occurred at 6:28 o'clock on Thursday morning last. It was preceded by a loud rumbling a feature so noticeable in our quaking days of nearly three years ago. It would require a severer shock than the big one of March 24, 1872, to do any serious damage in this county now, since the entire change of the character of our buildings; still, the forcible reminder of those days was anything but pleasant, and was the cause of some early rising on that particular morning.

Benton.

A heavy poker game is reported under progress at Dan Ashley's saloon, Benton, wherein many broard pieces of gold nightly change hands....Witherill has made a sale of his mill and mining property to a San Francisco stock company, receiving therefor $65,000. Last Summer, in a five months run, the selling party realized $55,000 from the same mine, but he sells it with the avowed intention of finding something near by equally as good.

Capital Saloon.

This is the name of, as yet, the finest and most complete saloon in the new city of Darwin. It is the property of E. A. Reddy, James W. Rennie and John Wilson.

Jury Box Filled.

The Board completed their drawing for jurors yesterday, and this morning adjourned for the term.

Jackasses as an Article of Diet.

Eph Harrington, A. Montgomery, Ben Weaver, John Eddy and another gentlemen whose names we have unfortunately forgotten, testify, after due trial, that jackass meat as an article of diet is a lamentable failure. It is "sorter slick and stringy; the more you chaw it the bigger it gets, swelling up and tasting nastier all the time;" gets "worser and worser," same as related in Ben More's sore experience, even after it is deposited in the stomach. It should be understood that this dietary experiment was tried under emphatic protest, the result of three terribly laborious days of starvation, with possibly as many more in prospect. It happened in this way: The party with good animals and eight days provisions started out about the middle of last month on a prospect to Cottonwood Creek and other places near the upper end of Death Valley. About the time their provisions were all consumed and they were thinking of returning the late fearful snow storm set in, surrounding their camp with several feet of snow, making it utterly impracticable to get out with their animals. The storm continued without intermission, and after waiting a day or two it became evident "something had to be done," or some human skeletons would soon litter up that portion of the country, a consummation the party were unanimous in wishing to forefend. The only thing they could do was to leave their animals and try to make their way to Cerro Gordo. Striking out they waded or crawled all that day through deep snow with more falling and flying so thick most of the time they could tell nothing as to the direction they were traveling. At night, not a man knew where he was. The following day was a repetition of the first except that they found out their whereabouts and were proceeding in the right direction. This day Montgomery's boots crippled him up so completely that it was impossible for him to keep up with the others, every man of whom felt that it was a struggle for life and the chances strongly against them. But not one despaired, growled or thought of giving up so long as he could drag one foot after the other. The work of breaking a trail through the snow devolved that day entirely upon Harrington and Eddy. Montgomery fell behind and had to travel the entire night, coming into camp just as the others were preparing to start on the third day's travel and starvation. This day they crossed Saline valley; weather good and no snow to impede progress. Arriving on the western side at night with long miles of snow yet to go through to get to Cerro Gordo, a ferocious jackass faced one of the starving party as if he wanted war. In a few minutes that jackass' warlike spirit had fled, and his juciest steaks were writhing on the coals or swelling and vexing the jaws and stomachs of the gaunt prospectors as aforesaid. Nourished and sustained by the jackass in this particular way, Harrington and Eddy succeeded in reaching Cerro Gordo that night, whence next day, they sent back assistance to their more disabled companions, all of whom got in alive, and so thankful for their escape they said with great unction, "Let us bray."

Target Practice.

Company D, at Camp Independence, were again out for target practice on the 2d instant, and, as the following score will show, their record at 300 yards, ten rounds per man, is comparatively better than those at one and two hundred yard shooting. The new Springfield rifle was used, calibre 45, with a moderate wind prevailing:

In Which Several Took a Hand.

That "the way of the transgressor is hard" was illustrated, somewhatly, the other other day at Bishop. A young man, whom we shall designate as Shorty for short, became so jolly under the influence of the pleasant weather that he could not rest content with his own saddle horse, but had a taking fancy for all within his reach. While he was making a cool attempt to take possession of one, the owner—a boy of sixteen—expostulated with a small club, a proceeding which caused Shorty to lose his balance. Recovering his equilibrium, his left ear somehow came in contact with another boy's knuckles. This reversed his motion again, when his right ear met a similar bland reception from a brother of the first boy. At this Shorty waxed wroth, mounted his fiery hoss and drew a knife. Whereupon the father of the boys put in an appearance, and Shorty went down, under the impression that his unlucky cranium had once more interviewed a club. Shorty then apologized and went home.

Inyo Finances.

Our "commercial editor" had in type for this week an exhaustive disquisition upon our county finances, present and future, but at a late hour it has been ruthlessly squelched—probably to the satisfaction of our sixty nine thousand readers. However, the report of the Treasurer shows that the aggregate county debt has been reduced—for once—$2,535 70 since May last. This is the first actual reduction that has been shown in some years. The new finance laws are favorable, and notwithstanding the prospect of two more expensive criminal trials, further reductions may be made. Examine the clear-showing document yourself.

Brimstone.

Between Coso and Little Lake are several famous hot springs or mud volcanoes to which we have alluded heretofore. These have been located by A. B. Elder and others principally on account of the vast deposit of brimstone, of which it is said not less than 10,000 tons, almost pure, can be collected there. This is of no particular value just now, but the boys think they can make it available should they take a notion to start a little hell of their own.

New Coso.

In company with V. A. Gregg, Esq., we, this week, made another flying visit to Darwin City and the now famous New Coso mines. We are glad to say that the prospects of the new camp grow brighter and brighter with each day's work. Tunnels or shafts are being driven on a large number of ledges, and in nearly every instance with better results than the most sanguine anticipated. New discoveries, some of great promise, are being made either in or close about the district, and we have not the least hesitation in saying that New Coso can furnish rich ores sufficient to keep a dozen furnaces in constant operation for years to come, unless, contrary to reasonable probabilities, it should turn out that the mines are mostly of a surface character. It is a grand prospect anyway, and a more confident or better satisfied set of miners are not to be found than those who are prosecuting work on their mines in New Coso. Following, mainly the result of personal observation, is a brief report of the present condition of a few of the leading mines. The assays are from Recorder Elder's books, most of them being his own.

THE DEFIANCE.

The tunnel is now in a little over 50 feet, every foot of it, save a large boulder of iron rock on one side, in first class hard and soft galena ores. It is a wonderful deposit even now, though its western limit is not yet reached, as a dyke of hard rock is yet to be cut through to reach the large back ledge cropping out a few feet further up the hill. Work goes on in the tunnel night and day. As shown by a large number of assays given in detail heretofore, the average value of this body of ore is $110 per ton.

THE GRAND.

This is another of the big mines situated between the limestone and porphyry formation, but at a higher altitude and therefore more favorably than any of the others. The upper shaft is down 52 feet, ore from top to bottom. As shown by the cutting across the ledge to the mouth of the shaft on top, this body of ore is not less than 35 feet wide, mostly of soft ore. The average assay is 60 per cent. lead, $82 25 silver per ton. Another shaft is being sunk 400 feet south of this one, and is now down 25 feet. This is not in the ledge yet, to reach which a short tunnel is to be run from the bottom.

GUADALUPE.

This lies on the western slope immediately west of the south end of the Grand. It is being prospected by tunnel along the ledge now in 100 feet—ore all the way—vertically from the surface, 125 feet, the deepest opening in the district. The ledge is no where less than three feet in width, widest at the back end of the tunnel where it spreads to four and one half feet. The ores are mostly soft, assays showing a general average exactly the same as the Defiance, viz, $110 per ton.

GLASGOW.

Shaft down 28 feet; two veins, one of 4½, the other 3½ feet wide. Average value of the ores of the first $157 08; the other not determined. This is deemed a very valuable prospect.

THE WASHINGTON.

Lies 100 feet distant and parallel to the Glasgow. It differs somewhat in character of ores, which are galena and sulphates of the average assay value of $182 52 per ton. The shaft is down 35 feet, the ledge being there 3 feet in width. Openings have been made at different points the whole length of the claim, showing good ore at every point. The ledge in one place is 15 feet wide. This mine is certain to take a high rank in the district.

PROMONTORIO.

This is by some deemed the leading mine of the district. Some jumpers are trying to cloud its title, as well as that of some others, but are likely to have their pains for their trouble. A cross cut shows the ore vein to be 35 feet in width, rich, soft and hard galena.

THE NEW YORK,

Also in the hands of a gang of jumpers who love to make trouble with little or no prospect of profit to themselves, is another first class mine. The vein is from 10 to 15 feet in width, even wider in places. Hard ore contains 70 per cent lead, yielding $206 55 in silver. Soft, fine ore 58 per cent lead, running $267 13 in silver. This mine is situated 900 feet easterly from the Promontorio and is easily accessible with wagons. In the northern portion of the district is situated a late discovery, called

THE CHRISTMAS GIFT.

The shaft is down 25 feet, all in splendid ore, an immense pile of which is piled up on the dump—more, it is claimed, than could be possibly be put back in the shaft whence it came. Another of the latest discoveries is

THE TIGER,

Situated in the hill east of the Darwin wash some three miles distant from the range containing the ledges above named. The vein is reported to be 3½ feet in width; the ores are black sulphurets of silver and horn silver, assaying from $1,200 to $3,000 per ton. The shaft is down 8 feet. The owners value this ledge very highly. There are several other ledges upon which work is being actively prosecuted, some of them making full as fine a showing as the majority of them we have mentioned. Prominent among them is

THE BIRMINGHAM.

Situated in the vicinity of the Glascow, but lack of both space and time puts it out of our power to say anything more about them at this time. But New Coso will, sooner or later, be spoken of as one of the noted mining districts of the world.

At Darwin.

We met at Darwin George Hearst, the noted mining expert, Judge Hogan of Stockton, and Gen. Geo. S. Evans, State Senator from San Joaquin county, and reputed the best Parliamentarian in the State. Our pioneers hereabouts will remember the General as the founder of Camp Independence, while Colonel of the Second Regiment California Volunteers. These gentlemen had spent nearly two weeks in examining the mines, and assured us that they deemed the general prospect as unusually brilliant, scarcely to be excelled at all in the State. All designed returning direct to San Francisco in a few days.

For a Road.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday granted the petition of Wm. Buckley and W. A. Kelly, to appoint a commission to lay out a wagon road across the country from Indian Wells to a point in Argus Valley, on the Coso and Panamint road, and to grant a franchise for the same when it shall have been inspected and survey accepted.

Gracios.

In behalf of their popular Agent, Mr. H. L. Childs, as well as on their own account, the proprietors of "THE INYO" would tender an earnest acknowledgment to our patrons northward for their courtesies so kindly extended.

Left Out.

We must this week crave indulgence from a portion of our advertisers for leaving them out. A crowd of late local news, which we considered necessary to give, is our excuse.

Preaching.

Rev. Mr. Jennings will preach at the school house at 11 o'clock, to-morrow forenoon.

THURSDAY, February 4.

Board met; present, A. N. Bell, J. R. Hughes and J. W. P. Laird.

Ordered that the Register of the U. S. Land office at Independence, Geo. H. McCallum, is authorized to make and complete the maps required by the County Assessor of Inyo County, and that said maps be made and paid for according to the agreement entered into this day between George H. McCallum and the Board

Regarding the petition for the re-building of the bridge across the slough on the road leading to the Bend City bridge, ordered that notice of a special meeting of the Board to act thereon be published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT.

Personal.

Paul W. Bennett, Esq., arrived home on Thursday last, having lately returned from a visit away deown East. The pasear seems to have agreed with him wonderfully. Mrs. Bennett, J. P. M. Perham and Miss (not Mrs.) Perham will arrive early the coming week.

Gold Ledges.

George Snow and W. T. Grant lately located about a dozen gold ledges in the Argus Range between Coso and Panamint. We saw some specimens from these ledges that were beautifully spangled with free gold. The ledges are large and are deemed very valuable.

Blockaded.

The late snow storm put a stop to wagon navigation between Coso and Panamint, the snow being so deep in the canyon that some teamsters had to abandon their wagons. On this account Dodge's stages do not go beyond Darwin at present.

In New Hands.

Some time since Messrs. Ellers & Doyle took charge of the Bishop Creek Hotel, and, we are informed, are making a success of the institution. See their card.

A Good Chance.

J. W. McMurry offers his Big Pine property for sale, and here is a chance to acquire as good property as this valley affords. See advertisement.

Medical.

Among the new advertisements will be found that of Dr. Middleton's new drug store, at Bishop Creek. As a physician the doctor possesses in an eminent degree the confidence of all who know him, and certainly as a druggist he will be found equally deserving.

Their View of It.

The San Francisco Post, which is said to hold the most intimate relations with Senator Jones, has given a very luminous and friendly review of the advantages and necessity of the Los Angeles and Independence railroad. The following reference to the distances, and speculations upon the probable earnings of the road, are far more sanguine than any ever yet made by us. The Post says:

From Los Angeles to Cajon pass is as level as Montgomery street, and all the right of way over private lands has been secured. The Cajon pass, from the first of the rise to the last of the descent, is about twenty miles, and at both ends there will be much cutting. In the middle of the pass there will be a tunnel of 1,800 feet through soft red sandstone. This being the toughest job on the road, it is now being driven at both ends, and in six months or less will be finished. The highest grade through the pass will be 120 feet to the mile. After leaving the pass, the road crosses the salt deserts on a dead level, where not even a scraper will have to be used to make a bed for the ties. Such is the character of the road through Panamint valley to the mouth of Surprise canyon, the terminus of the broad gauge road. The company will build tramways in Surprise canyon, eight miles, as the ascent is 500 feet to the mile. In crossing the salt deserts no difficulty will be experienced for want of water, as there are springs at the intervals, and fresh water can be secured by sinking wells. The ties of the road from Shoofly to Cajon pass will have to be brought by sea. From that point they will have to be supplied by the forests of Cajon. Iron is cheap now, and everything is favorable for rapid and cheap construction. The distance between Los Angeles and the mouth of Surprise valley by wagon road is about 200 miles, but it is expected that the railroad will cross the country with 170 or 180 miles of road. The Panamint road is really a branch from the main line to Independence, but being more important to the mining interests, will be built first. Even with the broad gauge which has been adopted with a view to future connections through Southern Utah and the Union Pacific railroad, the cost on most of the road will not exceed, if it quite reaches, $25,000 per mile. The only costly points are the Truxton and Los Angeles depots and cuts and tunnels through Cajon pass. The money being ready and the people, men of action, who have millions upon millions lying idle in Panamint waiting for the road, there will be no time lost, and within twelve months the shriek of the locomotive will be heard at the mouth of Surprise canyon.

The future income of the road may be calculated thus:

1,000 tons of ore a day, at $10 a ton.....	$10,000
50 tons merchandise a day, at $25 a ton..	1,250
40 passengers a day, at an average of $5...	200
	$11,450

A day, or $3,435,000 a year gross income from Panamint alone. There is no other road in the country can show such a prospect for the gross earnings from traffic actually controlled by the proprietors, while the mines show, as they do now, $1,000,000 a year more than the cost of the road itself.

A Smart Girl.

A Lower Lake correspondent of The Napa Reporter has the following to say about Hiram Allen's daughter, who is a remarkably good shot:

I have often thought that I would like to give your readers a sketch of one of our Lake county notables, Miss Mollie Allen, a little maiden some twelve or thirteen years old, who has killed more game with her small telescope rifle than any other two hunters of my acquaintance. She has made $30 bounty on squirrel tails alone the past Summer, and if you will choose to figure the thing up—the tails being only five cents each—you will begin to have an idea of her success in that line. At a shooting-match last Winter she took so many prizes that her bearded opponents ruled her out of the ring.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Brightly Breaks the Morning of a new era in the annals of medicine. Alcohol will soon be banished from the list of remedies, and only known as a poison. DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, composed entirely of wholesome botanic extracts and juices, are everywhere superseding the fiery astringents, which no man or woman ever yet took without bitterly repenting their credulity. There is no disease, acute or chronic, in which the new tonic may not be administered with beneficial effect.

A LEGEND.

Ten daughters had Donald McPherson,
Ten daughters and never a son;
Like a steep flight of stairs were the lassies,
And fair as the day every one.
But Donald he fretted and worried,
And envied his neighbor McKay,
Whose boys climbed the trees and the fences,
An army in battle array.

So strange is this world, or the mortals
That people this planet of ours;
For McKay and his wife burned with envy
And rallied at poor Fate and her powers,
That gave to that ugly McPherson
So many fair girls as his share,
And denied them one daughter to brighten
And sweeten life's toil and its care!

Meantime, as the "gude folk" went fretting
And storming at obstinate Fate,
The boys and the girls played together
As happy as heirs of the great.
The lads made the fair lassies braver
In roaming the banks and the braes,
While the fair lassies made the lads better
And softened their boisterous ways.

Years passed and the young people married,
The two houses joined into one,
Till each has ten sons and ten daughters,
For thus the strange story doth run.
The old folks then sat in the corner,
With joy and contentment elate,
The elder McKays and McPhersons,
Nor rallied any more at poor Fate!

SCISSORINGTUMS.

—"You have a pleasant home and a bright fireside, with happy children sitting around it, haven't you?" said the Judge. "Yes, sir," said Mr. Thompson, who thought he saw away out of the difficulty. "Well," said the Judge, "if the happy children sit around the cheerful fireside until you return, they will stay there just 43 days as I shall have to send you up for that time."

—A near-sighted man was riding in a Woodward avenue car the other day, when a lady opposite bowed to him. He returned the bow, raised his hat, smiled sweetly, and was just wondering who she was, when she came over and whispered in his ear: "Oh! I'll fix you for this, old man!" Then he knew it was his wife.

—We are told that the late Mayor Havemeyer used to take exercise by sawing wood in his cellar every morning. And Mr. Havemeyer, it will be remembered, died very suddenly. There are few sudden deaths among married men of Norristown from this cause. That sort of exercise is taken by their wives.

—"Stranger, will you try a hand with us at poker?" "Thank you, gentlemen, but there are seventeen reasons why I can't accommodate you now." "Seventeen reasons for not playing cards? Pray, what are they?" "Why, the first is I haven't any money." "Stop! that's enough, never mind the other sixteen."

—A gentleman, while walking in his garden, caught his gardner asleep under a tree. He scolded him soundly for his laziness, and ended by telling him such a sluggard was not worthy to enjoy the light of the sun. "It was that reason, exactly," said the gardner, "that I crept into the shade."

—The owner of a Nashville street railroad tried to ride on one of his cars last week for nothing, and the driver "bounced" him. The driver, who had read that story about the great warrior and the inflexible sentinel, expected to be promoted, but is now looking for a job.

—An old lady in town has become disgusted with almanacs. She says if all the people in the country were to stop buying almanacs, "maybe the printers who make 'em would put in some total eclipses of the sun and moon, and some transits of Venuses that would be visible here."

—Girls should be warned of the danger they run in marrying railroad brakemen. An enthusiastic member of that fraternity, on being awakened the other night from a dream of an impending crash by a train, found himself sitting up in bed, holding his wife by the ears, having nearly twisted her head off in his frantic efforts to "down brakes."

—When Alexander H. Stephens passes a Washington undertaker's establishment, the proprietor always comes to the door, takes a long, lingering look at the shadowy form of the great paragraphist, and then returns to wonder at the mysterious ways of Providence.

—A good little boy on Hoyne street, aids to clothe and feed his widowed mother by threatening to "peg" stones at the little girls as they are going to school, unless they pay him a penny a day. His ambition when he grows up is "to be a policeman."

—According to a Paris letter hundreds of American mothers are there, seeking titled Frenchmen for their daughters. The old ladies doubtless think that if they must add a fool or two to their families they may as well have the blooded kind.

—A Thomas street school boy had just got his face fixed to sing "Let us love one another," when a snowball hit him in the mouth and so confused him that he yelled: "Bill Sykes just do that agin and I'll chaw your ear off."

—There is a gruff old party who lives opposite to a church where the members of a choir meet twice a week to practice, and who says if the singing affects Heaven as it affects him, there'll be no use of going there for happiness.

—The Prefect of Tein-Tsin, the port of Peking, China, whose salary was $1,500 per annum, has just retired, after four years' service, on a fortune of $750,000. He displayed thrift and industry equal to the average American office-holder.

—A Milwaukie dramatic critic tells how one of the stars was "pretty effectually stuffed with the back of a chair." Though he had in his pocket a dead-head season ticket, he determined that for once he would fearlessly give the truth.

—"Pretty bad under foot, to-day," said one citizen to another, as they met in the street the other day. "Yes, but it's fine overhead," responded the other. "True enough," said the first, "but then very few are going that way."

—A colored gentleman went to consult one of the most "high-toned" lawyers in Boston, and after stating his case said: "Now I know's you a lawyer; but I wish you please, sar, jiss tell me the truff 'bout dat matter."

—Reading the great Spurgeon's declaration, "A cigar is a thing to thank God for," a Navy Yard school boy bought a cigar. He was afterwards seen hanging over a fence, but he was not giving thanks.

—Life will seem brighter when it is known that the Czar of all the Russians picks his teeth with a jack-knife, and is about to go crazy like some of the rest of us.

—And now they say Wm. Penn would sit down under a tree with Indians about him, and, telling them of a better world beyond the sea, deal himself four aces and win the game.

—A Memphis, Mo., medium reports little Charley Ross "all hunk in Paradise." He's happier there, where Katie King can show him all the nice things Mr. Owen gave her.

—There is a vile hypocrite in Bethleum, Pa. He actually entertained a company in honor of the anniversary of the birthday of his mother-in-law.

—Elijah was not a vain man, yet history relates that he was taken up with his clothes.

Wonderful Effects of Mercury on an Old Algerian Soldier.

Dr. Paul Regnier, a physician who has become much noted for his treatment of the segutæ of the diseases which result from the injudicious treatment of diseases, has at present a very peculiar patient who may reasonably be called a human thermometer. He is an old Algerian soldier, named Louis Lamarck, who contracted liver disease in the service, became addicted to the use of mercury, and even after he was pronounced cured kept up the habit of taking that mineral remedy for several years. At the Paris medical colleges I have seen the shin-bone of a man who died of similar over-treatment, rattled on the table, when globules of mercury would run from it, as if, when living, he had actually been surcharged with the metal. A more singular result has occurred in the case of Lamarck, which seems, in its way, likely to become as celebrated as that of Alexis St. Martin. It is a common circumstance for people to be troubled with meteorological corns, which warn them of the approach of storms as certainly as any signal service could do, and it is a notorious fact that rheumatic patients (especially those much doctored) have their aches and pains clearly marked in different seasons of the year. Poor Lamarck is worse off. Dr. Regnier tells me that there is no doubt that the mercury he has taken exists in its natural form in his body, and expands and contracts with variation of temperature in precisely the same way that the metal does in a thermometer. The average temperature of the human body for males is 98 degrees Fahrenheit; for females it is about half a degree lower, but this steady heat, which is kept up in a healthy condition, is the result of chemico-physiological action, which in morbid conditions is variously affected. In Winter and Summer a thermometer placed in the axilla will mark its 98 in ordinary human beings; unfortunately for Lamarck he is extraordinary. Even the warmth of bed-clothes will put him into such a condition that he cannot rise till he has found his normal mark—his "temperate," so to say—which is a trifle above 98. His sight is affected, and his eyes have a singular metalic gleam, somewhat like the hue of plumbago newly cut. When the room in which he sits is at 91½ he sees distinctly, and can read the smallest type, but when the temperature rises above or falls below this point he looses all the distinctness of the type, and at 70 becomes totally blind. In a similar manner his taste and hearing are affected. He loses taste at 65 deg. and touch at 20 deg. Hearing seems to be the most difficult of his senses to affect, though at any marked variance from his "temperate" he complains of drumming in his ears, or a sensation as if a fly were buzzing in them. Most curious, in a physiological point of view, is the ball of iron, heated sufficiently just not to disintegrate the flesh, seems cold; if made cold it seems hot. Exposed to the air on a Winter morning, poor Lamarck becomes utterly rigid and unable to move his muscles at all. There are small hopes of his living long, but while he does live he will be the great phsiological study of the day.—[Paris Letter.

Touching Incident.

The Glasgow Christian News gives the following as "no fiction, but the plain truth:"

A young man and his wife were preparing to attend a Christmas party, at the house of a friend some miles distant. "Henry, my dear husband, don't drink too much at the party to-day—you will promise me, won't you," said she, putting her hand upon his brow, and raising her eyes to his face, with a pleading smile. "Millie, I will not; you may trust me." And he wrapt his infant boy in a soft blanket and they descended. The horses were soon prancing over the turf, and a pleasant conversation beguiled the way. "Now, don't forget your promise," whispered the young wife, as she passed up the steps. Poor thing! She was the wife of a man who loved to look upon the wine when red. The party passed off pleasantly, the time for departing drew near, and the wife descended from the upper chamber to join her husband.

A pang shot through her trusting heart as she met him—for he was intoxicated—he had broken his promise. Silently they rode homeward, save when the drunken man broke into snatches of song or unmeaning laughter. But the wife rode on, her babe pressed closely to her grieved heart. "Give me the baby, Millie, I cannot trust you with him," said he, as they approached a dark and swollen stream. After some hesitation, she resigned her darling babe, closely wrapt in a large blanket, to his arms. Over the dark waters the noble steed safely bore them, and when they reached the bank the mother asked for the child. With much care and tenderness he placed the bundle in her arms, but when she clasped it to her bosom no babe was there! It had slipped from the blanket, and the drunken father knew it not. A wild shriek from the mother aroused him, and he turned around just in time to see the little rosy face rise one moment above the dark waters, then sink forever. What a spectacle! The idol of his heart gone, gone forever, and that by his own intemperance. The anguish of the mother, the remorse of the father, are better imagined than described.

River Life—A Lightning Pilot.

The Atlantic Magazine for February contains Mark Twain's second paper on Western steamboat life, from which we extract the following interesting sketch:

An hour before sunset——took the wheel and W——stepped aside. For the next thirty minutes every man held his watch in his hand and was restless, silent and uneasy. At last somebody said with a doomful sigh: "Well, yonder's Hat Island—and we can't make it."

All the watches closed with a snap, every body sighed and muttered something about it being "too bad, too bad—ah, if we could only have got there half an hour sooner!" and the place was thick with the atmosphere of disappointment. Some started to go out, but loitered, hearing no bell tap to land. The sun dipped behind the horizon, the boat went on. Inquiring looks passed from one guest to another; and one who had his hand on the door-knob, and had turned it, waited, then presently took away his hand and let the knob turn back again. We bore steadily down the bend. More looks were exchanged, and nods of surprised admiration—but no words. Insensibly the men drew together behind B—— as the sky darkened and one or two dim stars came out. The dead silence and sense of waiting became oppressive. B—— pulled the cord, and two deep, mellow notes from the big bell floated off on the night. Then a pause, and one more note was struck. The watchman's voice followed from the hurricane deck:

"Labboard lead, there! Stabboard lead!"

The cries of the leadsman began to rise out of the distance, and were gruffly repeated by the word-passers on the hurricane deck.

"M-a-r-k three! M-a-r-k three! Quarter-less-three! Half twain! Quarter twain! M-a-r-k twain! Quarter less—"

B—— pulled two ropes, and was quickly answered by faint jinglings far below in the engine-room; our speed slackened. The steam began to whistle through the gauge-cocks. The cries of the leadsmen went on—and it is a wierd sound always in the night. Every pilot in the lot was watching now, with fixed eyes, and talking under his breath. Nobody was calm and easy but B——. He would put his wheel down and stand on a spoke, and as the steamer swung into her (to me) utterly invisible marks—for we seemed to be in the midst of a wide and gloomy sea—he would meet and fasten her there. Talk was going on, now, in low voices:

"There; she's over the first reef all right!"

After a pause, another subdued voice:

"Her stern's coming down just exactly right, by George! Now she's in the marks; over she goes!"

Somebody else muttered—

"Oh, it was done beautiful—beautiful!"

Now the engines were stopped altogether, and we drifted with the current. Not that I could see the boat drift, for I could not, the stars being all gone by this time. This drifting was the dismalist work; it held one's heart still. Presently I discovered a blacker gloom than that which surrounded us. It was the head of the island. We were closing right down upon it. We entered its deeper shadow, and so imminent seemed the peril that I was likely to suffocate; and I had the strongest impulse to do something—anything to save the vessel. But still B—— stood by his wheel, silent, intent as a cat, and all the pilots stood shoulder to shoulder at his back.

"She'll not make it!" somebody whispered.

The water grew shoaler and shoaler by the leadman's cries, till it was down to—

"Eight-and-a-half! E-i-g-h-t feet! E-i-g-h-t feet! Seven and—

B—— said warningly through his speaking-tube to the engineer:

"Stand by now!"

"Aye-aye, sir."

"Seven and a half! Seven feet! Six and"——

We touched bottom! Instantly B—— set a lot of bells ringing, shouted through the tube, "Now let her have it—every ounce you've got!" then to his partner, "Put her hard down! snatch her! snatch her!" The boat rasped and ground her way through the sand, hung upon the apex of disaster a single tremendous instant, and then over she went! And such a shout as went up at B——'s back, never loosened the roof of a pilot-house before!

There was no more trouble after that. B—— was a hero that night; and it was sometime, too, before his exploit ceased to be talked about by the river men. The last remark I heard that night was a compliment to B——, uttered in soliloquy and with unction by one of the guests. He said: "By the shadow of death, but he's a lightning pilot."

A Good Bed.

A most soft, comfortable, and wholesome filling for beds or for mattresses, can be procured in most country places by getting a farmer, when threshing, to allow oat chaff to be saved. It is soft, light and elastic, and when new and clean is very sweet. The cost is very light, only the cost paid by the farmer for the men saving and sifting it. As oat chaff is rarely used for cattle feed it is easily obtainable. It is so very light that a slighter kind of bedtick than is necessary for other kinds of filling is quite sufficient for oat chaff. Another advantage that it can be changed every year at so little cost that it is within the reach of many if not all. For childrens' beds it is perfectly satisfactory. It is only necessary to keep a sack or two stuffed full of oat chaff in a dry place, and then new and fresh filling is at hand to make a sweet bed whatever accident may have betallen the cot mattress. Next to the chaff is clean oat straw for bedding. Indeed, we would make this our first choice, after the more cleanly mat for all adults. It should be changed frequently and always be kept sweet and clean.

Slightly Mistaken.

Some time since a party of ladies and gentlemen went on a tour of inspection through Durham Castle. "The lions" were shown to them by an elderly female of a sour, solemn, and dignified aspect. In the course of their pregrinations they came to the celebrated tapestry for which the castle is so famed.

"These," said the guide, in true showman style, flavored with dash of piety to suit the subject, and pointing to several groups of figures upon the tapestry, "these represent scenes in the life of Jacob."

"Oh yes—how pretty!" said a young lady; and with a laugh, pointing to figures in somewhat close proximity, she continued, "I suppose that is Jacob kissing Rachel?"

"No madam," responded the indignant guide, with crushing dignity, "that is Jacob wrestling with the angel."

The men haw-hawed, the young lady subsided, and offered no further expository remarks, but groaned under a sense of unworthiness during the rest of the visit.

The Duello—Reminiscences of the Early Days of the Sagebrush.

[From The Virginia Chronicle.]

J. T. Goodman and Tom Fitch were rival newspaper editors in Virginia City in the Fall of 1863. Goodman was the editor of what was then called The Territorial Enterprise. Thomas Fitch was editing The Virginia Union. Goodman wrote a slashing article, to which Fitch replied nearly as follows: "The logic of The Enterprise editor is like the love of God." Goodman at first glance thought it was rather complimentary, but concluded to hunt up the book the quotation was made from. Mark Twain said it was from Byron. Dan de Quille said he had read it in Baxter's "Saints' Everlasting Rest." Goodman himself thought it was from Shakspeare, while others mentioned the Bible. Eventually the quotation was found to be from the Bible, and immediately following it were the words, "In that it surpasseth human understanding." Whereupon Goodman immediately sent a challenge to Fitch to meet him outside of the Territory (both being under bonds at that time to keep the peace within it). It was said at the time that Mrs. Fitch insisted on Fitch accepting it. Be this as it may, the arrangements were made for a hostile meeting in Dry Valley, California. Whether the valley was so named before the deed I am unable to say; at all events it is now called Dry Valley.

Goodman had for one of his seconds Major Ferrend, who went out with him to the valley two days before the meeting took place. This was for the purpose of practising Goodman in pistol shooting. The mark selected was a pitch pine tree. Ferrend placed a pine burr midway between Goodman and the tree. The instructions were, "Fire low and raise your pistol to line with the burr." At the word Goodman fired, and missed the tree. After much practice, however, he did better. On the morning of the meeting—a cold, crisp morning—Goodman had made a fire of dry pine limbs, by which he was warming himself, apparently unconcerned about the meeting so shortly to take place. The first rays of the sun were just reddening the tree tops. The time had come; the ground been marked off. Goodman left his fire and walked up alone to his place. Fitch came up with an arm around each of his seconds' necks. At the word both fired. Goodman was untouched; Fitch clapped his hands to one of his knees, turned round and fell on the grass before his seconds could get to him. He was shot through the knee, and the fight was ended.

Concentrating.

[From The Scientific Press.]

It is stated that a company of California capitalists intend putting up works in the vicinity of Helena, Montana, the coming season, and will purchase and ship quartz. Perhaps if some concentrating works were put up in different localities on this coast our bullion yield would be larger. Many camps which ship ore for reduction, paying enormous sums per ton, can scarcely be kept running on account of high freight charges. It costs no more to ship rock worth $1,000 per ton than it does rock worth $100 per ton. If ten tons could be concentrated into one, at half the cost of the freight on the ton, it would pay then 50 per cent more than now.

We ship each year thousands of tons of ore out of the country, paying so much per ton freight, a large percentage of which could be saved to us, besides giving employment to home workmen. In other countries much more attention is given to concentration than here, and with good results. We still go on shipping hundreds of tons of worthless gangue, and paying heavy freight on it, which could be avoided by concentrating the ores before shipping. The farmers ship the grain and throw away the stalks; the miner ships the metal and the dirt with it, paying an equal freight on both. The circumstances are not exactly parallel, but are similar enough for illustration.

We trust it will not be long before steps are taken in the right direction in this matter of concentration. Arizona, for instance, would make a much better showing to-day if she had commenced concentrating a few years ago. She ships rich ores to this city which pay all the heavy freights and a fair profit. With ten tons in one, or even five in one, the profits would be much greater, as the freight per ton would be twice as heavy as the concentrating expenses per ton. Not only Arizona, however, but many places in our own and neighboring States would do well to pay some little attention to this subject. We feel confident that in a few years the subject will become even more important than now.

LAND DECISION AFFIRMED.

The Register of this land district has received the decision of the Department at Washington, dated January 19, 1875, affirming his decision dated October 7, last, awarding to the claimants all the lands originally claimed by the parties, John Norboe, Moses Hale and G. P. Cuddleback, who filed homestead applications Nos. 352, 348, and 344, respectively, August 19, 1867, in the Visalia Land Office, an odd and even numbered section within the limits of the land withdrawn, May 21, 1867, for the Southern Pacific railroad.

It appears that these homestead claimants offered final proofs on all the land embraced in their respective applications, August 19, 1872. The then local officers at Visalia rejected their claims to the tracts in the odd numbered sections, on the ground that the application was filed subsequent to the withdrawal for railroad purposes, and final certificates were issued covering the land in the even numbered sections only.

The applicants not desiring to lose half or more of their respective claims, referred the matter to the local office here last October—the land being now in this district. The evidence then produced showing improvements valued at thousands of dollars, and personal residence on each claim, the settlement dating long prior to said withdrawal. It is deemed unnecessary to order another hearing, and the applicants certificates are returned for correction so as to include all the tracts originally claimed by the parties in odd and even numbered sections.

The railroad company is allowed sixty days to file their appeal in the land office here, or to show cause why this action should not be taken.

A Compromise.

Advices from New Orleans announce that the members of the Conservative branch of the Legislature, on the night of the 5th held a caucus, and accepted a compromise with the Radicals to the effect that if they were allowed a majority in the House they would so far recognize the Kellogg Government as to indorse the election of 1872, as declared, and to make no inquiry into its past action. The compromise was furiously denounced by McEnery, and Speaker Wiltz tendered his resignation.

Letters of the Insane.

Senator Sargent has introduced a bill providing for the establishment of a letter-box in each of the insane asylums, where the inmates will be allowed to drop in their letters without passing through the hands of any of the officers. Some grand epistles will find their way out of the asylums under this system, but it will enable the inmates to make their complaints known, and doubtless be the means of reforming abuses.

The Transit of Venus.

The Smithsonian Institute received a telegram from Airey, astronomer, Royal Greenwich Observatory, that the observations of Peters, one of the American observers of the transit of Venus at New Zeland, are a great success, and that two hundred and thirty-seven photographs were made of the first contact.

The Amounts.

Nearly $150,000 worth of stock in the Los Angeles and Independence railroad has been taken in San Francisco. The Los Angeles subscriptions, at our last advices, had reached $160,000. Now, what is this county going to do?

What is Fame?

The San Bernardino Guardian speaks of our great mining districts as "Corso," "Panimint" and "Cera Gorda." Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

Vetoed.

Acting Governor Adams, of Nevada, has vetoed the Austin and Battle Mountain railroad bill, but it is expected to pass over his head.

GIVE IT DUE CONSIDERATION.

We note that a few of our leading men, who of all others, should lead off in the opposite direction, are trying hard to argue themselves into the belief that their individual aid pecuniarily will have little or no weight in insuring the early completion of the Los Angeles and Indepedence Railroad, for which each and every one is so longingly hoping. The worst of it is that these parties are hugging the fond delusion that the road will be built just the same whether the people of Inyo take little or none of the stock. These parties say farther that they will be doing more to promote the all important enterprise if they devote, as they desire to do, the few hundreds or thousands of dollars they can spare for the purpose in the direct development of their mines rather than in taking such a comparatively small amount of stock in the road itself, because, in so doing as they claim, they give tangible proof there is a paying work for the road to do. If it was a settled fact that the road was to be built without direct aid from us, there might be some sense in this and similar excuses, not arguments; in the face of very nearly certain probabilities there is none. A few feet more or less of shaft or tunnel, a few tons more or less of ore on the dumps of old or new mines however promising, cannot have an ounce weight in determining the question. The reason is this:

If outside capital is to build the entire road to best subserve its own financial and political ends (this last an important element sometimes), it will never come a foot nearer this place than the point that will best accommodate Panamint, from whence it will at once be projected to a connection with the Southern Utah, or as a great through line, which is certainly the ulterior object of the present organization. The organization is under no legal obligation, as we understand it, to run its road into or near this valley if it does not choose so to do—certainly not in less time, at option, than the limited five years. We have good reasons for saying, first, that the road will in a few months be running to the mouth of Surprise, or Panamint canyon; second, if we do nothing to assist, that it will not come an inch further in this direction, but be extended eastwardly from that easterly point on a direct through line, and have but little further to go to make the connection referred to above than to reach this point, hundred miles to the north. No, but these mining gentlemen tell us, that having developed their mines and piled out tons of ore and bullion the cars are bound to come to carry it away. It is a hundred to one the cars will do nothing of the kind. Those outside capitalists will not spend the requisite two or three hundred thousand dollars in building a branch road—for such it will then be—merely to secure a trade they are positively certain of, though somewhat dimished, without. It is absurd to expect it. Cerro Gordo, Coso and all this section will have to go to the railroad; the railroad will not come to them, unless for a more substantial reason than that upon which these gentlemen figure upon. Why should it when it will command their trade just as surely, if less in amount, and still remain from fifty to a hundred miles away?

Let any mine owner figure on this problem and then decide for himself whether he is actingly wisely in declining to extend such aid, according to his means, as will save him the expense of say fifty or a hundred miles of wagon transportation. How much is any (lead) mine worth whose product can be put into market for say $25 per ton more than another of equal capacity from which the cost must be not less than say $35 for the same? Would not this difference make a good many productive mines perfectly valueless if taxed upon each ton of its product, or, on the other hand, make a very desirable property were that difference saved? Fifty miles of wagon transportion as compared to railroad will make just such a difference, and greater in proportion as the distance is greater; it will "make or break," many a mine and miner in this county. It is for these to say now whether this highly important advantage is to be secured in one or two years at the furthest, or deferred for a decade if not lost forever. This last will be the sequence almost inevitably, if the proposed do-nothing policy of these men is carried out, as we most earnestly hope it will not be.

What does the required subsription of $100,000, or half as much more, amount to compared to the gain it will surely secure by insuring the completion of the railroad from Panamint valley, which otherwise will be its nearest approach, square to its proper terminus? It will be a hundred times better for our mining interest in the end to donate in fee simple this amount rather than let this road leave us a hundred miles or so out in the cold, as we verily believe it will do without we respond in some substantial way.

The Muybridge-Larkyns Trial.

This trial ended on the 5th, the jury bringing in a verdict of not guilty, thereby declaring, as many other juries have done before them, that to kill a deliberate seducer is no murder. The jury in this case entirely discarded the theory of insanity, and acquitted the defendant on the sole ground he was justified in killing Larkyn for ruining his home forever in having seduced his wife. The San Francisco Chronicle of February 7th, gives this record of the closing scene:

The Judge (to the Clerk)—Record the verdict, Mr. Clerk.

The pen of the Clerk flew nervously over the paper for a few moments, while all eyes were fastened upon him, the prisoner sitting like a statue, his eyes fixed in a stony stare, and not a muscle moving under the tension of excitement. Suddenly the pen of the Clerk ceased moving, and arising the scribe said, reading from the book: "Gentlemen of the jury, listen to your verdict as it stands recorded. People vs. Muybridge—We the jury, find the defendant not guilty."

At the sound of the last momentous words a convulsive gasp escaped the prisoner's lips, and he sank forward from his chair. The mental and nervous tension that had sustained him for days of uncertain fate was removed in an instant, and he became as helpless as a newborn babe. Pendegast caught him in his arms and thus prevented his falling to the floor, but the body was limp as a wet cloth. His emotion became convulsive and frightful. His eyes were glassy, his jaws set and his face livid. The veins of his hands and forehead swelled out like whipcord. He moaned and wept convulsively, but uttered no word of pain or rejoicing. Such a display of overpowering emotion has seldom, if ever, been witnessed in a court of justice. The floodgates of feeling seemed suddenly to have been lifted and the long pent up torrent of emotion to have burst upon the man, sweeping all before it. He rocked to and fro in his chair. His face was absolutely horrifying in its contortions as convulsion followed convulsion. The Judge discharged the jury and hastily left the court room, unable to bear the sight, and it became necessary to recall him subsequently to finish the proceedings. The Clerk hid his face in his handkerchief. Johnson and the Prosecuting Attorney were compelled to leave the room, and some of the jurors hurried away to avoid the spectacle. Others gathered around to calm the prisoner, and all of them were moved to tears. Pendegast begged Muybridge to control himself and thank the jurymen for their verdict. He arose to his feet and tried to speak, but sank back in another convulsion. He was carried out of the room by Pendegast and laid on a lounge in the latter's office. Dr. Boynton was sent for, and soon arrived, but could do little for the man Johnson finally said, sternly: "Muybridge, I sympathize with you, but this exhibition of emotion is extremely painful to me, and for my sake alone I wish you to desist." Muybridge suddenly straightened his form and said; "I will, sir; I will be calm. I am calm now," and then his emotion subsided, so that in a quarter of an hour he was able to go upon the street.

The Judge was then recalled to the bench, and, upon motion of Pendegast, Muybridge was formally discharged from custody. In the meantime the news of the acquittal had reached the street, where it spread rapidly. A large crowd gathered in front of the court-room, and they cheered vociferously and long. He was surrounded by the crowd, every man of which seemed anxious to congratulate him first. Then they went off to find the jurymen and congratulate them. The town was never before in such a state of feverish excitement. Nothing but the verdict was discussed. The satisfaction with the verdict was very nearly unanimous, but a few, while admitting that Muybridge should not be severely punished, contended that his acquittal was in defiance of law, and would encourage others to deeds of blood. A sort of provincial pride on their side was involved in the matter, and for the good name of the county they felt sorry to see homicide go unpunished, but these were in an insignificant minority.

The St. Nicholas Magazine.

We really think Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge's "St Nicholas" is the best children's magazine in the language. Its cheerful, instructive and remarkably well told stories are strictly in keeping with its bright and handsome print. Even the poet John G. Whittier says of it: "It is little to say of St. Nicholas that it is the best child's periodical in the world, and I think the editor has great reason to congratulate herself upon it." New Smelting Works.

A movement has been inaugurated by a few of the prominent citizens of White Pine county toward the formation of a joint stock company for the smelting of ores in that district. The capital stock of the new company is fixed at $500,000, divided into 50,000 shares, at a nominal value of $10 per share. A meeting of stockholders will take place when ten per cent of the capital stock is subscribed, when the matters in detail pertaining to the organization will be established and a suitable location within the limits of the district will be selected for the erection of the reduction works. The movement is favorably looked upon by The News.—[Eureka Sentinel.

Mining Decisions.

[From The Scientific Press.]

The Secretary of the Interior has decided, in the case of the City Rock and Utah claimants vs. W. H. Pitts, et als., applicants for patents for the King of the West lode, Utah, that: "A mining claim, so far as the surface ground is concerned, must conform to the location notice and record. The law of May 10, 1872, expressly declares the rights of parties owning lodes which meet or unite. The question of how far the General Land Office may extend its examination into the sufficiency of an adverse claim is considered. An adverse claim which is had on general demurrer should be rejected."

"The appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, regarding the survey of the California land claim, Los Prietos y Najalayegua, has been withdrawn by the attorneys for appellants, in consequence of a private agreement or compromise between the grant claimants, represented by W. W. Stow, and the mining interests, championed by Harvey Brown."

In our issue of January 9th we expressed the opinion, in answer to a correspondent, that a miner could only locate 1500 feet, on one ledge. Our correspondent stated that he had located 1500 feet and then moved 10 feet away from the end of his claim, sunk a shaft and claimed 1500 feet more. The mining law of May 10, 1872, says that a mining claim located after the passage of the Act whether located by one or more persons may equal, but not exceed, 1500 feet along the vein or lode; but no location of a mining claim shall be made until the discovery of the vein or lode within the limits of the claim located. It was understood that this special provision was intended to prevent one party from locating four or five miles of cropping to the exclusion of others; and that in connection with the Government requiring annual expenditure, indicates that Congress intended to confine claims to smaller boundaries.

The Silver State, a Nevada journal which pays a great deal of intelligent attention to the mining interests, called our attention to this matter, stating that we were probably mistaken that a miner could not locate more than 1500 feet on one ledge. In looking over the rulings of the Commissioners of the General Land Office, we find the following ruling by W. W. Curtis, Acting Commissioner of the Land Office, in answer to an inquiry:

"Referring to your letter of the 13th ult., I have to state that the Mining Act of May 10, 1872, declares that a mining claim located after the passage of this Act, whether located by one or more persons, may equal, but shall exceed one thousand five hundred feet in length along the vein or lode.

"But there is no provision of law to prevent parties from locating other claims upon the same lode, outside of the first location made on the lode or vein."

"If a lode or vein three thousand feet in length is discovered, two locations may be made each of 1500 feet thereon."

Although the rulings of the Commissioner are not law, they are authority until legally reversed; so that the opinion previously expressed by us was incorrect.

Wholesale Murder Attempted.

On the 2d instant an attempt was made to throw the San Fernando train from the track a short distance north of Los Angeles. The engineer of the down train noticed a log lying across the track. The train was running slow and the brakes so checked its headway that when the locomotive struck the log it shoved it ahead until the cars came to a stand still. A little further on a switch was found wedged open with rocks, which had been pounded into it.

Going Ahead.

The engineers are now en route to San Fernando to make the final location of the tunnel, and Mr. Harris will follow in a few days to locate the shafts and ascertian what machinery and material will be necessary to complete it within eighteen months, by which time the company hope to have the track laid up to both ends of the tunnel, so when it is completed Los Angeles will be connected with San Francisco by rail.—[Los Angeles Express.

The Theatricals.

For the second school benefit, given by the Dramatic Association, on the evening of Washington's birthday, the printed programme announces but two presentations—the beautiful play entitled "The Last Loaf" and the farce of "My Turn Next." It will be seen that the entertainment belongs to the order of legitimate theatricals, and loses to some extent the effect that might be so easily secured by presenting songs and minstrel scenes, the company wisely, we think, preferring to tax their best energies to produce something that will require an appreciative audience to understand its full force and effect. However, for those who prefer broad fun, music and minstrelsy, an entertainment of this character exclusively is underlined for the early future—and the two will afford us a favorable opportunity of passing upon the versatile ability which the company seems to possess. The bill shows the troupe to be a dozen strong, not including the members of the association who act as musicians and general assistants. For their disinterested efforts to amuse the public and support the school, at not a little actual cost to themselves, the "Independence Amateur Dramatic Association are certainly entitled to the warmest gratitude of our citizens, particularly of the parents of this school district. The admission is placed at $1, and no children's half tickets sold. This latter provision is as it should be; because, firstly, there is'nt room for them; secondly, this show is not of a nature for very small folks to appreciate; and, thirdly, but not the last reason by several, the entertainment is exclusively for the ultimate benefit of school children, and those who insist upon attending ought, upon this account, to be willing to pay.

Darwin City.

This town is building up rapidly and with a good and quite showy class of buildings, all of lumber. Owing to lack of material there are hardly any of them fully completed, though most of them are near enough to be habitable. S. Zaun has a branch store there tolerably well stocked. John Daneri has quite a large building fully well advanced, designed for a similar purpose. Hansen & Thompson's two story hotel, though not all complete, is doing a fine business and gives good satisfaction. The Brown Bros. are building a two story residence or office that will show out quite well. A. B. Elder, Mining Recorder and Assayer, flatters himself and Bill Grant that they have a good office and are prepared to do business, and the same can soon be said for V. Beaudry who, by the way, is pipe-laying so as to be water king of Darwin. Leastwise, Mr. Beaudry has laid pipes from the Crystal Springs to the road, three-fourths of a mile, and as soon as practicable intends to extend the pipes to Darwin, in all about seven miles. This will afford a supply of about 8,000 gallons per day. But there are a dozen or two other buildings besides those referred to; so altogether Darwin is becoming quite a town, and save the desert-character of the surroundings, the prettiest and pleasantest site of any mining town in the county.

Issues Some Furnace Orders.

Tuesday last while Victor Beaudry of Cerro Gordo was riding quietly along on his way to Darwin City and when within about seven miles of that place he was suddenly confronted by the gang of Mexican robbers of which mention is made elsewhere. They requested him to come down liberally. Mr. Beaudry explained that he had no coin with him and could not possibly accommodate them that way. They said "Beaudry orders" was as good currency as they wanted. Could he issue a limited amount? Investigating the situation a little more critically and seeing that the hungry looking devils were both in need and in earnest, Mr. Beaudry kindly acceeded to the request and issued the orders, but to what amount we have not been informed. He was then allowed to pursue his way and the robbers rode off over the hills. The whole story may be a canard, but it goes current as a fact up to this date.

A Serious Assault.

Late on Tuesday night last a half-drunken or frenzied man whose name we have not learned, armed himself with a shotgun, and attempted to force an entrance into the American Hotel, Cerro Gordo, in search of another man whose name we havn't at hand. Mr. Terry, the barkeeper, attempted to pacify the man and prevent his entrance; but, after breaking the stock from his gun, he broke open the door, rushed in and dealt Terry a terrible blow upon the head, seriously injuring him. Lewis, the proprietor, then received several blows with the murderous weapon. Besides other serious injuries, his nose was broken in such a manner as to permanently disfigure him. As to what was done in the way of arresting the man, we are also uninformed.

New Officers Installed.

Busy Bee Lodge, I. O. G. T., installed the following new officers on the evening of the 5th instant: A. B. Macgowan, W. C. T.; Mrs. Mary A. Parker, W. R. H. S.; Mrs. J. M'Arthur, W. L. H. S.; John O'Dwyer, W. V. T.; P. A. Chalfant, P. W. C. T.; A. Wayland, W. C.; P. J. James, W. T.; John Hohn, W. M.; Andrew P. Hitchcock, W. I. G.; Geo. W. Ford, W. O. G.; C. Belding, W. F. S. The lodge is in a very flourishing condition, having a membership of over fifty.

Committed.

John Griffin, who shot Reynolds at Bishop Creek last week was examined by Justice Walcott and held to answer in the sum of $3,000. Griffin offered the required bond, but the Justice then concluded that he would be exceeding his jurisdiction to accept it, so the prisoner was committed to jail. He will doubtless be released at once on the original bond.

The Furnaces.

We last week inadvertantly omitted mention of the fact that both the Cerro Gordo furnaces had started up; they are now steadily running, and will so continue as long as there is a supply of snow on the mountains. It is to be hoped that the water company will soon have their works repaired.

Religious Matters.

Rev. Geo. Jennings goes to Bishop Creek again with the view of resuming his church or protracted meetings, in which a very encouraging interest is being manifested... Rev. M. W. Pratt, late of this pastorate, was lately assisting at quite a successful religious revival at Dorris Bridge, Modoc county.

St. Valentine.

To-morrow is the day set apart for anonymous, ineffectual love making. Look well to your ballots; the worst caricatures are in favor of the candidates.

Some Good Books.

Mr. I. N. Townsley of this place, has accepted the agency of a number of very desirable books, among which are the following: "Personal Reminisences, Anecdotes and Letters of Gen. Robert E. Lee," by Wm. Jones, D. D., a beautifully bound and printed book containing a number of fine steel portraits of the General and his most intimate associates of the rebellion, and altogether, to judge from the sample copy, decidedly the most interesting and readable work yet presented upon the great events and personages upon which it treats. "Cyclopedia of Things Worth Knowing, or 25,000 Wants Supplied," one of the most valuable books for the household published. "The Science of A New Life," by John Cowan, M. D. is a new and valuable treatise on that pertaining to married life. Hundreds of books on love, marriage and the relation of the sexes are extant, but there are none inculcating a higher moral, religious tone than this. It shows many dangerous fallacies upon certain subjects in a manner that must tend to interest and elevate all who read and study it. Probably the most interesting of all these books at this particular time is Mrs. T. B. H. Stenhouse's work entitled "Tell It All, or The Story of a Life's Experience in Mormonism." It is a comple expose of the Salt Lake iniquities, of startling and terrible facts hitherto only surmised to exist. The next and last to note is the famous book "The Gilded Age" by Mark Twain and C. D. Warner. Most everybody has heard of this work, and it is one that everybody can read with interest and profit. We commend Mr. Townsley and his books to the attention of our friends generally.

Old Bull Gone.

B. L. Brown's old dog Bull is no more. He came to an untimely end two or three days ago, partly through old age; mainly from the kick of a cow to which the old fellow over confidently exposed himself a short time previously. The ignominy of the thing was possibly as affecting to the proud old dog as the physical injury. For nine years old Bull had demeaned himself towards his kind as well as his pugnacious nature would possibly permit, and toward his master and friends generally he was ever kind, true and lovable, and an object of their true regard for his many good qualities. From puppyhood long years ago when Brown packed him into this country, a good portion of the way on his back, down to the day of his death, he was his master's inseparable, reliable companion. No chains or doors interposing, where Brown was, there was Bull near at hand, kind and obedient, always ready to meet a smile or kind word with a reciprocating wag of his stumpy tail. Bull was a good and intelligent dog, and bearing an occasional pang of jealousy when Jack, his canine companero of equal fighting weight, came in to claim a share of his master's favors, always happy and companionable. He was laid away with all due honors and Jack now has things his own way.

The Kansas Contributions.

The citizens of our town are justly entitled to credit for their proportionate liberality in aiding the Kansas and Nebraska sufferers. From a statement given by The San Francisco Alta some time since, we noted the fact that the sum contributed by Independence was more than either Stockton, Los Angeles and several other small-fry places. The following feeling letter upon the subject explains itself:

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3d 1875.

MESSRS. HARRIS & RHINE, Agents at Independence, California—Gentlemen: Your splendid remittance of $101 on account of the Kansas and Nebraska sufferers has reached me to-day. Please accept for yourselves and others interested, our sincere thanks. You have made a noble record for your section, and if all offices did in the same proportion, we should soon have enough to repair the grasshopper damages and begin wearing away on the national debt. Again I thank you for the interest you and the people of your town have taken in the cause.

Yours truly,

AARON STEIN,
Treasurer Relief Fund.

The Robber Gang.

The stage from Indian Wells to Panamint last Saturday, when about twenty miles from Indian Wells, met a number of Mexicans, supposed to be the gang who robbed Scodie at Kern river last week. They, however, made no demonstrations, but turned off across the country before passing the stage. It was believed here a few weeks ago that Chavez, Vasquez redoubtable Lieutenant was in this region, and was engaged in organizing a band with which to take the road. It was furthermore told that one of the first operations of the gang would be to rob Wm. Barrows' store at Cerro Gordo and kill Barrows' in revenge for having attached the property of some of his delinquent Mexican customers. There are some pretty substantial reasons for believing this to have been in contemplation, but by other parties than the one now claiming attention.

More Accommodations Needed.

Somebody ought to tear down and reconstruct the Inyo House property, and run it as a lodging house, if nothing more. When the rush of the Court term commences there won't be room in town for one-half of those who will be here. No charge for the suggestion.

Badly Hurt.

From Mr. J. Stratton, just down from Columbus, we learn that Samuel Pinchower was, a few days ago, thrown from his horse and so badly injured about the head that it is doubtful if he can recover.

Returned.

Messrs. Bennett and Gregg returned on Friday from a short visit to Darwin. They report many important moves on the tapis, relating to the sale of mines, the consumation of which we hope to report next week.

A Call.

We were favored this morning with a call from A. G. Boley, Esq., of Bishop, who came down last night with young Griffin in charge.

Road Meeting.

Lost.

Attention is directed to Rev. Mr. Jennings loss of his buggy horses, advertised elsewhere.

Grand Jury Drawn.

The drawing for the Grand Jury for the March term was made this morning.

Montezuma.

We learn from a letter recently received by Mr. Geo. Storey, of this place, that the Montezuma mill property has been sold to George Hearst, a well known mining operator. The mill is a ten-stamp dry crusher, with Frieberg roasting furnace. A joint stock company will probably grow out of this purchase, taking in the J. R. McNees mine and some other prominent locations in the district. It is the intention of the purchaser to devote several months to developing the mines before starting the mill.—[Borax Miner.

—There is nothing more depressing to a thermometer than cold weather.

Panamint Stock in the Market.

[From The Panamint News.]

By the San Francisco papers of the 29th ultimo, we see that the Wonder Consolidated and Wyoming Consolidated Mining Companies have placed in the market twenty thousand shares—ten thousand shares in each in equal proportions—at $15 per share, for thirty days, unless the amount offered is sooner taken. The Wonder Consolidated consists of the Jacobs' Wonder mine, 1,500 feet; Stewart's Wonder, 1,500; Challenge, 750 feet; Little Chief, 1,500 feet; and the mill purchased with the Jacobs' Wonder mine. The Wyoming Consolidated consists of the Wyoming mine, 1,500 feet; Marvel, 1,500; Hemlock, 1,500 feet; Harrison, 1,500 feet; Alabama, 1,500 feet; Esperanza (three-fourths), 1,500 feet; and Julia (one-half), 1,500 feet. In their advertisement the companies say they are free from debt, their titles are perfect, and United States patents have been applied for. Also, that "about 400 tons of ore, worth over $300 per ton, have been shipped from these mines to England; and the mines are so well opened that one thousand tons of ore can be taken from them daily when there are mills to crush or transportation to remove it." They state that no more than twenty thousand shares will be offered as low as $15 per share. In a nota bena it is asserted that the "proceeds of the stock offered for sale will pay no part of the large expenditures made by the promoters, but will be required in building mills, roads, etc., to make the property available. The mines are so well developed that the companies can assure the subscribers to these stocks that no assessments will be required." The stock of both these companies was placed upon the Stock Board in San Francisco but a few days ago, and we are assured by gentlemen here, who desired to purchase, that they were unsuccessful in having their orders filled. One reliable gentleman here wished to obtain 500 shares, offering to pay $20 per share, but succeeded in obtaining only one hundred shares. We understand that all of the original shares offered are now in the hands of second parties. Whether it is the intention of the companies to place more on the market at present, at a greater figure than $15 per share, we do not know. At any rate, we are satisfied that these stocks will be eagerly sought and will soon appreciate to a respectable figure. We think we are very safe in saying to the public that the mines represented in these stocks are not "wild-cat," but will, with proper development, soon take rank with the best on the coast.

Nevada Jury Bill.

A bill is now pending in the Nevada Legislature to reduce their present jury law to something like common sense principles. An idea of the intent of the bill may be obtained from the section which provides for a struck jury, which reads as follows:

If the offense charged be punishable with death or imprisonment in the State Prison for life the examination of jurors shall be continued till thirty-six jurors are obtained who are free from any of the objections specified in Sections 338 and 340. These thirty-six jurors may then be examined as to their actual state of feeling toward the defendant, and as to all matters from which a bias against the State or the defendant may be inferred. When such examination is concluded the State and the defendant shall challenge peremptorily one juror alternately till each has taken twelve peremptory challenges, and the remaining twelve jurors shall be sworn to try the case. If the defendant shall refuse to take his peremptory challenge in his turn, the Court shall take it for him. The same proceedings shall be had on trials for lesser grades of felony, except that twenty-four jurors in place of thirty-six shall be obtained, and the parties shall be allowed six peremptory challenges each in place of twelve. If, in the process of forming a jury as herein provided, any juror on the panel fails to appear or answer to his name, the Court may, in its discretion, proceed without him, or the proceedings may be suspended till he can be brought into Court.

—Kansas has other objects of interest than grasshoppers. While Judge Brown was holding court week before last in Medicine Lodge, Barbour county, a fight took place between two roughs in a room adjoining the one in which court was being held. One of the combatants, becoming frightened, ran into the court room and took refuge behind the judge, closely followed by the other, who began belaboring him with a chair. The Judge, to secure his own safety, jumped into the middle of the room and called on the Sheriff to arrest the combatants, to which the Sheriff replied: "Arrest h—l! There ain't men enough in the county to arrest any one of them fellows."

—A Missourian who attended prayer-meeting with his daughter felt compelled to rise up and remark: "I want to be good and go to heaven, but if those fellers don't stop winking at Mary, there will be a good deal of prancing around here the fust thing they know."

—There's where a man has the advantage. He can undress in a cold room and have his bed warm before a woman has got her hair-pins out and her shoes untied.

—A Michigan man with a large family has been an emigrant fifty-four times, and has just sent to Texas for a pamphlet about the resources of that State.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Brightly Breaks the Morning of a new era in the annals of medicine. Alcohol will soon be banished from the list of remedies, and only known as a poison. DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, composed entirely of wholesome botanic extracts and juices, are everywhere superseding the fiery astringents, which no man or woman ever yet took without bitterly repenting their credulity. There is no disease, acute or chronic, in which the new tonic may not be administered with beneficial effect.

The Suffering in Kansas.

W. H. Baxter, Secretary of the State Grange of California, is in receipt of a letter from S. C. Bowles, Secretary of Richland Grange, No. 605, Jewell county, Kansas, in which pertinent allusions to the destitution prevailing in Kansas are made. Mr. Bowles says that some of the people of Kansas are desirous of leaving for California, but at present they are too poor to think of carrying such a project into effect. Richland county being in the very midst of the region devastated by the grasshoppers. The Grangers of this State are called upon to aid their brothers and sisters of Richland Grange. There are three invalid ladies belonging to the Grange who are unable to buy the delicacies they need, and Mr. Bowles has been requested to write to California and ask that the Grangers send to these invalids a small donation of dried and canned fruits. Mr. Bowles is Secretary of the Aid and Relief Society in Richland county, and a reliable person.

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the System, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss or Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints,

Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

How It Got Its Name.

[From The Virginia Enterprise, Feb. 10.]

Donald Davidson, who died in San Francisco on the 29th ultimo, was the man from whom the huge mountain peak that towers above this city took its name. He was among those who came early to the Comstock, but he did not come with any intention of remaining here. His visit was merely one of business—to look after his interests here, as he had dealings with several of the early miners. While he was here he was accompanied by a party of men to the summit of the mountain which now bears his name. During the trip to the top of the mountain a number of a quartz veins were observed, and all of these were marked for location. In the evening, when the excursionists were all assembled in old Topliffe's palatial chebang, talking over the adventures and discoveries of the day, it was unanimously agreed that the mountain they had climbed should be named Mount Davidson, in honor of Donald Davidson, who had that day scaled it in company with half a score of the hardy prospectors who had pitched their camps along the lead where Virginia City now stands. It was also thought that it would be a good plan to locate the several ledges they had discovered. The charge was then fifty cents per name for recording a claim. A man called "Joe Bowers," but probably not the original "Joe" immortalized by the poet, took the lead in the work of making out the notices and arranging for the recording. Joe swore that all of the ledges they had seen were immensely rich—would make the fortune of any man who had an interest in one of them. As the names were mentioned and written down on the notices, Joe called for four-bits. This must be put up in order that it might be handed over to the Recorder of the District the first thing in the morning. Donald Davidson would say: "Well, here is Blank, a friend of mine and a very worthy man, suppose you put into the mine?" "All right," Joe would cry, "put up for him and in he goes. Can you think of any other good honest fellow you would like to assist, Davidson?" "Well there is A. a very worthy man; we might put him down." "All right, Davidson!" cries Joe, who cared not how long the string of names might be if he but had each name represented in his pocket by a half dollar. All of the notices were finally made out and all of the half dollars paid in. Joe was to attend to the recording the first thing in the morning, but that night he struck a "little game of draw," and to this day those claims have not been recorded—at least, not by Joseph. As the leads on the mountain have turned out, it was doubtless a fortunate thing for Donald Davidson's "worthy friends" that Joe found the "little game."

A Journalistic Murderer.

The other day a compositor in this office got hold of a part of a page of the chirography of G. M. D. Bloss, of The Cincinnati Enquirer. It isn't writing at all, but Bloss seems to kick the ink bottle at a sheet of paper and then send the paper down to the compositors as editorial. This part of a paper was used as the foundation of a plot to deliberately destroy a human life. A line or two was written above it; Bloss's page was marked "solid;" it was handed to a "jour" who had just struck the office. He claimed to be "lightning" on the "set" and on reading manuscript, and he set up the introductory line like a whirlwind. When he came down to Bloss he grabbed for a cap "A," held it a second, and then dove into the "Y" box. Then he threw that back and picked out a dollar mark, and the typo paused, spit on his hands and rested one foot on the crossbar of his rack. After a moment he grabbed an "ffi," but slowly replaced it, and toyed with an italic "Z." Then he spit on his hands some more, corrugated his brow, and hauled the manuscript under his eyes. It was no go. He held the page further off, close to his nose, slanting to the right, and square before the window, but he couldn't start it, and he knew in his soul that no other human compositor outside of The Enquirer office could do it. As afternoon faded into twilight he laid the page aside, set up two or three lines out of his head, and then slipped into his coat, said he had to go to the depot to see a friend, and was gone. In his stick he had set up the words: "Tell my mother that I shall meet her on the other shore." He probably will. He was seen at the foot of Griswold street; heard to ask if death by drowning wasn't easier than hanging, and it is probable that his marble form now lies at the bottom of the cold green river, while Bloss is a murderer.—[Detroit Free Press.

Coffee Cake.

One cup of butter, one of sour cream, one of coffee, five eggs, one cup of currants, one of stoned raisins, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one of allspice, one nutmeg, one teaspoonful soda; add flour to mix hard and bake slowly.

Sure Cure.

The London Lancet gives the following as a certain cure for the toothache. Add one drachm of collodion to two drachms of carbonic acid, a small portion of which, inserted in the cavity of an aching tooth will give an immediate relief.

—Take an old penny, or a piece of copper, put in a teacup, and pour enough vinegar on to cover it; let it stand till verdigris appears; rub the verdigris on the ringworm, and I warrant a cure.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—Girls should be warned of the danger they run in marrying railroad brakemen. An enthusiastic member of that fraternity, on being awakened the other night from a dream of an impending crash by a train, found himself sitting up in bed holding his wife by the ears, having nearly twisted her head off in his frantic efforts to "down brakes."

—The first book printed in Italic type was an edition of the works of Virgil, in 1561, by Aldus Manutius, of Venice. Most of the capital letters stand erect, showing that the veteran publisher had not perfected his scheme of sloping letters. A copy of this work was recently sold in London for £30.

—A colored gentleman went to consult one of the most "high-toned" lawyers in Boston, and after stating his case said: "Now I knows you's a lawyer; but I wish you would please, sar, jiss tell me the truff 'bout dat matter."

—Two little girls were comparing progress in catechism study. "I've got to original sin," said one; "how far have you got?" "Me? Oh! I'm away beyond redemption!" replied the other.

—A Scotch divine recently praying, said: "O Lord, give unto us neither poverty nor riches," and pausing solemnly a moment, he added, "especially poverty."

—"A man who fears the Lord and can carry home an intoxicated member," is the kind of a Sergeant-at-Arms they want for the Minnesota Legislature.

—They are soon to have a Senatorial fight in little Rhode Island. Eastern editors very properly will form a ring around the State and see fair play.

—"What station do you call this?" said a man, as he crawled out of the debris of a railroad smash up. "Devastation," replied the conductor.

—The Gardiner, Maine, Journal, says that there is a store in that place in which a skull is kept, marked: "This man was a drummer. Beware!"

—Silas Card was married the other day, and on his wedding notices were the words: "No cards." But he doesn't know what might happen.

—That's too bad. Boston is to have a convention of bald headed men. After all, however, it may not be as unfortunate as the great fire.

—This jute the ladies patch their hair with never looks more like real hair than when it appears in the butter.—[Berkshire Courier.

—Congress has a cemetery of its own, and, having far more criminals than corpses, it is strange it doesn't have a penitentiary of its own, also.

—Ann Eliza says that thirteen of Brigham's daughters sat in the front seats and made faces at her the first time she lectured.

—Gregory, of The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, hopes that Halstead and Watterson won't fight—"they might hit each other."

—The reason why Pagans are so far behind-hand in the march of civilization, is because they are such idol people.

—Since hard times struck Nevada they have raised the price of killing Cinnamen to seven dollars.

—A girl baby in Moore county, Tenn., has a double tounge; but we don't know that that's news.

—Here's a new view of the Christmas stocking—The boy says he "set it, but didn't catch anything."

—A little peppermint is better than brandy when there is any trouble with your "true inwardness."

—In some of the new styles there is no change. Poor relatives are cut the same as last year.

—The financial pressure is loosening. Even the days are not so "short" as they were.

—Kalakaua has left Chicago, and The Journal cries out after him, "Good by Kal!"

—"What can't be cured must be sold fresh," is what they say in Porkopolis.

—John Henry wants to know if the Ohio lottery laws prohibits marriages.

—How to make good puffs—Send the publisher fifty cents a line for them.

—How unjust it is to accuse a bald-headed man of putting on false hairs.

—Reticence may not be considered sound sense, but it is good sense.

—To "bone" a turkey—Take it when the poulterer is not looking.

—Plain sauce—An interview with a Saratoga hotel clerk.

—A matchless maid—An ancient unmarried lady.

—Materialized spirits—Frozen whiskey.

—Paying up—"Coming down."

A Hard Bed to Fill.

A correspondent of an Eastern paper relates the following good one on himself and "Bob" ——, noted for his modesty: When school-boys he and the writer were inseparable companions, probably because we both stood in such holy awe of "the gals." A pair of mischievous black eyes would stampede us quicker than a "big dog." One day "Bob" was sent to neighbor Shaw's to inquire after some straw for filling beds, and of course the writer went with him. Shaw was the father of six hateful girls, who had rather laugh at a fellow than not, and when we arrived they were all seated at dinner. I dodged behind the corner while "Bob" edged carefully in at the door, and with a sacred look, stammered: "Mr. Straw, can you let me have enough Shaw to fill my bed?" "Well, R——," said the old gentleman, glancing around the circle of astonished faces, "I suppose so; here are six, besides the old woman; but I'd rather ye'd leave her, if the girls will be enough. Take them all and God bless you." Perfect shrieks of laughter went up from those mean things, and 'R——' took to his heels, followed by cries from the old man to come back and he'd throw in the old woman, too."

FAREWELL.

With to-day's issue of THE INYO INDEPENDENT I close my connection therewith, and with many pangs of sincere regret, bid a last adieu to Inyo and her people.

Whatever little niche I may have occupied in the political, social and business structure of Inyo will, in the nature of things, be promptly filled by others; and I trust that they, with cooler heads, may in the future labor as earnestly and faithfully for the general good as I have done in the past.

A reference in this to my public acts may be needless—may subject me to a charge of egotism; a silence thereupon would, perhaps, be attributed to o'erweening modesty—the which is not among my failings. Then, with a pardonable pride, I may briefly mention: "PARKER'S THIEVING RAILROAD," now under magnificent headway; the apportionment to Inyo and Mono of one Legislative member; the real security of our farmers from the land robber of the future; well-adjusted county affairs, sensible local school laws—and, above all, the successful effort of Mr. CHALFANT and myself to finally and firmly establish a respected, powerful country journal. With regard to the latter, I am well aware of the fact that in resigning it at such a time I am doing myself a severe injustice, but I leave it in able hands—MESSRS. CHALFANT & CHILDS—and am content.

No words can sufficiently acknowledge my deep gratitude to the many steadfast friends who have so nobly stood by me, nor can Time efface my recollection of them and their deeds.

Good bye!

JAS. E. PARKER.

Sutro's Mining Bill Killed.

The Senate, while working on its calendar, February 9th, reached Pratt's bill to compel all quartz miners to take out patents for their claims at five dollars per acre. This bill was strenuously urged by Sutro and warmly opposed by Senators Sargent and Jones before the Public Land Committee last year, and reported adversely in accordance with a vote of the majority of the Committee, although the Chairman, Sprague, and two others made a minority vote in its favor. The bill was indefinitely postponed, without opposition or discussion. The action kills it.

Rather Large.

Some of the big dailies have an item to this effect: "THE INYO INDEPENDENT estimates that the shipments of ores alone from that county would furnish $150,000 worth of freight per day to a railroad extending from the mines to tidewater." From this we infer that the big daily which first made the clipping has a blacksmith or so on its cases, inasmuch as the figures we gave read $15,000 not $150,000.

Toll Gates.

The Supreme Court has decided that County Boards of Supervisors have exclusive authority to determine the number and location of gates on toll roads, and until so located tolls cannot be collected; and the Supervisors cannot delegate this authority to the Directors of the Company in any instance.

Capital Removed.

The Arizona Legislature has passed a bill to remove the capital from Tucson to Phœnix. So this bird rises from its ashes once again, but only to sprinkle them profusely over the heads of other aspiring places, in which it causes intense excitement, anger and disgust.

High Up.

The Prince of Wales has received the thirty-third or last degree of Masonry, and was formerly installed as a Patron of the Ancient and Accepted Rite. By this act the Prince of Wales has become associated with every important branch of Freemasonry in England.

Absorbing the Forest.

Upwards of six hundred thousand feet of lumber is used in the Belcher mine every month, costing $26 per thousand. There are many large mines on the Comstock and each requires timbers in proportion to the ore and vein matter taken out.

THE EXTENT OF THE DAMAGE.

The Bakersfield Courier is much pained at the course pursued by THE INDEPENDENT in opposing the Bakersfield route. It says that we are thereby doing a great deal of damage to Inyo county, and that this is also the opinion of a number of prominent Inyoites with whom its editor has conversed upon the subject. We are altogether too polite to dispute anything The Courier says, much less the intelligent disinterestedness of the "prominent" Inyoites who have expressed such broad views upon this important transportation question.—still we will remind The Courier that this world contains a great many complacent, pleasant sort of men, who always make it a point to express just such "opinions" as will be most agreeable to the party to whom they are given, with little or no regard to either facts or sense.

But without further remark as to these opinions or the intelligent beings who offered them, we submit one or two propositions of our own. First, it is our candid belief that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, (which in the matter under consideration represents the Bakersfield route) will never in this generation lay a single rail nearer any part of Inyo county than will naturally occur in pursuing the direct line, without bend or curve, of their great overland route via the Colorado. As a consequence the Bakersfield route promises to help us no more at any time in the future than it is doing at this moment, or to be exact, what it will be doing two or three months hence when the freighting business is all transferred to that road. This gain amounts to a reduction of perhaps two dollars per ton on general freights and a saving of about ten days time for heavy teams, as compared to the San Fernando or Los Angeles road. This is something of a gain and for which we feel duly grateful, but it is not sufficient to insure a much higher degree of prosperity to this county than it enjoys at this very time.

Secondly it is clearly the aim and intention of the Southern Pacific or great monopoly to nip in the bud every chance of competition, to the end that it may continue its past and present mean policy of exacting the highest obtainable rates on transportation for the time being, without the slightest regard for the welfare or future development of the country for which it might do so much; and just so long as we have to depend solely upon it we have no shadow of grounds to hope for that cheap transportation so necessary to enhance business or values in this county. It is idle to expect it. There is the hundred and fifty miles of wagoning to be paid hereafter as now, which is equivalent to ten or fifteen dollars at least extra tax upon each and every ton of our freights over what it should and would be if even this Southern Pacific railroad extended a branch directly into our midst, which we are confident it will never do. In addition to this killing embargo upon an enlarged prosperity, after traversing this space at such cost in wagons, then comes whatever rate of railroad freight charges that company chooses to put on; it is needless to say the charges will only be just small enough to prevent successful competition by mule and ox teams, unless another railroad, for which we are working, should be in the field.

The Bakersfield route now offers an advantage over that via Los Angeles of sufficient importance to cause a transfer to it of all the business hitherto going to the latter. But this advantage in its present proportion will continue only just so long as Los Angeles or some equally formidable competitor remains in the field, and not an hour longer. Whenever Los Angeles gives up the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad project, the contest closes for good and aye, and then our bullion shippers will no longer enjoy the great advantage of a rebate on their particular freights, both ways, of perhaps not less then fifty per cent. on ordinary charges; the railway will no longer carry for them at a figures barely, if at all sufficient to cover outlays, when they have no competition to fear, which will be the moment the proposed Los Angeles road is effectually killed off or passes into their own hands. This bullion will then be treated exactly as that of Utah and Nevada—charged full rates or over when the shipper has no choice but to pay it, or half or less when they have. Right here we would like to call the attention of those of our mining men who have been or may be made to look with indifference upon the Los Angeles project, all by reason of favors received or promised from the anaconda, to this fact: The Central Pacific, which is part of the said anaconda, only charges $10 per ton on ores and bullion from Utah, (where it finds a rival in the Union Pacific) over 1,000 miles of road to San Francisco, while, on the same rails the charge for the same from along the Humboldt (where no competition does or can exist,) for the remaining 500 miles is more than double—$24 per ton. This is a fact worthy the gastric juices of the strongest stomached bullion shippers in this county. It conveys a pretty reliable basis upon which to calculate the future value of the present fine rebate, intended to seduce them from all support of the only dangerous competitor the monopoly fears. Kill off and lay away this competitor and with it goes every iota of this great advantage of low freights over the railroad now tendered to, and to be soon enjoyed by our bullion shippers.

We have not the slightest objection to the Bakersfield route per se. We would just as soon the people of Kern county should derive all the advantages of traffic from this back country as that the same should fall to Los Angeles. It is from no consideration of that kind that we support the Los Angeles route, but wholly on the grounds of self interest, speaking for this section at large—not in an individual sense. We know that a railroad directly into our midst will give us a vast advantage over present conditions, even though freights should be nearly as great as now. We know that when we have a choice of two such roads for our business, supposing that they are run by different companies, we have a positive assurance that we can have the one thing needed above all others to make this a wonderfully prosperous country—and that is cheap freights and quick transit. It is a conviction, if we do not know it, that our only immediate or even remote chance to obtain this boon is through the Los Angeles and Independence railroad, and that only.

We know another thing, so to speak: That neither the support or opposition of The Courier or INDEPENDENT can in the least change or alter any plans of the Southern Pacific intended either for our weal or woe; that, as regards the operations of that company, the Bakersfield route will or will not be the channel of the Inyo trade just the same, so far as our opposition or The Courier's support can affect the result, except that the two, working with opposite intents, may promote the completion of the other great enterprise, our only salvation for great prosperity or perfect development of our illimitable resources.

THE DARWIN MINES.

From Messrs. Beaudry, Darrah and others we have the gratifying intelligence that the New Coso or Darwin mines, are without exception developing most grandly. There is not one of some twenty upon which work is being actively prosecuted, that does not show better and better with every foot of progress. We understand very well the risk we run in presuming to institute a comparison between Coso and a certain other district in the county, knowing that if we do not admit the latter, (Panamint) to be immeasurably superior in every respect to any other, we shall again be classed as one of those "envious outside papers," so we will merely say, that with those best acquainted with Coso district, it has become a settled conviction that its like for "fire ores,"—(mind, we make a distinction, Mr. News), was never seen in this State. Instead of saying it can produce thousands of tons of rich ores, it is now deemed nowise hyperbolical to say millions of tons. We have the particulars as to the later developments of a few of the mines, but instead of giving them just now, will state what the prospects are to make all this vast wealth available. The Chrismas Gift has changed owners in part to a party who has gone to San Francisco to procure machinery to start a furnace at once. A Mr. Reese is the purchaser, we believe. Mr. Beaudry has purchased the Cuervo mine, one of the large ones of the contact formation, lying between the Grand and Defiance. The Messrs. Brown's, the pioneers and real discoverers of the district, have gone to San Francisco, having, it is supposed, sold a large interest in their extensive and valuable locations. Should their anticipations be realized some heavy capitalists are expected to put up works immediately, and give the world an abundance of tangible evidence of what this district can do. A wooden tramway is also in contemplation; it is to convey the ores to Owen's Lake, nineteen miles over easy ground, when an abundance of cheap fuel will permit of a material saving in the cost of reduction, and something in the freight on the bullion, since it will be that far advanced on its way to market. It is thought this scheme can be quite successful by carrying ores to the lake to supply a set of furnaces there, and fuel in return for another set at Darwin. It is greatly contingent upon the railroad project as to whether it will be put into execution.

California Politics.

[From The S. F. Chronicle.]

Already we begin to hear the subject of State nominations discussed. There are today three well defined and well-organized parties in the State, which will place full tickets in the field—the Republican, Democratic and Independent. The Democracy are exceedingly confident of their ability to achieve the success of their ticket, and depend for their hopes of victory upon divisions in the ranks of their opponents. They believe that all Democrats will come forward and present a harmonious working party, forgetting the dissensions that have heretofore distracted the organization. The Republican party builds its hope upon the strength of the national organization rather than upon its strength in this State, and its leaders believe that national politics will assume such a position before the next election as will necessitate the coming together of all its discordant elements. The Independent party occupies an anomalous position, and its present attitude is one of defiance to both national parties; it claims to be not only independent of, but above mere party rules, and to be acting for the best good of the public, and it affects to believe that it can work a local reformation in State affairs. Democratic principles are easily set forth, viz: opposition to the Administration; a tenderness for the South, and big promises to adherence to Southern interests to relieve that portion of the country of some of the unpleasant results naturally growing out of the war. The Republican party maintains that the Southern States were aggressors in the war of rebellion, and that the organization of the party is necessary to enforce the Constitutional amendments and to carry out the measures inaugurated for the protection of loyal men, it seeks to prevent a political coalition that it would deprive the freedmen of their rights and indemnify the South for its losses of property and slaves resulting from the slaveholders' insurrection. Issues will be distinctly made and well defined. We fear the contest will be one involving unusual feeling and perhaps local and party animosities that may be carried to a dangerous extent.

As candidates for the office of Governor of California we hear mentioned the names of Thos. H. Selby, General John F. Miller and Charles Clayton of San Francisco, Geo. C. Perkins of Butte, Lieutenant-Governor Romualdo Pacheco and James J. Green, by the Republicans; Senator Hager, Colonel Joseph P. Hodge and Philip A. Roach of San Francisco, Wm. Irwin of Siskiyou, Major Snyder of Sonoma, Wm. Watt of Nevada, Thomas Findley of Grass Valley, John Boggs of Colusa, and C. T. Ryland of Santa Clara, by the Democrats; John Bidwell of Butte, James Anthony of Sacramento, J. F. Swift of San Francisco, A. P. Catlin of Sacramento, W. C. Norton of Placer and F. S. Freeman of Yolo, by the Independents.

To The Press of the State.

The Sacramento Record makes the following proposition, which may be of use to some of our readers:

The first and very serious difficulty that immigrants encounter on reaching California is to learn where they are wanted. Last year 60,000 of these people came into California and this year the number promises to reach 100,000. We make this statement from trustworthy data. The immigrants are carried through to San Francisco (which is the one place where most of them are not wanted), land there, and then turn to the only sources open to them for seeking employment: the Intelligence Offices. The people throughout the interior of the State who have employment to offer, do not habitually communicate with these offices at all. Thus it happens that there are at all times a large number of persons in San Francisco in want of work and a large number throughout the interior in want of labor, while a loss to each arises through their failure to come together—a loss that is inconvenient for the one and hard for the other to bear. We think that something quite effective can be done toward removing the difficulties of this situation in this way: The immigrants can be supplied at Ogden with a list of the people who want to employ labor of whatever sort, containing no more than a brief, succinct statement of the "want." As thus:

Blacksmith.—John Smith, Marysville, wants a blacksmith. Wages $—

Farm Hands.—J. T. Smith, farmer, residing 2 miles N. W. from Chico, wants 3 farm hands. Wages, $—.

Such a list, the length of one column of The Record may contain 300 announcements; and if sent out daily, replacing the older ones as new ones come in to be substituted, some thousands of separate notices would be given in the course of the year. The Record will be glad to appropriate one column of its space to this purpose (without charge), and engages that a sufficient number of copies shall be distributed through every immigrant train to reach the eye of all. One of the most anxious inquiries with immigrants as they approach California is—Where shall we get work? It is addressed to everybody they come in contact with. A list such as above described can be given to each as a specific reply to the inquiry. The real utility of a printed "Labor Exchange" such as this is easy to understand. We request the press throughout the State to lay our suggestion thus early before their readers. Quite a month will elapse before the strong tide of overland travel sets in; but it has already turned to run flood, and the sooner "The Record Labor Exchange" can be put into operation and become known, the more efficiently will it be able to subserve its purpose when "the rush" comes.

Austin Frantic With Joy.

Austin, Nevada, had a grand jollification on the night of the 9th over the receipt of the news that the Legislature had passed the Battle Mountain and Austin Railroad bill over acting-Governor Jewett Adam's veto. We can fully appreciate this joy at the new aspect of things. A dispatch to the Bay papers says:

Telegrams from Carson to-day announcing the success of the Austin and Battle Mountain Railroad bill in spite of the Governor's veto were hailed with the wildest joy. A collection was immediately taken up and a large amount raised for the purpose of celebrating the event. The streets were docorated with flags, business of all kinds was almost suspended, and to-night nearly every house in the city is brilliantly illuminated. Bonfires blaze on nearly all the cross-streets and fireworks are everywhere displayed. The Fire Department and an immense torch-light procession, headed by a band of music, are parading the streets, all the church bells are ringing artillery firing, mill whistles blowing, and the joyous shouts of the citizens rise peal after peal. The people are frantic with joy.

Active Work Ordered.

[From The Los Angeles Express, Feb. 12.]

Our people will be pleased to learn that Engineer Crawford has returned from San Francisco with orders to commence work at once on the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. A force of men will be put at work in the Cajon Pass so as to have that key ready for the iron by the time the road is built out to it. Ten months, it is estimated, will elapse by the time the road is completed to that point. A sufficient force will be employed to finish all the grading there by that time. Mr. Crawford comes here armed with full authority to proceed at once with the grading of the track below the city to tidewater, and with the construction of the projected wharf. The piles and timber have been purchased and will be shipped to the landing at the earliest moment. The wharf will cost about $30,000, and will be one of the most substantial structures on the Pacific Coast.

The representatives of the company whom Mr. Crawford met in San Francisco are all in dead earnest, and have the most exalted ideas of the value of the ore trade of our interior. They believe that our inland mines will exhibit developments that will in a few years tax the entire resources of the Independence railroad to accommodate. Indeed, the shipment of ore will hereafter, as they believe, form an industry in this State second to no other. The entire belt of ranges of mountains of Southeastern California and Southern Nevada is possessed of an exhaustless class of fire ores, which will bear shipment to the great reduction works of Europe, and the only requisites to filling these regions with a vast population of industrious miners, is transportation and an available outlet to the sea. Los Angeles possesses that outlet, and these ores will all find their way to tidewater through our city, building up a trade that will in a few years cause this county to become one of the very richest in the State. A railroad reaching to Pioche, as ours inevitably must, will become the channel of transportation to tidewater of the entire country lying south of a line running from White Pine, in Nevada, to Cerro Gordo in this State. The entire zone is covered with isolated ranges, all of which abound in valuable mines. Indeed we doubt, whether the same area of territory exists any where else in the world possessed of so rich and boundless a variety of minerals. It is the traffic of the people who will fill this vast territory that the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad will secure to this city and our adjoining valleys, and nothing less than a sodden and senseless disregard of the principles which underlie the logic of prosperity will cause our people to be backward in aiding this road.

The Mono Mine.

The case of John W. Gashwiler against Mathew T. Gisborn was on trial yesterday in Judge Morrison's Court. The action is brought to recover $40,000 for service rendered in making the sale of the Mono mine, situated in Toele county, Utah. The complaint states that Gisborn was prior to February 24, 1874, the owner of one-third of the mine and at that date he secured a bond from Obodiah Embody, Warren D. Heaton and William E. Miller, the owners of the other two-thirds' by which they agreed to sell their interests for $400,000, within sixty days from March 1, 1874. At the same time an extension of thirty days time was granted, provided that no important development was made within the mine during the sixty days, when the owners had the privilege of canceling the thirty days' extension, upon giving ten days' notice. Gisborn agreed that if Gashwiler and David C. Ferris would sell two-thirds of the mine he would pay them $20,000 each. The written agreement read "sale of the mine" instead of two-thirds. This was an omission. A sale of the two-thirds interest was finally made, and within the ninety days, to William A. Stevens of New York City for $600,000. Ferris returned to this city and assigned his interest in the sale to Gashwiler. The defense set up is that important developments were made in the mine within the sixty days from March 1st, and that the ten days' notice required to cancel the thirty days' extension was given by the owners; also, that the sale of the mine was not made in accordance with the agreement between Gisborn and Gashwiler, as reduced to writing by Ferris.—[S. F. Chronicle.

A Triumph over "Rebellious Ores."

Reno was in such a state of wild enthusiasm last Saturday evening as would have suggested to a stranger sojourning in the town, the idea that the news of some great political victory had just been received, which the partisans of the successful side were celebrating with the time-honored demonstrations sacred to such occasions. "Anvils were fired," says The Nevada State Journal, "bonfires were lighted, the services of the Reno Band were brought into requisition and all went merry as a marriage bell." The cause of all this blaze of excitement was the arrival by the afternoon stage of three bars of bullion from the Peavine Mining District. The value of the bars was but $2,500; but the importance of the occurrence consists in the fact that they were the first fruits from the rebellious ores of Peavine, and they establish the fact that those ores can be successfully and profitably worked by the McGlew furnace. It is stated that there are very large quantities of similar ore already in sight in the lower levels of the Peavine mines, thus assuring the permanency of the camp and justifying the belief that Washoe county will, in the future, contribute her share to swell the already prodigious volume of the mineral wealth of Nevada.—[S. F. Chronicle, Feb. 10.

Preparing to Build.

There is more building in contemplation in this place for the coming Spring than ever before, and it is probable that the amount of brick that will be brought into requisition on Main street alone will not be less than two millions. Mr. E. Jacob has bought additional ground adjoining the old Masonic hall, and on the corner of Church and Main streets, and intends to tear down and rebuild so as to cover all his ground. Sweet & Co., are preparing to extend their two-story brick back to Shinbone alley, and move their salerooms into the main building. We hear of not less than four other brick structures which it is proposed to erect on Main street, one of which, if built, will require about six hundred thousand brick. Carpenters, masons and brick-layers are likely to be in demand here the coming year, and the price of lime, considering the demand, is altogether out of proportion to the ruling wages of California.—[Visalia Delta.

Asphaltum.

Mr. Stephen H. Olmstead, of Carpenteria, has leased about fifteen acres of his well-known asphaltum bed for a term of ten years, to the "Crushed Rock and Asphaltum Company," of San Francisco. The lessees will commence operations at once. The same company has leased the whole of Dr. H. M. Bigg's asphaltum bed, which adjoin that of Mr. Olmstead's. The successful carrying on of the large business that is proposed, will make it necessary to construct a wharf, for which the ocean frontage has peculiar advantages, as deep sea can be reached in a few hundred feet directly in front of the asphaltum beds.—[Santa Barbara Index.

Beecher's Opinion of Himself.

"Now are you really, after all, half a fool?" said a friend to Beecher the other day, in reference to some of his Tilton letters. "I was intended for a first-class fool," replied Beecher, "and have in me the material for that. When the rest of mankind were made up, there was a lot of waste material lying around, which was thrown together, and that's me."—[Brooklyn Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.

How to get Stamina. Iron frames and strong nervous systems are not the lot of all. But the feeble need not despair. By adopting the right means, they may live as long and enjoy life as much as their more robust neighbors. Physical invigoration is, however, necessary to this end; and while the spirituous tonics and nervines usually administered eventually depress both body and mind, DR. J. Pine Mountain.

Scott Broder writes that he is down 86 feet in the Last Chance, and is drifting for the ledge, which will be tapped in about 10 feet. The prospects for this mine are said to be magnificent. It is the intention to run a tunnel to tap the Last Chance and two other parallel ledges, one a lead mine, at a depth of 300 feet. It will require about 1,000 feet of tunnel to reach the latter. This is for the permanent working of the mines, for which a furnace is to be built this coming month. It is yet an unsettled question as to which route will be adopted for the shipment of the bullion; whether north to Wadsworth or south by this place to Bakersfield. It depends mainly as to the comparative railroad charges from the two places named. Pine Mountain will be of great benefit to this valley, no matter which route is taken for the bullion shipments, but vastly more so if the one in this direction should be selected, as we much hope it will. We have great hope of this district, for it is undoubtedly rich and extensive, and what is of nearly as much importance, is largely in the hands of working, energetic and wealthy men, particularly that portion controlled by the Messrs. Broders and Moffat.

About a Mudhole.

"Bill" Wheaton, as he signs himself, of George's Creek has favored us with quite a lengthy communication concerning the extensive mudhole in the public road opposite the upper end of the Shepherd place. Mr. Wheaton seems to think the Roadmaster is to blame for this cause for so much swearing by the teamsters, who at times spend one or two days in getting their loads through this bottomless piece of road. There is no question but the place referred to needs attention; but who is to do it? There is not a dollar in this district road fund; on the contrary John B. White, the Roadmaster has expended something near seventy-five dollars on his own responsibility over and above the amount of the district fund at his disposal. He has, as Mr. Wheaton admits, recently done some advantageous work at the place complained of, but much more is needed. Officially, he cannot do all that is required to make it a good road. If the community will turn out, as some of them are willing to do, and assist him for a day or two the nuisance can easily be abated, and that is about the only way that it can be done that we know of.

"How This World is Given to Lying."

This was the dispirited remark of a friend of ours writing from Lone Pine, and based on the fact that the whole story about Beaudry having been robbed by a gang of Mexicans and compelled to issue divers furnace orders, in lieu of the coin, was from begining to end an infernal no such a thing. What gives force to the quotation is that the story of the robbing, which never occurred, was given with all the minutia even to the number and No's. of the checks, to-wit: from No. 1317 to 1424 inclusive; how, sitting on the ground. Mr. Beaudry filled them out, and all that. Yes, this world is given to lying sure enough. Mr. Beaudry himself assures us he was neither attacked, robbed or scared by any robbers within seven miles of Darwin City or any other city.

Change of Programme.

We are requested to announce a slight change to be made in the programme for the theatricals for Monday evening. The ladies and gentlemen who so kindly proffered their services in offering a song on the occasion, each and all request to be excused to the end that a substitute may be put on which they are satisfied will prove generally more pleasing. This substitute will be announced on the occasion, if it is not deemed that too much time has already been occupied in the set plays. The manager feels truly reluctant to make any change in the published programme, whether for better or for worse, but feels constrained to accede to the desires of the parties principally interested.

From Panamint and Coso.

P. P. Gerrish, having finished some extensive building contracts at Panamint, arrived home a day or two since. Mr. Gerrish informs us that the machinery for the company's big mill was arriving rapidly, and that the carpenters in force were set to work last Monday on the frame of the building. The future outlook of the camp is as promising as any one could wish. He likewise visited Coso or Darwin on his way home. He thinks the equal of the mining prospect of this camp does not exist in this State.

Favorite Horse Killed.

The other morning Mr. Reddy's two large buggy horses were turned loose for a short time in the stable yard. When the young man having them in charge returned about half an hour later he soon discovered that by some unaccountable means, old Rowdy, the favorite of the two, had broken the bone of the fore leg near the shoulder in a number of pieces. With the greatest regret it was decided that he would have to be killed, so he was shot at once.

Left Out.

In a notice last week intended to convey merely an approximate idea of Darwin City as it is with respect to its buildings, we accidently omitted all mention of the most complete establishment in the place. This is E. A. Reddy & Co's saloon, one part of which will in after years, when Darwin is a city in fact, have the distinction of being pointed out as the very first wooden building erected in the town.

Preparing for Business.

Messrs. McCowan & Ekeland, whose advertisement will be found elsewhere, are preparing to put up a large and elegant building at Darwin in lieu of their present canvass, though quite popular, saloon establishment. The new building is to be fitted up with billiard tables and all similar conveniences.

Taboose Station.

Harry Wright keeps on fixing up and improving this popular station, and now invites travelers and all to give him a call. We will guarantee they will find no cause of complaint, no matter whether one or a dozen call there as travelers or go for a pleasant ride and pasear. Harry is one of the few who knows how to keep a hotel.

For Sale.

We would call attention to Mr. Hoff's advertisement under the above head. He offers some desirable real estate in Lone Pine, a well established business and a splendid chance for good bargains in goods of various kinds. Call and see him all in search of bargains of either kind; also those who have unsettled accounts.

Preaching.

Rev. Mr. Jennings will preach in this place to-morrow at 11 A. M., also at 7:15 in the evening.

Water at Coso.

Since Mr. Beaudry has got his water pipes in operation from the springs down to the Panamint road, the price of the article, delivered into Darwin, six miles by wagon, has been reduced from ten to five cents per gallon. In addition to the supply from these springs for which pipes are to be laid in a few week clear into the town, Mr. Beaudry is also preparing to carry in that from Granite Springs at old Coso. He is now making the survey. The distances is about nine miles, a mile or so of it over rough granite boulders, which will involve considerable extra cost in laying the pipes secure from frost and heat. The supply will then be ample for a number of furnaces and a large city; and for both of which it will ere many months be required. We are assured that Mr. Beaudry will have the water in ready for any steam engine that may be started there, no matter how soon that may be.

Will Celebrate.

Messrs. Ellers & Doyle of the Bishop Creek House propose to give a grand ball next Monday in honor of Birthington's Washday.

Telegraph for Panamint.

[From The Panamint News, Feb. 13.]

We are glad to be able to announce through our columns the important fact that telegraph communication between Panamint and the outside world is soon to be an accomplished fact. The Western Union Telegraph Company, by R. R. Haines, Superintendent of the Los Angeles District, has addressed the following letter to My Harmon, lumber dealer here, and who, if he receives the contract, will have the poles sawed at the mill near Kernville:

OFFICE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH CO.
LOS ANGELES, February 2, 1875.

MY HARMON, ESQ.—Dear Sir: We are still moving in the matter of the telegraph between Bakersfield and Panamint. The Directors demand a positive proposition for poles and freight before saying "Go ahead." I should be pleased to receive a proposition from you to drop the poles on the line from Bakersfield along the Railroad to Allen's Camp, and from thence along the road to Kernville and Panamint. We shall want the poles as early as they can possibly be procured, and put upon the ground as speedily thereafter as the work can be accomplished. Delivery will be commenced from Kernville and work west from that point. The poles are to be 8x8 and 4x4, twenty feet long. Please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Yours, truly, R. R. HAINES,
Dist. Supt.

Mr. Harmon informs us that the poles can be sawed and distributed over the whole route by the middle of next May. The Telegraph is the forerunner of the railroad, the press is an auxiliary to both, and we are glad we are in a position to assist both. With these three, properly conducted, the future of Panamint is assured. But all three will need to be encouraged by a liberal patronage. All should lend a helping hand, for by so doing you are helping yourselves.

Washington News.

President Grant's special message on Arkansas matters excites general surprise and indignation at Washington.

Luttrell made a very able and convincing argument against the demands of the Southern Pacific Railroad of California, for authority to change its route and extend its line. He showed, in fact, that their land grant stands forfeited, and that they have only color of title, and seek to gain perfect title, by a stratagem.

In the Senate, Clayton moved to take up the President's Arkansas message. Edmund made a point of order against the motion, and Clayton withdrew it. Frelinghuysen, from the Railroad Committee, said they had considered at this session seven railroad subsidy bills, and had determined not to report any of them favorably. The Salt Lake, Portland and Dalles Railway subsidy bill was then defeated by 26 to 2. The Senate considered and debated the District of Columbia bill, but adjourned before a vote on its passage was reached.

In the House, the tariff and tax bill was taken up and discussed in Committee of the Whole. After a speech from "Pig Iron" Kelley, the bill was laid aside, and the House took up the pension bill, which appropriates something over $30,000,000. This bill was laid aside in favor of private bills on the calendar.

An extra session of the United States Senate will be called by presidential proclamation, to consider and dispose of treaties laid before that body for confirmation.

A desperate effort is to be made by this Congress to admit Colorado and New Mexico as States. Their admission might complicate the next Presidential election if it goes to the House.

It is said $500,000 will be voted by the Appropriation Committee toward the Centennial.

Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.
BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.
DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

—Never trust with a secret a married man who loves his wife, for he will tell her, and she will tell her sister, and her sister will tell everybody.

—The Santa Cruz Sentinel compares that town to "the dimple on beauty's cheek." More cheek than dimple, probably.

—David Kalakaua has a great liking for children. He says he never saw one that didn't look good enough to eat.

—Don Carlos seems determined to make a great bustle in Spain, and that's why he talks so much of Hispania.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Our Railroad Country.

[From The Los Angeles Express.]

Mr. John J. Charnock, of Nevada, has written a letter on the subject of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, and greatly approving the line which it will adopt as it proceeds eastward. He says:

In the first place, it is the only practicable route for a road running east for a distance of from 200 to 250 miles south of the Central Pacific Railroad. From the Humboldt river, which the Central runs along, to divide between the Humboldt river and the Colorado, run, in a north and south direction, high ranges of almost unbroken mountains, forming a complete barrier to railroad building east and west. But going south after you pass that divide, the ranges begin to break up, just as the Sierras do, into isolated ranges, with tolerably level valleys to build a railroad through to the Utah line; and the climate is dry and mild. Snow never lays, unless for a short time, or on the mountains, or a few elevated valleys. The road bed in the valleys will never be effected by heavy rains or frosts, and the poorest kind of timber will hardly ever rot. Now as to the resources of this almost unknown land, which although it has been traveled over so long, is but little known yet. We will suppose after the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad leaves Cajon Pass it runs nearly north to Independence or Panamint, and from there it gradually curves round (not far from Gold Mountain or Alida Valley) and takes a northeasterly direction via Rallie to Pioche or near there, where we will leave it for the present and return to the resources of the country. After you leave Cerro Gordo, in California, and north of the proposed road, are a large number of mining districts. I will mention a few: Gold Mountain, Alida Valley, Silver Peak, Columbus, Montezuma District, San Antonio, Volcano, Ione, Jefferson, Belmont, Hot Creek, Tybo, Reveille, Moray, Patterson, etc.; and south of the road, or near the line of it, Groom District, Tem Piute, Worthington, Hiko, Pahranagat, Pioche, and a number of other districts. Some of these mines are well developed and are paying well now; but the largest bodies of ore, like the Hiko mines, are nearly always of low grades, and will not pay to work until a railroad is built through that country. The ores in some districts are very rich, and they are sometimes hauled 200 miles to the mills. There is some gold in portions of the country, as I have seen specimens of quartz from Alida Valley that I was told assayed, one piece $47,000 per ton in gold, and another piece $42,000 per ton in gold and silver. But these small small veins of rich ore seldow amount to much. Large bodies of base ore are the best for a railroad. And refractory ores, that cannot be worked at small mills or furnaces, but would be run to this place on the cars and worked here, if you build good works, which I have no doubt you will in time. Or can be shipped to Swansea or Newark, N. J. But the most important thing about this proposed road is the market it will open for the farmers of Los Angeles county. Arizona can more than supply herself with hay and grain and fruit. Northern Nevada, Idaho and Montana can produce all the hay, grain and vegetables they require; but Southern Nevada, being almost destitute of creeks or rivers to irrigate with, except at the extreme south, and this is out of the reach of the proposed road in the desert, and on account of the dry climate, not being able to raise anything without irrigation, will always have to be supplied with fruit, hay, grain and vegetables from some other country; and the nights in Summer are too frosty to raise fruit. And the market will be immense as soon as the country can be developed by railroads.

Coso Mining District.

[Correspondence of The S. F. Chronicle.]

DARWIN CITY, COSO DISTRICT, INYO COUNTY, CAL., Feb. 5.

Coso is an old mining district, having been worked twelve years ago, but then for gold only. Indian troubles and a number of other circumstances combined caused it to be abandoned, and until a few months past mining has only been carried on by a few Mexicans, who made good wages with their arastras and gold-bearing quartz. The excitement at Panamint, the large influx of population to that section of the country, and the consequent exploration of every foot of ground in the surrounding country, brought to light the immense deposits of argentiferous galena in this district. Rafael Cuervo, a Mexican, and subsequently the two Brown brothers, were the first discovers and locators.

THE MINES

Are located about ten miles northeast of the old town of Coso, in a low range of hills, west of Darwin canyon, which empties into the Panamint valley. They occupy a low range of hills, about seven miles long, in limestone and granite formation, and shows very large croppings traceable for miles and running north and south principally. The main mines, as far as now developed, are the Defiance, owned by Pat. Reddy of Independence, into which a tunnel has been run, now about sixty feet long and going completely through a compact body of high grade galena, without having reached the end wall as yet; the Grand, owned by Messrs. Gregg, Darrah and the two Brown brothers, where two shafts have been sunk to the depth of fifty feet, the ledge being about thirty feet wide and showing good ore all through; the Promontory, is owned by Rafael Cuervo, is about forty feet wide now; the New York, St. Louis, Lucky Jim, Christmas Gift, Darwin, Montana, Snowflake, Refugia and various others, too numerous to mention. All of them are worked very easily and have fine prospects above ground. No wonder then that is pushed along rapidly by the hopeful and deserving miners. The wondering inquiry is now, how these mines could have laid there so long, in such close proximity to Cerro Gordo, whose Union mine is valued at $1,500,000, and in the same belt with Cerro Gordo, Lida Valley and Sylvania District, without having been discovered long ago. But at the same time we must confess that there is a serious drawback to the camp: the scarcity of wood and water—V. Beaudry, of Cerro Gordo, has bought out the most valuable water interests, and is engaged in laying pipes to the town of Darwin and will have sufficient water for domestic and smelting purposes running in there by the 1st of April. I understand, also, that he has made some mining purchases with a view of erecting smelting works in the Spring. Coal is being burnt now by some parties and will be delivered at a cost of probably from twenty-five to thirty cents per bushel.

A FLOURISHING TOWN.

The great prospect of the camp gave birth to quite a flourishing town already, and quiet a nice town is laid out at the foot of the mountains on the plains. It is easy of access to the largest teams and from all directions, and consists now of a good hotel, two or three restaurants, two butcher shops, a livery stable, two stores, six or seven saloons, a lawyer's and a doctor's office, besides quite a number of private houses. A small drug store is also on the road. The Brown brothers are building a fine, neat residence, which would do credit to any place. Inyo county thus bids fair to become one of the most prominent, if not the prominent mining county in the State. Panamint, Wild-Rose and Argus Districts, with their high-grade milling ores; Coso District, with its immense lead, silver, copper and gold deposits and veins; Cerro Gordo, with its silver and lead; the Eclipse, Waucoba, Kearsarge, Alabama Districts, and all along the Inyo mountain up to the White mountains and Piute Districts, all will combine together to make Inyo county prosperous, and to insure a speedy completion of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad which is needed so much. PROSPECTOR.

A War of Succession.

The royal palace of Pekin is a city in itself. The outside world can obtain no information of what transpires therein except what the Government chooses to impart. It was reported a few days ago that the lovely Alute, inconsolable for the death of her husband, the late Emperor, had committed suicide. But this is now contradicted, and it is stated that instead of having shuffled off this mortal coil she is about to give an heir to the Empire. Meanwhile a child three years of age, and a brother of the late Emperor, has been proclaimed sole guardian of this earth and King of Kings. The result will probably be a war of succession which for years may agitate the vast and unwieldy mass known as China.—[S. F. Bulletin.

—When a conductor on a Boston car shouted "Ruggles street!" the other night, a fellow, who had been dozing in the corner, started up and said, "Ruggles treat! Where's Ruggles? Show me Ruggles, quick."

—"Sally, what time do your folks dine?" "Soon as you go away—that's missus' orders."

Size in the Eye.

Size with the eye, as with the brain, is generally conceded to be a measure of capacity. A large eye has a wider range of vision, as it unquestionably has of expression, than a small one. A large eye will take in more at a glanch, though perhaps with less attention to detail, than a small one. Generally speaking, large eyes see things in general, and small eyes things in particular. The one sees many things as a whole, considering them in a philosophical or speculative way, often seeing through and beyond them; the other sees fewer things, but usually looks keenly into them, and is appreciative of detail. Some eyes, however, look at everything and yet see nothing.

Fullness of the eye, causing a bulging of the lower eyelid, is the well-known sign of language. Persons with this sign large have not only a speaking eye, but also a speaking tongue; whereof their fellows do not long remain in ignorance. A general projection or fullness of the eye above and below, which brings the eyeball forward on a line with the face and eyebrow, denotes the quality of physical perception, or the capacity to see quickly whatever appears upon the surface of things. A person with such an eye, on entering a room for the first time, would note rapidly the shape, size, arrangement and general appearance of the different articles of furniture in it, the color of the walls, curtains, etc.; take in with equal facility, the features, the color of eyes and hair, size and appearance of any person who might be present. In looking at a picture such a person would at once incline to examine the detail of color, number, grouping, attitude and costume of the figures composing it.—[Annual of Phrenology and Physiogomy.

THE NEW REGIME.

As a partial change has just taken place in the proprietorship of THE INDEPENDENT, it will be in order to state something of our intended plans as to its future course and management, so far as it concerns the public to know. This will require but a few words. Our plan is to go right along, as heretofore, doing the best we can for the credit and welfare for this section at large, so far as either or both may be affected or represented by a newspaper. The only ambition that either member of this firm has to satisfy lies wholely and solely within those limits. Politically speaking, THE INDEPENDENT cares nothing for any party, faction or partisan, nor, in that sense, any favors to offer or receive. We propose to express just such opinions of politics and party-men, should any occasion arise, as to us may seem best, whether it suits this party or that, this politician or the other, "either or neither."

We can truly say that we intend to spare no means at our command, and certainly no personal effort, to make THE INDEPENDENT a credit to Inyo county. If this effort is appreciated and reciprocated by the Inyo public, exactly in the same spirit with which it is to be made—a desire to do by all as we would be done by—we will most surely succeed.

P. A. CHALFANT,
H. L. CHILDS.

An Extra Session.

A Washington special says Senators generally admit that there is now little doubt that an extra session will be called to consider the Hawaiian treaty. Twenty-three new Senators will then be sworn in, and it is said one of the political purposes of an extra session is to compel Cameron of Wisconsin, Christiancy of Michigan, and other so-called Independent Senators to define their political status. "If" the dispatch says, "they shall choose to act with Sprague, Fenton and Schurz, who are themselves Independent, but don't attend the Republican caucus, they will be likely to be assigned very different positions on Committees than they will be in the case they classify themselves as Republicans on the Philadelphia platform." The impression gains ground that the tax bill will fail and that an extra session of Congress will be necessary.

Phrenology and Physiognomy.

Wells' Annual of Phrenology and Physiogomy for 1875 contains many Portraits, Biographies, and Characters of leading men; all the Presidents of the United States; Canon Kingsly; James Jick; Pere Hyacinth; Von Kaulbach; John Tyndall; John Laird; Characters in Shakespeare; Our Eyes—Blue, Black, Grey, Green, Large, Small, Almond, etc. with more than twenty illustrations; all about Sleep; Eating to Live, and Living to Eat; Blushing, Cause and Cure; Our Faces Open Books; Horse Phrenology; a Cheerful Face; What Am I Good For; and much other useful and entertaining matter. Large octavo, full of pictures, sent first post for 25 cents. Address S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

Louisiana.

A state of anarchy is reported to prevail in Louisiana, and there is practically no Government there. A body of turbulent young men overawe both parties and prevent compromise. Northern Democrats also flood New Orleans with telegrams advising against any compromise.

A New Party.

Efforts are being made in Washington by leading Liberal Republicans, and others not of the Republican faith to organize a National Independent People's Party. It is to be hoped the effort may be successful, for both of the old parties ought to go to their graves and the sooner the better.

May Go.

It appears from Washington dispatches that there is a prospect that Tom. Scott's Texas Pacific bill may pass the House; and also that it has more friends in the Senate than Senator Stewart represented. In short, that the U. P. and C. P. agents have been lying about it.

Strange Mortality.

There is, perhaps, no precedent for the extensive mortality that has recently prevailed among Congressmen. No less than five of the members elect have died within the last ten weeks, and four sitting members in the same period.

THE UNION SOLD.

The Sacramento Daily Union of last Saturday makes the formal announcement in effect, that from and after that date, the James Anthony, Paul Morrill Sacramento Union would cease to exist. Henceforth it is to be part and parcel of The Sacramento Record or Stanford organ.

Ordinarily the mere change of a newspaper proprietorship amounts to little more in public estimation than a similar change in any other piece of property of equal value, but here is an instance where such a change is fraught with greater and more significant importance than any similar event that has yet transpired or possibly ever will transpire on this coast. It is not a matter affecting a single locality but a whole State or country. Whatever its faults, however much we and the masses may have differed from its teachings upon matters of secondary importance, this practical demise of The Sacramento Union will be received with the deepest regret, accepted as a real misfortune for the entire State. From first to last it has proved itself the people's sturdy, steadfast friend. It has ever been their bold, honest and reliable champion, and now ends its high and honorable career by reason of this very championship. It has fought the people's fight against piratical wrong doers, no matter how wealthy or powerful, more successfully and to a better purpose than all our other newspapers combined, and the misfortune is, that there is no other able to continue the contest, or wholly capable of taking its place. It has at last been compelled to succumb to the enemy, but goes down with colors flying, effective and defiant in its farewell shot.

True, we have other independent, able and capable papers left, among which are some of perhaps greater circulation, and equal, if not superior enterprise, but none its equal in influence or that can at once take its place as the people's friend, or that have accomplished as much for the general good. Among them we may mention The Bulletin, of San Francisco, and quite as prominently, though within a much narrow sphere, The Mercury of San Jose, both outspoken and strong papers, but neither suited to soon take the place of The Union.

Henceforth the capital of this State is to be wholly and solely at the command of the railroad. Not a merchant, shop keeper or laborer in that fair city dare lay so much as a straw athwart the path of any of the railroad crew. A little more time, to vote away the few remaining feet of water front, as they will be required to do, and the citizens of Sacramento will be as effectually cut off from all chance of entering or leaving their city by boat or rail not controlled by Stanford, as though their city was enclosed by the great wall of China, and it is to be hoped they each and all will be made to pay well for it, and doff their caps at command besides. But other folks will object to this when they wish to visit their State Capital; will also object to having that capital body and soul in the hands of the great corporation at whose dictation its citizens were compelled to kill off their best friend, the paper which alone has dared contest this dictation. Their objections will be so strong that the State Capital will be removed beyond the reach of such influences at the very earliest possible opportunity, a fact Sacramento can count on with absolute certainty. But those "Sacramento property holders," will get the rolling mill Stanford promised them if they would kill The Union and only on that condition, and this may prove ample compensation for railroadizing the entire city, and the eventual loss of the Capital.

Though it may be no misfortune in political affairs, the demise of The Union will doubtless also cause the effectual burial of the aspiring Independent party of this State. And right here we are curious to know what Gov. Booth, Estee, Swift and other reputed leaders of that party, are doing with all their coin and ambition that they did not step in and sustain the paper that has made them, at least until after the coming election? We conclude the answer is, that these gentlemen are willing to consign their party to an early grave, believing that it does not possess sufficient vitality to stand the coming ordeal, and had better be laid away at once.

Another Railroad

There is a proposition before the public to build a railroad from our city to connect with the Los Angeles and Independence road, at or near Cajon Pass. Parties in San Francisco who have capital sufficient to complete a branch to that point, have declared their intention to subscribe liberally. They are satisfied that if railway connection is established from San Francisco to Shoo Fly Landing this section will be greatly benefited.—(San Bernardino Argus.)

—The President has issued a proclamation convening the Federal Senate in extra session on the 5th of March.

A WARNING TO OUR COSO FRIENDS.

Under the above head, The Panamint News of the 16th, gives the following:

From gentlemen of the highest standing and respectability, and who are well known all over the State, we learn that one or two parties in Coso, in their great anxiety to "make a raise" by disposing of their mines, are resorting to deceptive tricks which, if not checked by the better class of miners, will result in a serious injury to that district. Here is one, for instance, which was attempted to be practiced upon our informant a short time since: He had been examining several mines, when he was approached by some of the owners who pressed him to purchase. He thought the price asked was altogether too high. To convince him it was not, and that there was no trouble in getting buyers at the high figure, another of the owners, who had been kept in the background as a decoy, approached the party and proposed to strike a bargain for an interest in the mine at once. They then employed the stranger they were endeavoring to "rope in," who happened to be a legal gentleman, to make out the deeds, paying him therefor, in order to convince him there was no humbug in the sale, and hoping by this course that he would become excited and either purchase an interest in the same mine or offer a large sum for some others owned by the same parties. Instead, however, of this old and played-out trick producing the desired effect upon the stranger, it resulted in his becoming thoroughly disgusted and concluding to have nothing to do with the mines at all. The gentleman of whom we speak, is an old Californian, knows more about mines than a great many of the miners of Coso or of this camp, has seen all these tricks attempted before, and it was presumption on the part of a few men in Darwin to try to impose upon him in any such manner. This gentleman is not the only one on whom these men have attempted their tricks; we have heard of others, and that the same thing is being done to every one that comes into the district. This fraudulent manner resorted to by these fellows should be stopped at once by the better class of miners of Coso, or their camp will never amount to anything more than that to be conjectured by the drunken brain of a few hangers on, always found waiting for something to turn up. This gentleman came to Coso for the purpose of purchasing, provided the mines suited him. He was well pleased with all he saw of the mines, but was so disgusted with the style they adopted there of doing business, that he concluded that he wanted none of it. Every good miner should set his face against such practices, if necessary, his boot against the man who would practice it.

It so happens that the only person "roped in" in this matter is the editor of The News. Anyway he has assumed a good deal of responsibility in the indefinite manner in which these grave charges are brought, since they affect, whether true or false, an entire community, all by reason of the fact that no names of any of the parties concerned are even hinted at, and of course may be assumed to apply to one set of individuals as well as another. However, as we are satisfied The News acted with the best intentions in the matter, and as we have good reason to believe we understand fully the circumstances upon which its assertions are based we will endeavor to set this matter right by a brief statement of the facts:

The mine, which is doubtless referred to, is known as the Christmas Gift. It was located by a man named Tharp or Thorp, who shortly after sold a one-fourth interest each to Wm. Gill and Mr. Sevenoaks, the latter a mining expert who had spent a number of weeks at Darwin in the endeavor to secure by purchase or location sufficient interest to justify the erection of a furnace. He, no doubt, is the "partner" referred to in the above extract. Judge Hogan, the legal gentleman to whom reference is made, went to see the mine with a view to purchase. Sevenoaks at the same time was making a bone fide effort to secure the other half, and closed a bargain with Tharp that night, agreeing to give him a check on a San Jose bank for $5,000, one half to be paid conditional on developments of the mine, the other half without conditions. Judge Hogan offered $2,500, and no more, for the same interest. The bargain between Sevenoaks and Tharp was closed, the check drawn and the deed made out. But that night Tharp became alarmed about the payment or something, and burnt up the deed which was yet in his own hands, and returned the check. Gen. Evans and Judge Hogan left the next day for Panamint, and no doubt with the impression that the whole thing was done with a view of "roping" them in. But on the same day these gentlemen started, or certainly within a day or two after, Sevenoaks did close the original trade with Tharp, and together they started for San Jose, where Tharp was to receive unconditional payment of $2,500 and security for another $2,500 or the mine back again if the purchasers are not satisfied to keep it after doing a certain specified amount of work toward its development. It was a legitimate transaction, begun and ended precisely as if this wonderfully acute "old Californian" who knows so much, had never seen Darwin. There is a good deal more that might be said about these charges and persons interested, but we pass it with the simple request that if the above transaction is not the one meant by The News, that it will be good enough to set us right by giving specifications. It is not best to be too chary of persons in a case of this kind, where a community is made responsible for the acts of a few.

—When an editor of The London Times dies the paper says nothing about it.

Our Mono Letter.

[Correspondence of THE INYO INDEPENDENT.]

BENTON, Cal., February 19.

MESSRS. EDS: — Perhaps a synopsis of times in and around Benton is worthy of publication, as well as encouraging and interesting to some of your readers, especially the Grange portion of Bishop Creek and Round Valley more especially the latter.

Times were never known to be so dull at Benton since the discovery of America (or Benton), as they have been for the last two months; but prospects for business of all kinds for the coming Summer are very flattering.

ABOUT THE NEW FURNACE.

Mr. Albert Mack's new furnace is now completely in running order and is to be put into actual, and successful operation next Monday. It is a White's patent roasting furnace with Howell's improvement, and capable of roasting twelve tons in twenty-four hours. It cost $6,000 completed. We understand from pretty good authority that it is warranted to save the price of it clear of expense of running it in six months' run, or that much above what would otherwise be wasted. Mr. Mack is one of the most energetic of men and the people of Benton unite in wishing him success.

THE WITHERILL MILL.

Mr. Witherill has sold his mill and mine at Hutch's Canyon to a company from Virginia City; we are told the consideration is $65,000. The company that purchased go by the name of the Indian Queen Mill & Mining Company, superintended by Mr. John Howell, who has put an extra force to work in the mine, and is going to make various improvements in and around the mill to increase its capacity for working.

MINES.

The superintendent of the Commanche reports that he has struck a very large and rich body of ore which is six feet wide from wall to wall; and four assays from average ore average $1,100 per ton, "and how's that for high."

The Diana is looking better than ever, and as it tells for itself in this vicinity, we will give no further particulars, except that the owner, A. B. Willlams' is running his mill regularly on Diana ore and shipping about five bars per month weighing 90lb each, 94 per cent. silver, so we think A. B. will make a living. Several new discoveries have been made recently, one of which is Mr. Frank Hutchinson. Frank says he has as good a lead as the Blind Spring hill can afford, and he calls it the Bonanza. Another discovery is made by McClure & Brown formerly of Lida Valley. They report a well defined ledge two feet wide, which assays $2,323, the latter is no report but an actual fact, but where they found the rock and whether it exists in as large quantities as is reported we are not able to say.

A GOOD THING.

Among the improvements at Benton, and about as necessary as any, is a jail, which will be very handy as a lodging house for those who become unruly, from the effects of Kentucky wine or otherwise. It is a wooden structure, but substantial enough for the above mentioned purpose.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Creaser started last week for San Francisco on his regular trip for goods. Mr. Witherill also started for San Francisco. Mr. A. L. Greeley of Aurora gave us a call a few days ago on business for parties in San Francisco. We take pleasure in announcing the arrival of a son of Mr. J. C. Modie, by Mrs. Modie his wife, early on the morning of the 16th. The gentleman is now three days of age. And Benton is full of other strangers whose names we do not know. SNOB.

Law vs. Justice.

Once in a while human justice gets a flavoring of that manly indignation that is like a fresh breeze in a sultry zone. A curious instance, says The New York Tribune, comes from England, where, a short time ago, a poor woman was tried for the murder of her husband. The man was a miserable creature who had lived upon his wive's earnings and rewarded her by the cruelest beatings. At last the despairing woman, while being thus tortured, threw a steel which entered his brain and killed him. The jury could do no less than find her guilty, but the Judge refused to pass sentence upon her. "All the real right in the case," said his lordship to the prisoner, "was on your side, all the real wrong on your husband's, and God forbid that I should punish you. I will not allow it to be said by anybody that you are a convicted felon, for a conviction is not complete until a sentence is passed, and I mean to pass no sentence at all." The prisoner was then directed to enter into her own recognizances to come up for judgment if called upon; "and," said the Judge in conclusion, "nobody in the world will ever call upon you—God forbid there ever should."

The Statistician.

We are in receipt of the February number of this valuable book of 150 pages, and commend it to the attention of all who wish to keep right at hand a reliable authority upon many matters of every day experience too numerous to mention, besides a complete travelers' guide, corrected monthly, of every stage, steamboat and railroad route on the coast, prominent mines, number of shares and value of each, all the Pacific coast post offices, and similar matters of value to every one. Price $2 per year. Address L. P. McCarty, P. O. box 2,272, San Francisco.

Rose Spring District.

CERRO GORDO, February 21.

MESSRS EDS:—I am just in from a trip to Rose District, Panamint and the range west of Death Valley from the mouth of Townsends Pass to Marble Canyon. As for mineral there is enough, if there was a railroad to carry off, to keep all the furnaces in the country running from NOW TILL DOOM'S DAY.

A few days ago Mr, W. L. Hunter and I made some assays and enclosed you will find the buttons out of an eighth of an ounce of rock, and you can judge of the ore from that yourself. The most of the assays were from Porter's and Hunter's mines; there is one from the Garibalda and one from the North Star; the two last mines are owned by two Italian boy's by the name of Nossano, and I must say that the Garibalda is the best mine I ever saw on top of the earth. Porter and Hunter have some splendid mines, all good milling ore; plenty of water but the wood will have to be hauled about twelve miles from the north end of Telescope, but on a good grade and down hill. Mr. Hunter and myself looked out the route for the road. It can easily be made the finest road in the State, and to eventually control all Southern Nevada travel. As for Death Valley it is a hard country and I think the man that named it did not name it right; he ought to have called it

H—L'S KITCHEN.

I was always of the opinion that the story of the Gun Sight Ledge was a hoax but I have come to the conclusion that it is so near that hot place that the Old Boy can melt silver or anything else that comes along. Panamint is a big camp for a new one, but I was disappointed somewhat in the two mines I went to see. They were the Wyoming and the Stewart's Wonder; they may be good mines when there is more work done on them; I hope they will strike it bigger and better as they go down, for the company has done a great deal of work; they are now building a splendid foundation for a mill.

AT CERRO GORDO

Things are going along as usual; both furnaces running on snow water, and tonight it is just "a howling, snowing, and blowing." Simpson has not returned yet, but the boys are still working in the Potosi tunnel. They are in about 500 feet and have struck a fine ledge; I think it will prove a good one; it is defined and is 2½ to 3 feet wide.

T. M. DONOUGH.

[The buttons mentioned were duly received but as yet we have had no opportunity to have them weighed, therefore cannot give indicated values of the ore, but which, evidently from the size of the buttons, must run away up in the hundreds. There is not a doubt but that Rose Spring District is bound sooner or later, to rank among the first in the county.—EDS.]

Asked God to Help Her.

The Danville (Ky.) Advocate says: "An interesting little daughter of Prof. C., of this city, last Summer, in eating a watermelon, got one of the seeds lodged in her windpipe. An effort was made to dislodge it, but proved ineffectual, and it was thought that the child would have to be taken to one of the large cities to have an operation performed by a skillful surgeon. To this she was decidedly opposed, and pleaded with her mamma to tell her if there was no other way of relief. Finally, in order to quiet her childish fears, her Christian mother told her 'to ask God to help her.' The little one went into an adjoining room, and shortly thereafter came running to her mamma with the seed in her hand, and her beautiful and intelligent face lighted up with joy. In response to the eager inquiry of the mother, the little one said she had asked God to help her, and while she was playing she was taken with a severe cough, in which she threw up the seed."

A Proclamation.

For the benefit of whom it may concern, H. N. Bolander, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, publishes the following: "Learning that efforts are being made to introduce immediately some of the new books recently adopted by the State Board of Education, I hereby notify all parties interested that none of the new books can be used before June, 1875, and any district using them previous to that date will lose its apportionment of school moneys. In the case of the Readers, the Sixth District Court has granted an injunction against the introduction of the Pacific Coast series of Readers, until the legality of the State Board of Education in adopting said series of Readers can be judicially and finally determined."

Works Well.

The Hyde Steam Wagon, employed on the farm of Mr. Ca., having been provided with a suitable gang of plows, is now doing excellent work. It is employed, at present, in plowing a tract of land a mile in length. It travels at a rapid rate, leaving behind it a strip of well cultivated ground 12 feet in width. For a large share of the tractive work of the farm, it is proving itself to be not only much better but far less expensive than horses.—[Bakersfield Courier.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

How to get Stamina. Iron frames and strong nervous systems are not the lot of all. But the feeble need not despair. By adopting the right means, they may live as long and enjoy life as much as their more robust neighbors. Physical invigoration is, however, necessary to this end; and while the spirituous tonics and nervines usually administered eventually depress both body and mind, DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS invariably supply new vigor to the frame, while they regulate every disordered function. n24414

—Mrs. Moulton was on the witness stand, February 19, in the Beecher case. Her testimony was to the effect that Beecher had confessed to her the sin he is accused of, and did so repeatedly.

—The Nevada Assembly, by a large majority, has passed a bill creating a State Board of Equalization of taxes. Its design is to reach and justly and equally tax the property of the Central Pacific Railway, —Bill King informs the Legislature of Minnesota that they have no right to demand his resignation on account of his taking money from the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and that he will not tell what he did with the money till he gets ready. He has no idea of resigning his seat in Congress.

P. REDDY,

An Explanation.

As we never have nor never intend to purposely misrepresent any mining or other fact, we take this opportunity to set ourselves right concerning a statement we made relative to the Guadalupe mine at Darwin, and since referred to by a very observing corresdent of The Panamint News. In a brief review of some of the leading mines of New Coso, some three weeks since, we stated it was in part based on personal observations. Some of the mines we saw, and some we did not see, among which was the Guadalupe. One of the principal owners of this mine, who is one of our leading and most reliable merchants and citizens, V. Hoff of Lone Pine, stated to us the particulars given in the original report, but as we have since learned, we misunderstood him as to the distance the tunnel had been run. He said "they were running a tunnel one hundred feet," and not as we took it "that they had run a tunnel in one hundred feet," etc. The distance actually run at that time was twenty feet and though this correspondent seems to imply that no such mine exists, yet we will state it can be found, tunnel and all "but a few hundred feet west of the Grand."

How They Succeeded.

Receiver Thos. May owns some hay land down near the river, and with T. F. A. Connelly's help set fire to some old grass a day or two ago with a view of putting the ground in good condition for the coming crop. They succeeded admirably—not only burnt the old grass and stubble smack smooth off but several tons of hay in stack likewise a hay press, besides having to work themselves almost into an attack of dyspepsia or the jamtods in order to save their horses from being roasted alive. But all the ground in that bend of the river and some besides can be mowed this Summer without the least trouble from the old grass or hay in stack, or the old press.

Lone Pine and Panamint Road.

At a meeting of the stockholders held last week pursuant to notice, it was decided to turn the entire management and ownership over to John Shepherd, the conditions being that he proceed immediately to put it in the best possible condition for teaming; then to collect tolls till he is reimbursed for his outlay, after which all contributors are to be paid back pro rata. The object in view is to insure a good road and the best plan to accomplish this was to make it an undivided responsibility in this way. It is in good hands and teamsters will not long have any occassion to growl because of crooks and pitches on the Panamint Darwin-Lone Pine Toll Road.

For Sale.

By reference to "New Advertisements," it will be seen that Curt. Harvey offers for sale his entire blacksmith interest at Lone Pine. We have reason to believe this shop is and has been, doing a very large and fair paying business and no doubt, here is an excellent opportunity for some good blacksmith and wagon maker to establish himself well.

Pioneers Meeting.

Ye Taboose Eaters will please notice that the first annual meeting of the Pioneer Society takes place next Wednesday. The principal, but not the only business to be attended to is the election of officers. See notice under new advertisemens.

To Contractors.

Attention is called to the advertisement calling for proposals to remove the Bend City bridge.

Dance.

We are told that they had the most enjoyable dance of the season at Lone Pine, Wednesday evening.

The Theatrical Entertainment.

The second exhibition of the Amateur Troupe took place last Monday night pursuant to announcement, and was a good success in every parti cular. The large Court room was more completely packed with people, large and small, from far and near, then it ever was before on any occasion. Every foot of available space was utilized to accommodate the throng, and still there were some who could not find even standing room.

Manager Parker is entitled to credit for the caste of the several pieces, each player apparently having the very part he or she could render best or most naturally, which is the perfection of even stage playing. Dignified, ladylike and matronly Mrs. Kate Ashton in the "Last Loaf" was remarkably well personified by Miss Ellen Eudey, while, as her daughter, young and loving "Lilly," Lula Lewis was perfection. Miss Graham, the faithful "help," through good and bad fortunes, now sustaining the distressed family, then scolding stuttering, despicable Tom Chubbs, and again cajoling and loving her other suitor, good Dick Bustle, played as if it was no play, as if it was real life and of course pleased everybody. Matlack, as stuttering Chubbs, Harry Hansen, (Lilly's lover), and subsequently as a colored sport of the blackest dye and as Tom Trapp, the apothecarie's friend and chum, displayed a versatility of talent not often excelled. Parker, (Mark Ashton), as a happy father, then a driveling drunkard, next a ragged, remorseful and deeply repentant sot, fully conscious of the ruin his weakness had wrought, had a most difficult part to play, as also did Childs (Caleb Hansen) as an unscrupulous rich old villian, bent upon carrying his point though he sent his oldest friend to a dishonored grave. The tragic interest of the whole presentation depended upon their rendition to the life of these unpleasant characters, and as neither was playing his own natural character, they had to adopt the usual stagy manner, but both with really excellent effect.

The pleasantest, possibly the best rendition of any of the male characters in this play was George Gill's "Dick Bustle," and he certainly succeeded to admiration as the fidgety, jealous apothecary, Taraxicum Twitters. The most striking success in this farce was Miss Rose Eudey's "Peggy," Taraxicum's petulant maid of all work. "Peggy" made a decided hit. Miss Ida Hardy, who well played a leading part in the former exhibition, was absent until a few days previous to the time set for this entertainment on which account she declined to take any but a minor part, which was a "Cicely" in this farce. There was but little to call out her powers, but that little she did well and looked well besides. Late Gill made his debut in this farce as "Tim Bolus" and got off an idiotical case of poisoning as well as anybody.

The ludicrous farce of the "Three Sports," partly spoiled by a little accident, was well played by Matlack, Lafe and George Gill, the two former in highly "colored" characters. Matlock and George Gill deserve high praise for their successful rendering of so many parts, and the whole troupe for their energy in the extensive work they had to do in putting on these three plays in such good style.

Mrs. B. L. Brown presided with good effect at the piano, and the music received a valuable addition from W. H. Huff's excellent flute-playing. The writer hereof takes pleasure in according to himself sufficient praise to make up for what others withhold, for his vim and energy, (taste and delicacy of touch not considered), with which he manipulated the bull fiddle, when a big noise was deemed a proper substitute for good music.

Fire Alarm.

Early Monday morning the roof of the parsongage took fire from the stove pipe, and was soon all ablaze. Almost simultaeously with the alarm given by Mrs. M. S. Clark and Mr. Jennings who were in the sitting room, about half the town was on the ground and organized as a fire brigade. Such effective work was done with buckets for a fire engines, and by tearing off shingles, that, in a few moments, the threatened conflagration was ended. And then Parson Jennings said he had learned something, to-wit. That to secure a good congregation without delay he need only cry "fire!" or "may be," said he on reflection, "it might answer as well if I were to put a little more fire in my sermon."

Left Us.

It is with real regret that we announce the final departure of Jas. E Parker, with whom we have been so long and intimately associated in the publication of THE INDEPENDENT, and still longer and nearer in the ties of brotherhood; and as we have reason to know, it was with even deeper regret on his part that he thus, possibly forever, quits the scenes and breaks up the warm and pleasant associations of the past few (to him at least) eventful years. But filial, as well as personal duty, calls him to Virginia City, Nevada, for which place he took his departure Thursday morning.

Returned.

P. Reddy Esq, who was in attendance at the late term of the District Court at Bakersfield arrived here a few days since, and now thinks he has settled down to work. He paid a visit to San Francisco, and not without accomplishing something for at least one of our mining districts as will soon be manifest.

Will Take the Field.

Assessor Dillion is preparing for his annual inquiry into the financial status of each tax payer of Inyo—in other words, will begin assessing with the beginning of the fiscal year, Monday next.

To Meet.

The Grand Jury is to meet next Monday. In addition to considerable criminal matters to inquire into there are some other affairs that should receive due attention. We have no charges to make against any officer or person either directly or by implication but it is suggested that county official bonds, Hospital, Jail and similar matters should be subjected to a rigid inquiry. If these things are all right and satisfactory as they probably are in the main, they will bear the investigation without harm, and if they are not it is the duty of this jury to know it and suggest a remedy.

Grange Corporation.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the County Clerk, Saturday last, by the Bishop Creek Grange for the purpose of building a Hall, Store House and the carrying on of a general merchandised business. The capital stock is $10,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $10 each. Place of business, Bishop Creek, Inyo County, California. The incorporators are John Clark, John C. Mills, Fred. Schwartz, Oliver Cromwell, J. W. and Andrew Inuman. Term of eistence twenty years.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors, Bell and Laird, present, met in special session this week pursuant to notice. The business transacted consisted in the appointment of A. C. Hanson as Justice of the Peace at Darwin, W. C, Smith for the same position at Panamint, and proposals for the removal of the Bend City bridge as set forth in the advertisement in another column. Adjourned till Tuesday, March 15.

Furnace for Darwin.

We have it from reliable authority that Tyler & Co., a San Francisco firm, intend to have a custom furnace running at Darwin within the next six weeks. It is quite probable that at least two others will be started shortly after.

The Railroad.

Engineer Crawford returned from San Francisco with instructions to proceed at once in the work of building the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. Wharf building at Truxton will commence as soon as the material arrives. Grading will be commenced at the beach on the first of next week. The route of the road is not determined on. If the Company are compelled to build it themselves, it will probably pass one to three miles to the east of this city proper. It is expected that the road will be completed from Truxton to Cajon Pass within the next five months. —[Wilmington Enterprise, Feb. 18.

Panamint Freights.

The Wilmington Enterprise of the 18th says: "At least twenty twelve-mule teams were loading last Saturday at Spadra for Panamint."

—The Second Controller of the Treasury has decided that the bridge between Council Bluffs and Omaha is a part of the Union Pacific Railroad, and has instructed that Government freight shall be paid for pro rata per mile over it the same as over any other portion of the road.

Chavez, the lieutenant of Vasquez, is known to have been in the northern part of San Luis Obispo county a few days ago. He was in company with seven or eight half-breeds. The whole party were armed with revolvers, but carried no guns.

—The bill amending the revised statutes, so as to prevent the naturalization of the Chinese, was, on motion of Senator Sargent, passed in the Senate on the 13th, and now awaits the signature of the President to become a law.

—Mr. Page has been promised an opportunity to bring up in the Federal House of Representatives his bill for the sale of timber lands in California, Oregon, and the Territories, and will address the House in support of it,

—Applications for space at the Centennial are already so great that the erection of separate buildings for special purposes will be indespensible.

—Newton Morgan, one of the San Francisco poll tax forgers, has been sentenced to confinement in the State Prison for the term of fifteen years.

—The terrible cold weather in the Northwest has killed all the trees in the extensive fruit growing district of Western Michigan.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. MEDICAL.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE ASCENSION.

[From the Spanish of Luis Ponce de Leon.]

Good Shepherd, tell thou leave
In this low vale the flock that was thy care
Afore to nine and give,
While through the purer air
Thou rises'th up to fields forever fair?

They who, supremely blest,
Until the dawn of this unhappy day
Leaned on thy loving breast,
To whom on earth's all they
Harken or look when thou art far away?

What comeliness or grace
Can they whose eyes beheld thy beauty see
In other form or face?
What music will not be
Harsh to the ears that harkened once to thee?

Who now upon the deep
Shall look, and curb its fury? Who shall lay
The stormy winds asleep?
What lode-star's friendly ray,
When thine is hid, shall guide the vessel's way?

Why change our happy state,
O, envious clouds, to heaviness and tears?
How proud of their new height
Thy shining folds appear!
How blind and weak are those who fain would leave us here!

The Rival Babies.

[From The Detroit Post.]

Uncle Luther Beecher's grand co-operative baby show, which was to have been one of the features of the poultry and dog exposition at Young Men's Hall, is not visible to the naked eye as yet, but it came very near making a start on Saturday afternoon. Two women with babies entered the parlor set aside for the little popsey-wopseys, and taking seats on the opposite sides of the room, proceeded to stare at each other suspiciously. One was a tall female with auburn hair, and the other was a little lump of a women with a determined look. Although they were alone in the room, neither spoke, but they commenced to unpack their offspring.

The auburn-haired lady finally produced from the midst of innumerable wrappings a pale, scrawny looking infant, wearing considerable gold chain and an expression of settled melancholy. The other baby was a chip of the old block, so to speak—a corpulent cherub with puffy cheeks and big eyes, who proceeded to suck his thumbs with great composure.

The silence was becoming oppressive when the tall woman broke in. She remarked with affected solicitude:

"What is the matter with your baby mum? The poor little thing looks quite unwell."

The little woman's black eyes snapped, but she answered with composure: "Minerva Geraldine was never sick a day in her life, madame, and she is sixteen months and ten days old. Has your little one been ailing long?"

The tall woman's hair began to raise up, but she pretended to be looking to see where the pin was pricking her sad-faced babe, and made no reply. Presently she wound the gold chain around her finger in an abstracted manner so that the other women would see it.

The rival mother produced a coral necklace with a blue locket, and carelessly clasped it about Minerva Geraldine's neck.

Then the other in tones of alarm exclaimed: "Why, Alphonso, have you lost your little gold ring?" Alphonso, who was about thirteen months old, vouchsafed no reply, but only looked sad, and his mother, after a brief search, produced the ring from a needle case, and, with a glance of triumph, forced it on his finger.

The little woman was pale, but compressed her lips with stern determination. Reaching down into her basket she brought out a silver mug and a wax doll with real hair. She trembled with excitement, for she had shown her full hand. She won; the silver mug settled it.

"Did you intend to put that overgrown monstrosity on exhibition here?" inquired the fiery-haired female, glaring wildly at her rival.

"Why don't you hire out your living skeleton to a side show?" screamed the little woman, her eyes snapping with rage.

"Woman!"

"Creature!"

It looked as it there might be bloodshed, and a humane reporter, who had heard the wrangle, rushed in to interfere.

"Is my little darling a monstrusity?"

"Is my Alphonso a living skeleton?"

Both interrogations rang out simultaneously, with a shrillness that drowned the yelping of the canines and the crowing of the prize roosters in the next apartment.

"Ladies," said he with an expression of great solicitude, "they are both angels, but for heaven's sake do not detain me, for I have just been exposed to the scarlet fev—"

And each exasperated female clutched up her baby and nursing bottle and basket, and bounced out. He was alone.

An Anecdote of Dejazet.

In 1820 Mdle. Dejazet, then in her twenty-third year, was engaged at the Theatre Francais at Bordeaux. Being naturally fond of music, she frequently profitted by the free admission accorded to the actors of the minor theatre by the management of the opera, and one evening occupied her usual post behind the scenes during the performance of Dretuzer's Princess de Babylon. All of a sudden, electrified by an air charmingly sung by the Princess, and utterly unconscious of what she was doing, she darted from the coulisse on the stage, and seizing hold of the hand of the astonished cantatrice, embraced her warmly, exclaiming:

"Bravo! Madame, bravo! that is indeed singing!"

A momentary pause ensued, after which the audience, many of whom had recognized the young actress, burst into a storm of applause; and Dejazet coming to her senses, and overwhelmed with confusion, retreated rapidly into the coulisse.

Next day she received a summons to appear before the Commissary of Police. On her arrival she found that functionary, attired in solemn black, writing at his bureau. "What is it?" said he, without even turning his head.

"That is exactly what I was about to ask you, Monsieur," replied she.

Struck by her voice, he laid down his pen and for the first time looked at the new comer.

"Who are you, Mademoiselle?" was his next question.

"Ma foi, Monsieur, you ought to know, since I am here by your orders," answered Dejazet, handing him at the same time the notice she had received.

"Ah!" said the Commissary, glancing at the paper, "you are Mdle. Virginie Dejazet?"

"At your service, Monsieur."

"Your doubtless aware of the penalty incurred, by you yesterday evening—twenty-four hours' imprisonment."

"Imprisonment! what for?"

"Read the thirteenth article of the police regulations," answered the Commissary, pointing to a document affixed on the wall, "and you will see."

Dejazet read as follows: "Any actor or actress appearing in sight of the audience from the coulisses of his or her theatre, during the performance of a piece, is liable to a fine of twenty-five francs and twenty-four hours' imprisonment."

"This does not concern me, Monsieur.'

"How so?"

"Allow me to explain. I was at the opera last night to hear—"

"La Princesse de Babylone!" interrupted the Commissary with a sigh. "I know—unfortunately, business of importance kept me from being there myself."

"Ah! Monsieur, you missed a splendid performance!"

"Indeed! how did Cecile sing!"

"Cecile! Ah, you mean the 'Princess.' Like an angel, Monsieur. What a voice, what a style she has has!"

"Has she not? But pray sit down, Mademoiselle," added the Commissary, changing his tone, and handing her a chair with the utmost courtesy."

Dejazet, who saw how the land lay, did as she was requested.

"You admire her singing, then, Mademoiselle," continued the functionary, his eyes beaming with delight; "ought she not to be at the Paris opera?"

"Not a doubt of it, Monsieur."

"Mademoiselle, your good taste does you honor. You have a brilliant career before you."

"Begining with twenty-four hours' imprisonment," replied Dejazet, slyly. "But when I tell you," continued she, "that after the air she sings—"

"Deliciously!" interrupted the Commissary.

"Inimmitably, Monsieur," rejoined the actress. "When I tell you that, transported with enthusiasm, I could not refrain from rushing on the stage and embracing her!"

"Ah!" cried the other; "bravo! I would have done the same in your place!"

"But you would not have been imprisoned for it next day. Whereas I—"

"Mad moiselle," replied the Commissary, doing his best to look serious, "let us examine the article together. 'Any actor or actress appearing in sight of the audience from the coulisses—'"

"But I was not in the coulisses," said Dejazet; "I was on the stage."

"True. The article says 'from the coulisses of his or her theatre—'"

"But my theatre is the Theatre Francais, and this was at the opera!"

"True again, Madamoiselle; so the prison question falls to the ground. But I maintain the fine—with a slight modification. You will do me the honor of allowing me to pay you a visit, and we will talk a little about music."

"With pleasure, Monsieur," replied Dejazet, adding, archly, as she left the room, "and a good deal about 'La Princesse de Babylone.'"—[London Society.

Marvelous Snake Fight.

[From The Santa Rosa Democrat, Feb. 25th]

Last August, as Mr. Wooldridge, who lives just above Cloverdale, formerly of Petaluma, was going to his work in the early morning, he saw a strange sight, something which he could not at first define—whirling, writhing, and turning on the ground. On a nearer approach what was his astonishment to discover two immense rattlesnakes engaged in deadly strife. They were wrapped around each other from the tail to within six or eight inches of the head, and never for a moment did they take their eyes off each other. Now and then they would slowly unwind to within one or two coils of the tail, when with an instantaneously movement they would again become involved to the neck, and with jaws distended and fangs exposed, one would strike at the other, his antagonist invariably dodging the blow, when in turn he would strike in the same manner and in turn would be foiled. After repeating their manœuvres for a time they would lie panting in each other's coils, and then slowly and cautiously unwind only to repeat the involvment and striking again. So fiercely did they embrace each other that one would think surely the life would be crushed out. Strike after strike was made on both sides, but never once was an adversary so far caught off his guard as to receive a blow. They had been fighting over a space of fifteen to twenty feet as evidenced by their tracks in the dust. To all appearances they had been fighting all night, every inch of ground bearing marks of the conflict. After looking at them for some time, Mr. Wooldridge cut a pole some eight or ten feet long, and just then a Mr. Murphy came up. He took the pole and approaching the snakes they simultaneously discovered him, when loosening their hold of each other with marvelous rapidity, the larger one rushed at him perfectly furious; it required the second blow to stop him. In a moment after the other started for Mr. Murphy, as his now dead antagonist had done, when he too was slain by a well directed blow. One had sixteen and the other fifteen rattles.

Ball Incident in New Mexico.

A Western paper relates the following: A ball in Santa Fe was attended by the members of the best society in the place, but an incident showed that border usages are not confined to border ruffians. George Stone, son of the leading lawyer, and John Collier, son of the leading physician, were among the dancers, and Miss Townley, regarded as the handsomest young lady in Santa Fe, was there too. She is a coquette, and that night she accomplished the common feminine exploit of making each of two admirers believe that he was the most agreeable. At last their attentions clashed, and without a word of controversy, Collier drew his revolver and fired at Stone, the bullet making a terrible wound in the shoulder. The wounded man at once shot his assailant dead. As both lay on the floor she dropped the coquetry that had made the deadly trouble, and revealed her preference for Collier by throwing herself wildly upon his dead body. Stone will recover.

TIMBER LANDS.

The House, February 23d, passed the bill providing for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon and the Territories. It is a bill that will meet with general approval. It provides, in brief, that any person or association of persons may purchase not to exceed 160 acres of any timber lands, "unfit for cultivation," at the minimum price of $2 50 per acre. This, of course, applies only to surveyed but "unoffered" lands. The application must be made through the local Land Office as with other public lands. The applicant must take a rigid oath that the entry is for his own use and benefit, not for the purpose of speculation; that is "that he has not made any agreement or contract with any person whatever, by which the title which he might acquire from the Government should inure to the benefit of any person except himself, which statement shall be verified by the oath of the applicant before the Register or Receiver of the Land Office within the district where the land is situated; and if any person on taking such oath shall swear falsely he shall be subject to all the pains and penalities of perjury and shall forfeit the money paid for said lands, and all right and title to the same, and any conveyance which he may have made, except in the hands of bona fide purchasers, shall be null and void."

The bill furthermore requires that the notice of intention to apply for a patent to such lands must receive due publication as in case of a mining patent. After which, if there be no adverse claimants or rights filed the patent must issue on payment of the price named. We propose to give the full text of the bill when it becomes a law

Where Their Provender Comes From.

The Bakersfield Californian has this bit of suggestive advice to the Kern farmers:

Five car loads of corn arrived at the depot on Monday, for the Cerro Gordo Freight Company. The work of laying the iron on the advance is expected to begin next week. Farmers should see to it that not another pound of grain is brought over the road to go east of us. The idea of taking corn by steamer from Los Angeles to San Francisco, 500 miles, thence back south by rail, 300 miles, to this place, seems to a stranger, in looking at this prolific valley, preposterous. So it has been ever since the country was settled, the demand has exceeded the supply. Farmers have been timid, and have almost invariably been tempted by the high price to sell all their grain, and in many instances have afterward paid as high as five cents per pound for seed. It will require 100,000 sacks of grain, the coming season, for this one Freight Company. Corn is preferred for feed during most of the year, and is the easiest raised and cheapest of our products. It was thought the crop of hay at least would be carried over this year, but the supply is nearly exhausted, and not a pound has been used in the Inyo trade. We hope to arouse the farmers to an appreciation of the immensity of the requirements of the coming season. Every dollar expended for subsistence for the mining section east of us, should be in Bakersfield, situated as it is, in the midst of the most productive part of the whole San Joaquin Valley, and the headquarters of a rapidly increasing farming community.

Enlarged.

The Panamint News now comes enlarged to three wide columns to the page, containing double the matter of the old issue. It is printed on new material and upon a splendid new press, so that typographically, it is unexceptionably a neat paper. It still continues as a tri-weekly, one issue every week to be a double sheet, Manager Harris will spare no pains or energy to make The News worthy the patronage of the well-wishers of this county generally, and it has our warm wishes for the highest success.

Senator Booth.

It is intimated that Senator Booth has reached the conclusion that he cannot legally retain the office of Governor of California after the commencement of his Senatorial term on March 4th, and will therefore resign at that time and proceed to Washington to assume his seat in the Senate. LATER—Booth has resigned and Pacheco is now Acting Governor.

Young Bill Stewart.

A Washington correspondent asks: "Have you heard of the arrival of William Stewart Hooker? This young gentleman, now nearly a week old, is the son of Lieutenant Hooker of the navy, and his wife, Bessie Stewart. The mother will be all of 18 the 14th of February. The young gentleman is grandson of Senator Stewart of Nevada, and great grandson of ex-Senator Foote, of Tennessee. The boy weighs thirteen pounds and is a wonderful creature."

NOW IS THE TIME.

If the leading business men of this county, particularly of all this portion of it, intend to do anything toward building the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, now is the time for them to act. If they, or any of them believe, that the road must and will come anyway, or if that one don't some other will, they are probably as badly deceived as they ever were in their lives—almost as much so as in the belief that the Southern Pacific is ever going to do a single thing of its own volition to materially enhance property values in this county, because it is now straining every nerve to cut off this Los Angeles road and to secure the Inyo trade. There is this difference in the two projects: The Los Angeles road does not fear the competition of the other, because its managers believe their route possesses so much greater natural advantages that no paying opposition can ever be maintained on the other, whereas, the latter company know their only hope lies in annihilating all chances of competition at the very start. And this obvious fact ought, of itself, to open the sleepy eyes of all Inyoites having so much personal interest at stake. A positive guarantee that the Los Angeles road would be completed within one or even two years would, without the least doubt, enhance single, or individual properties in more than one mining district to the full amount of every dollar now required from us to insure such completion. A subscription from the county not to exceed $100,000 would almost to a positive certainty insure us this railroad within less than fifteen months. With such an assurance, how long would so many splendid mines, now offered for a pittance, go begging for a purchaser at something like their real value? We are positive that some we can name, would then readily command full ten times the figure at which they are now so vainly offered, now not receiving a bid at any price. An assurance that a saving of even no more than five dollars a ton in marketing the probable products of some of the mines we know of would enhance their value to the full amount of the required subscription, and it is a certainty, without question, that this road must cause a materially greater saving than that. What is to be expected from the other? Wagon freights for one hundred to one hundred and fifty miles for years to come, and high railroad rates at all times. The difference in the saving of the two will, in six months if not in less time, pay back the whole of this subscription in the gains of perhaps not more than two or three mines.

We assume that a subscription of $100,000 to the stock of the Los Angeles road at this time from this county, will be a positive guarantee for its early completion clear to this place; that without that, it will not be completed to this place or near it in several years, if ever. We earnestly advise every individual interested (and who is not?) to put his name down for as much of this stock as he thinks he can pay for by the time he is called upon, but let that time be made contingent upon the advance of the road to a point this side or north of the Argus range.

And here, we will remark, that if the local committee appointed to see after this business in the county, design to do anything they ought to be about it, or else throw up their commissions. If they do not take the lead how are we to know whether people generally are willing to take stock in this great enterprise? So far, no effort has been made to test the matter one way or the other. It ought to be done. One member of the committee, Parker, late of this paper, is now in another State, and of course can do nothing. The other four members appointed have zeal enough if they will try, and why don't they?

A New System.

An ingenious system of lighting is suggested by the Scientific American, as among the probabilities of the future. Given, say, a large hotel to be furnished with artificial light, the plan suggested is, instead of having a network of gas pipes leading to the different rooms and to different burners in each room, according to the present method, to have the light for the whole building generated in one place, say in the main ventilating shaft for the utilizing of the surplus heat. The distribution of the light would be effected by means of reflectors, each throwing into its appropriate tube a bundle of rays—made parallel by a lens—sufficiently intense to flood the room to which they were directed with a pure white radience, which could be turned on or off, or graduated by simply pressing a knob or turning a key. In size, the light tubes need be no greater than ordinary gas pipes, and even much smaller, since all the light required for the largest room might be transmitted to the reflectors as an extremely slender beam. The terminal lenses would close the tube against smoke and dust, which would dim the reflectors at the angles; and by keeping the inclosed air pure and dry, the absorption of light would be inappreciable.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Mono Co., Cal., March 1st, 1875

EDS. INDEPENDENT:—As it is too much the case that correspondents spoil their paper and waste their ink by confining their remarks to the interest of the place from which they write, we therefore propose (after a few remarks) to touch a few facts concerning other places and communities at large.

MILLS AND MINES.

There are two mills running at this place, making times as lively as two mills can, and will soon be distributing the "Benton bits" in monthly installments to the mill men and miners who are by no means penurious but always "set 'em up for the boys."

A GOOD THING.

A certain gentleman whom we mentioned in your last issue, as "having arrived on business for parties in San Francisco, was not entirely on business for other parties, but we are informed by good authority that he is trying to get up what is most generally known as a "wild cat arrangement." He and other parties at this place have control of a mill that was built here about three years ago and propose consolidating two or three different mines situated on what is known as Blind Spring Hill and Montgomery Canyon, and forming a joint stock "whodoo" company and giving the brokers one-half of the stock for selling the other half. The consequences here are that some men are now calculating on their "home stake" when a few days ago they could not get grub to prospect on. They who speculate in mining stock, would do well to recollect this in order that they may know where to invest. Our object in making this public is simply this: That we have good mines here worthy of the attention of capitalists, and should the above scheme be carried into effect, it will injure this place $10,000 to where it will benefit it one dollar.

GRANGES AND GRANGERS.

We are very much inclined to think that your worthy correspondent from Bishop Creek, is a Granger, as he scarcely, if ever gives you an item without confining himself very strictly to the interest of the Grangers. That Granges, if properly conducted, are a splendid organization for a farming community, we do not in the least doubt. And although we live forty miles from Bishop Creek, yet we can go up on the mountan and see Owen's River Valley, therefore we know a little about the Grange at Bishop Creek and we do know that they have rejected and excluded from membership at least four of the best, wealthiest and most influential citizens of Bishop Creek, whose names we might mention, and we also know that they have four members, if not more, whose standing is quite the reverse of the first four mentioned, and almost without parallel.

GUESS NOT.

Mr. Prospector of Coso, in speaking of the various mining camps in Inyo county, mentioned the Piute district, situated near this Mud Lake which Mr. Scribbler of Round Valley speaks of. But we think the Piute district is in Mono county, as we have been examining one of Mr. Scribblers latest revised maps, and as Scribbler is most generally correct we should like to hear his opinion on this subject.

A NEW P. M.

W. B. Marshall, our fellow citizen has received the appointment of Postmaster at this place, and has petitioned off an office in one corner of his barbershop, first door east of Creaser's store. Billy is "fixed" as snug as you please and will make a good Postmaster. The old Postmaster got on the war path because of his removal, and accused his little old assistant of being the principal one implicated in having him removed, and he was going to erect a mansard roof on him but he purstaded the wrathy gentleman not to do so.

PERSONAL,

We have had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Jas. E. Parker on his way to Virginia City. We are sorry to loose Mr. Parker, for we consider him a young man of extraordinary qualifications. Harry Wright and his little boy passed through this place on a pasar to Columbus, and as no more of our acquaintances have been born, married, or died, therefore personals are rather scarce.

SNOB.

Flattering Opinion.

We received a call Thursday from S. P. Blade, an old prospector and miner of this county, who had just returned from Darwin, where he had been since Chistmas. In his opinion New Coso is the best mining district on this coast. The leads, many of them are of immense size and all are rich, extending over a space seven or eight miles in length. Many claims are bonded for sale at $75,000 to $100,000. He made several valuable locations himself but carefuly avoided all such entanglements, and we think he did wisely. Whatever he sells will be for cash down and the transaction closed at once. Darwin is growing rapidly. It now contains forty houses and real estate is held at high figures. It has a spacious and well kept hotel, V. G. Thompson, proprietor. He thinks it must inevitably become the great mining and business center of Inyo.—[Bakersfield Courier, Feb. 27.

There is one correction in the foregoing that is worth mentioning: The number of buildings was fifty-three as determined by actual count two weeks ago. We do not doubt but there will be full twenty times that number in a year or two more.

—Rear-Admiral Bell, aged 77, died at New Brunswick, N. J., on the 19th ultimo

The Coso Mines.

"Pierce Dorgan" writes the following in relation to Coso or the Darwin mines, to the Los Angeles Express of the 25th ultimo. We can, from our own knowledge, endorse his statement in nearly every important particular.

Coso district is situated about forty miles in a westerly direction from Panamint, and about sixty miles in a southwesterly direction from Independence, near the line of the proposed Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. Years ago Coso was celebrated for its gold ores; to-day for its argentiferous galena, which causes the district to rise Phœnix like. Many of the principal mines are situated in a low range of limestone hills, that can be approached from the south with any kind of a conveyance. The following mines are just what they are described to be:

Defiance mine is twenty-five feet wide, solid ore. Average assay per ton silver, $112; lead 70 per cent. A cut across the vein shows thousands of tons of ore.

Promontorio mine, fourteen feet wide solid ore. Average assays per ton silver, $147; lead 78 per cent. Three or four hundred dollars worth of labor exposed the vein, the width above stated; and ore enough to satisfy the experts.

Grand mine has a shaft down fifty feet, developing a vein twenty feet wide, all ore. Average assay about $80 silver, and 40 per cent. lead.

Dorgan mine, sixteen feet wide, every inch ore, that averages per ton, silver $103; lead, 68 per cent. Two or three shallow cuts across the lode show plenty of ore for a distance of several hundred feet.

New York or Delmonico mine, eleven feet wide, all good ore. Assays from this mine, average per ton, $119 silver, and 76 per cent. lead.

Ophir mine, twenty feet wide. Considerable work has been done on the Ophir, confirming the opinion of those interested they had struck it rich.

Solomon's Ophir, about eighteen feet wide, with plenty of good ore in sight.

Christmas Gift has a shaft sixteen feet deep through solid ore. San Francisco parties offered $10,000 for half interest, and could not get it.

Lucky Jim has a splendid surface prospect. It is said that ten feet in the Lucky Jim will make one's fortune.

Tiger mine is a silver mine of great promise, and looks to be the equal of Panamint's fair-famed Wyoming.

The Elm City, Glasgow, St. Lawrence, Michigan and Washington, are as good looking prospects as any miner could wish to have. About two hundred locations have been made within the last four months, and it is said by many that prospecting has not begun yet.

Mr. Beaudry of Cerro Gordo fame, is appropriating all the water. Several springs have been bought by this gentleman, who proposes to convey the water to Darwin city, where furnaces are to be built. Wood in considerable abundance is found about eight miles from Darwin, (the town of the district) Old miners must give their opinion, which is that Coso can show more ore in three hours than Cerro Gordo has in three years.

Our Letter From Darwin.

DARWIN, March 4, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—All is peace and quiet here; nothing very startling; no fighting. From 40 to 60 head of horses have been stolen within fifteen days. I was at the on the 2d instant and returned convinced that saltpetre may save me yet. I found it in small quantities in several places and the prospects are good—plenty of wood and water hard by. George Snow has been making a number of locations of fine gold quartz in the Argus range, eight miles distant. The prospects are very flattering; the ore assaying from samples $80 per ton; the ledges are said to be of good size and from the samples it is free gold.

WATER.

V. Beaudry has bought the Cuervo mine, price $10,000. V. B. is also busy digging a ditch for his water pipes from Granite Wells near Old Coso, as that is the hardest digging he has in all his work of water fetching. Work is progressing steadily on many of the leading mines here. I am told on good authority that the Brown Bros. will be here soon and things will pop briskly, and money will fly, and lead bullion be abundant. A lead mine was located a few days since, and assay showed 523 ounces silver, and 57 per cent. lead.

A Popular Game.

Here is a new game, very popular in the country just now: A young man takes a chesnut, cuts round the hull with a sharp knife, and takes one-half the chesnut in his mouth, and a pretty girl the other half in her mouth, and they pull and the hull comes off. There may be quicker methods of hulling chesnuts, but none more soothing to the feelings of the young folks; and they don't get mad and dance wildly around if the hull don't come off for five minutes or so. Country games are not to be despised, after all.

By adopting the right means, they may live as long and enjoy life as much as their more robust neighbors. GRAND JURY REPORT.

TO THE HON. COUNTY COURT:—WE, THE Grand Jury, report as follows: We have carefully considered all the evidence in the cases brought before us and have ignored the same. We have examined affairs of the County Officers and find them highly satisfactory; have examined their different bonds and find them in accordance with law, but hardly in proportion to the amount of funds which may be called to pass through their respective hands.

We find the jail in good condition and the prisoners well provided for.

We have inspected the County Hospital, and, though in accordance with the contract made with our Supervisors, we would recommend to that body to be more specific in their future contracts, so as to secure the comforts of fire in Winter, and greater cleanliness; and having performed our duty to the best of our ability, we respectfully ask to be discharged.

Horseback Duel.

Quite a chivalrous episode occurred at Round Valley on Wednesday last. As the matter was to be judicially investigated at Big Pine yesterday, we will await that report before giving full particulars. A row had taken place between T. D. Lewis and W. T. Wiswall, at the ranch of the former, all about some hogs. As no satisfactory solution of the difficulty could be attained by a war of words and fists, Wiswall retired from the field of action with the avowed intention of coming back better prepared for business. He did so, reappearing a short time after mounted and armed with a six-shooter. Lewis, armed with a shot gun, mounted his war-horse, and sallied forth to meet him. Manœuvring a short time for position both parties opened fire; Lewis' shot done no good, but Wiswall's took effect in the neck of his apponent's horse, cutting the bridle rein at the same time, together rendering him unmanagable. But the Lewis banner still floated defiantly to the breeze, and continued to do so even after a shot from the enemy had taken effect near the sciatic plexus nerve, or that portion of the body nearest the cantle of the saddle. This was unpleasant, but not sufficient to prevent the wounded man, then dismounted, from firing another broadside with the effect of bringing the action to a close, the enemy drawing off but still unharmed. It was a well contested little tournament, and this system for settling hog difficulties may become quite popular. Lewis' wound is quite severe, but is not considered particularly dangerous.

Healthy.

A notice is posted up in the Treasurers office to the effect that holders of County Scrip on the Expense fund, can have the same cashed on presentation, there being now about one thousand dollars on hand over and above outstanding warrants on that fund already. This is the first time since the organization of the county such a pleasant state of affairs has presented itself. The late Grand Jury got their warrents cashed in full and didn't grunt a bit at the strange circumstance either.

Daily Mails.

Postmaster Rowley informs us that the contractor (Cluggage) on the route from Aurora to Independence has been instructed, in pursuance of an order of the Postmaster General, to increase service to six trips per week. The order to take effect at the beginning of the present month. Also to put on service the same number of times from Independence to Panamint via Darwin, to take effect April 1st. This is very gratifying intelligence.

Darwin Store.

John Daneri and A. K. Briggs have formed a partnership in the merchandising business at Darwin, and have just opened out with a full assortment of goods suited to that market. We hope they will make their piles as both have stuck to the fortunes of Inyo, through good and bad repute, through rough times and flush times, and have always been found a trying. Their regular "ad" will appear next week.

Almost Two Fires.

We barely missed two first class items this week. An unaccountable accident set fire to the corner of this office on the outside. But about two minutes more, with the high wind prevailing, would have been quite sufficient to have stopped this paper for some time to come. The other similar miss occurred in a room at the Blaney House, in which a candle was allowed to burn down and set the room ablaze.

Sudden Death.

Daniel Woodsides, an old resident of Lone Pine, was found dead in his bed on the morning of February 28. Coroner Wayland held an inquest, resulting in a verdict that deceased was consumptive, and had died from bleeding of the lungs,he being alone in his house at the time. He has a daughter living in Farmington, this State, and other relatives at Tucson, Arizona.

Strike.

We have it from excellent authority that a strike of the first importance, as regards future operations on the mine, was made a few days ago in the Broder, or Last Chance mine at Pine Mountain. Our informant, Mr. Smalley, late foreman, is very sanguine that the mine is going to prove a grand success—has done so already, in fact.

The Grand Jury.

Following are the names of the Grand Jurors whose report will be found elsewhere. W. F. Hitchcock, C. Dockweiler, J. G. Dodge, W. P. Bailey, A Taylor, W. A. Baker, J. Fernbach, G. H. Hoover, C. F. Wildasinn, Wm. Mathews, A. J. Chelius, H. Feihman, John Briscoe, K. C. Johnson, and J. R Westerville, Foreman.

Teaming Accident.

While on the road between Panamint and Darwin the other day, Jas. Shaw's team from Bishop Creek got tangled up some way so as to break the leg of one of his best horses so that he had to be killed.

Personal.

John A. Reddy, a brother of F. A. and P. Reddy, Esq., arrived here a few days since from Rhode Island. He designs to make this State, perhaps this locality, his future home.

STEPS OUT AND OFF!

E. P. Welch, the Convicted Murderer, Walks Out at the Sheriff's Back, and is Gone!

Something of an excitement if not of astonishment, was created last night, about 8 o'clock, at the announcement that Welch, so long in jail a condemned murderer awaiting a re-sentence to death, had quietly and was gone! Lanterns were soon seen flashing here and there through the brush and fields in the neighborhood, and people running about in the darkness with the vain hope of soon finding some trace of the fleeing felon.

POSITION OF CELLS, ETC.

That those unacquainted with the situation may better understand it we will state that the jail cells are located in the southeast corner room of the Court-house, the cell door opening into a narrow coridor from which another door opens into the main hall at a point directly opposite the door of the Sheriff's office on the north side of the hall, and less than twenty feet from the rear hall door or entrance into the main building. This door and that opening into the coridor are always open during the day, so that anyone so inclined can approach directly to the small open port in either cell door, and thus pass to the prisoner any small tool desired. But there has always been abundant opportunities to supply Welch in this line without recourse to this method, as his family and others have ever had free access during some portion of the day. No doubt Welch could have cut out long ago so far as means and opportunites were needed to try the hopelessly iron-bound walls. But here is

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Sheriff Moore had given the prisoner his supper, and was about to remove the things, when Welch asked for materials to finish a letter he had begun, also a candle and a bucket of burning coals for use as usual to warm the cell. His little daughter, Minnie, aged about twelve, and Katie Wallace, a little older, were present as they often were. They both started to procure the writing materials, but Welch called his daughter back. The Sheriff stepped across to his own room, leaving all the doors open, to get the fire-bucket. Before he got back, Katie had returned to the cell, and found it empty, a fact she reported immediately to the Sheriff who was just starting back. He rushed into the hall in time to hear Welch's chains clanking out of the back door! What followed immediately after we cannot say, but soon after parties were out in every direction, and all night, but up to this writing, without a clue to the late prisoner, going with one uncut shackle on his leg, and one that was but attached by a heavy chain, in his hand—and he so physically debilitated he has been thinking for some time he would die before long! It is very certain he could not go fast nor far on his own legs. But he's gone where the woodbine twineth, which he, and his friends deem far preferable to twining ropes, no doubt.

ADDITIONAL.

The foregoing is not obtained from first hands, but may be accepted as substantially correct. Sheriff Moore has offered a reward of $500 for the capture and return of Welch.

The San Felipe at Law Again.

The San Felipe Mining Company, by Attorney R. E. Houghton, brings suit in the Twelfth District Court against Alfred Wheeler to obtain a decree declaring that said Wheeler holds in trust for said company, and not in his own right the Friburg Tunnel, accrued rights and an undivided tenth interest in the San Felipe mining property at Cerró Gordo. The complaint, which was filed in the Clerk's office here on the 26th ultimo, specifies the San Felipe ledge referred to as the one "claimed and located by Bentura Beltran and others in 1866."

Preaching.

Rev. Mr. Jennings will preach at the school house to-morrow at 11 A. M., and 7:15 P. M., also at Bishop the following Sunday morning, and in the evening of the same at Big Pine, at which place a series of meetings will be announced.

Olancha Hotel.

We would call attention to Mr. Walker's unique advertisement of Passmore's popular station at Olancha. We are told the new landlord is well experienced in his business and will do all he promises.

A New Incorporation.

The "Panamint Consolidated Mining Co," filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State, February 15th, capitol stock, $6,000,000; names of the parties not given.

Ladies Take Notice.

Ladies desiring to purchase or receive instructions on that household treasure, the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing machine, can obtain either by applying to C. F. Stoutenborough, at the store of Harris & Rhine. *

Another.

It is stated that Steve Gregg and others have made a magnificent strike in the Jefferson, a ledge they recently relocated, and situated in the Inyo range about opposite Fish Springs.

Shot Himself.

Jack Williams accidentally shot himself while carelessly handling a pistol in Hays & Phillipay's saloon, Panamint, a few days ago.

A Good Market.

According to The News, Panamint now offers a good market for farm produce, particularly vegetables of all kinds.

Dance.

A very well attended, pleasant little hop took place at the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening

No Indictments.

Two quite notorious and well established cases of shooting occurred in this county not long since, one resulting in the immediate death of one man, the victim in the other still surviving after a very close call. Both shooters were placed in jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. In the case of young Griffin, one of these shooters, the Grand Jury found an indictment the first day of their session, but almost before the ink had had time to dry on the document, P. Reddy, the counsel for the accused, had the question before the County Court as to the legality of the indictment, and showed that it was of no value because based on depositions which were not the "best obtainable evidence" as required by law, and it was quashed. His Honor, however, remanded the case to the jury again; after due consideration it was decided that there was not evidence enough to convict either Griffin nor Montenegro, the other party under arrest for the murder of De Rousche at Panamint and both were turned loose to go and do it some more. We should think from the way these cases have terminated that the next officer guilty of arresting a murderer or would-be murderer ought to be severely punished. What's the use? Supposing there should be a dozen witnesses, more or less, is it resonable to infer they can be found when needed? Is it anybody's business to know where they are to be found when needed? Not at all. Let officers confine their attention to horse thieves and such. Horses are of more value than dead men to the community.

Rose Spring District.

A correspondent of The Panamint News of the 23d ultimo, writes:

A meeting was called on February 15th for the purpose of electing a Recorder for the unexpired term. R. D. Parker, formerly of Independence, was elected Recorder, and now has an office established at Rose Springs, four miles from Panamint Valley, and twenty-five miles from Panamint. Upon visiting the camps of the Nossano brothers, where the meeting was held, I was invited to examine their mines, some twenty in number. To give a full description and estimate of their size and value would simply be impossible; and if I should confine myself to figures, and describe the magnitude of their ledges as shown in their croppings, would only create a cry of derison. They, like all prospectors, invite capital, and if it does not come, they know they can certainly have the ability to work the mines on their own account, and realize for themselves the entire proceeds of the mines. Their principal mine, the Garibaldi, has an outcrop of an average width of sixty feet; with metalic ore assaying from $400 to $1,800 per ton, the greater portion of which is free milling ore; a large percentage of the ore can be sorted and worked by smelting. This ledge crops out in plain view one thousand feet and and is covered at each end by drift and quartzite; is located between slate and limestone and evidently a true fissure; it being one of their latest locations, they are down on it only eight feet. Of their otheir locations I have no time to write, but will do so hereafter. In conclusion, I would invite all who doubt what I have written, or who have capital to invest, to come and see for themselves, and I assure them that they can drive bargains here from $5,000 to $100,000, that cannot fail to give them a return. The boys here are jubilant over the projected wagon road now under way and in the hands of Hunter and Porter.

Repectfully yours. STATIONARY.

Rose Spring, Feb. 20th.

—Heroic practice—So you've taken all the medicine and find no relief, eh? Well, we must try something else; so to morrow I will call, the first thing in the morning, and shave your heal and apply a blister, cut the nerves in your under jaw, and pull your back teeth, and if you find no relief why, then, we'll have to give you something stronger.

The Armies of Europe.

The armies of Europe are now larger than ever. That of Germony contains in round numbers more than a million and a half of men; that of Russia, a million and a quarter; that of France, over a million; that of Austria, 850,000; that of Italy 750,000; and that of England 280,000. In all, more than four million and a half of able bodied men employed in the military service at an aggregated expense, without counting the loss of the abstraction, from productive pursuits of not less than three thousand millions of dollars a year. And yet there is no present probability of any war in Europe, and these bewildering armaments are maintained for prudential reasons alone.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Our Local Railroad Energy.

Engineer Crawford returned this morning from Cajon Pass, and reports the work of grading progressing there satisfactorily. During the few days he was there he revised his lines and made some favorable modifications. He now says that his original estimate for the work through the Pass are altogether ample, and that the tendency of the work, as it progresses, will be to lessen instead of to increase them. The road will sail through to the Mohave on a a beautiful grade and with sweeping curvatures. A letter from Mr. Buchanan, Mr. Crawford's assistant, who is in San Francisco, conveys a budget of very satisfactory intelligence. A large Burleigh steam drill, costing $12,000, has been purchased and will be forwarded at once. This drill will be a powerful auxiliary to the expediting of the progress of the passage through the Cajon. The drill is supplied with an engine, a compressor, a conducting pipe, and all the necessary equippage. A large quantity of giant powder has been shipped, together with a number of carts and other necessary articles for the graders. The situation stands thus: By the end of May the wharf at Truxton will constructed to twenty-five feet of water. The grading will be perfected from tide-water to the Cajon, leaving only the short tunnel to be pierced. If the iron arrives as promised by the 1st of May, the road will be ready to receive it, and by the latter end of August the rails will be laid and the line in operation to the mouth of the tunnel. Surely the most sanguine enthusiast could not ask for a larger progressive energy than that which now marks the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad directory.—[Los Angeles Evening Express, March 3d.

A Strange Phenomenon.

The American Journal of Science and Arts contains an account of a curious fact that the miners in Clear Creek county, Colorado have discovered. It is particularly noticeable in the Stevens mine, about 12,500 feet above the level of the sea, on McClellan mountain. After a depth of ninety feet from the surface the crevice matter in which the silver is found is frozen solid. Summer and winter have no visible effect to change its temperature, nor is there any perceptible thaw. Pick and drill fail to work this frozen mass, and the only way the workmen proceed, is to kindle a large fire at night against the matter and in the morning to pick at the disintegrated ore. After this curious fashion the mine has been profitably conducted for two years. From six feet where the cold was struck, the tunnel proceeded inward, now nearly 200 feet, and the cold is no way diminished as yet. Other mines in the neighborhood show the same singular condition, and in all of them the depth under ground is such that frost cannot posibly have penetrated there. The conclusion reached by the contributor of the article is that it is a relic of the glacial era. Whatever its origin is, it is certainly a singular and interesting fact, and the method of mining, although profitable, is simple and primitive as could well be desired.

Amenities of Life in Colorado.

Twelve or fifteen men went to the house of Elisha Gibbs rapped at the door and told him they would give him fifteen minutes to come out. Gibbs told them he would come out as soon as he dressed. After waiting until they thought the time was up, some of the party placed an armful or two of straw against the door and was in the act of lighting it when Gibbs commenced firing at them with a revolver. David and Samuel Boone, Mr. Kane and Mr Reed were shot. David Boone died the next night. Samuel Boone died on Sunday night. Kane's wound was pronounced fatal by the physician in attendance, and he is doubtless dead ere this. Reed received an ugly flesh wound. After the shooting was over Gibbs picked up two guns, a rifle and a hat, which had been dropped by his visitors.—[Fair Play Sentinel.

A Joke in a Palace.

Amongst the artists of celebrity belonging to London in the last century was Biachio Rebecca, who was famous for his eccentricity and tricks of deception in painting. He was a great favorite with the king, and many amusing anecdotes are extant concerning him; he was indeed a kind of a modern court-jester. One of his tricks at the Palace, as it concerned a piece of furniture, may interest our readers.

In one of the public apartments at Windsor, two pier glasses of dimensions then regarded as extraordinary, being the largest that up to that time had been cast in any British factory, had been newly put up. To all the male and female domestics who occasionally were appointed to show the state apartments, solemn injunction had been given to be specially careful in guarding them from the remotest chance of injury, so much were they thought of and so highly were they valued.

Just before these rooms were opened on one of the mornings appointed for the admission of the public, then specially attracted by the fame of these wonderful pier-glasses, Rebecca by stealth obtained admission to them, and, taking a wax-candle drew on each an artificial fracture, begining from the center of both, and throwing out radiating lines with the most realistic effect.

The chief showman, whose appointment was immediately under the lady house keeper, entering, ex-officio, shortly after, to see that all was in order, caught sight of the supposed fracture, and uttered a cry of horror and dismay which at once brought the house-maids from the adjoining rooms, where they had been busy with their dusters and brooms.

"Which of you devils did this?" cried he savagely, pointing to the pier-glass which had first attracted his attention.

The women stared at the supposed damage dumb with fright.

"Now, it's no use denying it! What the devil could you have been at? What will Lady ——— say, do you think, when she sees it!"

"La! how shocking," exclaimed one; "Oh! how unfortunate," cried another; and then in a breath they all cried out indignantly, "You can't lay it to me, remember."

A fiery scene ensued, in the midst of which a loud scream burst forth, and a female voice crying, "Why, the other's broken too!"

"We shall all be discharged for certain," cried one maid, wiping the tears away with the duster, and "that's flat," echoed another dismal voice.

They all stood pale as death when—lo! his majesty entered from the queen's staircase.

The chief showman's tongue clove to the roof of his mouth, and the maidens looked to the ground, trembling and speechless. At length the former advanced, bowed, twisted his hands together like one in agony, and, gasping, pointing true tragedy style first to the glass at one end of the room and then to that at the other.

His majesty looked at one then at the other, frowned, said nothing, and hurriedly left the room.

The news of the calamity spread through the royal establishment like wild fire; the very walls had tongues. The smash reached the lady housekeeper, who was at her toilet; aghast, she left her mirror, and hurried to the wreck of the mighty mirrors of majesty. Her grief and horror were terrible to witness, and she hurried to the queen.

Directly after her departure, in stole the prankish painter, and with a damp sponge and a dry doily he wiped the awful fractures clean out.

Presently, in solemn conclave met the king, the queen, and the royal family, the lady housekeeper, the lords in waiting, the equerries and the pages, all anxious to witness the fearful fractures; one of the latter—an ancient one—declaring in a whisper that in all his "born days," until that "present moment," he had "never heard tell of such a thing!"

But who shall describe the astonishment of the group of great ones when, all being prepared for condoling comments and exclamations suited to the tragic nature of such a strange occurrence—lo! each of the magnificent plates of glass were found—whole!

Such is the story told by contemporary personages of the two first really large sheets of plate-glass silvered in Great Britain.

Promising.

The mining interests throughout this county are far more promising than at any time since the first shovel full of dirt was turned over within its boundary lines. Several districts that heretofore have amounted to nothing as bullion producers, will, the coming Spring, add their mite to the commercial circle. At last capitalists have become convinced that we have mines that will warrant investment; and, if the outlook does not deceive us, before the first of July, all the idle mills and some new ones, will be crushing ore at a good profit. We predict for our immediate neighborhood a lively season, although just at this time the principal mines are employing but a few men.—[Belmont Courier.

Increasing Their Spoils.

On the motion of Senator Stewar the appropriation for the Indian service in Nevada was increased from $15,000 to $30,000. The Gold Hill News is informed by the "Princess Winnemucca" that her tribe, outside of the reservation, received nothing of the $15,000 appropriated to the Nevada Indians last year. Indian Agents are proverbially sharp in the matter of financial disbursements. It has been there rule, generally, to provide for themselves first. After they have had their "grab," the indians get the remainder.

Not Good for Preserving Fruits.

Raw or brown sugars generally contain a certain proportion of glucose, a fermentable non-crystallisable sugar, which is a source of great trouble in fruit preserving. Sugar to be used for this purpose should be in crystals, as that form precludes the possibility of any impurity being present. Loaf-sugar may be used with advantage, as being free from the impurities mentioned and not liable to ferment.

Temperance.

Rev. Jabez Walker lectured on Monday evening, in the Town Hall, on Temperance. He has been announced as the great chief of the Order of Good Templars. The hall was fairly filled with an intelligent audience, which manifested deep interest in the subject and the speaker. He effected an organization of a lodge of Good Templars in our midst, two weeks ago.—[Bakersfield Californian, March 4.

Civil Rights Bill.

The Civil Rights bill has passed both branches of Congress, received the President's approval and become a law. This law provides "that all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be entitled to the full enjoyment of all accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, public conveyances on land or water, theatres and other places of public amusements, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law and applicable alike to citizens of every race and color, regardless of any previous condition of servitude." It makes every hotel keeper, proprietor of a theatre or any other place of public amusement, steamboat and railroad company, that deny any privilege to a negro, that is allowed to white men, or make any distinction as to accommodations between white and black persons, guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable with a fine of not less than $500 or more than $1,000 or imprisonment not less than thirty days nor more than one year. Jurisdiction to try offenses under the law is given exclusively to U. S. Courts. That this enactment will be distasteful to a large majority of the people of the country there is scarcely a question. Though it is strictly in keeping with the spirit and guarantees of the Constitutional Amendments, yet we have but little respect for a law which in effect is merely to enforce rights so exclusively social in character.

Our New Governor.

The Sacramento Record describes our new Governor as follows:

Romualdo Pacheco stands fair before the public. The southern counties of the State were proud to do him honor whenever opportunity presented. He received his education in Europe, and returning to California while yet a young man, was elected Judge of Santa Barbara county, where he was born. He was sent to the Assembly of the California Legislature, and next to the State Senate, where he served for two consecutive terms. He filled the office of State Treasurer for one term, and ran for it a second time when Geo. C. Gorham headed the ticket for Governor and was defeated. In 1871 he was chosen Lieutenant Governor on the ticket with Governor Booth. Thus from the time he attained his majority he has been almost continually in public life and falls into his new position with an unblemished record. Governor Pacheco is forty-four years of age, and one of the handsomest men in the State. He married an American girl.

An Opportunity for Reply.

We know nothing as to the facts of the case as hinted at in the following, taken from The Bakersfield Courier of the 6th, but give it as we find it, in the hope that Register McCallum will take the first opportunity to set himself right in a matter of such grave importance to himself and the credit of this Land Office:

While in Tehachepi we heard many complaints in regard to exorbitant charges made by the Register of the Land office at Independence. It was alleged that he exacted five times the legal fee in the filing of a declaration. We trust this is untrue, but if true the aggrieved parties should inaugurate steps looking to his removal at once. It is alleged also that he rejects filings, however fairly written and according to legal form. In all cases he insists that the blanks of the Department shall be used. There may be law for this, but if so (should this meet the eye of said Register) he will confer a great favor by citing us to where it may be found. There is no good reason why all of Tehachepi should not be in this land district.

"Lo" as a Lobbyist.

An Indian, who had recently come forth from the forest to join the lobbyists of the Maine Legislature thus appealed to a Senator the other day:

"Senator, you report bill no killum moose for five years?"

"Yes," replied the Senator.

"You report bill no killum deer five years?"

"No."

"Very well," says Joe; "make um law no killum deer for five years except by Indian when he campum out Last Summer Massachusetts fellow come. Hire me to go with um six weeks. Killum two deer weighing one hundred and forty pounds; spend fifteen hundred dollar, in Maine. I getum five hundred dollar. Good thing to get fifteen hundred dollar for two deer, all spent in Maine."

Another Paper or Two.

It is said a paper is soon to be started in Sacramento which is to be the organ of the unterrified in the State. It is also said Samuel Seabough, late chief editor of The Union, and one of the best in the United States, is to start a paper there to take place of The Union. It may be this is to be the aforesaid organ, although it won't hardly seem natural for Seabough to run a paper very zealously in the Democratic pursuasion.

—What is that which has a mouth and never speaks, and a bed and never sleeps? A river.

THE STATE CONSTITUTION.

The question of calling a convention to remodel our State Constitution will probably soon be presented for the people to decide by their votes. In the main the present organic law of the State is tolerably satisfactory, but in several important particulars, there is great room for improvement.

Our readers will remember the discussion following the late State Judicial election, as to whether the Judge elect would be entitled to his seat for a full term of ten years or merely till the expiration of the term made vacant by the death of his predecessor, to fill which the election was held. Notwithstanding an amendment had been previously adopted to remedy the ambiguity of the Constitution on this point, the Supreme Judges themselves are unable to decide when their terms expire. The original section providing for the election of one Judge every two years, and the amendment to it, above alluded to, both fail to make the matter clear enough to enable the Judges themselves to agree as to its intent. This is certainly a matter of too much importance to be permitted to pass along without an attempt at a remedy which, with other similar things, can best be done by a State Convention called for the purpose.

Another radical defect relates to the State revenue or equalization of taxes. There is no appeal from the valuation of the local Assessor, and in the more wealthy counties it had become fashionable to assess property at about one-third of its cash value, while in counties where people were poor they had to pay tax on dollar for dollar of the cash value of their property. Several attempts have been made by the Legislature to remedy this evil, but the purpose of legislation has as regularly been thwarted by the decisions of the Supreme Court. A State Board of Equalization was organized, and under its regulation the valuation of property in the county of San Mateo was raised some four fold Many of the millionaires of San Francisco have their private residences there, and in proportion to the population, San Mateo is among the wealthiest counties in the State. So soon, however, as the State Board was shorn of its power by the decision of the Supreme Court, the assessment in the county referred to, commenced to show a shrinkage of about two millions of dollars in a single year, and that year one of unexampled prosperity. Year before last many of the wealthiest men of San Francisco resolved to resist the payment of State taxes, on the strength of a constitutional quibble, and the result was that over a half million of dollars, belonging to the State, failed to reach the State Treasury. And to make up the deficiency, the State Board last year had to levy fifteen cents on the hundred dollars of extra tax. If all other counties were compelled to pay tax on their property, at the same rate paid by the mountain counties, our State tax to-day would be thirty-five cents on the hundred dollars instead of sixty-five.

Some of our contemporaries, who are calling attention to this matter, say that there are a number of the provisions of our State Constitution which have always been inoperative, or impracticable and inexpedient; such as the provisions in regard to the census and municipal townships.

There is another point of much importance to small or thinly populated counties. This is the present basis of Legislative representation. The Constitution should be so amended that every county in the State should have at least one member of the Assembly. But for the smartness, if that is an appropriate term, of our member last session, Inyo, instead of being allowed to elect a joint member with Mono, would have had to be content with a fifth interest in a member from some other county, who, mayhap, might not know or care any more about our local needs, in the way of legislation, than of those of any other county in the extremes of the State. Actual population is not a reliable basis for county representation in the State Legislature. This is particularly the case in the ever changing conditions of mining counties. A population of 500 or less in one of these may represent interests of more value to the State at large (with suitable legislation), than another of five times the number. And such a small county of to-day entitled by the Constitution to but a fourteenth of one representative, may, for several terms ere the next apportionment will permit a change, have a permanent population of ten or twenty times 500. Every county, large or small, should have at least one member from its own territory, and acquainted with its own interests and needs.

This, with other needed changes, besides those referred to, can only be effected through a convention to remodel the State Constitution. The late Legislature, authorized a vote of the people on this matter next September and it is to be hoped, that vote may be favorable.

RELATING TO THE HOSPITAL.

For several issues past The Panamint News has been urging the establishment of a hospital or infirmary at that place. The first proposition was that it should be a branch of the County Hospital, maintained at the county's expense. It was in direct reference to this proposition that we called the attention of the late Grand Jury to hospital matters, not because of complaints of inefficient management, for nothing of the kind exists that we have heard of. But an inquiry, and a recommendation perhaps, would have been in order as to the working of the present system for the care of the indigent sick. A terrible row was kicked up last year on account of hospital expenses, then incurred pro rata, or only for patients actually cared for, of which for two years immediately preceding, there had been a much larger number, and especially of old stand-by, chronic cases, than at any time before or since. Financiers laid awake o'nights trying to devise some plan to stop the fearful leak. As no one could point out the exact spot where it was, the only reliable plan to stop it, so it was claimed by those wakeful statesmen, was to draw a tarpaulin under, or replank, the whole concern. That is to say, the Board of Supervivors were urged, and finally assented, to fix it definitely by giving $1,000 per quarter, or $4,000 per year for the care the county sick, whether there might be one or many, a hundred or--none at all. This plan stops all the incidental leaks, or rather, concentrates them all into one big one about as large as any complained of heretofore, and, no doubt, has other recommendations not necessary to enumerate just now. It likewise has objections, one or two of which we will mention. Though not prepared with data, we can safely assume that, in proportion to the number treated, the county sick this year, by reason of this fixed salary plan, has cost per patient full twice as much as at any period under the pro rata system. This, though, is not the fault of the physician in charge. Next, for obvious reasons, the tendency of the present plan is to discourage applications, also to discharge patients as convalescent at the earliest moment or before they are in fair physical condition to again earn their own living, notwithstanding, technically they may be free of disease. We say that this is the tendency of this system to work an injustice occasionally, but we have not heard of any instance in point. It is based on the reasonable grounds that empty wards are more profitable to the contractor than full ones, and that it is better for the county to stand a possible imposition under a system that would work to the opposite in those particulars, than to continue a plan permitting a possible (literally) grave injustice to the feeble and helpless. This class would stand a better chance for perfect care and cure under the old system than the present, and, including the due allowance for the probable impositions, at less cost to the county.

But whether these considerations are of any force or not, no physician will be safe in submitting a future bid for the care of the county sick without allowing a large margin for the changing population of our county, as instanced in the demand for a branch hospital at Panamint. Otherwise he is liable to have his accommodations crowded beyond their capacity, or the requirements beyond his financial ability to maintain, in which case comes a demand for increased pay, loss to himself or deprivation to those most in need of public charity. All this can be obviated by returning, at the letting next July, to the pro rata plan.

We think the county fulfills its obligations when it provides one good public hospital, and it is doubful if any more could be legally maintained at the county's expense; certainly not under the present system whereby the contractor is paid for the care of all entitled to it no matter from what portion they may come. But, owing to the impracticability of safely transporting those seriously in need of the care of the hospital from such distant places as Panamint, humanity demands that some special provision should be made for such. This Panamint proposes to do by local subscription, but herafter it ought to be so arranged the county could bear a share of the burden.

To Preserve Butter.

Take two parts of the best common salt, one part of loaf sugar and one of saltpetre; beat them well together. To sixteen ounces of butter thoroughly cleansed from the milk, put one ounce of this composition; work it well, and put it down in an earthenware jar when cold and firm. It should be kept from the air and not used for a month.

The Beecher-Tilton Trial.

A Brooklyn despatch of March 6th says, Beecheer's lawyers held a consultation yesterday in defendant's house to prepare for next week's work. They were startled by the news that E. J. Ovington, who expected to sail for Europe to-day, had been summoned to appear in Court on Monday, he having been recalled by Tilton's lawyers for the purpose of producing certain correspondence which passed between his house and the residences of Mrs Tilton and Mr. Beecher on the night when Mrs. Tilton went before the Examining Committee, and which Ovington in his examination could not remember anything about.

There is a rumor current that Plymoth Church has subscribed $125,000 to defray Beecher's expenses of the suit.

There is much speculation as to the probable duration of the trial. Two months have elapsed since the commencement, and the defense have barely opened. It is said that about thirty witnesses will be examined for the defense, and that they will average one a day each. Beecher's examination will occupy two or three weeks; and the jury will probably be ready to retire and make up a verdict some time in June. It is now said that James Redpath of Boston supplied Beecher with a copy of "The True Story," which it was supposed Mrs. Tilton had given to Evarts.

In an interview with Victoria C. Woodhull yesterday, she expressed a disposition not to say much regarding the scandal until Beecher has testified. She is willing to testify, and if called, would tell the whole truth. She claimed that Tilton's evidence proved his perfect sympathy with her views on the subject of marriage. She says that Kinsella told her that Beecher begged him for the sake of his twenty-five years service in Brooklyn and his gray hairs, not to expose him. She ridiculed Mrs. Moulton's position, testifying to her acts to comfort him while talking of his son; Mrs. Moulton couldn't go to church and take communion from Beecher's hands, but could drink Frank's $15 Burgundy and break bread with him in her own house. The facts show that Beecher was more petted after these things happened than before by Moulton and his wife. Mrs Woodhull in concluding the interview, intimated that something more serious than the small pox may yet be spread in that Court-room.

The sick juror has entirely recovered.

The First Piute War.

[From The Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle.]

The Piute Princess Sarah Winnemucca is in many respects a most remarkable women. Her constant care for her people and her love for her old father are traits which must recommend her to the right-thinking men and women. The condition of the Piutes at present is such as must cause alarm to the settlers in the vicinity of Pyramid Lake and Camp McDermit. The Government is no longer willing to furnish the Indians with supplies; but the Indians must live, and a hard and bitter Winter is not yet over. The struggle for an existence becomes harder day after day, and an outbreak may occur at any time. The Piutes will not act badly unless forced to do so by the pangs of hunger. We have received a letter from the Princess in relation to the first general uprising of her tribe which we give in full:

THE STORY OF A FIENDISH OUTRAGE.

WINNEMUCCA, Feb. 20, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE VIRGINIA EVENING CHRONICLE—SIR: In 1860 occurred the first trouble between my people. The cause was this: There lived on Carson river, at a place called Sixteen-mile Desert, two brothers named Williams. One day two of my young girls, aged respectively 10 and 11 years, were gathering seeds near the house, when one of the men came out and invited the girls into the house, saying he would give them something to eat. They accepted the invitation, and after they had eaten, the men took the children down into a cellar, bound their hands and tied up their mouths with cloths to prevent them from screaming They then ravished the girls and kept them in the cellar for six days, and were only discovered by mere accident of an Indian coming up to the house. He had a dispute with the Williams brothers about the trading of a horse, they not having given him what they agreed to. The Indian went to the stable to recover the animal, when the Williams brothers set a dog upon him, which bit him so violently as to cause the poor fellow to cry out with pain. The girls heard and recognized the voice of the Indian, and screamed so loud as to make themselves heard by him. He came home and reported what he had heard to the girls' father, who had been searching all over the country for the lost children, and just as soon as the news came that they were at Williams, the camp became wild with excitment, and they made for the white men's house and demanded the girls. But the white men denied that they were in the house until a brother of the girls knocked one of the white men down with his gun and was going to kill him, when they acknowledged where the girls were. Such a sight as was presented by these little things; it was shocking. These two white men were killed at once, and their house was burned to the ground. This was the cause of our trouble at that time, which continued for several months, during which time there were a great many lives lost. Among them was Major Ormsby, who collected a company of volunteers and came out to fight us. There was a treaty made at the close of the war, by which the Government was to give us plenty of food and clothing, and our reservation at Pyramid Lake, where we were to remain and receive what was promised us. But the result is we receive nothing from these agents, who were sent to take care of us. There has been five agents since the reservation was given to us, not one of whom has ever done anything for us yet. The Reservation has been taken away from us, or at least that portion of it which was worth anything. This was our first treaty. If you will be so kind as to insert it in your paper you will oblige me very much. I will send you the other one Tuesday next.

Yours, respectfully,

SARAH WINNEMUCCA.

Works Well.

The Hyde Steam Wagon, although not yet perfected in all its details, is proving a great success. It is now engaged in plowing and is doing splendid work. On Monday it plowed thirty-one acres in splendid style, and when every little fault of construction that experience points out is remeded, it will do much more. The cost of running the machine that day, or of doing this amount of work, including interest, wear and tear, etc., was about $25—a vast saving over the old method of plowing.—[Bakersfield Courier, March 6

Round Valley School.

A friend at Round Valley, under date of March 6th, writes as follows: "Our school closed here yesterday after a session of six months. Most all the patrons, and a great many friends, were present to witness the closing exercises, of which the pupils acquited themselves very creditably. Our school has been quite a success, notwithstanding all the barriers placed in our path by our worthy State Board. The pupils distinguished for their high standing were, in the first division, Charlotte Jones, first prize; Sillis L. Olds, second prize; Deborah Jones, third prize. In the second division, Charles L. Olds, first prize; Sarah J. Shippley, second prize. In the evening young and old gathered at Mr. D. Olds' where we were made welcome by the kind host and hostess. The young people chased the fleeting hours away in the "mazy dance," and the parents looked on with gratification, and talked of their leafy days. Upon the whole it was an enjoyable time, and one not soon to be forgotten by the children."

From Darwin.

T. May and V. A. Gregg, Esq., returned a couple of days since from Darwin. They report times somewhat quiet, though building goes on rapidly in the town and the prospect generally is very cheerful. The gold mines out in the Argus range were attracting considerable attention among the Darwinites. The tunnel on the Defiance or Beltran is in seventy-five feet, having cut through a third vein about like the two others mentioned heretofore, but was being driven for still another known to lie further back. This would indicate that this body of ore will prove to be nearly or quite one hundred feet wide. It was rumored that Reddy and Beaudry had purchased Rennie's sixth interest paying therefore the sum of $20,000 cash. The story remains to be confirmed, but the probabilities are that it is true.

The Darwin Store, Etc.

Daneri & Briggs are before the public this week in their advertisement of their new store at Darwin. Here, as a matter for future historians to make a note of, we will state that Briggs opened the original stock of goods, (wet and dry, among the former of which was water, pure water), in the town of Darwin, not long hence to be a city in fact as well as name. But J. D. Sears was the man that took the first load of goods in there, whice he sold to Briggs & Freedman; soon after, however, he (Sears) started the "Granger Store," as it is called, on his own account. So in point of fact, we suppose the Granger Store is the pioneer of the place, as things stand.

Telegraph for Panamint.

It seems to be a settled fact that the Western Union will have a line of telegraph complete to Panamint by May next. My Harmon (My, what a name?) has the contract to furnish the poles, which are to be set at the rate of three miles per day, and, as stated by The News, left Panamint March 4, to go to Kernville to have the poles sawed. Work of building is to commence just as soon as the snow on the Greenhorn Mountains will permit. The line will doubtless be extended to this place at once, pursuant to conditions of a large amount of subscriptions raised in this section for that purpose.

Artesian Wells.

We have often urged the great advantage that would accrue to this valley if artesian wells could be made a success, and have strenuously urged an effort by subscription to test the latter point. We are pleased to know that Register McCallum of the Land Office, R. A. Loomis and J. J. McCall have formed an association on their own account to try it, and have already ordered the necessary machinery, and will try for artesian water at some one or more places not yet determined upon.

Discharged.

W. T. Wiswall, one of the parties engaged in the tournament mentioned last week, was arrested and taken before Justice Campbell at Big Pine for examination last Friday. After hearing the testimony of a number of witnesses he was discharged, it appearing that Lewis was the aggressor in both affrays, the second one of which terminated in his getting shot. We have not been able to procure a transcript of the examination and can only give the above as the result.

Improved.

The Bakersfield Southern Californian is now run by a publishing company. It received a new dress lately, and in other respects, particularly in the matter of well filled local colums, shows a most decided improvement.

School at Cerro Gordo.

Miss Ellen Eudey went up to Cerro Gordo last week to take charge of the school at that place, the first one it has yet had. Miss Eudey had taught the term just closed at George's Creek, and with excellent success.

Suicide at Panamint.

A man named James A. Earle committed suicide by cutting his throat at Panamint, March 4. He was an American, and about thirty-five years of age.

Dance in Prospect.

It is on the tapis that there is to be a dance here on the 17th.

Man Killed at Darwin.

The stage last evening came in loaded with passengers from Darwin from whom we learn that about 1 o'clock on the day previous (Thursday), a difficulty occurred between S. Ashim and a young Sclavonian named N. Perasich, which ended in the instant death of the latter at the hands of Ashim. Three shots if not more were fired, one directly through Perasich's head, another through the body and a third in the hand. At the same time, the partner of the deceased, named H. Petrovich, received a shot through his left hand, but by whom fired does not appear. It would seem, however, that others besides these were engaged. Of the particulars we will, pending the legal investigation to-day, only say that all the principals had lately arrived from Panamint where deceased had kept a restaurant and Ashim a store, and that the fatal difficulty originated from some business matters transacted at that place. Further than this we cannot say as yet. There being no officer in Darwin, the citizens requested Ned Reddy to select such help as he thought proper, and bring Ashim to this place, which he did, arriving as stated by last night's stage. Petrovich and a number of others more or less concerned, came at the same time, and we suppose the main facts can be ascertained to-day.

Mysterious, Very.

Notwithstanding the amount of pains taken to find out what become of We'ch and the shackles, not a trace beyond his foot prints for about a half a mile, has yet been made known of either. It is clear he didn't himself think he was ready to go up, or we might conclude he had gone up in a balloon, so remarkable does it seem that no trace of him can be discovered. After quiting the jail he ran in his stocking feet for a half a mile or so, and then (whether by the light of those lanterns or not, we don't know), stopped and put on his boots since which time he and his tracks have been scarce, very scarce.

Tonsorial.

We would call attention to Mr. H Levy's new ad. He is prepared for reaping the most bristling beard or the delicate task of the artist in arranging the beauteous curls of the ladies, sweet and lovely as they always are, down to what a printer would designate the blacksmith task of cutting the hair of the smallest tow-head, or mamma's darlingest popsy-wopsy.

The Darwin Hotel.

Thompson & Hanson, mine hosts of the first and altogether the best hotel in Darwin, have got things in such a shape now, that they invite, through their advertisement in this issue, the traveling public and everybody else to come and see for themselves. Mining speculators from abroad can count on good accommodations now when they come to see the wonderful prospects to be found around Darwin.

Fitting up for Business.

Jas. E., our late junior, writes that Superintendent Horn of the Northern Stage Line, is stocking his road with a complete outfit of splendid wagons or coaches and horses ready for a big business in the Spriug. He also thinks the said Horn is just the right man in the right place.

Carelessness.

In the published report last week, of the proceedings of the Pioneer meeting, one paragraph was carelessly left out in toto. This was that T. F. A. Connelly had been re-elected to the office of Treasurer of the Society, of which he is one of the most energetic and zealous members.

Authority.

MESSRS. EDS.—Since the publication of President Grant's Proclamation calling an extra session of the Senate on March 5th, it has been questioned whether there is authority to convene one house of Congress without the other? I will refer such as have doubts on this point to Section 3, Article 2, United States Constitution, the last clause of which says: The President "may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper." The Spirits in Los Angeles.

Supervisor Fou ke has been able to materialize not less than 75,000 gallons of spirits in Los Angeles. Considering that he had to work under ground with a very volatile and vanishing sort of spirits he may be set down as a pretty successful medium. It is not the mere bringing out of a hand or a face, that contents this officer. He finds a hole in the ground and applies a force-pump and up comes the spirits bubbling and strong. At last accounts there was a prospect of summoning more spirits, not exactly from the "vasty deep," but from subterranean vats where they have remained as an intangible essence of unknown quality. There has been a great deal of difficulty in materializing spirits at some of these distilleries. Louderback, of the Bay View distillery; carried his process a step further, and apparently tried to materialize a grand juror. It was a clumsy performance, although the medium's hand was pretty clearly shown. At present, Supervisor Foulke is ahead. He materializes with a force pump, and does a good stroke of business. We judge that his powe have been strengthened somewhat of late. We remember that once he almost materialized twelve pipes of whiskey in this city, and afterwards the spirits lost their tangibility and disappeared. He had better luck at Los Angeles.—[S. F. Bulletin.

Ducks.

"Speaking of shooting ducks," says Dr. F., "puts me in mind of the great storm that occurred when I lived on the island. As your are well aware our island was near by Casco Bay. An awful storm arose, and was so fierce that it drove all the ducks in the bay into a pond, covering about an acre, near my house. In fact, so many ducks crowded into that pond that I could not see a drop of water." "Sho," says Smith, "did ye shute any of 'em?" "That's what I am coming at. I went into the house and got my double barrelled shotgun, and discharged both barrels into the midst of them, but to my astonishment, they rose in the air leaving not a soltary duck in the pond!" "Good gracious, ye don't say," says Smith; "didn't ye have any shot in your gun, or what in thunder was the trouble?" "Well, I was coming to that," said Dr. F., "it astonished me at first; but as soon as the ducks rose a few hundred yards in the air, and commenced to seperate a little, believe it or not, I picked up twenty-nine barrels of ducks, and it was a poor season for ducks, too. You see, the ducks were wedged in so solid in the pond that when they rose they carried the dead ones into the air with them, and when they separated, down came the twenty-nine barrels of dead ones."

Mining Item.

By the arrival of Messrs. Baldwin and Wilson, from Coso, we have confirmatory news of the richness of the mines in that district. They bring specimens of ore from the Defiance and from the Tiger; the first indicates, they think, the richest mine in the world, and the latter richer still, which is an Irishism very satisfactory, at least to the parties in interest, who reside here. They go to San Francisco to provide the way of opening the mines, and promise developments that will challenge the Comstock.—[Bakersfield Californian.

Furniture Polish.

An excellent furniture polish is made of ten cents worth of beeswax placed in a tin cup and melted in a hot oven. Into this pour two ounces of turpentine and let it stand to cool. Apply it briskly to the furniture with a woolen rag, and give it a finishing rub with an old silk handkerchief. This polish is almost equal to a coat of varnish.

VINEGAR BITTERS.
PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's
CALIFORNIA VINEGAR
BITTERS!

The great heralds proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE ALDINE,
—THE—
ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,
Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

The Cannon of the Future.

The London Standard says: "England is now building a ship to carry 24 inches of armor, and she is making a gun which will be 81 tons in weight. It may be said here is proof enough of England's superiority. Unquestionably the ship is splendidly designed. So also is the gun, which we are to have ready some time about next July and which will doubtles turn out to be a wonderful weapon. Artillerists speak of the coming monster as an 'awful gun.' Crowds assemble at the forge whenever one of the huge coils is to be pummeled by the new steam hammer at Woolwich Arsenal. Even in the making of the 38-ton gun, masses of iron weighing 28 tons, at a welding heat, have to be laid under the hammer. For the large gun an incandestine mass of 45 tons has to be fetched out of the fire and duly hammered. The furnace has the capacity of a cottage, and the tongs by which the glowing cylinder is lifted out of its burning bed weigh no less than 30 tons. A steam crane bears the whole weight of tongs and coil, and everything proceeds without accident or hitch of any kind. At night the sight is truly grand, and well repays those spectators who take the trouble to be present. Other nations are not likely to be blind to the advantage which accrues from the possession of guns exceptionally powerful. Already it is known that steel tubes are being made, having a diameter six inches greater than that of the tube of the 81-ton gun. These tubes may be intended for the lining of the American smooth-bore guns, which are to be converted into rifles. Possibly they are for the use of the French Government, or for the Italian. At all events, such masses of steel are being made, and are destined to play some part in connection with foreign artillery. Most certainly the appearance of a 100-ton muzzle-loading gun among foreign armaments is by no means a remote contingency. But what are we prepared to do? Assuredly the great steam-hammer at Woolwich Arsenal can accomplish something more for us than the making of an 81-ton gun, big as that undoubtedly will be, with its bore of 16 inches in diameter, and 24 feet in length, firing a projectile weighing 1,600 pounds, propelled by 300 pounds of powder, the range of the weapon being 7 miles. All this is very formidable, but it is not by any means all that can be done. We may double the weight of the gun, making it 160 tons, having a calibre of 20 inches, and a bore of at least 30 feet. This would be a magnificent piece of ordinance, but even then there would be something beyond, and why should we stop short of that which must be gained at some period or other? Let us contemplate the further step at once. Why not have a gun with a bore of 24 inches—simply two feet. The weight would be 275 tons, the charge of powder would be 1,000 pounds, the weight of the projectile would be nearly two tons and a half, and the range 8 or 9 miles! This is not a mere dream, but a perfectly practicable piece of work. The cost would probably be a trifle less than £100 per ton, or about £25,000 for the entire piece. In weight of projectile such a gun would be something more than a 5,000-pounder. Perhaps when we had made such a weapon we might think we had gone far enough. As for armor, the projectile of the 275-ton gun would penetrate three feet with corresponding backing. As we showed some time ago, Dr. Collis Browne has modeled a ship which shall actually carry three feet armor. This armor would also be presented at a slope, so that our 5,000-pounder would have its work to do. As for cost, there is the consideration that one such gun will give results such as no number of smaller guns could accomplish. The Inflexible sheathed in part with two feet of armor, will carry four 81-ton guns, costing £8,000 each. Her four guns, therefore, will cost more than one 275-ton gun. Yet how would such a vessel as the Inflexible be able to stand the attack of so tremendous a weapon? The 5,000-pounds projectiles, unless striking with considerble obliquity, would readily smash through the thickest part of the armor, and two or three such visitors, having a bursting charge of 300 pounds of powder, might decide the fate of the ship. Surely the result would be cheap at the price!"

Tehachepi Pass.

[From The Bakersfield Courier.]

We do not remember ever to have seen a description of what is known as Tehachepi Pass in print, and believe little is known about it. It is not a pass, as that word is generally understood in connection with mountain chains. It is better described as a low part of the Sierras—a system of low, well-rounded hills, grassy and covered with a fine grove of oaks, with here and there well-watered alluvial valleys intervening that are usually occupied and cultivated by settlers, and bordered on either hand by mountains of considerable elevation, and of a general abrupt character. It is a healthful and beautiful section of Kern county, and filled with fine locations for stock-raising and agriculture. It is irregular in shape and more extensive than we had supposed. It may be described as commencing on the border of Beale's grant, following along the northern skirt of Livermore mountain, expanding behind said mountain in Bear and Cummings Valleys, and extending thence to the desert on the east, its length being perhaps thirty-four miles from west to east, and the average width from two to five. It is amply supplied with timber for building and fencing purposes, and good fences seem the rule rather than the exception. It has been occupied by a few settlers from a very early day, and the first comers went there as gold diggers, an avocation that many pursued for a long time before they perceived the country was good for something else.

It consists mainly of four principal valleys, to-wit: Bear, Cummings, Brites and Tehachepi valleys, and the whole is usually mentioned under the general name Tehachepi. The aspect of all these valleys is extremely satifying and pleasant to the eye. Bear Valley contains about four sections of level land and Cummings Valley five times as much. The general appearance of Cummings Valley is specially attractive. It is all claimed and mostly occupied and fenced by substantial fences. The surrounding scenery is the most beautiful in the county and the view that presents itself from the eastern end of the valley looking westward is the finest we have seen in the State.

Brites Valley is a continuation of this valley system to the eastward and lies between Cummings Valley and Tehachepi. The oldest settler and principal owner is Mr. J. M. Brite, whose residence dates back to '54. He has substantial and comfortable buildings and about 1 000 acres of land enclosed by an excellent fence. The most interesting feature of his improvements is his water supply. On the opposite side of the ridge that separates his premises from Cummings Valley is a very fine spring, noted for the purity and excellence of its waters. This, by means of a tunnel 300 feet in length, run through the country rock, he has tapped and brought out a fine stream for the use of his farm. There are several other settlers here besides Mr. Brite and some desirable lands appeared to be vacant. In one important respect this valley seems to have a material advantage. We allude to the accessibility of timber suitable for lumbering purposes, that is here found in great quantities in the mountains that bound it south, where there are two saw mills, in both of which we believe Mr. Brite is the principal owner, that will be operated with great energy this Spring and Summer, to meet the active demand for building and fencing material that is springing up.

Tehachepi is larger than the other valleys we have described as it extends to the desert on the east. It consists mostly of rolling, oak-covered hills, natural parks and narrow valleys. On the east side of the summit, where we did not go, we were told were some extensive tracts of level land, but at present it is not considered desirable for farming purposes, although Mr. Nadeau, of Inyo freight notoriety, was seeding a vast body of similar land immediately west of the summit with grain, to make forage for his teams when he turns them in this direction. The numerous springs and little streams that rise among the hills and small valleys of Tehachepi, by their united drainage, form, a few miles west of the summit, Tehachepi creek. This is one of the affluents of Agua Caliente creek which it joins near Allen's Camp, and it is mainly up the canyon that this has formed in its downward passage, that the railroad will have to force its way to the summit of the Sierras. The grade does not appear steep, but the other difficulties to be overcome in the way of cutting, filling, bridging and tunneling, seem enormous. The distance cannot be more than twenty miles, yet there must be infinitely more energy displayed than there has hitherto been in railroad building in the southern part of the State if it is overcome in much less than three years.

—The President has a very big opinion of General Sheridan, if all reports be true. The Washington correspondent of The Cincinnati Commercial says that recently, in conversation, the President remarked: "It is my deliberate opinion that Phil. Sheridan is the greatest of living or dead military men. If two of the largest countries in the world were to be engaged in a war against each other, and to prosecute it to the utmost limit, I know of no man, living or dead, to whom I would so soon entrust the campaign from the beginning of it to the end, as to General Phil. Sheridan.

—Music by handle—A street organ.

Jeff. Davis—Possibilities.

[From The S. F. Alta.]

Suppose that next year there should be no election of President by the popular vote—what then? This would ensue: the election would devolve upon the House of Representatives, in which the Democracy will have a strong majority. That majority will be very nearly equally divided between Northern and Southern Democrats. The Southern Democrats are, or will be, mostly ex-Confederate soldiers. And, although they might not be disposed to awaken again the feelings that produced the Rebellion, it is but natural that they would have a decided choice, and as formerly, they would not vote for a man unless he was known to be favorable to the South in preference, or pretended to be so. It was through such a sentiment on the part of Southern representatives in the Convention that made Pierce the nominee. And so in other cases. The Democracy, twenty-five years ago, was a Southern party and so continued, and generally so continues until this day. Under the possible circumstances, as suggested, it would be Southern still, and in order to gain a victory and the spoils, would agree to almost any terms and any candidate favorable to the South and endorsed by its representatives.

Should their be more than two candidates for the Presidency, the election of a President would quite likely devolve upon the House. In that case the most ultra man in his local preference or pretensions, provided he favored the South, would most probably bear off the honors. Now, one supposition more. Suppose Jeff. Davis, the Democratic candidate—one of the three to go before the House of Representatives! Will any one dare say that he would not receive the vote of the South, and that Northern members of the Democratic persuasion would not vote for him, willingly or per force? We have seen how a convicted felon, under the British law condemned as such, returned to his country and was by his countrymen elected to Parliament; but, by a vote of that body he was declared ineligible. But no such act would keep Jefferson Davis out of the Presidency if elected in the manner supposed, or in any other, for that matter. And to that we may yet come, although several perhapses must become facts before it could become a fact.

Mining Machinery.

An exchange says that during the Winter, Nevada miners have purchased in San Francisco immense quantities of mining machinery — thousands and thousands of tons—and still orders for more are being sent in almost daily. The present indications are that, this Spring and Summer, the demand for such machinery will be still greater. This will involve great activity, and probably largely increased capacity in the leading establishments.

Fearful Earthquake in Mexico.

A letter to New York from Gaudalajaro gives account of an earthquake, which, February 11, shook a large portion of Northern Mexico. The little town of San Cristobal was almost entirely destroyed, and seventy dead bodies have been taken from the ruins. The center of the disturbance appears to be in the volcano of Sebou county. The earthquake occurred in the dead of night, the darkness greatly increasing the terror of the people.

Whisky Rights.

A case has occurred already which shows that the Civil Rights bill is imperfect in its enactments. A colored citizen applied at a saloon, in Wilmington, North Carolina, for a drink, and was refused. He brought suit, but the United States Commissioner, before whom the suit was tried, dismissed the case on the ground that the Civil Rights bill did not apply to saloons. It is thus officially decided that civil rights does not mean whisky rights.

Rival to The London Times.

A newspaper, to rival The Times, is to be established in London. Bennett, of The New York Herald, is said to be one of the men interested in this new enterprise which is to have a dash of the American spirit of journalism in it, including "personals." If it should have a personal column like that in The Herald, the British people would be greatly edified and improved in their morals.

Bruisers to the Front.

Buffing and prize fighting were about to be banished to the limbo of indecent things, but now comes Algernon-and-the-rest-of-us Sartoris, Nellie Grant's English husband, and has a round with a shoulder hitter, on a saw-dust floor in Washington, whereupon every noodle in the Presidental "set," has put on gloves and tights and gone practicing knock downs.

The San Joaquin [illegible] Company, has filed certificate of incorporation, with a capital stock of $10,000,000. The object is to maintain a canal and other works, to divert 30,000 inches of the water of the San Joaquin river, through Fresno, Merced, Stanislaus, San Joaquin and Contra Costa counties.

What it Looks Like.

The Beecher trial presents to a disinterested observer the curious spectacle of a contest in which both parties are sedulously endeavoring to prevent the evolution of the truth. Which party is striving after this end most energetically, it would be hard to say.

American Cardinal.

A special cable despatch from Rome to The New York Freeman's Journal announces that at a Consistory, to be held March 15th, a number of Archbishops are to be created Cardinals, among whom is Archbishop McCloskey of New York.

Special Session.

The Legislature of Indiana was called to meet in extra session on the 9th instant. Gov. Hendricks gives the reason, to be the failure of the late Legislature to pass the revenue and general appropriation bills, which public welfare requires.

Sacramento.

At the Sacramento city election, the Republican ticket, with one exception, was elected. Geeen, for Mayor, beat his opponent 544 votes, although the latter was on both the Democratic and Independent tickets.

A New Coin.

The late session of Congress authorized the coinage ef twenty-cent pieces. This will break up the old "bit" nuisance, and prove an accommodation to the people of this coast where silver coin is in universal use.

About Completed.

The Borax Miner says the new 20-stamp mill of the Northern Belle Mill & Mining Company is now complete and ready for business.

JOSIAH IN WARM WATER.

It seems that Josiah Earl, our own delectable Josiah, is getting himself into warm water again, which is likely to get hot enough to scald him. However, there is no danger of its getting hot enough to effectually eliminate his rascalities. That is not among the possibilities. This time it is the Grangers, among whom he has been figuring largely of late, that is after him. They are beginning to find out over on the other side, that Josiah has a record, to which he is constantly making additions. They don't understand how he became one of their fraternity no how. Neither does any body else that we have ever heard of. They will be sending over here pretty soon to the Inyo Granges to know about it, especially to the one whence he took his rise, the one that gave him his credentials as a worthy brother, as an honorable man, who would not only be useful but quite ornamental in his new sphere. And if, after what they find out of his previous record in this way is not wholly satisfactory, the other local Granges will have an opportunity to testify to the transcendant fitness of things. If they all endorse him, it may be he will continue as the Grange State Immigration Agent, and the poor immigrants brought here under the auspices of the institution will continue to be turned over to him to be robbed and plundered, so they can return thanks to the whole organization accordingly. If the local Granges think they can so endorse him, they ought to do it; if they don't think, from what they know of him heretofore, that they can so endorse him, they will fall short of their obligations if they do not take the first opportunity to say so, and thereby purge the organization of a member certain to do much to bring it into fatal disrepute. It is a family affair as regards the responsibilities, but not at all so, as to the effects. The Grange organization is nominally, if not in fact, a secret institution. It has the right to discipline its own members, to mark out their line of duty and to see that they adhere to it. But when this line of duty is entirely public in its nature and operation, the manner of its performance becomes a matter of public interest, and hence it comes, that the past and recent operations of Josiah Earl, who derives his whole power for good or evil in an important position from the order, becomes a matter of public interest.

Though a secret of the order, yet it is no less interesting to the public to know, as we happen to know, that charges have been preferred against Earl before the Executive Committee of the State Grange, looking to his removal from the office of Immigration Agent. General unfitness, as shown by his acts previous to the time he became a Granger, form the base of the charges, but not the whole by any means. It is charged that immigrants been, robbed and ruined, while coming so completely into his hands as such agent. Next, it is charged that Josiah Earl forged the recent telegram to the United States Senate, asking in the name of the Executive Committee of the California State Grange, that Congress confirm a certain extensive land grant to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. This respectable man was at that time trying to buy those lands in the San Joaquin Valley, to sell (on his own account presumably) to the immigrants consigned to his fatherly care. As most of our readers will remember this little telegram, so contrary to the supposed policy and principles of the Grangers, created no little stir and commotion among all classes, and that Baxter, the Secretary, in the name of the Committee, published a denial of its paternity. In fact, if we remember rightly, the denial was authoritatively telegraphed to Washington. Any way, the grand thieving scheme failed like so many of its predecessors from the same source, for, as before stated, it was Josiah himself who did it. There was "millions in it" if things had gone smoothly, but they didn't, so the Immigration Agent is called upon to show cause why he should not be removed from his responsible position.

The main points here set forth can be relied upon as substantially correct. If the Inyo Grangers, any or all, feel that they have anything at stake in pending results, now is their opportunity to furnish whatever they think will answer best "to light Josiah on his devious way." It is something that should be attended to, and the sooner the better.

—It is said that John C. Fremont is shortly to take up his residence in Virginia city.

—A bill has been introduced in the Illinois Legislature making it a penal offense for one person to treat another to any kind of intoxicating drink.

—Visalia wants a woolen mill, and offers a tract of land and five thousand dollars in money to any person who will erect one.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

Los Angeles county generally is just beginning to realize the great importance of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, and are taking hold with a spirit which means business. At last accounts the required $300,000 was very nearly all taken, and actual work on the road was being prosecuted with vigor. This sum together with an equal amount from Jones and Park, insures the completion of the road to Panamint without the least doubt. As yet, Inyo stands credited with but $40,000 of stock taken, and this doubtless is all by Belshaw and Beaudry. We have scarce a doubt but if some active canvasser would take the matter in hand, it would be but a short time till an amount sufficient to guarantee the road to this place, would be secured. It can be demonstrated by actual facts and figures, making reasonable allowances for future contingent developments, that this road will be one of the best, and probably the very best paying railroad property in the United States. There is no gammon about this. Its stock is as certain to command a high market value, perhaps a premium, as any promise of the present ever can make a certainty for the future. The only fear that any one ever felt on this point was that it would fall into the hands of speculators, as such enterprises so often do; but now that Los Angeles owns and controls, and must for her own salvation continue to own and control, an equal share or a majority of the stock, we have a reliable assurance that the road and its stock must be managed for the legitimate profits and business and no other.

And now, if Darwin, Cerro Gordo, and this section generally, wish to share in the direct advantages of a railroad, they must put their wishes in a coin shape. They must subscribe for this stock. It won't require any more of any person than he can easily spare for the short time required before his property, whatever its kind, must enhance in value perhaps to double or quadruple the amount. This is particularly so as regards mining property. If nothing of the kind is done, we assert, as we often have heretofore, that the chances are ten to one the proposed road will come no nearer us than the mouth of the Panamint Canyon. It will go thence straight on to its ultimate connection with the Utah roads, and is a part of a great through line. This is a matter worthy the earnest and immediate attention of all and every mine owner in this portion of the county.

ELECTION MATTERS.

As there does not appear to be a clear understanding concerning certain election matters in which we of this county are specially interested, we submit the following:

The next general election occurs on the first Wednesday in September next. A Representative to Congress is to be elected from this district which is called the [illegible], and is comprised of the following counties: Fresno, Inyo, Kern, Los Angeles, Mariposa, Merced, Mono, Monterey, San Benito (new county), San Bernardino, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Stanislaus, Tulare, and Ventura (another new county), the State now containing fifty-three counties, the other new one, Modoc, being in the Third Congressional District.

In the Legislative apportionment we are in the Fourth Senatorial District, entitled to one Senator, and composed of the counties of Fresno, Inyo, Mono, Kern and Tulare. There is to be no State Senator to be elected from this district this Fall, nor until 1877, to which time Tipton Lindsey, the Senator elected from the district of Kern, Tulare and Fresno holds over.

Inyo and Mono together are entitled to one Representative who is to be elected this Fall.

A full set of county and township officers are to be elected, and three Supervisors, one in place of A. N. Bell, whose time expired last Fall, but who, by reason of no election having been ordered, retains his seat; the others in place of John R. Hughes, and J. W. P. Laird, whose terms expires this Fall.

An Independent Organ.

It is reported in San Francisco that the Independent State Central Committee are to furnish Samuel Seabough, the long-time editor of The Sacramento Union, with means to start a first-class Independent party daily journal at the Capitol. Seabough has but few equals on this coast or anywhere as a political writer and if he is placed at the head of such a paper as named, the Independents may count on having a powerful organ.

—It is because it is designed to close the mouth of people that it is called corkus.

—It is impossible to have the last word with a chemist, because he always has a retort.

Measures of Pacific Coast Interest Which Failed in the Recent Congress.

Among the measures of Pacific Coast interest which failed to pass Congress for want of time, were the following

By Sargent—Fixing the minimum price of $1 25 per acre for all lands within the limits of restored railroad grants. Bill relating to placer mining lands. One for the relief of aged and infirm pre-emption settlers. One dedicating California public lands to homestead and pre-emption settlement. Amendatory of the Savings Bank Act. Making provisions for an Oriental College from the Japan indemnity fund Authorizing the issuance of mine patents to foreigners in certain cases. To enable Indians to acquire homesteads on public lands; but a very similar measure was engrafted on the Deficiency bill. The object of Sargent and Page's bills, to correct the mistake of the codifiers in interpreting the naturalization laws so as to open the door to the Chinese, was effected by a general bill correcting this and many other errors. Sargent's bill providing for the sale of placer mineral lands on the same conditions with agricultural lands, and his bill to extend Lyon street through the Presidio, and relinquish to former settlers the wedge-shaped portion of which they were dispossessed by the ratification of the Stratton survey, both passed the Senate, but lodged in the House Committee. Hager's bill granting right of way to the Sierra Mountain Iron Company's Railway, and the Presidio Park bill, failed, though the former passed the Senate and the latter was reported favorably. Clayton's bills for a new Postoffice at San Francisco; amendatory of the Tax law as to distilled spirits and tobacco; providing for the appointment of an Appraiser-General for the Pacific Coast; for the arrest and detention of fugitives; for the incorporation of the Asiatic Commercial Company, and to authorize travel allowances to the California Batillion, all failed. Clayton probably would have got the Presidio bills through except for the immovable stubbornness of Butler, as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, in refusing to bring them before the House. Houghton's bill to confirm San Jose's title to pueblo lands passed the House, but failed in the Senate committee. His bill authorizing national gold banks to issue notes to the amount of ninety per cent. of their deposited Government bonds was strangled by the Senate Finance Committee. The Senate Private Lands Committee smothered Houghton's bill to expedite the survey of private land claims. His bill for the relief of the former occupants of Point San Jose military reserve died on the calendar in Committee of the Whole. Houghton's bills to establish a naval station at the Samoan Islands, and to aid Moreno's Asiatic capable project, failed to be reported from the committee. The same fate involved his bill to authorize the Southern Pacific Railroad to change its route to Salinas Valley. The Texas and Pacific Railroad bill was favorably reported, and probably would have passed the House if a direct vote had been reached. The Central Pacific Colorado Railroad scheme failed to be reported. Page's bills relating to the distillation of brandy; to perfect the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad grant; to reimburse California and Nevada for their war expenses; to provide Government buildings in Sacramento; to improve the San Joaquin river; and to take from the Courts the appointment of Shipping Commissioners, all failed in committee. The distillation and San Joaquin bills were not supported by the departments, and could not be passed without. The bill for the sale of timber lands failed in the Senate Committee. Luttrell's bill to reduce the tax on native brandy; to grant right of way through the Benicia Reserve to a narrow-gauge railroad; for a breakwater at Crescent City; and for protection of settlers within limits of railroad grants, all remained in the respective committees. The bill subjecting the Pacific Railroad lands to local taxation was smothered in the Senate Railroad Committee. Nesmith's bill to pay the citizens of California and Oregon the amount of their Modoc war expenses, and Stewart's joint resolution proposing constitutional amendments requiring all States to provide for common school education, failed

The following additional Pacific Coast measures also failed no receive final action: Clayton's and Luttrell's movements for a tax on imitation champagne, to protect California wine-makers. Luttrell's resolution for investigation of Central Pacific Railroad affairs. Kendall's bills prohibiting unjust railway discrimination; to encourage the sinking of artesian wells; to pay Nevada Indian war claims. Mitchell's and Nesmith's bill to aid in building the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad. All the Oregon and Washington Territory bills respecting swamp lands, namely, the Nez Perce and Klamath Reservations, and the Olympia tide flats; and the Seattle, Walla Walla and Roseburg Railroad bills. Also, all bills proposing to compel quartz miners to patent and pay for their claims.

New Hampshire.

The Republicans have elected a majority of the New Hampshire Legislature, upon which body will devolve the election of the Governor, no one of the three candidates in the field having received a clear majority. This will of course give a Republican Governor, and State Government. The Democrats elect two out of three Congressmen but don't feel at all proud of this sort of a tidal wave in favor of their party, particularly as they had built themselves up quite largely on New Hampshire.

—The Eureka Sentinel notes the fact that a "live Russian Count" is "slinging hash" in a restaurant of that town. It is the old story—love, jealousy, a duel, death of one antagonist and flight of the other.

Something for the Children.

One of the pleasures which the St Nicholas brings to its readers, is certainly the monthly chapters of Miss Alcott's story. This time we catch a delightful glimpse of the "Eight Cousins" at home and in the very midst of the confusion and riot produced by the return of their sailor-uncle. Just as interesting, also, is the sight of Rose in her new fancy costume, and the peep with her into that curious room never before explored where she makes a great discovery.

But Rose is not the only character in the March number who meets with a remarkable surprise, for in Mr. Trowbridge's serial the Young Surveyor is as completely astonished by finding his stolen horse when and where he does. If ever there was an ingenious horse-thief, the fellow who captured "Snowfoot" was he! It is a proof of his cunning, that Jack after all his efforts to find the missing animal, and after his search has been at last rewarded, is not yet "out of the woods," and seems to be threatened with another unexpected adventure.

Almost all boys and girls like narrative of wars and battles, and they will find a story of this sort in the poem called "The War of the Rats and Mice," which is every whit as thrilling in its way as the deeds of any favorite hero from Richard Cœur-de Lion to Jack the Giant-Killer. The illustrations by Stephens are admirable; one of them, a true "battle-piece," representing a tournament both exciting and novel.

As for the rest of the number, we have several excellent stories by Frank R. Stockton, Amalie La Forge and others, sketches of travel and science with illustrations, an article by W. H. Rideing on the Naval Academy at Annapolis, a French story, two delightful poems by Lucy Larcom and Mary E. Bradley, and — besides other good things—the impressible Jack-in-the-Pulpit, whose fun and jokes are always full of wisdom.

A Mule Willing to Go.

A bad little boy in Portland lit a pack of shootining crackers, and threw them into the street to see them "go off." One of Ike Bateman's mules came along and swallowed them before they "went off." The mule walked about fifteen feet and stopped. Things wasn't acting right inside. He began to taste the smoke of fire crackers. He laid his left ear around against his ribs and heard something. It was them crackers having fun. The mule picked out about three and a half miles of straight road and started. A negro met him about a mile the other side of the alms-house, going south, white with perspiration, with streams of smoke shooting out of his nostrils, mouth and ears, while his tail stuck straight up, and a stream of blue and green smoke followed about ten feet in the rear. Ike found his mule yesterday morning stuck half way through a farm-house near Paddy's Run, still smoking. The man had got his family out and put 'em up into a lot of trees. Ike hauled his mule home, when he got cool enough, on a dray. The man is going to move his house further back off the road, and his wife and oldest daughter will be baptized when the water gets warm.

New and Valuable Books.

We have received the advance pages of "The People's Common Sense Adviser, in Plain English or Medicine Simplifier," which promises to be a book eminently adapted to tastes and wants of the people. Forty-eight miscellaneous pages, the number sent us, can give but a meager outline of a work containing nearly nine hundred pages and about two hundred wood cuts and colored plates, but they are sufficient to reveal its tone and general character, both of which are worthy of the highest commendation. The high professional attainments of its author, Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, New York, constitute a sufficient indorsement as to what the work will be when completed. Almost every disorder that preys upon the human system is here discribed, together with its symtoms, causes and treatment, as far as it thought safe and advisable for the non-professional to prescribe. Chronic ailments receive special attention. A chapter on Accidents and Emergencies is a very useful feature of the book. Besides this, much miscellaneous and profitable information is given, rendering it a very desirable and and valuable work to have in every family. The work will be ready for delivery early in April, and may be obtained by addressing the author who is also its publisher.

A New Grass.

After General Sherman made his march to the sea, all in the wide track of waste and desolation that he made with the tramp of his footmen, and the iron feet of his cavalry, there sprung up a new and unknown grass from the soil, which the farmers called "Sherman clover." It would grow up in the most unexpected places, and it is said would root out Bermuda grass; and as a strange similarity, we now hear that after the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-'71, in many districts of France a new vegetation sprung up, evidently the result of the invasion. It was believed that this vegetation would be acclimatized, but very few of the species introduced in this way appear likely to continue to flourish. The the Department of Loir and Loir-et-Cher, of 163 German species, at least one-half have already disappeared, and the surviving species diminish in vigor each year. Scarcely five or six species appear to manifest any tendency to become acclimated. Can any of our naturalists account for it?—[Ex.

Governors of California.

Romualdo Pacheco is the twelfth Governor of this State. The first Governor elected under the Constitution was Peter H. Burnett, who is now in San Francisco, and is connected with the banking business. He resigned on the 8th of January, 1851, when the Lieutenant Governor, John McDougall succeeded him, and he served till the first of January, 1852. John Bigler, who died in Sacramento a few years ago, succeeded him, and was re-elected in 1854, serving till 1856. J. Neeley Johnson served from 1856 to 1858. He died in Utah a year or two ago. John B. Weller succeeded him and remained in office from 1858 to 1860. Milton S. Latham was next incumbent. He resigned on the 14th of January, 1860, having been elected United States Senator, and John G. Downey served out the balance of the term till 1862, he being the Lieutenant Governor. Leland Stanford succeeded him, and served till December, 1863. The term of the State officers was then increased from two to four years. F. F. Low filled the office from 1863 to 1867, when he was succeeded by Henry H. Haight, who served from 1867 to 1871. Newton Booth was elected Governor in September, 1871, and was inaugurated December 4th of that year. He resigned on the 27th of February, 1875, and Pacheco will fill the office till the first Monday of next December.

Charlie Ross.

While the search for the missing boy continues, so much has been done as to lead already to a compilation of statistics thereanent. Mr. Charles K. Ross has recently made the statement that there has been already expended $20,000. Commissioners have searched from ocean to ocean; 700,000 circulars have been issued; printing and photographing have cost $8,000; a corps of clerks have been employed in the correspondence; 200 bands of gipsies have been searched; 600 Charlie Rosses have been reported, and fully five hundred persons have been engaged in the search. The inability to know his exact fate is certainly one of the most mysterious and harrowing of circumstances.

Incurables Restored. Do not despair because your physician shakes his head. Professional opinions are not infallible; and they are never wider of the mark than when they pronounce Chronic Dyspepsia an incurable malady. To mitigate its pangs the faculty usually prescribe air, exercise, and brandy. The first two are God's medicine; the last is a satanic poison. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE. Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

Matters at Bishop.

A correspondent at Bishop Creek favors us with an account in detail of the accident to L. Howard, but as the main points are given elsewhere, we pass all but the fact that Dr. Middleton amputated the stump, in doing which he administered chloroform from the effects of which the patient came very near dying. Our correspondent further says: "Mr. Matlack, a few days since, discovered a lead of silver ore in Piute District said to be 15 to 20 feet wide. The ore assays eight thousand dollars to the ton....Placer mining for gold in the hills west of the valley will soon be resumed....A Mr. Whitcomb and family, who passed through here last Fall en route to San Buenaventura, where he has since resided, comes back to take chances for a permanent home and fortune in this section....In a late issue of THE INDEPENDENT, "Snob" makes some rather disparaging reflections as to the discretion and motives of our Grangers, in the matter of certain memberships and refusals of applications. It is presumable that the Grangers are as competent judges of the qualifications necessary to entitle a candidate to membership in their order as persons who live in an exclusively mining town forty miles away, as does the aforesaid Snob. [Snob is a good fellow enough, but never said he knew how to keep a hotel.—EDS.] They do not reject applications without reasons they think are good and sufficient.... The general health is very good here now, after so much sickness particularly among the little ones. The farmers are very busy putting in their crops, which will be more extensive than heretofore.—BISHOPITE."

School Examination.

By the politeness of Mr. C. A. Walters, we and others whom we esteem pretty highly, had an opportunity last Wednesday to witness the closing exercises of Miss Carrie Whitcomb's school at the Post. The parents of a number of the children and County Superintendent Symmes, were also present, and all expressed real gratification at the evident progress made by the children since this eight month's term began. We have never seen pupils acquit themselves better than did these, almost without exception. The exercises consisted, in addition to the usual review of studies, of interesting declamations by a number of the litte ones of both sexes and a dialogue by Masters Dugan and Thomson, all of which was very well done, indeed. It is manifest that Miss Whitcomb has spared no effort to give her pupils a clear understanding of every lesson given, and the result shows that she has been highly successful. She will begin another term in about six weeks. In the meantime the Trustees will endeavor to furnish a better school house, which is much needed. The teacher at the close made the following awards: First prize, to Minnie Walter; second to Annie Malone; third, Albert Chaquette; fourth, to Willie James, each an appropriate book.

A Bad Egg.

Among the more prominent characters lately identified with the new camp or Darwin was one Tom Carroll. This individual, from what we hear of his doings, certainly needed killing worse than any desperado that we have heard of for some time. Claim jumping was his chief business, and open daylight, outrageous robbery of tradesmen at the muzzle of a revolver his incidental recreation. His only ambition seemed to be to make his mark as a blood-thirsty desperado. Though so far as known not personally interested, it seems this propensity induced him to take an active hand in the late murder at Darwin, since which he has jumped the camp. The most reliable protection for any community in this county against such overbearing villians rests with the community itself, and no community ought to permit any such to challenge it with impunity day after day, without exercising its right of self-protection.

Lost His Thumb.

Louis Howard of Bishop Creek met with an accident on the 15th by which he will be maimed for life. He was trying to catch a horse, and is doing so, threw his rope over the animal's neck and a fence post at the same throw. A kink or turn of the rope caught the thumb of the left hand in such a way as to literally tear it off at the first joint.

Lumber.

P. P. Gerrish, lately returned from Los Angeles, says no well seasoned redwood or finishing lumber is to be had in that city now. We have noticed an unusally large number of teams passing lately, loaded with Big Pine lumber, destined mainly, we suppose, for Darwin.

Contract Let.

In the matter of the construction of a bridge across the slough this side the the Bend City bridge, and the removal and rebuilding the latter, but one bid was offered. This was by P. P. Gerrish, at $2,500, and being reasonable enough, the Board accepted it. The work is to be completed by May 1st.

At Work

John Shepherd is busily at work with a strong force on the Lone Pine, Darwin and Panamint Toll Road, and will soon have it several degrees above the growling point of the most fastidious teamster.

A FAREWELL.

The following lines were sent us in December last, with the following note:

MESSRS. EDS.—You will favor your fellow man by giving these few lines room in your paper. They are written by a condemned and broken-hearted father, lying in his prison cell awaiting execution. You will keep it a secret till I am gone, till I am no more, and then let the world know that I have repented of that wicked deed. I hope to meet you all in heaven. Farewell, my dear friends; take warning by me and never take the life of another. E. P. WELCH.

County Jail, Independence, Dec. 5, 1875.

As the author is now "gone," though in a different way than he then contemplated, we think his poetry will subserve as good a purpose now as at any time hereafter.

Oh, dreadful dark and dismal day,
Now are my glories fled away—
The sun's gone down, my die is cast,
And I must leave this world at last.

Judge Reed has now my sentence passed;
These prison walls I leave at last,
Nothing to cheer my drooping head
Soon must I be numbered with the dead.

Oh, Lord what will become of me,
I am condemned as you may see—
To Heaven or Hell my soul must fly
All in a moment when I die.

I did not think of my dear wife,
When I raised my hand to take Moore's life.
And if his sins fall on his head
Then I must bear them in his stead

Oh, my dear children, fare you well,
We never can meet on earth again
But closer to your mother cleave,
And never give her pain.

I am going, surely going, [gone!]
But in God I'll put my trust
And my form will soon be lying
In the grave beneath the dust.

Oh, that I could on earth remain,
Though no pleasure would I see
How hard it is to part with those Who cling so close to me.

My wife, my children fare you well!
God heal your broken hearts
On earth we never more shall meet—
Oh, it is so hard to part.

When you lay me down to rest
In the dust of the grave,
Oh, pray to the Lord
That my soul will be saved.

The Ashim-Montgomery Examination.

After some delay on account of the lack of desired witnesses, the examination of Montgomery, held as an accessory with Ashim for the killing of Perasich at Darwin last week, began before Justice Schalten on Wednesday. The particular charge against Montgomery who, it appears was a clerk for the Ashim firm, was that he had fired at Petrovich, a partner of Perasich, the young man murdered, and had shot him (Petrovich) in the hand. It being proved conclusively to the Court that Montgomery had not fired off his pistol at all, he was discharged. The examination of Ashim, for the killing of Perasich then began, and has been conducted with closed doors. At this writing (Friday evening), it is not yet ended. We have nothing more of the merits of the affair than at first, and it can subserve no good purpose to offer any opinions or speculations in regard to it, but we will say that the impressions is gaining ground that the bloody deed has no qualifying or justifiable features about it. But it is evident defendent's counsel (Reddy) hopes to prove it was justifiable and that his client should not be held to answer. A brother of the deceased arrived from Carson by the last stage, but is not permitted to be present for fear of some overt acts from him. On this account, it is said the order was made to exclude all spectators.

Stage Robbed.

Thursday evenining's stage from the South brought news of the robbery of the one which makes the connection at Lone Pine, at about half past 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. This stage when about two and a half miles this side of Cane Brake station (85 miles south of Lone Pine) was hailed and three times ordered to stop by one of two masked men, as it subsequently appeared Driver thought best to obey orders and as soon as the stage came to a stop, was ordered to throw out Wells, Fargo's treasure box. This, after asking time to get it out, he did. He was at once told to drive on, the robbers making no other demonstrations towards any one. There were six passengers in the stage at the time, but we have only these names: Mr. and Miss Fleischman, Ben Schloss and John Vornach, the three former from San Francisco, the latter, a former resident of this place. It was said these people caused several watches and much coin to jingle on the coach floor as soon as they realized the nature of the order given by the robbers at that untimely hour. It is pretty certain there was but two, of the robbers, and the spokesman was evidently an American. It is not known here as yet what amount of coin the box contained.

Human Remains Found.

Last Saturday Isaac Hitchcock, Sr., sent word to Coroner Wayland that he had discovered the skeleton of a man in a small dry slough above the Bend City bridge. The tules and grass had recently been burnt off the ground where the skeleton was lying, thereby exposing it to view. A jury was summoned by the Coroner, which, after investigating the matter, returned a verdict that it was a skeleton of an unknown person, who had apparently come to his death by drowning, a year or more ago. But it is pretty certain from various circumstances, that the remains were those of — Gunther, who suddenly left Schalten's ranch, near the Post, a little less than two years ago, and as was evident had committed suicide by jumping into the river, being partially crazy at the time. Though diligent search was made, no trace of the body could be discovered. It is supposed that it soon after floated, to the spot where the bones were found, though, by the bends of the river, it would be several miles distant from where it was supposed he had taken the fatal plunge. The bones, all save one foot, which was missing, were gathered up and duly buried in the graveyard south of town.

School Commenced.

The Irwin (Bishop Creek) District School, Charles Wainwright, teacher, began a term on the 15th instant.

Indian Pre-emptor.

A few days since Mike Bishop, a Piute Indian, made application at this Land Office to pre-empt eighty acres of land adjoining Allison's place, Bishop Creek. By the kindness of V. A. Gregg, Esq., Lo's papers were made out in due form, the proper affidavits filed and all that, but, Register McCallum refused the application on the general grounds that he did not think it legal, notwithstanding instructions from the Commissioners to Registers and Receivers which, to our view covers the whole case, admiting the Indian's right when he takes the oath supported by affidavits of two disinterested white persons, that henceforth he would live "all same as white man"—in other words, would wholly sever his tribal relations, renounce all claims or share to annuities, etc., all of which Mike did. Two similar applications have been granted in this office heretofore, but whether they will finally be passed for a patent, remains to be seen. In order to test the matter Mr. Gregg and the writer submitted a statement to the Commissioner, asking an order for the admission of the application. The only objection that can be raised to giving such Indians as Mike, and all such, a piece of ground as his own, and in such a manner that he cannot be ousted at the will of any person who chooses to take his "ranch" and crop, is that he may eventually sell out for what he can get to some speculator. But these Indians take much pride in their possessions, and are no more liable to give things up that way than the majority of white men similarly tempted.

Personal.

P. W. Bennett, Esq., contemplates a trip to Bakersfield, the coming week, in connection with some business matters that may keep him there several weeks. ....V. Beaudry was here on a flying visit. We hear incidentally, that he has a large quantity of piping for his Darwin City water works now arriving at the foot of the Lake....Recorder, A. B Elder, "Bill" Grant, Ned Reddy and others of Darwin were here during the week.

An Error or Two.

We are very well satisfied we would have bad health if we didn't have an error or two to set right every now and then. This time, though scarcely important enough to interest the great reading world very intensely, we will state that the interest in the Defiance mine sold by Rennie was one-seventh instead of one-sixth, and that P. Reddy alone was the purchaser, not himself and Beaudry jointly, as stated.

To the Ladies.

Ladies desiring to purchase or receive instructions on that household treasure, the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing machine, can obtain either by applying to C. F. Stoutenborough, at the store of Harris & Rhine. *

Artesian Water.

Recently the firm of Travis & Cotton, of Tulare, took a contract of sinking a tube or bored well near Hinlan's ranch, in the Mussel slough region; and having prosecuted the work to a depth of 95 feet the water rose to the top of the pipe, some two feet above the level of the surface of the surrounding country. The work was continued, however, and of course the stream passed through was closed by the impervious metalic tubé, and the ground now penetrated was a tough compact clay. At a depth of one hundred and forty-five feet another stream was cut, and the water rose to the same height as before. Work has been suspended for a few days to give an interested public a chance to share the cost of continuing the experiment. It is believed that if the pipe is ever shoved beneath this continious clay formation that a flowing well will be struck of a power equal to the well on W. S. Chapman's ranch, near Merced, where a good sized brook is discharged from the mouth of the pipe. —[Visalia Delta, March 12.

Saturday, March 20,.....1875.

Taking of Badajoz (Spain) by the British.

Thousands rushed through the breaches, and trampled one another to death at the very mouth of the French guns, which cut them down by regiments; while the shrieks and cries of the wounded, the howls of the maddened, the roar of ordnance, the shouts of the army, the bewilderment of midnight, and the horrible stench of burnt human flesh, lit up by the flash of innumbered guns and musketry, seemed like the wild, burning waves of the bottomless pit rolling over the souls of the shrieking lost. Still on, on they rush. There is no madness like a maddened mob. Hundreds were impaled on the sharp sword-blades fastened in rows across the breaches; yet hundreds more pressed on, and fell upon other tiers of the same horrible instruments. Over these, as they writhed and shrieked, mounted others, and trod and crushed them down, till an army passed over unharmed by the pointed steel beneath; and even horsemen rushed upon this causeway of living beings, and trampled and crushed it into a reeking jelly of human flesh and blood, and still plunged onward through the crimson river which flowed beyond.

Thus was the city won, and then did the British soldiers who had crossed the seas to rescue Spaniards from French thraldom, rush upon the city, and slaughter and pillage, and violate every house. There was no order, no restraint; officers were shot in the streets by drunking soldiers; old men and women they slaughtered promiscously; there was scarce a women whose person they did not violate; whole families were burnt up in their own houses; and thus reigned horror and dreadful carnage for several days in succession. The after scene was indeed "hell broken loose."

—Good housekeepers are sad when they turn to dust. They say "Let us sweep."

—"Nasby," who ought to be in Washington with Andy, is going to Europe.

—Miss D. sends us a poem, entitled, "Can Not Make Him Smile." We cannot publish it unless she gives us the name of the young man. All the young men we know "smile."

—Professor Sumner, of Yale College, hits the whole nature of "indepedent" journalism when he says the "to throw mud on a man anyway, and it don't belong to him he can scrape it off."

—A Western editor asserts that it is "no use trying to publish a nonpareil newspaper in a long primer community," which will be readily understood by the initiated.

—Serrano was sipping his chocolate. "Bad news, your highness," said a messenger, "the army of the north will proclaim Alfonso." "Ah! the only possible solution," said Serrano. And he went on sipping his chocolate. His sun had set. His son had risen.

—A good many people were deluded into going into an aprothecary's shop in a village on the Hudson to see a red bat which had been captured, and was on exhibition. They saw it, and it was red; as a brickbat usually is.

—Ben Butler remarks thus concerning riding in a railroad car: "I sit in the forward end of the car for two reasons: To avoid the bad breath and foul air which one finds collected in the rear of the car; and next there is far less danger in case of telescoping. I prefer the left side, because every car door opens to the left, thereby throwing the draft to the right."

—The Eureka Sentinel says that two of the fortunates who made a raise in stocks a short time since, and left Eureka to live in the city, have come to grief. Both are now about broke, one resuming his professional in a fifteen-cent tonsorial establishment in San Francisco, and the other finds it convenient to hang out his sign as a fashionable tailor.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unappreached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of James Sutton, President.

DICK'S WATCH.

Dear little Dick, curled up by the fire,
Sat watching the shadows come and go,
As the dancing flames leaped higher and higher,
Flooding the room with a mellow glow.

His chubby hand on his side was pressed,
And he turned for a moment a listening ear;
"Mother," cried he, "I've got a watch!
I can feel it ticking right under here!"

"Yes, Dick, 'tis a watch that God has made,
To mark your hours as they fly away;
He holds the key in his mighty hand,
And keeps it in order night and day.

"Should he put aside, the mystic key,
Or lay his hand on the tiny spring, [down,
The wheels would stop, and your watch run
And lie in your bosom a lifeless thing."

He crept to my side and whispered soft,
While his baby voice had an awe struck sound,
"I wish you would ask him, mother dear,
To be sure and remember to keep it wound!"

Reduction of Ores.

[From The Los Angeles Evening Express, Feb. 17

It is now a settled fact that Los Angeles will hereafter be the great outlet for all the ores of our interior—of Southern Nevada, Northern Arizona and Southeastern California. Any one familiar with the mineral belt which will be tributary to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, knows that many of the districts are rich in ledges bearing what is known among miners as "refractory ores." White Pine, Pioche, Belmont, Pahranaghat and a number of other regions in Southeastern Nevada are possessed of exhaustless quantities of these ores. They are rich in metals, but the antagonistic and rebellious character of their components render them literally worthless in a country where they cannot be reduced and where the cost of transportation, as at present available, would swallow up their entire value. These ores, as a general thing, will bear the freight rates of a railroad to tidewater at Los Angeles and of shipping to Swansea, Wales; and wherever, along the line of the Central Pacific and the intersecting railroads in Utah, the class of ores mentioned have been shipped, the returns have been satisfactory. It seems that by virtue of the extent and perfectness of the works at Swansea, and the skill which long experience has taught, as well as the low price of labor, these ores, bearing a variety of metals, are so minutely separated that not a particle of valuable matter is lost. Hence it has been found that the base metals alone, in many of the classes of ores noted, pay the entire expense of transportation and separation, together with commissions, etc., leaving the miner, as a return, all the precious metals. There is now a region of country back of us which will furnish the class of ores alluded to to an extent that centuries of labor will not exhaust, and that will be rendered at once valuable by the construction of a railroad. The great refractory ore zone is geographically situated so as to point to Los Angeles as its outlet. Perhaps a few years will elapse, after these ores reach this place as a shipping point, before our capitalists will see the advantage of erecting here such works as those at Swansea. But we cannot believe that we shall remain a mere point of transhipment for these ores. Some man of large intelligence will rise to the surface, and establish here an industry which would alone make us the centre of a flourishing population. The difference in the value of labor will more than be compensated by the saving of from 5,000 to 17,000 miles of sea freight; and the development of coal measures on this coast will ultimately, we opine, place us comparatively on an equality with Swansea as regards fuel. We cannot escape the conviction that in this vicinity at no distant period, reducing and separating works will arise, the fame of which will, perhaps, perhaps within the next decade, rival that of the great works in Wales, or of the still more ancient and distinguished mineralogical establishments of Freiburg. The success of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad will render such works a logical necessity to our geographical situation.

—"No," replied Solomon Burch, of The State Journal, as he sat before his grate fire in his sanctum, talking with the schoolmaster. "No, I never read any of his plays nor his poeckry, but I hearn him lecture on Lincoln once. But that Credit Moberly hurt Shiller terribly, an' no mistake."

An Extraordinary "Birth Mark."

About three months ago, in the edge of Russell county, a child was born into a family in which other children had previously made their appearance from time to time, all (except the last) being well-formed and healthy. This last is an unusual product of nature. The body from the head down to about the hips is in form and color, with few exceptions, very much like other white children; around the hips it is perfectly black, its legs being like those of an ordinary child. The head, also, is spotted, and the hair upon it is as stiff as the bristles of a hog. The sex of the child cannot as yet be determined. The mother gives the following explanation of the freak: A short time before the birth of the child, a vicious wild hoe broke out of his pen, which was near the house, and with devouring intent immediately made at a child that was playing in the yard. The mother witnessed this scene, and so imminent was the danger that she was greatly terrified. She sprang to the little one's assistance just in time to save it from the furious animal. The hog was of that kind known among farmers as listed—that is, having a "stripe" across his shoulders; the remainder of his body was spotted. The marks on the child correspond to these color marks of the hog. The hair on the child's head is simply a number of stiff bristles, projecting out from the skin. Up to this time it has been healthy, and bids fair to grow up to youthhood.—[Columbia (Ky) Spectator.

No More Miners Wanted.

The late wonderful developments on the Comstock, which have been elaborately noted by every news journal in the United States and Europe, are making Storey county a central point of attraction, and bringing laborers here from almost every State in the Union. The opening up of mines, the construction of mills, and the consequent revival of prospecting in new and abandoned localities, having given employment to hundreds of additional laborers; but work cannot be provided for the armies of unskilled workmen now pouring in upon us, and journals everywhere are requested to make a note of the fact. Mining superintendents inform us that hundreds of applications for work are made to them daily, principally by men fresh from the Eastern States and California and knowing nothing of underground mining. Were additional miners required, these new recruits would not be the material from which they could be profitably selected, for mining in the lower levels of the Comstock has become a skilled pursuit. Sometimes, in cases of destitution, light labor on the surface is provided temporarily by charitable superintendents, but work cannot be found for the mass of applicants daily besieging our mines and mills. California laborers should remain where they are, and those coming from the East, will save time, money and disappointment by seeking employment in the Eastern counties of the State, or in the agricultural districts of California.—[Virginia City Enterprise.

Hints About Transplanting.

Just at this particular time, it may be of some benefit to reproduce the following article from the Sacramento Record, on the manner of transplanting trees.

Dig a hole, according to the size of the tree two or four feet in diameter, the deeper the better, and when ready to plant, fill the hole with good soil, well pulverized, to a proper depth to permit the tree to set in about the same depth as it originally stood in the nursery; then cut back or shorten all the branches, and carefully examine the roots, and with a sharp knife cut or pare off all the bruised parts; now set the tree, permitting the roots to take as near their natural position as possible; then fill in, and be sure to mix the dirt thoroughly among the roots with your fingers, or otherwise. In handling the trees, before planting, care should be taken not to bruise the roots or expose them to the air, sun or frost. To preserve the tree from borers or other injuries the first Summer, wrap the trunk with cloth—woolen is best. Many thousand good trees have been rendered puny and worthless for life for want of proper care the first season.

Johnny's Essay on "The Tode."

Todes is like frogs, but more dignity, and wen you come to think of it a frog is wetter. The wart which todes are noted for can't be cured, for they is cronic, but if I couldent git wel Ide stay in the house. My grandfather new a tode which somebody had tamed til it was folks. Wen its master wissled it would come for flies. They cetches them with their tung, wich is like a long red werm, but more litening only litenin haint got no gum onto it. The fli wil be standin a rubbin his hine legs together and a thinkin wat a fine fli it is, and the tode a settin some distance away like it was a sleep. While youre seein the fli as you ever seen anything and all at once it aint there. Then the tode looks up at you sollem out of his eyes, like he said, wats become of that fli? but you know he et it.

—The original Colonel Sellers, of "The Gilded Age," is proprietor of a large coal mine and mineral lands on the lower Ohio, below Shawneetown, Illinois, in which enterprise, Philadelphia capitalists, amongst whom ex-Secretary of the Navy Borie is most prominent, are concerned with him.

A Toothless People.

Terrible times in Warrentown, Va., are depicted by The Sentinel. It appears that a few weeks ago a dentist came to that town, and advertised that he would remove all of a person's teeth for two dollars, besides giving six months' credit. The Warrentown people are very fond of bargains, so there was a rush for the dentist's office. He was busy for two months pulling teeth, and at the end of that time half the people had empty gums and a bone dust factory in the neighborhood doubled its workmen so as to grind up the teeth. While the people were waiting for the dentist to fit them with new sets, the abandoned scoundrel eloped with the hotel-keeper's wife, and now there are two or three thousand people in town who cannot eat anything tougher than soup and farina. All the butchers have failed; not a cracker has been sold for three weeks. One man, it is said, whittled out a set of wooden teeth for himself, but the first drink of whisky he took—Cincinnati whisky—set them in a blaze, and his funeral came off next day. The dentist will hear something to his advantage if he comes back.

Washington Belles.

It may seem invidious to say it, yet 'tis true, that the faces of so many of the young ladies in society here are ugly before their time. Months of increasing dissipation, round dances, late suppers, nights turned into day, all tell their story in the havoc they make with fresh tints and outlines of youth, and in the glance of innocence which should be the young soul's inalienable birthright. There are young women under twenty-five, the daughters of parents high in position, young ladies who flourish in every society columns as "belles," of course "elegant, accomplished and beautiful," who walk the streets rouged to their eyes, with close masked veils, through which no one can trace the ravages that a false life—not time—has made upon them, but through whose thin meshes they look forth with a bold, hard, defiant gaze, with lifted eyelids that never drop beneath the most prolonged or equivocal stare.—[Washington Letter.

INDIAN HOMESTEADS.

An Act of Congress, passed on the last day of the session, provides that any adult Indian "who has abandoned or may hereafter 'abandon his tribal relations,'" shall be entitled to all the benefits of the Federal Homestead law; but shall not be permitted to alienate or encumber his homestead land within five years after the date of the patent, which he cannot get until five years after his settlement. This protects the property for ten years—a period so long that speculators cannot use the Indians. This became a law as an amendment to the Deficiency bill. It provides that the Indian must have been born in the United States, must be the head of a family or have arrived at the age of twenty-one years, and must have abandoned his tribal relations, before he can enjoy these privileges. By possession of land he shall not forfeit his share of all annuities, tribal funds, etc.

Old Bender.

The San Diego Union's correspondence at Florence, Arizona, March 16th, gives a long and detailed interview with old John Bender, the Kansas murderer. He was very reluctant at first, but after a desultory conversation of several hours, and after being cornered, he confessed that he was John Bender; that he did not commit the murders, but that it was John and Kate—his son and daughter—who did the deeds. He declines to give the whereabouts of his family, but says they went from Kansas to Texas, where they separated. He taking the name of Dutchmiller, then came to New Mexico, and subsequently to Arizona. He says John and Kate were with the old woman. He was greatly agitated during the confession and is sorely exercised as to his fate. A requisition from the Governor of Kansas is daily expected, when he will be taken thither.

Fillibustering Scheme.

According to the Washington correspondent of The Chicago Times, a mammoth fillibustering scheme is now on foot, having in view the ultimate annexation of Northern Mexico to the United States. It is alleged that some twenty U. S. Senators, both Republican and Democratic, including Cameron, Gordon, Logan, Stevenson and Conkling, are in this gigantic combination. Gen. Rosecrans, Tom. Scott and others interested in the Texas Pacific railway and Mexican mining stocks are to take a hand in this move. The party is to start for the promised land on an ostensible pleasure excursion immediately after the close of the extra session. How these fillibusters propose to execute their annexation scheme has as yet not transpired.

General Sheridan.

Many people have an idea that General Sheridan is ineligible to the Presidency as Irish born. There was never a fuller-blooded Irishman than Phil Sheridan; but he was not born in Ireland. His parents were emigrating from Derry to the United States in 1831, when he was born on board of an American vessel, beneath the American flag, and is therefore a native, and eligible to any position to which the people may elect him.

The Reason Why.

Andy Johnson denies the soft impeachment of the Tennessee Bourbons, who charge him with paying $10,000 for Brownlow's Senatorial slippers. Andy does not stoop to deny that he might, under cirtain circumstances, have been tempted into such a transaction, but he simply inclines to the opinion that a man could not well spend $10,000 unless he had that sum at his disposal, which the same was not the case with A. Johnson ever since Jay Cooke pocketed all his savings.

Piutes in the Schools.

Two grand-children of old Winnemucca, Chief of the Piute tribe of Indians, have been attending the public school in Silver City, Nevada, for several months past. It is said they have mastered the multiplication table, and have been promoted into the second reader class.

Ruinous.

The income tax law, as amended, levies a tax of three per cent, on all incomes between $3,000 and $10,000, and five per cent, on all over $10,000. This last makes it very onerous on us. Such distinctions shouldn't be permitted.

Not wanted.

No more miners are wanted on the Comstock. So says the Enterprise and mining Superintendents.

THE STOCK LAW.

As their seems to be some misunderstanding as to when the new stock law takes effect, or what the effect of the change is, we will explain. The law itself as originally ennacted for this county is not altered in any particular except in the time it shall be in force. This change, however, makes it incumbent on the stock owners to take care of their stock the entire year through. The amendment to this effect was approved March 30, 1874, section 2, being in these words: "This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the fifteenth day of April, A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-five."

The effect of this will be understood by recalling the provisions of the old law, which, of course, remains in force till the time set for the new one to begin. Under that law stock in this county were permitted to run at large from the 15th of November till the 15th of March following. Then this privilege ceased until the 15th of November came around again. As the old law remains in full force and effect till the time for the new one to begin arrives, all stock running at large from and since the 15th of the present month are liable for damages just the same as if no change had been made in the law. The fact that the change does not take effect until a month later does not affect the responsibilities for this month as existing heretofore. Under the old law, (or present law as yet, in fact), stock would have to be taken care of from the middle of this month to the middle of next November. This amendment forbids their being turned loose then, as under the old law, or any time thereafter.

We do not propose to argue the merits of the amendment, but while speaking about it, will simply remark that we do not, nor never did believe, this amendment is any improvement on the original law, but quite the reverse. But a considerable majority of the petitioners told our Representtaives they wanted the change, so it couldn't well be denied.

Interesting Decision.

Kopp's Land-Owner for March contains a decision of the Secretary of the Interior establishing the following general principles of importance to parties interested in mines: Where the given name of the party executing the deed differs from his name as found on the location notice, the identity of the person must be shown. Full and complete copies of the respective conveyances are unnecessary. Under the rules a complete abstract is required. An affidavit of the continuous posting of the plat and notice on the claim, must be made by one of the parties owning the mine. At the date of entry at the local office, the plat posted on the claim as required by the statutes must be a copy of the plat filed with the application for a patent. Only citizens, or those who have declared their intention, are authorized to claim and locate mines. A foreigner may take a mining location and dispose of it, provided he becomes a citizen before disposing of the mine. Proof that the party was not a citizen before disposing of the claim must be affirmatively shown by the adverse claimant.

Post Roads.

The post-road bill, which became a law on the last day of the session of the late Congress, establishes the following new routes in this State, the Postmaster-General to use his own discretion as to when service shall be put on. As our readers are aware, however, service has already been ordered upon these in which we are immediately interested, all, no doubt, through the inflence of Senator Stewart: From Pine Flat to Geyser Springs; Healdsburg to Mercuryville; Greenwood Valley to Spanish Dry Diggins; Jackson to Woodford; Knoxville to California Quicksiver Mine; Cloverdale to Mercuryville; Ukiah, via Medicine and Casper, to Noyo; Los Angeles to Panamint; Ukiah to Glenmark; Independence to Panamint.

Military Orders.

The War Department issued an order on the 11th assigning Gen. Ayer, as Commander of the Department of the South, and Gen. Ord to the Department of Texas. Gen. Crook will take command of the Department of the Platte which latter assignment will leave Col. Kautz, of the Eighth Infantry, in command of Arizona, he being the senior officer. The Department of the Missouri has been extended to the northern boundary of Texas, under an order issued several days ago.

HOSPITAL AGAIN.

Under the above head The Panamint News of the 20th has this to say:

We dislike as much as anybody the constant ding-dong of cracked bells or the clanging of Chinese gongs. The noise partakes too much of devil-fiddles and sheet thunder to suit our weak nerves; but when we undertake to state fairly and squarely a question regarding that which is as right and just concerning one portion of the county as another; when from our own observation, as well as evidence presented to us by citizens of the highest standing, we are induced to enter upon a work of humanity and charity; when, in addition to all this, we indite, in respectful terms, a special communication to our worthy (?) Board of supervisors, stating these facts, and said Board utterly ignores our publicly expressed or privately represented demands, then it is we feel like playing a gong nightly under the windows of the Board of Supervisors, or ringing a change on the first Bell we can get hold of.

Messrs. Board of Supervisors, are we of Panamint in Inyo county, or are we not? If you think we are not, we will find out what county we are in, and it might so happen that we shall find ourselves in Panamint county before many months shall have elapsed. We hate a fault finder, but Panamint is entitled to consideration in the matter of a branch hospital, or assistance from the county in taking care of the indigent sick, and we do not propose to quietly drop this question so long as we have this class of persons on our hands, and we, and everybody else, are compelled to go down into our pockets to take care of them when we know they are entitled to a portion of the money collected as taxes for this purpose; particularly so when we know that our portion of this money is paid to some person who calls himself a "doctor," and for which he renders but a partial equivalent in medicine or attendance. THE INYO INDEPENDENT has kindly noticed what we have said relative to an infirmary or branch hospital, but has made one mistake. The editor says we want a branch hospital maintained at the county's expense. We do not ask that much. Allow us but the expense of transporting patients from here to the County Hospital, and a reasonable allowance for medical and other attendance until they are convalescent, and we will pay the balance ourselve. * * We don't think the county fulfills its obligations by partially doing one thing, if humanity demands it should do more. As to the legality of the thing, we confess we are not familiar with the laws governing this county, but from what we have heard and seen during our short residence herein, we doubt if it is governed by any law at all. We have not space to say more at present, but we don't want the Board of Supervisors to play the Grand Jury dodge and ignore us altogether. If they are powerless to do anything until next July, because of having made a contract which works unjustly, we advise our physicians here to present their bills for attendance to the contractor for payment; and we would also suggest to the Hon. Board that they see that said bills are paid by the said contractor.

The News is laboring under a misapprehension as to every material fact. The attack on the Board of Supervisors is unjust for this plain reason. They have had no opportunity as a Board to take any action whatever in relation to this matter, for there has been no regular session since the occasion for any action has been made known either, by private communication or otherwise. The last regular meeting occurred February 1st, as fixed by law, and by the same, the next cannot take place till May 1st. We know that, neither at the late meeting or at any time since, has any bills or other documents, with one exception, from Panamint, been presented to the Board or filed with the Clerk. The exception noted is in the shape of a letter, and postmarked "Panamint, March 26," and addressed to "The Hon. President of the Board of Supervisors." As no meeting of the Board has taken place since it was received, and being officially addressed, it remains in the hands of the Clerk of the Board, with the seal unbroken, and ready for presentation when such a person as he to whom it is addressed officially exists, which is only when there is a session of the Board of which he is President. This is most likely the special communication alluded to as having been ignored. It is extremely probable that not a single member of that Board has ever had a line in relation to the wants of Panamint in this particular. But whether this is the case or not, it is hardly right to overhaul officers for sins either of omission or commission before they even know that any occasion for action has occurred.

The Code, in brief, requires that the Board of Supervisors shall provide ample means for the care and maintenance of the indigent sick, (Sec. 4046). The county is certainly bound to pay expenses of transportation of such to the established hospital, and with certain restrictions, to take care of and provide for such as cannot bear transportation to the hospital. May 13, 1872, as we find by reference to our files, the Board, in order to protect the county from gross impositions for the care of the indigent sick persons at other places than at the hospital, made and duly published an order that no bills for such cases would be paid, except that application first be made to and allowed by either the member from that particular district, or the County Physician. No applications for pay for such services either at Panamint or on the road have yet been received and of course none have been rejected. It is time enough to go to war about such denials and similar alleged neglects, after something of the kind has, or, in the nature of the case, could have happened.

The county has no disbursing agents other than its Treasurer, and he pays only on duly certified warrants. Neither can it pay for anything in advance of the service, nor allow bills at any time, or do any official business, except at regular meetings, occurring four times a year, or at a special meeting when the particular business to be transacted is duly announced, and then that particular business only. All this, together with the manner of presenting bills, and all that, is explained in sections 4072 to 4076 inclusive, of the Political Code. If space permitted we would quote those sections in full. From our reading of the law we now think the county could legally maintain a branch hospital at any point within its limits, and in any case, must pay for transportation and care of indigent sick wherever they may come from. In regard to Panamint the first would doubtless be the cheapest plan.

Get Ready to Start.

Here is the latest report concerning the Black Hills. It is froma Cheyenne despatch of the 13th:

Four more of the Black Hill miners, named Warren, McDonald, Williams and Thomas arrived at Fort Laramie to-day, having walked from the Stockade, eight miles from Harney's Peak, in seven days. They bring fine specimens of gold dust with them. Warren had some that he washed out of two pans of dirt, from just below the surface, showing grass roots in with the dust. He says he only dug down to the bedrock in one place. Water was so plentiful part of the time they worked waist deep in it He thinks that with pumps and hydraulics, parties can make $100 per day to the man. He also brings with him some specimens of silver that old miners state will yield $2,000 to the ton, and say it is the purest they ever saw. He will bring it here to be assayed. He has fine specimens of plumbago, lead and copper, and says there is more gypsum in the Black Hills than ten railroads could take away in fifty years. He claims, also, that there are tin mines there. The parties leave for Cheyene to-morrow. Their object is to get provisions, machinery and tools and to recruit their numbers as much as possible, after which they will return from here, which they say is the only practical route, it being so much nearer than Sioux City, with good roads. They report that there is no trouble in crossing streams, or in finding wood, water and camping ground every night. Warren says he can walk the distance easily in five days Many strangers are here who it is supposed are bound for the new El Dorado, notwithstanding orders from the Government prohibiting them from going. Parties just in from the Indian agency state that the Indians are anxious to sell to the Government their right to the Black Hills country, but do not propose to give it up without pay.

The Emma Mine Affair—Minister Schenck.

The examination of the books and accounts or the Emma Mine—under the petition to wind up the concern—is proceeding; n order of court having compulsorily put an end to the not unnatural reluctance of the managers to to have its affairs looked into. It is impoossible to say yet what has been discovered, the inquiry being private. There seems reason to believe, however, that this scrutiny will go pretty deep into the mysteries that have hung about the matter. The Secretary of the company attempted lately to refuse the explanation demanded of him respecting certain cash items but the Court compelled him to testify. It will all come out when the case comes on for hearing Then, I suppose, we shall have the pleasure of seeing the name of the American Minister figuring once more in the English papers, with possibly some accounts of the way in which he was induced to become a director and trustee of the company, and to allow himself to be advertised as such under the title of United States Minister to the Court of St. James.—[London Corr. N. Y. Herald.

Brigham in "Choky."

Brigham Young, that fine old man, was put in jail, not long since, for contempt of court in refusing to pay wife No. 17, the first instalment of alimony granted her in the divorce suit. A late despatch from Salt Lake says:

The News, the Church organ, says that the imprisonment of Brigham Young is an indignity heaped on the head of a venerable and much respected gentleman, who has done more good for the country and humanity, than the aggregate of the people. Intense excitement exists throughout the Territory. Young paid the amount ordered this afternoon. He is still in the Penitentiary, comforted hourly by the visits of his favorite wife, Amelia.

A New Language.

There is a neighborhood of people in Butler county, Kentucky, who speak a language of their own. They call a hog netem-patherish; a preacher they call gospelthrasher; they call a lawyer cheatemspatherum, and a doctor they call hellemspatherum. They call a horse norvish; a deer jump high; and their language they call hyropyrorauterestrorperorarthbillsackville rodachegelongwhalk, which signifies a muddle.

A Great Row.

At a dancing party in Western Kentucky, the other night, to which several women came with their babies, some young men changed the clothes of the infants while their parents were dancing and mixed them up generally. The following day there was a great row, and as the families lived miles apart, it took several days to unmix the children.

Still It Comes.

Seven or eight large teams went up yesterday loaded with machinery, huge timbers and lumber for the mill. There is a probability now that the mill will be running in June or July, at the furthest.—[Panamint News, March 16.

Stage Robbers Caught.

The following from The Kern County Courier tells of the capture of the stage robbers whose exploits were noted last week:

The stage for Panamint was stopped about three o'clock A. M. on the 17th instant, two and a half miles beyond Canebreak station, by a pair of these knights of the road, and the driver compelled to hand out the express box. But on that occasion this individual, W. J. Ladd happened to be a man of unusual presence of mind and courage. There were two boxes, one contained money and the other not. He threw out the light box and was ordered to drive on. He continued on to the next station, Coyote Holes, and after, having induced P. Cline to return with him, he determined to attempt the arrest of the robbers. On the way back they met the men, who afterward proved to be the parties they were after, but without then suspecting them. They went to the place where the stage was stopped and ascertained, from the tracks, that the robbers wore heavy nailed boots, of the style known as O K's They were not long in ascertaining that the tracks belonged to the men they had met They followed their trail without difficulty to within a few miles of Coyote Holes, where it disappeared. It afterward transpired that they had halted and drawn the tell tale nails. Messrs Ladd and Cline continued on, however, and about an hour after their return to Coyote Holes, the parties arrived of whom they were in quest. When Ladd held a pistol to the head of one of them and requested him to surrender, he said: "Don't hurt me; we didn't hurt you." They were brought here yesterday, and after a searching examination before Justice Wilkinson, were held to answer, and, for the purpose of keeping them in secure custody, the Sheriff took them to the Visalia jail the same evening. They have the appearance of honest (?) miners. They gave the names of Chas. Castle and James Wellock.

An Assured Fact.

We regard the building of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad in the light of an assured fact. Only about forty thousand dollar's worth of the stock required to be taken remains unsold, and this will be subscribed in a few days. Chief Engineer Crawford is about to leave for San Francisco to purchase the locomotives and other rolling stock to be used on the road, and it now seems probable the road between this city and the water will be in operation by the first of July. It is the intention of the company to have the road in operation from the wharf to Cajon Pass by the close of the present year. This ninety miles of railroad will turn the entire trade of the Inyo county mines through this valley, and cause the mining sections to draw their supplies from us, thus affording our farmers a ready market for their surplus products. In anticipation of the vast interior trade which this road will secure us, real estate in this city and valley is steadily advancing. —[Los Angeles Herald, March 20.

Prospecting with Diamond Drills.

The system which is now being inaugurated of boring into ore bodies with diamond drills to see what they contain, is causing a great deal of dissatisfaction among the stock a operators. It is dead open and shut, and speculators say that it is like betting against loaded dice. When a mine is prospected by actual working and rich ore is struck, or a horse comes into a ledge, the fact generally leaks out through some of the workmen and it gives outsiders a chance to take advantage of it. But when a diamond drill is run in 50 or 100 feet ahead and the core kept and secretly assayed by the officers of the company, the public are completely at their mercy. One prominent speculator stated on Saturday that he would not operate in the stocks of any mine that used a diamond drill for prospecting.—[Va. Chronicle.

The Boy King.

Uneasy rests the head that wears the crown. Alfonso has worn the royal bauble less than ninety days, and according to cable advises from Paris, he is already talking seriously of abdicating in favor of the Duke De Montpensier. Under these circumstances President Grant might just as well delay his recognition of the Spanish monarchy until the next king puts in an appearance.

Missouri Affected.

The school text-book epizootic has broken out in Missouri. The people have revolted against the repeated changes that are imposed upon them. The latest phase of the disease is the introduction of a bill into the Legislature providing that books once introduced shall not be changed within a period of five years.

Parties.

According to The Cleveland Herald, there are now three parties represented in Congress—the Democratic party, the Republican party, and—Andrew Johnson.

MARRIED.

At the residence of J. A. Lank, Esq, near this place, March 24, by the Hon. J. A. Hannah, County Judge, OMAR I. MAIRS formerly of Sheford, Canada, to MISS LAURA J. FLOWERS, late of Seaford, Delaware.

It was not supposed that the bridegroom was of such a poetical turn of mind as to be more given to flowers than the usual run of masculines but, it is evident the unusual beauty and attractiveness of a specimen, now and then, will not only make the prosiest man feel poetical, but develop his latent love of floraculture till he would fall down and worship at the feet of Flora herself. Old bachelors, left hopelessly blooming and fading alone, may say of such a fall, "Mair's the pity," but experienced benedicts will commend his taste and hope that plenty of the sweetest flowerets may, ere while, honor his judgment. Meantime, we would recommend a copy of Vick's Floral Guide.

Trials of a Jasmarax.

In the way of equestrian amusements our street Arabs and little hoodlum Piutes, have "struck it rich," to the sorrow of a mouse-colored, thick-set, diminuative specimen of Balaam's traveling companion. His Jack ass-ship may be seen nightly on the streets in the peaceful search of old hoop iron, oil cans, ten-penny nails, etc., to satisfy his epicurean appetite, but alas in his orphan condition alone and without a single friend he is ass-ailed on every side by about five hundred of the above named individuals and made to bear the burden of many little sins. One after another of these presumptive sins are dumped overboard. They sit amidships, and they sit fore and aft, turns about and each in succession rolls off just for convenience; the wooly deck is bound to flop over and spill him out be he either Piute or white boy. Boys don't do it any more; you may grow up to be jacks yourselves some of these days.

Personal.

L. Wood and Al. Wapelhorst started for San Francisco, via the northern route, Thursday morning, to purchase a new stock of goods for their respective establishments....We have D. Olds Jas. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Yaney, daughter, and a number of others as representatives from Bishop Creek, and John Belshaw from Cerro Gordo.... Sheriff Moore has taken an official trip to Panamint—to serve a bench warrant on two, and to close up a delinquent business house or two....John Broder starts Monday next for the other side of the Sierras in connection with business of much importance to Pine Mountain districts, as it relates to the proposed furnace for that place....Some relatives nearly related to Ashim and Perasich respectively, are here and others yet expected, to watch the progress of the examination of the former for the killing of the latter.

Pine Mountain.

Mr. John Broeder, just returned from Pine Mountain, reports developments in his mines there as eminently satisfactory, and of sufficient extent and advancement to justify the immediate erection of a furnace. A furnace, however, will involve a heavy outlay of money, principally in the construction of roads, and before going into this expense, he deems it best to personally explain the entire situation to his brothers, living near Visalia, who are largely interested, and for this purpose he goes over ther next week. Mr. Moffat has been prospecting in the vicinty for fire clay, and has opened some that is thought will do, but which is to be submitted to a furnace test at Cerro Gordo. The prospects are altogether favorable for the immediate construction of the furnace.

Postponed.

The examination of Ashim in Justice Schalten's Court, was adjourned from Saturday the 20th till Monday next the 29th, to give time to procure witnesses from Panamint deemed essential to the defense. These witnesses, three in number, had been duly subpœned previously, but had disregarded the mandate, so bench warrants were issued to compel their attendance. We expected to give the testimony at length adduced in this case, that the public might judge of its true merits, but as it is not closed or filed with the County Clerk, the Justice thinks he has no right to permit its publication, at this juncture, so we will have to wait.

New Office.

Bennett & Gragg have moved into their new office, near the residence of the former, which is fitted up in good style and taste, and if there is any one in search of legal advice, will find one or 'tother, comfortably fixed to do all that kind of business pleasantly and with dispatch.

Stages.

Agent B. L. Brown, Northern Stage Line, is expecting the new Concord coaches for that line to arrive now any day. One of these coaches is to run every other day, the mail on intervening days to go on horseback or buckboard.

Lumber.

A large quantity of fencing lumber is being hauled from the river, down which it was brought in rafts from Big Pine Most, if not all of this lumber, is for Bennett and Broder who are fencing extensively.

Ladies desiring to purchase or receive instructions on that household treasure, the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing machine, can obtain either by applying to C. F. Stoutenborough, at the store of Harris & Rhine. *

Scarlet Fever.

A case of this dread disorder among juveniles is reported in this place. The patient, Tommy Gill, is convalescing, however.

An Alarm.

Late on Wednesday night divers circumstances induced Under Sheriff Swearingen to think an attempt would be made before morning to lynch Ashim, confined in jail for the murder of Perasich. At least, if the danger was not considered very imminent, it was deemed the safest to take proper precautions in time, so a number of citizens were called upon to do duty as guards, but with one or two exceptions every one refused, unless served with a positive official summons. Moreover, it so happened that at least two of these, in declining to serve, did it in such a way as to lead to the belief they were in some degree cognizant of the contemplated raid on the jail, and did not want anything to do with it, one way or the other. Knowing that Captain Macgowan, Co. D., 12th Infantry, would willingly furnish the desired guard if supposed to be needed to preserve peace and good order, the Under Sheriff did not feel that it was necessary to enforce the attendance of a citizen guard, and accordingly made the application to the Captain, who with characteristic promptness, very soon after had a detachment on duty at the Court House. It was about midnight when the detachment, with the Captain in command, arrived, and about 9 the next morning when it returned to quarters. It is hardly necessary to say that no disturbance occurred, nor is at all probable that any was in contemplation. Of course, the precaution of the Under Sheriff is generally considered quite uncalled for, and all that, still it was not done without reasons of some value. One of these was a despatch dated Bakersfield, March 21, from Sheriff Geo. M. Gilman, of Eureka county, Nevada, notifying the Sheriff of this county that he had the best of reasons for believing that parties, friends of Perasich, the deceased, were coming here with the intention of organizing a raid to lynch his alleged murderer, and advising him to take every precaution to prevent it. This in connection with the arrival of several friends of deceased, together with the knowledge of the fact that there is a pretty strong vigilante organization, extending in more or less force from one end of the valley to the other, ready, presumably, to make an example of the first criminal whose deeds they might think high-handed enough to justify taking the law in their own hands—(and some of whom, it was reported, had been enlisted in this particular case), altogether constituted fair reasons to take a little extra precaution, and this could be easiest and cheapest effected by calling on the military, which was done. It was not, however, supposed or feared by the Under Sheriff, or any one, that if any raid was attempted that it would be by more than a handful of men, for, however abhorent the supposed circumstances of the killing of Perasich may have been, there was not enough generally known of them, or of either his virtues or the possible bloody antecedents of his slayer to excite a community, generally, to a dangerous pitch, especially while the facts of the killing were yet under investigation. But it is now clear that no vigilante dangers threatened this prisoner that night, and of course, the over precaution of the officer in charge will be considered as foolish and uncalled for, and quite likely it was.

Cerro Gordo.

The Water Company intend to have the water running through their pipes again by the close of the present week. It is found that the pipes did not burst but had merely filled with ice in exposed places. We do not hear whether or not this trouble was obviated by forcing hot air or steam through, as proposed some time ago. Belshaw's furnace has shut down for repairs, and a clearing out of pipes, made necessaey by the accumulations from the snow water used for a number of weeks past. It will start up as soon as the water is in Beaudry's is still running.

To Physicians.

On the outside of this issue, under the head of "Legal," will be found an advertisement asking proposals for the care of the indigent sick. We would call the attention of physicians especially to this chance for business, but it should be understood that bids will be acceptable from any responsible person whether a physician or not; but it is a requirement of law that whosoever receives the award must give bonds to furnish medical attendance by a regularly diplomaed physician.

Panamint.

We learn from The News that a fire destroyed the barber shop of Weber & Henecke, and the boot and shoe shop of Harris & Wattz on the evening of the 15th instant. The loss falls quite heavy on these firms, all the members of which were formerly of this place. Geo Burkhardt, late of Lone Pine, also lost his entire stock of jewelry, watches, etc. Fire meetings are the order in Panamint since this occurrence.

Quarterly Meeting.

Geographical Puzzle.

BISHOP CREEK, March 22.

MESSRS. EDS:—Have you room in THE INDEPENDENT for a geographical puzzle? If so I will propose one: What river is it in South America that flows six months one way, and then six months the opposite way, and the cause? This question was asked here at school and it has been answered.

PUZZLER.

Chavez Again on the Road.

On Thursday morning last, as the stage from Indian Wells came up to Little Lake station, the passengers (one of whom, Mr. I. N. Choynski, to whom we are indebted for the information) were astonished to learn that on the evening previous Chavez and four of his banditti had gagged the proprietor of the station, together with three of his men, and after helping himself to all that he considered valuable, loaded four of the stage horses and went his way. The stage passengers were detained some time owing to the scarcity of horses, but finally went on their journey with some misgivings as to their fate, and there was a hasty concealment of watches, jewelry and coin, but Chavez and his gang did not put in an appearance, though they met several persons who came from Passm re's who testified, with much feeling, that they had been robbed by the highwaymen.

TUNNEL RIGHT DECISION.

The following is in response to an inquiry addressed to the Commissioner in relation to the matter treated by Register McCallum, and sustains his views as given in a certain case in point brought to his attention some weeks ago:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
March 13, 1875.

REGISTER AND RECEIVER—Independence, Cal.—GENTLEMEN:—In reply to your letter of the 4th ultimo, I have to state that the 4th section of the Mining Act of May 10, 1872 provides that the owners of a tunnel shall have "the right of possession of all veins or lodes within three thousand feet from the face of such tunnel on the line thereof, not previously known to exist discovered in such tunnel, to the same extent as if discovered from the surface," and prevents locations being made by other parties "on the line of such tunne."

The line of the tunnel is held to be the width thereof and no more, and that upon this line only is prospecting for blind lodes prohibited while the tunnel is in progress. Other parties are in no way debarred from prospecting for blind lodes or running tunnels so long as they keep without the line of the tunnel as herein defined, the said line being required by the regulations of this office to be marked on the surface by stakes or monuments.

When a lode is discovered in a tunnel, the tunnel owner has the right to said lode and it is optional with him to record his claim thereon taking fifteen hundred feet one side of the point of discovery, or part on one side and part on the other.

The tunnel right is not enlarged by the discovery of a lode or vein therein, but remains as before. The owner of the tunnel, however, has the right to fifteen hundred feet on the lode discovered, and the width of surface ground along the course thereof prescribed by local law.

The said section does not give to tunnel owners in any case surface ground seven hundred and fifty feet in width on each side of the line of their tunnel.

Very respectfully,
Your obd't serv't,
S. S. BURDETT,
Commissioner.

Desperadoes at Large.

A gentleman now in Panamint, writing to a friend at Eureka, gives the following, which we clip from The Sentinel of March 18. It is the first time we have heard it:

The gang of cusses who shot Jim Miller are here, or a little way out of this place, at Rose Canyon There is a whole nest of them. I have seen them in town several times, and I think it would be well to let Jim know of it and have W. F. & Co.'s detectives come around, for they make their boasts that one hundred men could not take them. One went into Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office here and said he did not wish to show any disrespect, "but, by G—d, this bill, or poster, offering a reward for Small and McDonald did not please him," and pulled it down before their eyes. Parties who have recently arrived from that place confirm the above, and with a reward of $4,000 for the capture of the men, it seems strange that some one can not be found with "sand" enough to tackle the men and get the coin.

Plain Explanations of Obscure Proverbs.

"The more the merrier."

Multitudinous assemblages are the most provocative of cachinnatory hilarity.

"Birds of a feather flock together."

Habitants of ether, similarly plumed, gregariously assemble,

"Out of the frying pan into the fire."

Emergence from the culinary utensil into the devouring element.

"Too many cooks spoil the broth."

A superfluity of artists deteriorates the mock turtle.

"A stitch in time saves nine."

A connecting cotton link, properly established, is ninefoldly economical.

"It is a long lane that has no turning."

That rustic pathway is indubitably longitudinal that has no circumlocution.

"Love me, love my dog."

Evince an amatory disposition toward myself; let your deportment toward my canine be also affectionate.

"Those who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

Dwellers in crystal palaces should refrain from the propulsion of irregular shaped particles of granite formation.

"'Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good."

The blast of Æolus is, indeed, malevolent that benefitteth not, though homeopathically, some portion of humanity.

"A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

A natural production of the feathered tribe, properly secured, is more than equivalent to a greater number in a comparative state of freedom.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—An Eastern paper says that during the performance of an opera in St. Petersburg, Patti was called out sixty times. That sounds pretty high, but then she might have eaten something that didn't agree with her.

—Mr. Bergh's attention is called by The Detroit Free Press to the fact that the wolves of Wisconsin are actually starving. Good gracious! didn't they get elected, either?

—Fine sentiment from The Cleveland Plaindealer: "He (the editor of The Leader) is like the ostrich that hides its head in a brush heap and makes an ass of itself without knowing it."

—An exchange says, "on our outside may be found an article worthy of attention," etc. That's a sly way the editor has of getting people to notice his new government overcoat.

—A woman at Tiffin, Ohio, fell and broke her arm, but she refused two offers of assistance because the men were strangers to her, and there was no one to introduce them.

—A Washington man who was treated to a "25-center," slipped back to the cigar store the other day, and economically exchanged it for "three for a quarter.

—"His Axtellency" is what The Salt Lake Tribune calls Governor Axtell, of Utah, our whilom Congressman from this district.

—A Williamsburg woman has an artificial jaw. She wore the original one out, probably.

—A Cincinnati pork dealer proposes to furnish the world with his ought-to-buy-hog-raphy.

—The most melancholy spectacle in the world is a cold slapjack.

He had Figured the Cost.

A few days ago a couple from Iowa, on their way East, had to stop in this city, owing to the wife's illness. They went to a hotel, and for the first day or two the husband did not complain of the cost, but when his wife grew worse, and a doctor was called in and a nurse employed, he began to hang on to the dollars which were demanded. On the fifth day the doctor looked serious and said that the woman would probably die. The husband consulted with the hotel clerk and with a freight agent, and going back to his wife he leaned over her and sobbed:

"Oh! Sarah Jane! you musn't die here!"

"I don't want to leave you, Philetus," she replied, "but I fear that my time has come."

"Don't! oh! don't die here!" he went on.

"If my time has come I must go," she said.

"Yes, I suppose so, but if I could only get you back home first I'd save at least forty dollars on funeral expenses, and forty dollars don't grow on every bush."—[Detroit Free Press.

Cure for Ringbone.

J. V. S. writes us that the following is an excellent remedy for both ringbone and spavin: Take the oil of origanum and the oil of turpentine, equal portions, and apply it to the part affected three times a day, by means of a feather, until it gets very sore, then let it heal up, and if the disease is not entirely killed, proceed in the same way again. A young horse or colt can be cured by one application, but an older horse needs more severe treatment. Sometimes it is necessary to keep at it for three months before the cure is perfected in an old horse, yet he says he never knew an instance where it failed, if attended to.—[San Bernardino Argus.

Presidential Candidates.

Senator Conkling and Speaker Blaine seem to The Albany (N. Y,) Express to be the men who stand the best chance at present for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. "Either one of the gentlemen," it says, "would make a good candidate, and, if elected, a good President. Of the two it seems to us that ex-Speaker Blaine is the most available." So far as the Democratic nomination is concerned, The Express thinks "it begins to look as though ex-Governor Seymour's name would be as avilable as any."

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderf ully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chrome will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

THE ORIGIN OF MAN.

By Darwin.

[From The Arcadian.]

CHAPTER I.

'Twas a lovely Summer morning in the year 9001 before Christ. The woods of Senegambia were clothed in their fairest costumes; the lovely birds were chirping and singing their morning lays; the sky was one vast sheet of blue. Everything, in short, was full of sweetness and light, except the lovely Lady Adeliza de Chimpanzee. She was in the dumps. Moodily she rubbed her shoulder against a huge palm-tree, and while performing that act heaved a vast sigh. Just at that moment her mama dropped from the tree above her.

"My daughter," said the Duchess de Chimpanzee, "why that sigh?"

"Ah, mamma look at me," said Lady Adeliza. "See how different I am from the rest of our tribe. See how white I am becoming."

"My daughter," said the duchess languidly, as she seated herself on a convenient boulder, "you should be proud of that difference. We are a higher race."

"I don't know, mamma. See what little caudal appendages we have; all the other folks can hang from the trees by their tails, but we are compelled to sit on the limbs."

"We are advancing, my dear. You are whiter than I am; you can talk in your youth, I could not till middle age; your grandmother, as you know, can only grunt it. You are moving to a higher sphere."

"Well, mamma, none of our folks will marry me," said Lady Adeliza, pouting.

"No, my child; it has been decreed that there should be a selection of the fittest in marriage. We have offered you to the Prince d'Ourang Outang, who is even whiter than you are, as a wife."

"Oh, mamma," gushed the Lady Adeliza, "that's splendid. Will he come soon?"

"Restrain yourself. People of high blood and short caudal appendages never get excited. He will be here in a short time."

Lady Adeliza went away to look for cocoanuts; the duchess sat on a rock, and reflectively scratched her head.

CHAPTER II.

The Duke de Chimpanzee was chief of a very large tribe. If he had been in the show business, he would have made his everlasting fortune. He had but one child, the Lady Adeliza, and as she would inherit the live stock over which he ruled, many of the neighboring chiefs desired to marry her. Her parents, however, resolved that she should be, if possible, the fountain head of a new race, to which all their traditions taught them they were working up. They determined that she should wed the Prince d'Ourang Outang. The duke proposed the matter to the prince.

"Aw!" said the prince, as he adjusted his eyeglass, "is it nice?"

"She is very beautiful," replied the duke.

"Aw!" said the prince, "give it—aw—much stamps?"

"I shall give her all Ethiopia," replied the duke.

"I will—aw—step down, and—aw—look at it," murmured the prince carelessly. "By surprise you know."

This was agreed upon and the duke departed.

The prince knew his worth; he was quite white, and he was not troubled with the slightest particle of caudal appendage, but Ethiopia was a big prize, and he resolved to win it.

One week after the duke had offered his daughter, the prince started for Senegambia with the intention of looking at the fair face of Lady Adeliza.

CHAPTER III.

The prince was wandering through the woods of Senegambia, gaily humming:

"I'd be a butterfly
born in a bower,"

when his eyes fell upon a lovely Chimpanzee, sitting in a shallow brook, sucking a cocoanut. She was the loveliest creature he had ever seen. His heart was touched at once. He raised his eye-glass and stared at her until her eyes fell in modest confusion.

"Fair Chimpanzee," said he, "will you not—aw—tell me your—aw—name."

"Adeliza," whispered she.

The Duchess de Chimpanzee, who had witnessed the meeting from behind a clump of bushes, chuckled, and slid off on on her left ear.

"Adeliza," sighed the prince. "thou art—aw—beautiful! Wilt thou—aw—marry me?"

Then Lady Adeliza threw the remains of her cocoanut at the head of a chimpanzee who was loafing in a neighboring tree, fell into the arms of the prince, and gently murmured, "I am all thine."

They were married in great splendor. The Right Rev. Bishop Bacon, assisted by the Rev. Simiadar Ape, performed the ceremony. The bridesmaids wore their natural clothes. The choir sang that lovely anthem, "Monkey married the babboon's sister." Lady Adeliza and her parents rubbed noses, and then the bride started on her tour on an elephat with one trunk.

CHAPTER IV.

The seasons changed; Summer lapsed into Autumn, Autumn into Winter, and Winter into Spring. Then there was great rejoicing, for the Lady Adeliza gave the prince and heir. The child, however, was an anomally in that region; it had no tail, it had flat feet, it had a white skin, it had no hair on its body. All the wise men examined it. It was not an ourang outang, it was not a chimpanzee; evidently it was a new species. Then a family conclave was called.

"What shall we call it?" asked everybody.

The Duchess de Chimpanzee, who was languidly making mud pies, said:

"Let's call it—Man."

Tom Wilson's Scare.

[From The St. Nicholas for April.]

After an absence of about half-an-hour, Tom appeared staggering under the weight of a fine fat doe, which was soon dressed, and a portion of it broiling over the coals for our supper. This over, we threw ourselves upon our blankets, and, while enjoying the cheerful light of our camp fire, Tom related his experience with the first grizzly he ever saw.

"You see, when I first came up to this country, I didn't know much about it; but General Garland allowed I was the man he wanted to scout for him, and so I entered his service. When he was a-travelin' over the country, I used to make it a p'int to look round considerable when in camp, so as to git acquainted with it like, because in my business a feller had to know it pretty middling well.

"I'd heerd a good deal about grizzlies, though I'd never seed one, for they don't have 'em up in Kentuck', where I come from, or in Texas either; but when I heerd old trappers talkin' about 'em, and tellin' how savage and strong they was, I always allowed that there warn't no kind of a b'ar that I was afeerd of, and I didn't know there was either. You see I didn't let 'em know that I'd never'd seed one of the critters, for I made up my mind that if ever I come acrost one, I'd have a tussle with him, and he shouldn't get away from me neither, though I must confess that I felt a little skeery of a critter that could crunch a man or kill a buffalo as easy as I could break an egg. Still, I talked big, 'cause talk is cheap, you know.

"Well, one day we were to the north of this—camped on the San Juan River. The valley was eight or ten miles long, and perhaps a couple wide, with the biggest oak-trees growin' in it that I ever seed growin' anywhere; some of 'em would measure twenty feet round the butts, and the General said he reckoned they was morn'n a hundred years old.

"I got tired of stayin' round camp and doin' nothin'; so I walked down to where the animals was feedin', and talked to the herder awhile, and then went on down the valley, lookin' at the rocks, and mountains and trees, till I got a long ways from camp, and calculated it would take me a good hour to git back. After startin' on the back trail, I happened to notice one tree, which stood a little to one side of my track, that looked so much larger than the others, that the idea came into my head to just examine it. I had a stout oak stick in my hand, and as I came up to the tree I hit the trunk two or three blows to see if it was sound, you know. Then I thought I'd see how big round it was, so that I could tell the General how many steps it took to circumnavigate it. So I stuck my stick in the ground for a mark, and started.

"When I got about half-way round, I happened to look up, and I'll be blest if there wasn't a grizzly as big as an ox, within two feet of me, a-settin' on his haunches, and watchin' me out of a hole in the stump of that tree.

"I brought up pretty sudden, I tell you, and took one good look at him. He looked meek enough at first glance, but in a jiffy he fixed his eyes on me and his great mouth, which was half open, with his white teeth, looked waterish like, as though it was just achin' to git hold of me. I see him kind er half raise one of his big paws, and then I started. I heerd him give a low, wheezy kind er growl, as he started after me, and I didn't wait to hear any more. If every a feller run, that feller was Tom Wilson.

"I reckon I thought of every story I'd ever heerd about grizzlies; how savage they was; how they could beat a boss runnin' any time. The more I thought, the faster I run, and the plainer I could hear the b'ar a-coming after me.

"I declare I never knowed it was in me to run so. I throwed off pretty nigh all the clothes I had on, and was doin' jest my level best, when suddently I tripped on somethin' or other, and went down. Then I knowed 'twas all up with me for sartin, and I expected every minute to feel that b'ar's paw on to me.

"I remembered how I'd heerd Nat Beal say, that if a grizzly thought a man was dead, he'd dig a hole and bury him, without hurtin' him any, and after a day or two would come back and dig him up. So I laid still and held my breath, waitin' for the b'ar to bury me.

"I could hear him diggin' the hole, and, though my eyes was shet, I could see jest how he looked, as he handled them paws of his.

"It seemed to me that I laid there and held my breath for nigh an hour, expecting every minute to have the b'ar roll me into the hole. After awhile I ventured to peek out, and, would you believe it, there want no b'ar there!

"I jest picked myself up mighty sudden, and made tracks for camp, and I reckon if ever a feller felt beat that feller was me, then and there.

"It was a long time before I said anything about my scare in camp; but, at last, I told the General, and I thought he'd split a-laughin'."

"Well, Tom," said I, "you must have been pretty badly frightened."

"Frightened! I jest tell you, sir, I was the worst scart man this side of the San Juan, and I didn't git over it neither in a hurry' sure's you're born."

"What had become of the bear?" I asked.

"Why, you see, he was asleep in that hole, and when I thumped on the tree with my stick it woke him up. As a nat'ral consequence, his curiosity was riz, and he poked his head out to see who was a-knockin'; but," added Tom with a laugh, "before he could say come in, I was gone. I've always owed grizzlies a grudge since that scare."

—There is a Connecticut widower who declares that nothing reminds him of his poor, dear wife so much as to live within ear-shot of a sawmill.

—A letter in The New York Tribune says: "Papa has given us three cents a day for not sucking our thumbs. We send one dollar for a child in Kansas."

—Old Dr. Bancroft, of Worcester, the father of the historian, was bothered by a man of reproachable morals, who wanted to join his church. At last he said: 'My friend, the fact is my church is full.' "Well," said the rejected applicant, "then I will go and join the engine compady.

—"The only thoroughly blighted being," says The St. Louis Journal, "is the man who has been deceived in a meerschaum. When he has expended his money in purchasing the costly comfort, when he has consumed tobacco enough to unsettle the nerves of a rhinocerous, and the stubborn pipe refuses to color, demonstrating the fact to him that he has been sold, then does that hollowness of the world and all that therein is become fully and disgustingly apparent."

Man killed at Panamint.

From The News of March 23d, we learn that on the morning of the day previous James Bruce shot and killed Edward Barstow. Bruce was arrested, or rather gave himself up, and an examination of the affair was had before Justice W. C. Smith. The same paper of the 27th gives the testimony elicited at the examination, the most important of which is that of Martha Camp as follows:

There were some gentlemen at my house on the evening or night of the 22d day of March and morning of the 23d; they all retired excepting Mr. Bruce, Mr. McAllister and the deceased; the deceased left afterward in company with McAllister, and then returned alone; he asked me to open the door; I replied that I was in bed; he said: "If you don't open the door, I will kick it in;" I requested him not to do so; he said: "I want to see Jim;" I then opened the door; he had a six-shooter in his hand, and remarked: "I've got the long legged s—n of a b—h at last." I endeavored to keep him from entering my bedroom and held on to him and screamed; he got over toward the bureau and put the light out; then the shooting commenced; I don't know who fired the first shot; I saw a flash from Barstow's pistol, and to the best of my belief I think he fired it; he was standing near the bureau when he fired; I did not see Bruce at this time; when I got up and opened the door I left him in bed, and did not see him until he told me to light the lamp; I don't know who shot Barstow; there were no other persons in the house at the time, to my knowledge, except Miss Sophie Glennen and Mr. Bruce; the doors were open and there might have been; I saw nobody around during the shooting except Bruce and the deceased; the shooting occurred between 2 and 3 o'clock A. M.

Some dirty, cowardly anonymous letter writer, sent the editor of The News some threatening letters because of his alleged effort to screen Bruce, to which he replies at length and in a manner that we fully endorse. If space permitted we should give at least a synopsis of his remarks, simply because we think he is right in his views in that matter.

Scandalous.

The New York Tribune says editorially, Bessie Turner is proving a remarkable witness. The efforts of the acutest cross examiner in the whole array of plaintiff's counsel have been utterly ineffective in the attempts to break her down. The extraordinary testimony which she gave concerning Tilton and his household remains substantially unaffected. Its effect as well as that of the larger part of the important evidence thus far adduced for the defense is to tend towards the destruction of Tilton's credibility as a witness and especially to dissipate his claim that the home which he alleges has been destroyed by Beecher's wiles was an ideal home. Fullerton's failure in this important feature was in ordinary self possession, calmness and deliberateness of the witness.

Long Words.

"Rob," said Tom, "which is the most dangerous word to pronounce in the English language?"

"Don't know," said Rob, "unless its a swearing word."

"Pooh!" said Tom, "its stumbled, because you are sure to get a tumble between the first and last letter."

"Ha! ha!" said Rob. "Now I've one for you. I found it one day in the paper. Which is the longest word in the English language?"

"Valetudinarianism," said Tom promptly.

"Nor sir; its smiles, because there is a whole mile between the first and last letter.

"Ho! ho!" cried Tom, "that's nothing. I know a word that has over three miles between its beginning and ending."

"What's that?" asked Rob, faintly.

"Beleaguered," said Tom.—[From Jack-in-the-Pulpit, St. Nicholas for April.

Colorado Miner and Advertiser.

We are in receipt of the first Number of a new paper, under the above name published at Colorado Springs, Colorado. This paper is intended as an advertising medium of its section, and all kinds of business, on a new plan. Editorially, its introductory remarks upon various topics evince more than usual talent. It is run by a joint stock company, the chief of whom is, we think, Mr. O. L. Matthews formerly of this place, and on account of which attaches more interest with many of our readers than usual to new papers from distant localities.

Lida Valley Items.

It is reported that Gen. Page's mill, at Lida will start up in a few days.

Simonson & Murphy have a location at Lida Valley which was supposed to be a copper vein. The claim has not been worked for two or three years, until recently upon sinking ten or fifteen feet, a ledge from three to four feet in width was opened which is rich in silver; a streak of about one foot in width assaying $1,800 per ton. The rich streak is chloride and horn silver. The ledge is about three miles from Gen. Page's mill, and parties who have recently visited the mine say that it is the most valuable strike yet made in Lida.—[Borax Miner, March 27.

POST SUPPLIES.

As we know it is the desire of the officers at the Post to afford every information in regard to bids to furnish Commissary and Quartermaster's supplies for this Post, and such likewise, being our own desire, we voluntarily reproduce Captain Wilson's poster calling for proposals for subsistence stores. This, in all essential particulars is complete, but, in relation to beef for instance, there is this point of detail not mentioned in the poster, though specified in the final contract: Beef cattle must weigh 600 pounds dressed; if of less weight none but the hind quarters will be received. All bids for subsistence must be addressed to Captain Wilson, the award being made in San Francisco. This rule applies to all Posts in the Department, not especially to Camp Independence as some suppose. But, as will be seen by the terms of the document, it is made the duty of the Acting Commissary to furnish all requried details of information, and this, Lieut. Clague, A. C. S., and all the other officers of this Post will, we are satisfied, be most happy to do, independent of any mere official requirements.

Attached to the advertisement for Subsistence Stores will also be found Chief Quartermaster Eddy's Memorandum of Quartermaster's Supplies for this Post. This document also applies to Camps Bidwell, Fort Hall, and Benicia Barracks, but we only give items for this, and so much of the instructions as may be necessary for the government of bidders. By these it will be seen the bids will be received by the Post Quartermaster, but no awards will be made until these are duly compared with those received at Headquarters. This poster or memorandum is not complete, as to time of close and awards of bids, but it is presumable that these are the same as for Subsistence, viz. 12 M., Saturday, May 1st.

We will add that these advertisements comprise every item of information in relation to the subject matter yet received at this Post, and bidders can govern themselves accordingly.

Smith for Surveyor-General.

We are pained to note, per notice in The Tulare Times, that Geo. W. Smith is out subject to action of Democratic State Convention for Surveyor-General. We have nothing in the world against Smith, except this: The name of Smith is not distinctive enough. It lacks individuality. It is too general to have any restraining influence. What's the use of Smith trying to build up a good name for himself. Their's thousands to dividethe honors. "He who steals my good name, steals trash. He who steals my purse." etc. Supposing Surveyor General Smith, should, pursuant to rule of office, want to steal swamp lands, let out special surveying contracts on deserts and otherwise conduct himself in a disreputable manner, what does the world know what Smith is meant. When the expose comes scores of other Smiths will be looked upoh askance for his rascalities (or with respect if the steal is successful), and knowing this, Surveyor-General Smith is liable to do things he wouldn't think of if his name was all his own to maintain and sustain. Let Geo. W. put a "y" and a final "e" in his surname, and we'll take his timely claims under consideration. But nothing in the world could have prevailed on us to do so if his name had been John.

Revokes It.

All California and the rest of mankind, pretty much, were not long since thrown entirely out of balance on account of the unheard of munificence of Mr. James Lick, Esq., of San Francisco, who deeded away in trust a vast amount of property for certain public uses; among the rest of the grand works to be executed with this money was the erection of an observatory to be fitted with a million dollar telescope of such immense power as to enable the most bleary-eyed savant to see for himself the exact condition of the green cheese in the moon. It now turns out that James was in bad health in those days, and repents greatly his hasty action. He didn't die, as he ought to have done, just when he expected to do and pro forma, begs leave to revoke those deeds of trust. Its a bad lick on San Francisco. It annoys the Trustees of the Fund, and makes the riff-raff and people, generally stand aghast. They, the Trustees, are going to contest in law the venerable old dyspeptic's right of revocation, even of a gift. They are resolved that green cheese problem shall be solved, and a half lunatic's cash is just what is required to enable them to do it, and they are quite right. Mr. Lick, though rolling in wealth, couldn't afford to take his meals only at two-bit restaurants, so of course, can't afford to rob numerous relatives merely to obtain a big name, particularly now that he has regained fair health and there is danger he may survive yet these many years.

Grangers, Attention.

The following we give at length in the hope that our Inyo Grangers will give it due attention, satisfied, that to the extent of their ability they will not be behind their brethern elsewhere in such good work. Of course it would be impracticable to ship seed from this inland region, but money will buy the seed in San Francisco:

LICK HOUSE, S. F., March 28, 1875.

I. G. GARDNER, AGENT CAL. STATE GRANGE—SIR:—I have the honor to request that you will with as little delay as possible, call upon the Granges of California for donations of seed to aid in planting the lands of destitute farmers in Kansas and Nebraska. I think a good many cars could be loaded at different points in the State, and I believe the farmers of California await only an opportunity to help their destitute brethern in the East in their hour of poverty and trouble. All donations of seeds will be carried free to the sufferers. Please make such arrangements as you may deem proper for gathering and forwarding donations from your people, but lose no time in doing so, as the season for seeding in Kansas and Nebraska is at hand.

The citizens of San Francisco have contributed over 20,000 bushels of seed barley for these poor people, and I hope the country will not be behind the city in generosity. The need is great, and if the seed is not donated the Kansas-Nebraska sufferers they will remain paupers another year. It is not only policy and sound judgment, but our duty, to render these people self sustaining as soon as possible and relieve them from famine and distress that has had no parallel in the history of the nation.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
JAS. S. BRISBIN, U. S. A.

Having received the above letter and earnest appeal for aid for our Nebraska and Kansas sufferers, we hope that our Grangers will send forward seed of any kind that they can spare. The Government is issuing rations, but seed, or money to buy seed, must be furnished. The railroad company will carry everything free East. All points in our interior where cars can be loaded, will please confer with me by letter and the necessary directions for loading will be given. San Diego Los Angeles, San Buenaventura, Santa Barbara, Monterey, and all points along the coast, your attention is called to the offer of Goodall, Nelson & Perkins, who propose to carry free. As far as possible, let your contributions be in barley. Oregon will please notice the communication of the Oregon Steamship Company. Mark everything I. G. Gardener, Grangers' Agent, San Francisco, and address a letter at the same time. We give below a communication from W. W. McCracken, Aurora, Kansas; this is but one of many letters that comes to our Grange headquarters.

I. G. GARDNER, Agent,
Cal. State Grange 6 Leidesdorff St., San Francisco.

AURORA, Kansas.

JOSIAH EARL—DEAR SIR:—Having received from our Board of County Commissioners an appointment to solicit aid for our destitute grasshoppers sufferers, and as there has been a great amount of canvassing done East and considerable in goods received from the States East, I wish to inquire if your people would help us in this matter. The greatest distress prevails here and our Eastern friends are taxed greatly to assist us in saving human life. If we do not receive assistance from other States of a more substantial character will lose some of the citizens of our newly-organized counties. Much of our stock is dying, and by Spring our horses and teams will be unable to perform farm labor, and there is now no grain to feed them. We will need a large amount of seed grain for Spring planting, and without which thousands of acres of fine cultivated land will lie idle, and large numbers of our citizens will remain proper subjects for charity. Can the Pacific States help us in this trying hour?

Please write me, and if you think it advisesable, I will try and visit the States during March, and receive such contributions as may be offered for the destitute of Jewell county, Kansas. Very Truly,

W. W. MCCRACKEN.

Interior papers are requested to copy this appeal.

Great Tornado.

Georgia dates of March 23d give this description of the late fearful tornado which swept through that State:

The path of the recent tornado was from 200 to 600 yards wide; it was cylindric shape and rotated with fearful velocity from the north to the south. The front cloud was as black as night and about half a mile high, the rear was illuminated by a bright light. It traveled nearly due east, veering a little to the north. After devastating Camack, the tornado seems to have divided, one portion going east by north and crossing the Savannah river above and below Augusta, both proving equally destructive, laying waste everything in their track, trees were broken like reeds, and in some instances carried three quarters of a mile. The tornado was preceeded by a dull, heavy roaring, like heavy artilltry in the distance. It spent its greatest fury in about three minutes. An eye witness says the senses were utterly deadened and appalled. There was a crash, a roar and a mingling of a hundred terriffic and unearthly sounds. The great devastated district embraces eight counties in Georgia and two or three in South Carolina. The destruction of property is immense and the list of maimed and wounded appalling.

An Ignorant Man.

A woman called into a commission house on Michigan avenue the other day, and made for the rear end of the store without waiting to speak to any one. The proprietor followed her and inquired:

"Do you wish to look at some butter, madam?"

"No, sir," she curtly replied.

"No, sir."

"P'raps you'd like some of these dried peaches?"

"No, sir."

There was a painful puse, but she braced her nerves and said:

"There's something w-wrong with—with my skirts, and—and if you will—"

"Thunder! what a fool I am!" exclaimed the man, and he got into his office and left her in peace.—[Detroit Free Press.

Our Mono Letter.

BENTON, MONO CO.,
March 29th 1875.

A REWARD FOR TWO WORTHIES.

MESSRS. EDS:—Since my last collection of items to THE INDEPENDENT, (which was about three or four weeks ago), I have been conscious most of the time but don't think I have drawn more than three breaths, and the cause of this and my partial unconsciousnss is that there is $500 reward offered for Snob and Welch, because of the former having given you an item derogatory to the character of persons connected with a certain enterprise, but don't know what they wanted with Welch. I should be very thankful to you, Messrs. Eds., if you will allow me space to beg pardon of the said enterprising gentlemen of this place for having offended their dignity.

MILLS AND MINES.

Mr. Albert Mack's mill is stopped for further repairs; his furnace was completed, tried and found to be everything that it was recommended for, but the old pans were deficient in some way for working roasted ore, therefore the mill will not run until new pans are brought from Sacramento, consequently it will be three weeks before this mill will start up. But Mr. Mack is not losing time entirely, for we are informed by Mr. Mack himself that they have struck a splendid body of ore of which three assays of the average ore assayed a little over $800 per ton. Mr. A. B. Williams has just received a large derick windlass which he proposes erecting over a new shaft on his mine and put to work double his present force of miners.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Passed off quietly and was celebrated by the miners at the Commanche mine giving a party which passed off without a struggle outside of the ordinary efforts which is required to dance and feel happy, but by the evening of the 18th, times grew livelier and before sunset there had been three fights and nobody seriously hurt.

WEATHER.

The twenty-fourth was a very windy day in so much that it was remarkable even to persons not close observers; but at night the wind grew fearful and the strongest buildings trembled under its pressure while the weaker ones gave way to the wind, which blew the butcher shop off of the blocks on which it was sitting and blew the entire front out of a building in Partzwick belonging to Mr. Mack, and occupied by a renter; but no one hurt this time.

YE PATRONS.

My Bishop Creek friend has silenced me forever after this about their Grange, but unless they employ a good Grange physician there is liable to be a death in the Grange family of California, and it may occur at the above mentioned place, and although I never said I knew how to keep a hotel, but I am intimately acquainted with Pop Kelley who does know how to keep a hotel.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Frank Shaw has commenced suit in the District Court against Sangunetti and his old partner for $450 and all incurring costs.

G. Rowan, of Creaser's establishment, has gone to Bishop Creek, and another party has gone to San Francisco. I know of whom I speak but dare not write Highto-ned. SNOB.

Law Maxims.

About Cardinals.

[From The New York Tribune, March 11.]

Archbishop McCloskey has been informed by telegraph from Rome that he and five other prelates of the Roman Catholic Church will be made Cardinals at a pro-consistory or special meeting of the Cardinals to be held at the Vatican on Monday next. A prominent Catholic divine yesterday stated to a representative of The Tribune that this honor has been conferred as a compliment to the Catholic Church in the United States, which numbers from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 members. The Archbishop will continue undisturbed in his present duties, but in virtue of his new dignity he will be a member of the Congregation of the Propaganda, to which the management of foreign missions is intrusted. As soon as he is officially informed of his appointment the archbishop will either go to Rome and be invested with the new dignity at the hands of the Pope, or he will depute some ecclesiastic in that city to act for him. The Catholics of this country will now be for the first time represented directly in the government of the church and the election of a Pope, should such a contingency arise.

Cardinals are the highest dignitaries in the Catholic Church after the Pope, whose electors and councilors they are. In early times the title was restricted to ecclesiastics immediately within the jurisdiction of the Bishopric of Rome. About the beginning of the twelfth century the Popes, having formed a regular court, began to bestow the rank of Cardinal on any individual of the clergy, or even of the laity, whom they choose to select, and to each, whether Roman or foreign, they gave the title of some particular church in Rome, but without attaching to the holder any obligatory service. The number of Cardinals has for centuries been limited to 70; but at present there are only 49, of whom 27 are residents of Rome, and form part of the Papal household. Thirty three of the 49 Cardinals are Italians; the remaining 16 are of the following nationalities: Austria, 3; France, 6; Germany, 2; Guatemala, 1; Ireland 1; Portugal, 1; Spain, 2. Three of the foreign Cardinals are members of the Roman household, namelyi Cardinals Bonaparte, Pitra, Hohenlohe. Cardinals wear a red hat and purple mantle. They are addressed as "Eminence," and at Catholics regal courts are regarded as princes of the Church, and on state occasions have preceedence accordingly. When a Cardinal is an Archbishop he retains both titles, and is addressed as His Eminence the Cardinal Archbishop. The most important function of a Cardinal is the election of a Pope, whom it has been customary for centuries to select from the Sacred College, as the collective body of Cardinals is called. At the death of a Pope the Cardinals in Rome convene, and continue in session until his successor is selected.

The other prelate who are to be made Cardinals on Monday are: Mgr. Ledochowski, Archbishop of Posen and Guisen; Mgr. Deschamps, Archbishop of Mechlin, Belgium; Archbishop Manning of Westminister; Mgr. Bartolini, Consultor of the Roman Court, and Mgr. Glanuelli, Archbishop of Sardia.

Going ahead.

Mr. Temple yesterday received a dispatch from Chief Engineer Crawford, dated at San Francisco. Work will be pushed with great vigor on the Los Angeles and Independence Railway. Since Mr. Crawford's arrival thirty-five thousand ties have been purchased for the road. They will reach here without delay.—[Los Angeles Express, March 25.

OBITUARY.

[COMMUNICATED.]

ROUND VALLEY, INYO CO.,
March 27, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—Again it becomes our painful duty to record the death of one of our interesting scholars of this place—Benny, the son of H. and M. Evans was buried yesterday after a short but very fatal attack of diptheria. Ten years he was sent to gladden the hearts of parents, sisters and brothers. I cannot forbear to pen a few lines as a tribute to his memory, for his sweet childish face is very familiar to me, and as I looked on his pale lifeless face in farewell before he was consigned to the clods of the valley, my mind recalled the varied expression of his noble features as I had seen him among his playmates. His was a countenance that disseminated joy or irresistibly drew forth the childish sympathy of his fellows when in grief. Again I have seen him when forming one of the home circle. Ever submissive without a murmur to the parental will of his father and mother; gentle, loving and unselfish as became the eldest with heart and hands ready to minister to the comfort of all. Oh Benny! How

"We miss thee at home yes, we miss thee
At morning, at noon, and at night."

Yet this is the destined portion of mortals and parents, little sisters and brothers; although Benny has gone "from whose bourne no traveler returns"—you can go to him, yes he is waiting even now on the planes of immortality to welcome you one by one to be parted—NEVER. ANONYMOUS.

BORN.

At Camp Independence, March 27, to the wife of Dr. C. B. White U. S. A., a daughter.

At Independence, March 31, to the wife of J. B. White, a son.

Near Camp Independence, April 2, to the wife of Jacob Vagt, a daughter.

That's about the way these announcements average—two daughters to one son. We would respectfully suggest, that, though girl babies are very fine things, and especially admirable when they grow up and have curly hair, wouldn't it be better to vary the monotony a little by having the majority of the other sex? What's to become of us when war comes hereafter. Just to think of the crowded state of society, things running in the above proportion, if all female contemporaries of Susan B., relic of Mark Anthony, had maintained a co-existence up to the present time! This is a matter worthy of consideration.

Panamint Items.

We are indebted to Judge J. M. Murphy, Mining Recorder of Panamint for the following interesting items. The Judge left Panamint for this place via Darwin, last Sunday:

There is a great excitement in Panament over the discovery of an immense lode, called the Juno, of free milling ore four miles south of Panamint city. The ledge is 40 feet wide, and from 40 assays made the lowest went $80, and the highest $420. The fortunate discovers are Jas. A. Parker, James Bruce, C. D. Gill and — Stinburger. It is at the Happy Valley side of the mountain. The owners would not dispose of their interest for less than $200,000.

The Stewart's Wonder mine, at a depth of 250 feet, struck an immense body of ore, the richest yet found in any of the company's mines.

The Jacob's Mill is working successfully at concentrating. It is said that the tailings from ore running to $150, will not assay more than $6 per ton. This success in reducing ores insures a most prosperous future for the camp, for there is no lack of the ores, refractory as they may be.

The 20 stamp mill is rapidly approaching completion. An order arrived at Panamint from the company for the erection of a Stetefeldt furnace.

The tramway to the Wyoming mine is under way, and 50 more men were placed on the line to complete it as soon as possible.

Panamint is recovering from dull times, and inside of six weeks the Surprise V. M. & W. Co., will have in their employ not less than 500 men.

J. J. Dolan has been working the Jessie May lode, and now it takes rank with the Wyoming.

Gen. Evans has struck seven feet of ore in the Ocean Queen mine, and is about permanently locating in this country.

Relics of By-Gone Days.

Mr. I. N. Choynski, the Antiquarian of San Francisco, has paid our town a visit with the view, he hopes, of awaking within us a love for all that is rare and valuable. He carries with him, as souvenirs, a few of the shinplasters, which passed current in our colonies as far back as 1764, some of which are in a very good state of preservation and have a tendency now, that we are on the eve of celebrating our centennial anniversary, of carrying the patriot back to the days which tried mens souls "The United Colonies" have manifested much taste and considerable care in the peculiar arrangement of their dollars and pounds, and it would provoke a hearty laugh of many of our astute lawyers who are in the habit of helping such fellows as the Brotherton's, to read upon the margins of these old timers." 'Tis death to Conterfeit." Times have changed since then. We look upon the earnest signatures of the men who put their names to these promises to pay, and we are at once convinced that they meant business. The men of '76 did not print half as much upon their Continental Currency, but they were evidently bent upon seeing that little carried out. Mr. Choynski has kindly presented us with one of these mementos, and though there is no intrinsic value attached to them, we will yet cherish the faded little waif for the good it has done to the men of iron nerve in the days when "rank was but the guineas stamp" and our Puritans proved to the proud Britons that "a man is a man for a' that."

Get Your Guns Ready.

Reports from Darwin City give alarming accounts of the proceedings of Lieutenant Chavez and his band. At Borax Lake they captured eleven horses and took the station keeper, hostler and another man, and started off in the mountains—parties were out ten hours in search of the missing men, and at last accounts no traces of them were found. At two other stations, Chavez and his band, comprising eight Mexicans armed to the teeth, ordered meals and offered to pay, but were politely informed that the station keepers charged nothing to such courteous gentlemen. At these places Chavez announced himself, and at one station showed his skill by shooting the head off a chicken at 300 (?) yards distant. Other parties came in to Darwin who had been tied for nine hours, and only got away by wearing the rope out on a rock. The whole country is alarmed at this sudden invasion of this modern Joaquin.

Base Ball.

The base ball fever is troubling the Darwinites. They have two clubs there, the Inyos and Independents. The first have a uniform, but of what particular description we are not informed. The other day (March 25) in a well played game the Inyos "got away" with the Independents by a run of 22 to 18. It is hoped the base ball infliction will not become epidemic throughout the country, particularly now that warm weather is approaching.

A Family Matter.

Mr. C. A. Stoutenborough requests us to make known to the families of Big Pine and Bishop Creek, that he will visit their section in a short time, with a select assortment of Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, which he will dispose of on easy terms.

A $20,000 Slander Suit.

P. Reddy, Esq., has filed a complaint and undertaking with the Clerk of the District Court in a slander suit against John Clark, with damages to the amount of $20,000 for having said that complainant "had hired a man to go to Bakersfield to assassinate Hon. Theron Reed, Judge of the Sixteenth Judicial District," which deed was not executed because the hired assassin had weakened too soon. These are not the exact words of the complaint, which is remarkably brief and to the point, but it is the substance. This action means business. When it comes that a leading citizen, after ten years residence in a community, is at last pronounced an assassin, and one of the meanest kind at that, and the story given such a coloring is to give grounds for threats of lynching and all this without the slightest shadow of ground so far as the public generally know or believe, it behoves the object of such slanderous reports either to vindicate a name hitherto irreproachable as a man of honor, as a law abiding citizen, and as a lawyer ever able and ready to defend even his enemies—or bid the community a final adieu when such an accusation can even be whispered to believing ears.

All Fools Day.

Thursday was duly recognized to the sorrow of many unsuspecting victims; practical jokes were passed around without mercy, stale and ancient tricks, original and brilliant ones, found the usual number ready to bite. Shavey, one of the inveterate jokers (bad luck to him) substituted a cork finger, put on a liberal supply of red ink, distorted his countenance in a distressing shape and found many sympathizers ready to tie it up, when he would be suddenly called away, leaving finger and all in the hands of his astonished reliever. He next called on the doctor and begged him to pull a sliver; the doctor took a firm hold with his nippers, but imagine his surprise when he drew out a sliver about twenty inches long. But to tell of all the tricks that were vain would take too much time. May we become wiser in a year hence.

Rose Canyon.

R. D. Parker lately in from Rose Canyon district, brings some very glowing accounts of the great size and richness of its mines. The most prominent of these is the Garabaldi which maintains its reputation as the most promising location in the district, if not in the entire county—and that is saying a great deal. But there are others veins of undoubted value, though none so large. A number of experts were in the camp and more on the way to look at the mines, and the chances are quite favorable for the influx of an abundance of capital soon, sufficient to properly test the value of these prospects. As yet little has been done in deep sinking upon any of them.

A Chanec to Figure some.

We reserve the right to name the premium, whether a chromo, a sum in money, subscription to The Independent, or other reward, for the solution of the following plain arithmetical problem which is proposed merely to exercise school boys and girls. We have, as alluded to elsewhere, a continental shinplaster dated May 10, 1775, good to bearer for $30. The question is, supposing Uncle Sam would decide to redeem this promise to pay and allow interest at 6 per cent, per annum, compounded every six months, up to the 10th of next month, what amount would we be entitled to?

Suicide in Panamint.

The News of March 25 gives an account of the suicide of John Murphy near that place on the night of the 23d Murphy made two attempts on his life the first by trying to beat his brains out with a rock or upon rocks, the second and successful one by cutting his throat He was about 47 years of age, a native of Ireland. He had been drinking much of late and his mind was doubtless much deranged in consequence.

Personals.

J. L Darrah has gone to Sonora on a six week's tour....P. W. Bennett, Esq., is at Bakersfield....Isaac Harris, of Harris & Rhine Jo Harris Judge J. M Murphy and Justice W. C. Smith are in from Panamint....Mrs. J. R Hughes and family, have returned from their visit to Gilroy....John Broder has gone to Visalia....

Teamster Killed..

E. F. McCormick, formerly a driver for the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, was run over by a bullion wagon on San Fernando mountain some time since, from the effects of which he died at San Fernando on the 24th instant.

Nipped.

The first two or three days of this week was extremely cold, and the chances are a good deal of the early fruit is "kil't intirely."

Preaching.

Rev. Mr. Jennings preaches to morrow at Round Valley and Bishop; Sunday following at Big Pine in the morning, and in this place in the evening.

—The original copy of the Declaration of Independence, which has been for years in the Patent Office at Washington, has faded so that the signatures are scarcely visible, and a skilled penman is to go over the document with a strong microscope and retrace all the signatures so as to make them distinct and legible.

—"Go away! Leave me with my dead! Let me fling myself on his coffin and die there!" That was in Nebraska six months ago, and now the widow has won another trusting soul, and number one's portrait is in the attic face to the wall.

—The British Parliament has been relieved from deciding again, on the eligibility of John Mitchel to a seat in that body, by his death, which took place recently.

—Instead of saying "look up," the Texan exclaims: "See hyar, old fellow!"

St. Nicholas For April.

Has for one of its principal features an article by Mr. Joel Stacy, entitled John Spooner's Great Human Menagerie. The manager of this wonderful show—with a generosity unusual among men of his profession—lets us at once into the secrets of the exhibition, and describes each animal so minutely that any half-dozen boys with enough ingenuity and pasteboard can easily form a similar collection for themselves. No detail of construction is omitted, and pictures of almost all the marvels, with explanatory diagrams, are set before us. We are even furnished with a specimen hand-bill, and are supplied with information so full and clear that unless the show-fever be no longer contagious among boys and girls, we may expect many a village where St, Nicholas goes, to have, before, long, its rival companies with flaming posters and curiosities outdoing those of master Spooner himself.

The two serials, The Young Surveyor, and Eight Cousins, though doubtless equal in popularity, are quite unlike in character, and there is variety enough in the April installments. For the youthful admirers of The Young Surveyor the present chapters are likely to make him an object of real sympathy. His troubles increase, the way out of them seems involved in great difficulties, and the mystery of the stolen horse is not yet solved. Miss Alcott's heroine, on the other hand, is just now enjoying life amazingly, with a novel trip to China, conversation with the Celestials, and a boat-race in which the cargo and seamanship are of a curious order.

We find in this number also a bit of history concerning the famous Bunker-Hill Powder; an illustrated narrative of a hard-fought battle with a grizzly at uncomfortably close quarters; a sketch of a Pilot's life, with its dangers and incidents; and, in The Great Freshet, a graphic story descriptive of scenes—both comic and dangerous—attending the rapid rise of a river.

Then there is the story of Cinderilla told in a new form with a practical lesson, and having for an illustration the beautifully engraved frontispiece from a painting by Champney; while the wise Peterkin family indulges in another characteristic consultation—this time as to the best way of getting out of doors when snowed up.

The number contains several good poems, by H. H., Anna B. Averill and others; and the list of artist-contributors includes, besides other names, those of F. O. C. Darley, Eytinge, Sheppard, and Addie Ledyard.

—Sallie Morris, a pretty Newark girl, is a "mind reader." She said to a bashful beau the other night, "La! I believe you are going to kiss me." She was right.

—It is the high price of slate pencils that is driving the saloon-keepers to the poor house.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—These college titles are becoming too numerous. They would put a D. D. on to a fiddle.

—Suspciious tailor — "There, just stand in that position, please, and look right upon that notice while I take your measure." Customer reads the notice: "Terms Cash."

—A Cleveland youth of rather fast proclivities, fell in love with a parson's daughter, and as clincher to his claims, said to the reverened gentleman "I go my bottom dollar on piousness."

—Mr. Clark, of St. Peter, Minn., upon breaking an egg, found therein a serpent five inches long. The hen that laid that egg must have had the delirium tremens.

—A petrified negro was lately found in a garret over a law office in a village in Mississippi. It was supposed that he undertook to study law, and became absorbed in Blackstone.

—And now they say that William Penn would sit down under a tree with Indians about him, telling them of the better land beyond the sea, and deal himself four aces every time and win the game.

—A New York merchant subscribed to the monument in honor of the poet Bryant, supposing that he was subscribing for the benefit of the minstrel of that name. On learning his mistake he withdrew his subscription. There is no accounting for taste.

—An adroit thief who abstracted an ostentatiously displayed check for a thousand dollars from the gifts at a wedding the other day, only to find that the old man's balance in the bank was four dollars and fifty cents, thinks there is no chance for honest industry in this city.

Important Railway Intelligence.

It gives us great pleasure to lay before our readers intelligence that will make Los Angeles this year the center of a phenomenal railroad activity. We are indebted to Col. E. E. Hewitt, the gentlemanly and obliging Superintendent of the Los Angeles Division S. P. R. R., for a note of the contents of a letter received by him this morning, dated at New York, March 15, from Mr. C. P. Huntington. Mr. Huntington writes that he has already purchased the iron and other material necessary to push the Southern Pacific a distance of one hundred miles from Spadra towards Yuma through the San Gorgonio Pass. He says, further, that this branch of the road will be completed for that distance before the current year has run to its close. This hundred miles will then bring the road to Indian Wells, about twenty miles this side of Dos Palmas. The distance still to be made before the road will reach Yuma will then be about one hundred miles. Following this intelligence, what with the energy exhibited by the Southern Pacific officials at the San Fernando tunnel, we shall doubtless shortly witness an unprecedented railway movement in Los Angeles. Certainly the good work goes bravely on, and, before the end of 1876, we shall be in railway communication with San Francisco and Yuma.—[Los Angeles Express, March 24.

Romance and Reality in War.

We talk exultingly, and with a certain fire, of "a magnificent charge!" of "a splendid charge!" yet very few will think of the hideous particulars that these two airy words stand for. The "splendid charge" is a headlong rush of men on strong horses, urged to their fullest speed, riding down and overwhelming an opposing mass of men on foot. The reader's mind goes no further, being coutent with the information that the enemy's lines were "broken" and "gave way." It does not fill in the picture. When the "splendid charge" has done its work, and passed by, there will be found a sight very much like the scene of a frightful railway accident. There will be the full complement of broken backs, of arms twisted wholly off; of men impaled upon their own bayonets; of legs smashed up like bits of firewood; of heads sliced open like apples; of other heads crunched into soft jelly by iron hoofs of horses; of faces trampled out of all likeness to anything human. This is what skulks behind "a splendid charge!" This is what follows, as a matter of course, when "our fellows rode at them in style," and "cut them up famously.'"—[Charles Dickens, in All the Year Round.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Incurables Restored. Do not despair because your physician shakes his head. Professional opinions are not infallible; and they are never wider of the mark than when they pronounce Chronic Dyspepsia an incurable malady. To mitigate its pangs, the faculty usually prescribe air, exercise, and brandy. The first two are God's medicine; the last is a satanic poison. The only medicine needed in Dyspepsia and its concomitants is DR. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, the great vegetable tonic of the age. n248t4

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonder fully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an undabted interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not intertere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of James Sutton, President.

Spelling Matches.

The spelling match furor has reached San Francisco and will doubtless spread over the country, so we copy a couple of articles found in The S. F. Chronicle, explaining how they used to be managed. The plan in San Francisco is to spell down, but any speller missing a word can redeem his or her place on the payment of twenty-five cents. In this way a fund is raised with which to pay for prizes and other purposes. All classes and ages take stock in the late spelling matches, and without doubt, to the benefit of all.

Rules for Spelling Matches.

An old schoolmaster in The Pittsburg Gazette gives the following, which will be read with interest by the conductors of spelling matches:

1. When a premium is offered for the champion speller all the spellers may be arranged in a class, and then captains will not be needed. When all have retired (because of their misspelling) except one, his name should be noted, and the whole class called up for another trial. If the same person again be last to retire he should be declared victor; if another person there should be a third trial. Then, if either the first or second be the last to retire, that one should take the premium. If a third one should then be the last to keep his place there should be a trial between these three. The most difficult words in use then might be offered to them.

2. If, however, the plan of "choosing sides" is preferred, the spellers should all keep their places (not retiring on mistakes) during the match, and a scorer should be appointed to keep account of the mistakes made on one side and corrected on the other. Thus a word missed on side and spelled on the other should be scored one to its credit. A word may be tried several times on each side before it is correctly spelled. This need not be noted; but if it is spelled correctly on the side where first missed, it should be considered redeemed, and then need not be scored. At the close of the match the report of the scorer should be announced.

3. It would be appropriate for the captain of the victorius company to receive a lot of little presents to distribute to his spellers when the contest is finished, or the prize spelling might be confined to his company. If this plan be deemed too exclusive, both companies might be formed into one class to compete for the premium.

4. There should be one or two persons inside of the door, who should ask all persons entering whether they wish to engage in spelling, and if so, take their names. These names should be presented to the captains or managers, thus enabling them readily to form the class or choose their spellers. Each speller should repeat his word after the pronouncer before spelling it. Indistinct utterance should be regarded the same as misspelling. It might be well to have an umpire, who should have by him a Webster's unabridged. A speller should have the right to demand the the definition when words with the same pronounciation have different meanings, viz: Counselor, an advisor. Councilor, a member of a council. Permissible, what may be permitted. Permisceable, what may be mixed; and many others.

5. More attention ought to be given to the spelling of proper names, names of men and women, geographical names, Scripture names, scientific terms, etc.

The ingenuity of the managers may adopt or modify these hints, or devise other regulations, and thus the interest in spelling may be maintained till a great amount of benefit shall be derived from these matches.

How Spelling Matches were Conducted in New England in Old Times.

[From The Boston Traveler, March 19.]

One year ago the West was teaching us a new method of warfare against the liquor traffic, but praying bands are not suited to New England sentiment, and have not produced the good results hoped of them. This Winter the West has been enlivened by spelling matches, but they are not new here; they are the old spelling schools of New England revived and transplanted to another soil, and now we are to have this old institution in its new form, but the spelling matches of to-day are as unlike the spelling schools of our rural districts a generation ago as our finely-decorated and brilliantly-lighted halls are unlike the little school-house at the county cross-roads, where cheap tallow candles dimly shone. Those spelling schools were in many places the

MOST NOTABLE EVENTS OF THE WINTER

Season. They were always held in the evening, and usually two or more school districts united together, only the elder scholars attending. The contests were not strictly between rival schools, though every school had its rival spellers in whom it had justifiable pride. Two leaders or "choosers," were selected, not so much because they were experts themselves as because they knew the best speller among those present. There were always some whose exploits had given them an enviable position or reputation, and each of the leaders sought to get as many as possible of these. Taking their places, first one and then the other chose assistants until all were ranged on one side or the other, and usually there were selected first a girl and then a boy, the opinion prevailing that when thus arranged better order was maintained. Words were "put out" to the leader of one side and then the leader of the other, and were then

PASSED DOWN THE RANKS,

And each word missed on one side and spelled on the other was credited to the successful side. The teachers of the several schools represented took turns in giving out words, and after an hour thus passed a report was made of the number of credits for each side, and the intermission that followed was the most pleasant part of the evening, and the teacher who was slow in calling the assemblage to order was a popular character. After another short season of spelling as before, the master of the school where they were assembled took the floor, and with the words "stand up," brought the spellers to their feet for the "tug of war" about to begin. Longer and harder words were given out, and the pronunciation was more rapid and indistinct than had been.

THE SPELLERS NEAR THE HEAD

Were prepared for this, but before the foot was reached each leader lost some of the weaker adherents. But in this closing contest numbers were of little consequence; the real struggle was confined to a few. Pretty soon one of the leaders went down, and then the other, and there were left two or three good spellers at the head of each column, while near the foot stood a boy or girl who had been spared by accident, with an unknown sly companion from a distance who hoped to "spell down the school." The teacher quickly marked such an adventurer for a victim, plying him or her with difficult words, while easier ones were given to the better known contestants, until the stranger sank from sheer exhaustion. Then

THE CONTEST BECAME A FAIR ONE

Again, as his own scholars would submit to no tricks unless the victim was an outsider, and it was often protracted until the spelling books, the reading-books, and the geography had been tried, when a resort to the large dictionary for words long and strange sent those yet standing to their seats. Then came a hasty putting on of hoods and hats, of cloaks and overcoats, of comforters and mittens—and fortunate was the lad who did not have a mitten that he had not expected. But without the surroundings and the feelings which were the charm of the old-time spelling schools, the spelling matches of to-day are not wanting in interest and excitement, and if they so affect the public schools as to make the scholars of to day as good spellers as were the boys and girls of a quarter of a century ago, both the East and the West will have reason for gratitude toward those who are arranging them.

Contingent on the Pants.

Conductors of trains are almost daily annoyed by the presence in the cars of individuals possessed neither of tickets nor money and who have to be put ashore at the earliest opportunity. A few days since the conductor of an eastward bound train on the other side of the "hill," found that he had a deadhead of this class among his passengers, and three different times stopped the train and put him off, each time giving emphasis to the matter by the application of his boot, but it invariably happened that the undesirable passenger managed to get on board about as soon as the conductor. The third time, the conductor remained ashore watching the chap until the train had attained such headway that he felt confident the deadhead could not get on—in fact he had to spring in a lively manner to accomplish it himself—but as soon as he got straightened upon his feet he found the impecunious riding along with the rest. Somewhat discouraged, the conductor inquired of him, "Where in blazes are you going any way?" "Well," said the not-to-be-got rid-of, "I'm going to Chicago if my pants hold out, but if I'm going to be kicked off every five minutes I don't believe I'll make the trip?" The conductor let him ride a little ways.—[Sacramento Record-Union.

Fish Stories.

The Boston Traveler says: "In our issue of the 23d instant we gave an extract from the Paris True Kentuckian to the effect that a fish-duck had been killed recently with eleven fish in its stomach, the united weight of which was over two pounds." An old gentleman of eighty-six who for many years followed the occupation of a fisherman and pilot, says that some years ago at Nantucket, he saw seven shoal ducks taken from the stomach of a monk fish that was not over three feet long. The ducks were fresh and must have been captured by the fish within a few hours; probably while they were diving for mussels. These ducks generally average from three to four pounds undressed. The same gentleman says he once caught a halibut that had the tails of six dogfish protruding from its mouth. But the strangest story remains to be told. Some fifty years ago, Captain Eben Gardner, of Nantucket was in company with a number of others, fishing for cod-fish off Scouset, and lost overboard an open jack-knife, on the handle of which his name was cut. The water where it was lost was some seventy or eighty feet deep. When the boats landed on the shore and the fish dressed, the identical knife, lost some hours previously, was found in the stomach of a cod, caught from a boat that had been fishing at some distance from Captain Gardner.

No Retraction.

A whimsical incident once happened in the State of New Hampshire. A peripatetic old codger, named Nascomb, had been brought up in Coos County, and there started a newspaper. One day he received a marriage notice for publication, accompanied by a generous slice of plum-cake. He inserted the notice, acknowledged the cake, and wished the wedded pair all sorts of wedded bliss.

Now this affair chanced to be a hoax. One or two wickedly inclined rascals had sent in this notice of the marriage of a couple who had not yet thought of being married; and, as a matter of course, the poor fellow who had been thus falsely set before the world as a husband, hurried to the printing-office, and, having assured the editor that it was all a base hoax, desired him to correct it.

"How would you have me correct it?" asked the editor with dignity.

"Why, state that it was a wicked hoax, to be sure—state that I have not been married at all."

"Ah, my dear sir," the genius of the sanctum replied, with a dicisive and majestic wave of the hand, "I cannot do that. I cannot admit that I have been imposed upon. Such puerile retraction would lose me the confidence of my readers at once. The most I can do, sir—and that I will do with pleasure—is to publish in my next issue that your wife eloped, and you are thus left a single man and free!"—[N. Y. Ledger.

A WARNING.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Having become satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt, that certain citizens of Inyo county, and particularly of this valley, have banded themselves together, for the purpose of taking the law into their own hands, and punishing men in their own way, regardless of the laws to the contrary, and in some instances persons that a cause could not be brought against, and sustained in the Courts, and in other instances their grounds for action is from report without any good evidence;

We, as law abiding citizens of Inyo county and residents of Bishop Creek and Round Valley, do avow, that, should any citizen of this county, not a desperate outlaw whom the law cannot be enforced against, be troubled or interfered with by any man or men, belonging to such organization, not strictly in accordance with the laws of the country, we will use time and money in hunting out and punishing such man or men to the full extent of the law.

We are fully united and determined to be vigilant in prosecuting the first case that occurs again, let the cost of time and money be what it will—should our limited means be exhausted without success, we will appeal to law-abiding citizens of the county to come to our support in the worthy cause. We feel it a burning shame and disgrace to the law abiding citizens of any community to remain quiet while such proceedings are going on among us. We hope those engaged in such a cause will desist, and think for a moment, that they are citizens of our county, and enjoying all the protection of the laws and free institutions of our country, which in their acts they revoke, before time and money shall be used to enforce the law against them, and a feeling engendered that perhaps time will not soon obliterate.

MANY CITIZENS.

Bishop Creek, Inyo Co., April 6th.

Found at Last.

Everybody has heard about the Gunsight lode. Being lost since '49 it has has been the object of search and solicitude of a vast number of prospectors who have braved the dangers of Death Valley in unavailing efforts to re-discover it. But now as will be seen by the subjoined from The San Bernardino Guardian the mystery is cleared up, and the Gunsight is found. And what is of especial interest to Inyoites it is quite near at hand. We remember very distinctly, as we have stated in these columns heretofore, of having seen specimens, a whole handful of fine wire silver, that were brought from some such mine by one of the original discovers. There were at least a half a dozen of our personal acquaintances who visited the mine at that time, and who, contrary to the belief expressed below, survived the horrors of that Death Valley experience, though they were not at that time a part of the main party, having separated from it some time previous to the final fatal mistake in choice of routes, but were equally the discovers of the mine, now supposed to be the Gunsight, nevertheless. The Guardian says:

For years the Gunsight, a ledge of wonderful richness, discovered by a number of immigrants who came to this State in 1849, had been lost. Stories of its marvelous value, however, went the rounds and continuous efforts were made to re-discover it. The late John Goller, of Los Angeles, was one of the party which originally discovered it. We are delighted to be advised that our friend J. R. Frink, of San Timoteo Canyon, San Bernardino county, has re-discovered this splendid mine. Frink has signalized himself for years as an adventurous and indefatigable prospector, and we are glad to be able to herald the fact that he has achieved so wonderful a success. The re-discovered Gunsight lies between Panamint and Cerro Gordo, on the edge of the Death Valley basin. The specimen sent us will go away up in the thousands of dollars. Embedded in very hard quartz there are considerable quantities of silver and antimony. The quartz is thickly streaked with chlorides of silver and has a stain of copper.

Probably many of our readers are aware of the fact that this immigrant party nearly all perished in Death Valley. What with starvation and the attacks of Indians, Goller, of this place, and one or two others, were all that survived. The marvelous richness of the Gunsight left an aroma behind, however, and many a party has been organized to go out to Death Valley to find it. About two years ago the Rev. Mr. Briar, of Oakland, placed himself at the head of an expedition for that purpose, but the memory of locality of the few survivors of the expedition was defective and it was never re-discovered We congratulate Mr. Frink upon his splendid luck, and if the Gunsight proves as rich as tradition reports it (and the specimen received by us confirms the tradition) he and "Lucky" Baldwin will have to run in couples.

—One lively pickpocket will dis-purse a large gathering, if allowed to work the crowd.

WHAT NEXT?

In view of certain events, rumors and facts, of the past week, some of which we shall presently mention, the community generally has been thrown into a state of excitement, wonder and final indignation beyond anything of the kind ever experienced here before. It turns out that a gang of men, some of them hitherto recognized as good men and citizens, deliberately rode long miles with the intention of committing mid-night arson and murder.

But, without further comment, we will give actual occurrences. In the first instance, one night early last week the exact date of which we do not recall, a gang of Vigilantes, some sixteen in number, collected in the vicinity of the Court House (the jail), and staid a good portion of the night trying to screw up their courage to the point of attacking it and lynching Ashim, then awaiting examination for the killing of Perasich. For reasons best known to themselves, they gave up the project, with the understanding of meeting again in larger force. Fifteen were expected from Bishop Creek, a few from Lone Pine and the remainder, making a total of thirty, from other localities. On Friday night they did meet sure enough. About half of the gang had camped the night before on the opposite side of the river, having had their spies out during the day. At the final rendezvous near town, it was decided to attack the Court House at 11 o'clock, but all being dark and silent in that building, they became fearful that all was not right or just as safe as it might be. About this time one of the smaller Captains andsix or seven others became badly demoralized and deserted in a body. It was then proposed by the remainder, some twenty-one in number, to set fire to Reddy's office or house, take him out and hang him, and to kill R. W. Woolard, his clerk, if circumstances made it all necessary. In fact, one of the gang, thought it would be the proper thing to do, anyhow, although no crimes were alleged other than that he was in bad company. This done, and presumably, the entire town collected at Reddy's to fight the fire, a move was to be made on the jail after the other victim, Ashim. The Court House was also to be fired while attending to this little matter. Some, however, were opposed to this expensive entertainment, foolishly (?) fearing the people of the county at large, might "get down on the vigilantes!" It so happened that one, and one only, lifted his voice against the murder of Reddy, arguing that it was hardly the neat thing to do, to hang a lawyer for doing his best for his clients, or even on the doubtful charge that he had hired a man to assassinate a high judicial officer, or had packed Welch out of his cell and turned him loose with a pocketful of money—particularly with regard to Welch, when it was known that this alleged helper was many miles away at that identical opportunity, the occurrence of which he could not even anticipate. It is very probable, however, that but very few of the gang ever seriously contemplated any murder or incendiarism other than of Ashim and Court House.

To make a long story short, things didn't look safe or right somehow, and, as one of the very wisest and most sensible acts of their lives, these men began quietly to sneak away to their homes, some long miles away, others not so far. Without intending it in any sense as a boast or challenge, we are prepared to say that it would have been the merest chance (supposing their intended move had been made), if a single individual of that gang would have got away alive! And supposing again, some of them had, what then! Only to stand convicted for an attempt at murder and arson, as they must hereafter stand in public opinion for the intent. There is not a man among them, or scarcely a movement made that is, and was not known.

Speaking for ourselves, we often feel much in sympathy with uprisings against high handed public outrages under cover of law and otherwise, but look at this case in whatever light we may, we can imagine no justification whatever for such deplorable outlawry. It was no desperado lying in that jail caught at last after a long career of outrageous crime, and in imminent danger of again being turned loose to begin again. And supposing that to have been the case, as it was not, why propose to murder and burn out a person not even accused of crime, but merely obnoxious because of success in an honorable profession? It is an astonishing state of affairs, and the end is not yet. What the end is to be depends wholly and solely on these violators of law themselves. Their first overt act, will, as is plainly intimated in a certain communication to be found in this issue, precipitate a reign of terror that will end only after the last man of them has been driven from the country or brought to justice. Don't take this as as threat from us. We speak on the authority of as good and true men as there is in this county, from some of whom comes that communication. We also speak the common sentiment of well disposed people generally. Let every well disposed man, appreciating how easy it is for him to be led to utter ruin by a few evil minded associates, come out from among them as soon as he possibly can. It is never too late to do good, or least to try. Two, nor ever so many wrongs ever make a right.

Newspaporial.

The Pacific newspaper outlook seems to be somewhat brighter this Spring than usual. Since our last issue our table shows the following changes and additions, etc:

CARSON VALLEY NEWS, a large six column, prosperous looking paper, by A. C. Pratt, lately estaplished at Genoa, Nevada.

FRESNO WEEKLY REVIEW, seven-columns, a very fair looking paper by C. A. Heaton, who, we think, was at one time connected with The Expositor, just started at Fresno, Fresno county; independent, with Democratic leanings.

THE LOS ANGELES DAILY EXPRESS, under a new propietorship but the same editorial management, an influuetial friend of Inyo, is materially enlarged.

THE LOS ANGELES DAILY HERALD begins its fourth volume, and is a paper that has accomplished a great deal of good for the southern portion of the State.

THE WILMINGTON ENTERPRISE modestly anounces its first anniversary, and though not a large or pretentious in any respect, has worked faithfully and we doubt not, effectively, in the interests of its particular locality, and is worthy of a good support in Los Angeles county.

THE RESOURCES OF CALIFORNIA, for April, J. P. Wentworth, propietor, San Francisco, the true representative paper of the State, presents the very best table of contents yet. It is worth anybody's while to send a two-bit piece and order a copy of this number sent "home" on account of its article under the head of "Work and Wages." It will satisfy inquiries better than forty letters. And whether to send to friends or not, this paper is more than worth ts subscription price (only $2 per annum) to any Pacific Coaster for his own use.

J. P. McCarty's STATISTICIAN, for March, came two or three weeks since, and like its predecessors, is full of valuable and reliable information, statistical and otherwise. Something new is added every month and, being a neat little book, is just the thing for reference in every household. Price, $2 per annum.

THE TUOLUMNE INDEPENDENT is just spreading itself, coming out double its former size, and with patent "in'ards." Our namesake is a very superior country paper.

THE SPELL.

BY A BAD SPELLER.

All countries, climes and localities have, at some period of their existence certain spells which, to dispel, it requires either the ravages of time, the outspoken disfavor of the people, or a moral tornado to turn it into ridicule. If bull fights, the fights of bullies or other innocent (?) amusements are tolerated for a reason, in communities which lay claim to a high state of culture, it is owing altogether to a certain spell which keeps them spellbound at the sight of the athletic gladiators or the handsome proportions of the wild beasts which are trained to gore in order to amuse their cruel owners. Cockfights may dispel the clouds which hover over the roof of the man who has a fancy for the ravages of the pit; and the wholesale destruction of rodents by expert terriers may delight the red-nosed ragamuffins who have bad spells in the deadfalls, but the illusion for such pastime is soon dispelled by the thrift and thought of the educated masses.

No sooner has Weston finished his 500 miles, than the walking world is agog, and even old Canovan who has walked against time time and again, rubs up his digits and astonishes the bummers by his last mile. The mania for parlor skates was short lived and the exercise in bycicles has long since been voted a bore, while those who practice with the dumb bells have justly been expelled from decent society.

But the spell that has now come over us and which engages the attention of teacher and footman alike, are the spelling matches, and cause, for the time being, as much merriment and laughter on the side of proficiency, as they are productive of discomforture and chagrin on the part of those who feel the spell upon them and who are yet unequal to the task.

Let us march on with the fever of the hour—it will soon have passed away to make room for another spell—let us trot out our lawyers, doctors, teachers and others, and give them a little set-to in the art of spelling, and let the best man or woman win, always mindful of the fact that such sport should command an entrance fee—which will be gladly paid—for the benefit of our school and our rising generation.

My Impressions.

[COMMUNICATED.]

MESSRS. EDS:—"As there is a chiel among ye taken' notes," and as you asked him for his impression of your town and vicinity, he will give them to you, setting down naught in malice.

The old version that the first impressions are lasting, certainly held good in my case with reference to the promising town of Independence which is nothing if not independent.

I was wafted hither, some twelve days ago, by a strong current which seemed to proceed from every point of the compass at once. My journey hither through one unbroken waste of sagebrush and sand, interspersed here and there with a primitive caravansary, where men are treated to stale pork—and beasts must either eat or starve as they cannot carry their lunch with them—instilled in me a desire to find fault with everything and everybody, and this may, in a measure, account for my cynical propensities of treating of your earthquake-proof town and its indolent inhabitants. When I say indolent inhabitants, I mean to convey the idea that not only are the Indians lazy and improvident, but I found upon careful examination that, besides the men who work diligently in their stores and workshops, the people sit about listlessly, little caring whether the streamlets which course down from the mountains, run into their cellers or inundate the premises of their neighbors. There is a degree of shiftlessness manifested by a portion of this community which has the appearance of a floating idle population, who live upon their wits and whose sole occupation seems to be to watch the bucks as they play marbles in the shade of the things which, by courtesy, is called brush, and criticise the unkempt squares as they bask in the sunshine of their lowly camping grounds.

If the wind—hurricane, rather I should say—would not make such sad havoc with the infant trees and play pranks with the window sashes, reminding us that the angry element is stalking without, I should enjoy, by the refreshing fire, now burning brigtly in the rear of Harris & Rhine's store, the beautiful landscape which presents itself to my view. Certainly no finer spectacle can be presented anywhere than right here. The unbroken chain of mountains which watch the meandering Owens River, the snow capped peaks which, like silent sentinels, stood guard over the gambols of the children of the forest and the little streamlets which water the garden spots through the entire town, are not unworthy the attention of the tourists. And then a sight at Camp Independence, the virgin fort of the valley, is no less calculated to impress the stranger with its contented boys in blue who manage to be loyal while cultivating a tract of land and keep the property of Uncle Sam in apple-pie order, on wages that would make a Chinese slipper manufacturer look childlike.

The Court House is a very imposing structure, considering that the earthquakes have played the deuce with more substantial structures, and that the county is as yet in its inchoate state But what shall I say of the poverty struck schoolhouse? The intelligence, the enterprise and the wealth of a community is invariably manifest in their educational institutes, and it is a pity indeed that the rough, ungainly village schoolhouse has nothing to recommend it, except, perhaps, the sprightly young schoolmarm. The benches are crude, uncomfortable and very unsightly. Not a globe nor wall map, not a chart for object lessons, not a single article to chain the eye of the young or claim the attention of advanced pupils. The fire is made early of mornings, by a little miss or active youngster, who brave the cold and wind in consideration of a five cent shinplaster—school money—redeemable at the end of a term, with the smiles of the principal.

A town that can get up dances at the spur of the moment, and which evinces a taste for music and the drama, ought certainly not to suffer such a poor apology for a schoolhouse to loom up in the background and overshadow the prospects of a community which boasts of its solid mountains of silver.

ANTIQUE.

Earthquake.

Eureka was shaken up pretty lively by an earthquake last week. The vibration was from east to west, and lasted three seconds. A dispatch says that buildings were so violently shaken as to cause their inmates to rush out into the streets in terror, anticipating a general demolition of the town. But one building, however, was injured seriously, and fortunately no one was hurt. The same shake touched up Virginia City and that region.

Prospects of Peace in Spain.

The latest news from Spain is to this effect: Spain represents that prospects of peace are increasing daily. One hundred and eighty Carlists officers have already given in their submission to Alfonso. Since the appearance of Gen Cabrera's manifesto, 224 officers, including nine Generals, have left Don Carlos and entered France. Many others have surrendered to the Alfonsists.

Orthographical Mania.

Like the epizootic, the mania for spelling has spread from the Atlantic cities to San Francisco, and like parlor skating many an old cock finds himself bottom side up in attempting to renew the sports of youth. Josh Billings! trot out your school masters and let us hear from Poughkeepsie.

OUR "UNJUST ATTACK."

This gem, italics, head and all is from The Panamint News of April 3d:

THE INYO INDEPENDENT, after quoting an article from The News of March 20th, says in reply thereto that we are "laboring under a misapprehension as to every material fact," and that our "attack," as THE INDEPENDENT calls our article—with a view, no doubt, of making us appear as odious as possible with the county officers as well as the people generally—"is unjust," because the Board of Supervisors have had no meeting since February 1st, and cannot have another until May 1st, in accordance with law. THE INDEPENDENT says no bills or other documents have been presented to the Board or filed with the Clerk, except a letter postmarked "Panamint, March (?) 26th, and addressed to The Hon. President of the Board of Supervisors." It also says that "it is extremely probable that not a single member of the Board has ever had a line in relation to the wants of Panamint in this particular." It is "extremely probable" that the editor of THE INDEPENDENT is assuming to know a great deal more than what he does in the matter. He has no right to make any such reflection upon us by such a statement, for we think our reputation for truth and veracity will bear comparison with that of the editor of THE INDEPENDENT. In the very article which he copies from The News, we stated that we had indited "in respectful terms a special communication to our worthy Board of Supervisors, stating these facts," etc. We addressed our letter to Mr. Bell, who, we were informed by Mr. Isaacs Harris, was President of the Board of Supervisors for Inyo county, and we think it "extremely probable" that Mr. Bell received that communication. The letter was dated, we believe, February 20th, and whether there was any meeting of the Board or not in the interum, we think that common courtesy would have dictated an answer of some kind, particularly where life and health were at stake.

THE INDEPENDENT'S idea that no President of the Board of Supervisors exists, except when the Board is in session is certainly new. Will THE INDEPENDENT tell us in what section of the "Code" we will find this laid down? How is the Board gotten together for "special meetings," except on the call of the President? Is THE INDEPENDENT aware that there is more than one "Code?" If it is, will it be a little more explicit in its citations. If we were wrong as to every "material fact," what has caused THE INDEPENDENT to back down from its argument in regard to the establishment of hospitals other than the main one, and agree with us now that a branch hospital can legally be maintained, at any point with the county limits? We think it probable THE INDEPENDENT found that we were quite right in regard to that "material fact" at least. We can't believe this decided change of base has been induced by any generosity for Panamint, on THE INDEPENT'S part, for it has exhibited of late anything but that, for some reason probably best known to itself. THE INDEPENDENT says: "We now think the county could legally maintain a branch hopital at any point within its limits, and, in any case, must pay for transportation and care of indigent sick wherever they may come from."

If that is the case, what right had the Board to make and publish an order which, virtually, is in effect that they will do as they please in the matter? We have no particular desire to "go to war" with either the Board of Supervisors or THE INDEPENDENT, but we do desire to see, on the part of the latter, a little fairer criticism of articles published in The News than has been shown for some time.

IN MEMORIAM.

At a meeting of the Lone Pine Grange No. 213, April 8, 1875, the following preamble and resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Master, John J. McCall, were unanimously adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes.

WHEREAS It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from a sphere of usefulness among us, Brother John J. McCall, and whereas it is proper that we give expression to our sense at his high moral worth, therefore

Resolved, That this Grange deeply deplore his loss, as their Executive Officer, a generous and active brother, and as an upright and worthy member of this community.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That we will ever remember his course as a citizen and neighbor and will ever remember his consistent and honorable action while with us.

Ordered. That a copy of the foregoing be presented to THE INYO INDEPENDENT, with request to publish the same.

CHAS. JACKSON,
Overseer and Acting Master.

A. H. JOHNSON, Secretary.

The L. A. & I. R. R.

The Los Angeles Herald of the 3d says:

Col Crawford, Chief Engineer of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, left San Francisco on the 25th ultimo for Washington City, to consult with the Messrs. Jones and Parke as to the character and quantity of rolling stock and material needed by the road. He has probably reached Washington by this time, and he will accompany the Messrs Jones and Parke when they come down to Los Angeles, which will be not later, we are advised, than the 15th instant. On reaching San Francisco, a personal visit to the East was decided to be the proper step, and it will result in great additional energy in the operations of the L. A. & I. R. R

Sarah Winnemucca Stabs a Man.

A press dispatch dated Winnemtcca, March 27, says: "Sometime during the night a man called at the house of Sarah Winnemucca. She not wishing to receive visitors at that hour ordered him to leave; he would not and seemed determined to go in, whereupon she drew a knife and inflicted a terrible gash on the man's face starting at the eye and extending down the neck. She is now in jail awaiting examination. It seems she has been on a jamboree since having trouble with some Indians about ten days ago.

Execution at Modesto.

Williams Dona, convicted for the murder of John Connolly, was hanged at 1 o'clock, April 2. An application for a commutation of the sentence to imprisonment for life had been presented to Governor Pacheco. But after a respite of two weeks the law was allowed to take its course.

"Elaine," the famous picture of Toby E. Rosenthal, on exhibition at San Francisco, was cut out from its frame and stolen. Evidently it was the work of some brain cracked artist of diseased imagination.

A CARD.

INDEPENDENCE, April 7, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—Allow me through the columns of your paper to address the following remarks to the citizens of Inyo County.

Within the last ten days I have been informed that John Clark, of Bishop Creek, and Mr. Newland of the same place had circulated in this county the following report: "That P. Reddy hired a man and paid him twenty-five hundred dollars to go to Bakersfield for the purpose of assassinating Judge Theron Reed; that when the man arrived at the last named place, Judge Reed induced the man to get drunk, and while in that condition, the Judge learned from him the purpose of his mission at that place." This is substantially as it has been related to me; I am also informed that Mr. Newland states that Judge Reed is his informant, and that the above report was related to him under the following circumstances: That when he met the Judge he was practicing with a pistol of a new pattern. Newland asked the Judge what he was practicing for; he replied that it would be necessary for him to be in good practice by the May term in Inyo county, and then went on to relate the above mentioned story.

This is certainly a very serious charge, and as you well remarked in the last issue of your valuable and fair dealing paper, a person accused of such a crime ought at the first opportunity vindicate himself—that I purpose doing as speedily as possible and to effect that end, have instituted legal proceedings against one of those who have been engaged in circulating this vile slander, and purpose commencing suit against the author, Judge Reed, in time for trial at the coming May term of the District Court—until that time as a matter of course it is beyond my power to do more than to deny the truth of the report above mentioned. But when these cases come on for trial, this community will have an opportunity of seeing for themselves what a baseless, willful, and malicious falsehood has been circulated for the purpose of destroying my reputation, and how deeply and grieviously I have been wronged. This will be not the only pitiful sight that will greet the eyes of the people of this valley. If Judge Reed is the author of the story above set out, they will see the man who has been, and is now occupying one of the highest judicial positions in our State, and who is supposed to be the representative of justice herself, convicted of uttering and publishing an infamous and fiendish falsehood and slander. If Judge Reed is the author of this infamous lie, I take this method of informing him to come prepared with proof, that I am what he would have me to appear to be, or else stand branded as a willful and cowardly magligner of a well earned and dearly cherished character, as I shall commence an action immediately the result of which must have the effect above pictured.

In consequence of the report above referred to and the fact that I am engaged as counsel for B. Ashim, now in our county jail on a charge of murder, together with the heinous crimes of having acted as counsel for other persons heretofore accused and acquitted of crime in this county, I am informed that the Vigilance Committee of Bishop Creek, or rather a certain portion of that organization, in solemn council on last Friday night at their office in the sagebrush about one mile south of this town, determined "to burn my property and hang me." This they have been threatening to do for some time. To those cowardly wretches who engaged in this conspiracy I have this to say: That I will continue to practice my profession, will defend or prosecute whenever I see fit to do so, and I hereby hurl defiance in the teeth of all midnight assassins and marauders, and especially to those conspiring against me. True, you may murder me, but you cannot frighten or intimidate me.

The latest falsehood that I have heard of in reference to myself is, that in a conversation with Andy Dell on last Friday, I said: "that I would treat every man from Bishop Creek in the same manner that I then treated Dell." This is palpably false, as it is a well known fact that many of my best and warmest friends reside at that place, and there would be no reason in such action as against men who have not injured me (admitting it to be a safe proceeding). What I did say was this: That I was ready to meet any man of the committee referred to who entertained any ill feeling against me, in the same manner that I had met Dell, and that I still say, and further I am ready to meet them all at any time, night or day.

It would seem from the number of false rumors afloat concerning my action, that there are some persons determined to find a pretext for doing me a personal injury, or involving me in some serious difficulty; for those persons I have feelings of pity mingled with contempt.

Hoping that I have not trespassed too far upon your space and time,

I Remain,
Respectfully Yours.

PATRICK REDDY.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

Concluded.

The long drawn out examination of B. Ashim, brought here four weeks since for the killing of Perasich at Darwin, was concluded on Tuesday, and Justice Schalten, who has heard this, his first case, with great patience, has fixed his bail at $20,000. It is very evident from the testimony of numerous witnesses, that Ashim thought he had the very best reason in the world for his action in the lamentable affair—that is, that he must either kill or be killed. It is no less sure that this unfortunate killing, all this testimony considered, was just the furtherest possible remove from the black murder it was first represented. Nevertheless, we think the Justice did the best, under the present excited state of public feeling, in holding the prisoner. It is now but a few weeks till the matter can be fully investigated by a jury and if such decides his act justifiable it will have a force and effect, above the opinion of one man upon the prisoner's future affairs that will amply compensate him for the hardships of a few days more of confinement, should he not give the required bonds, which he and his relatives are amply able to do. But, as we, personally, were so crowded with other affairs requiring constant attention, that we could not possibly attend the examination and closing arguments, we arrive at the above conclusion, merely by what we hear from impartial and disinterested spectators of the trial, and by them we learn that prisoner's counsel, P. Reddy, did his whole duty, no more as a duty than as a conviction that he was for the right in such a manner as to do him great credit as a lawyer, and nobody in this community thinks he ought to be hung for so doing either The friends and relatives of both the prisoner and the deceased have been in constant attendance, and on both sides, seem to be people of excellent standing, in their respective localities. Ashim's father is among them, and will himself probably give the required bond and take his son from his cell till called to answer before the Grand Jury, the first of the coming month.

Personal.

Al. Wapelhorst and L. Wood returned from the Bay Wednesday. Mr. Wood has on the way an invoice of new spring goods. Mr. Wapelhorst has ordered fixtures for a new bar, among the rest an immense glass 12 feet 2 inches square....J. W. McMurray, from Big Pine, J. R. Westerville, Fish Spring, and others from the north were in town....Seth G. Sneden is on a flying visit from San Francisco.... Mrs. A. W. Eibeschutz arrived Wednesday last to join her husband, of J. S. Rothschild & Co., and to cast her lot in this "city." Mrs. E., is a lady of fine culture and high musical attainments. Also, same stage, Mrs. H. Levy, whose husband lately established himself in this place....Judge "Billy" Smith and John Irwin, late Deputy Assessor, and Esquires J. M. Murphy and "Rufe" Arick have returned to Panamint.... Superintendent J. L. Porter, of Cerro Gordo, paid us a call last night, and returned to the Hill this morning.

Local Telegraph.

Our junior will receive, in a few days, a complete outfit of telegraph instruments, sufficient for two offices and strong enough to justify hitching on to any main line that perchance may run astray and locate itself in these parts We propose to run a local line for the amusement and edification of all interested. The company is organized, officers duly elected, but there are no shares, simply for the reason that our capital is immense, and we couldn't stand any more divisions of the future profits. While the spirit of enterprise is moving within us, will some friend suggest the building of a dry dock, the realization of a mighty ship canal, the construction of pile drivers and a suspension bridge or two, that our name may become a moral certainty? "Westward the star of empire takes its way." Who say's it don't ?.

Intellectual.

Those ferocious Regulators who were here the other night, or some one for them, did this highly intellectual thing the other day. They sent a note to McArthur, soldier and mail carrier for Co. D 12th U. S Infantry, that "he was harboring a murderer (Ashim) at the Post, and if that business was not stopped, he, McArthur, would be shot or hung!" In order that this may be better understood we will state that the Sheriff, in the knowledge of what those would-be stranglers and incendiaries proposed to do that night, had taken his prisoner to the Post for protection. Sweet set, those Regulators.

No Doubt of It.

It is certain there is quite a gang of marauding Mexicans operating in the vacinity of Cerro Gordo, but the worst they have done so far was to tie up different parties, ask questions, take grub, boots, some riding stock and a very little cash. They did some of this within four miles of the town. It is very evident Chavez is not among them.

A Family Matter.

Mr. C. A. Stoutenborough requests us to make known to the families of Bi Pine and Bishop Creek, that he will visit their section in a short time, with a select assortment of Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, which he will dispose of on easy terms. *

Hard to Please.

It seems like some people are very hard to please or excessively obtuse. Our notice of the $20,000 slander suit last week, has, we are told, "excited a good deal of feeling" in certain quarters. We stated first, the facts and substance of the complaint which we saw in the Clerk's office. Secondly, in substance, the opinion that it is time for any person when so charged with the intention of committing the highest known crime, to vindicate his fair name, or forfeit his standing and position in a respectable community, and further, that no one that we have ever met believes for a moment that the plantiff in this action ever contemplated the assassination of any one in any manner. But we now say if any one has reason to believe he did, or has asserted he did this action, will give all required oppertunities to let the world know it, and it is a duty that must be attended to when not only a man's standing in society, but his very life is thereby placed in jeopardy. We did not nor do not assume the defendant guilty of the charge, but gave the terms of the complaint itself, which would be no complaint if it did not assert the truth of its allegations. We think now, as heretofore, the real guilt, other than a repetition of the story, rests with other parties than this defendent, and if he can so show it, or his innocence in the first instance he need suffer little or nothing either in pocket or reputation; otherwise, quite the reverse.

Weather.

Figures won't lie, but still they often fail to convey the whole truth as, for instance, when used to show up bad weather. We are indebted to Dr. C. B White, U. S. A., for the subjoined meteorological report, but must remark that none but a person of experience can realize from those figures the true meanness of the weather during the periods embraced. It was of a kind having a tendency to make good average people feel much as if they would like to steal something—steal out of the country if nothing else:

CAMP INDEPENDENCE, April 8, 1875.

April, 1875.	Maximum.	Minimum.
" 1.	75°	26° (Fah. Ther.)

" 5.	52	26
" 6.	45	22
" 7.	55	18 (14 belw frzg)
" 8.	67	21

This was very similar to the cold snap following the violent wind of April 2, 1873, as may be seen by this:

April, 1873.	Max.	Min.
" 2.	84°	42°

" 6.	58	21

The cold of April, 1873, was very effectual in the way of destroying fruit, and it is feared a similar result will ensue this year.

Preparing for Business.

Capt. Eudey is preparing for the early resumption of regular work on the famous Eclipse mining property. The lumber is ordered to re-lay the four-mile tramway or railroad between the mine and mill, and as soon as communication is thus established the mill is to be started and kept going There is the greatest abundance of ore obtainable, and though not of high grade, the Captain has satisfactorily demonstrated the fact that he can work it and make it pay a good margin for profits right along.

Appointments.

In order that all may have notice in time, we append Rev. Mr. Jennings appointments for a number of meetings ahead. We hope he may have a good attendance in every instance, for we have no more deserving, better man or preacher:

April 11, Independence, morn'g and ev'ng.
" 14, Big Pine, in the evening.
" 18, Bishop, morning and evening.
" 19, Big Pine, tem'rance lect're; ev'ng.
" 25, Lone Pine; morning.
" 25, Independence; evening.

To Be Transferred.

Superintendent Nadeau, who came up in a private conveyance on Thursday last, informs us that the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company will make the transfer of all their teams to the Bakersfield route on or about the 1st of the coming month. He says, however, that due notice will be given in time to have all freights en route via Los Angeles, cleared up before the transfer is fully made.

Stage Matters.

The Southern stage now runs from Lone Pine direct through by Darwin, to the junction near the head of Shepherd's Canyon where it connects with the Panamint stage from Indian Wells. A pony only is run between Lone Pine and Passmore's since the above change was made. A pony mail is also carried six times a week by the Northern Stage Company between Lone Pine via Darwin, to Panamint.

Relieved.

The friends of Mr. Hunter, about whose welfare fears have been entertained as mentioned elsewhere, are greatly relieved by information brought in last night by Judge Arick of Panamint A man had come into that place from Rose Canyon since Mr. Hunter was supposed to be missing and reports he saw him there alive and well.

Senator Stewart.

Judge J. M. Murphy, just in from Panamint, informs us that Senator Stewart was expected to arrive at that place ere this....The big mill will be ready to start up in about three weeks The Jacob's mill is in constant operation. Times dull yet.

Special Meeting.

Pursuant to notice the Board of Supervisors met Friday, April 2. Only one appointment was made, that of C. F. Duval, Justice of the Peace for the 5th township—Cerro Gordo.

A Good Man Gone.

In the death of John J. McCall, mentioned under the proper heading, Inyo county has lost one of her very best citizens. Though a leading man of will and force, he was one of the few enjoying the respect and high esteem of all who knew him. His funeral obsequies, conducted under the auspices of Lone Pine Grange, of which he was Master at the time of his death, with religious services by Rev. Mr. Jennings, took place at Lone Pine on the 8th, and was attended by friends and acquaintances from far and near. The attendance was very large. The funeral sermon, pursuant to request of the deceased, was preached at the Lone Pine school house which was crowded full, by Rev. Mr. Jennings, and was a most effective and feeling discourse. It was from the text: "Be ye, therefore, ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."—Matthew, xxiv, 44. Mr. McCall has been a resident of this coast for twenty-two years, the last five in this county. He leaves a widow in extremely feeble health, and one young daughter, and married step-daughter, Mrs A. H. Johnson.

Painful Rumor.

Some ten or twelve days ago, Mr. W. L. Hunter, of Cerro Gordo, started from that place on mule back to go to his mines at Rose Canyon, and expected to be back in three days. Not returning at the appointed time, and being on the same trail where the Frenchman was robbed, as mentioned elsewhere, it is probable that he has met with foul play. During our visit to Lone Pine on Thursday, it was reported that his dead body had been found on the trail, but it is quite certain that was nothing more than a surmise. But it is possible that he has been tied up as others have been of late, by these Mexican bandits, and at last accounts, an active search was being made by numerous friends to find out what has become of him. The murder at such hands, of such men as W. L. Hunter, would be an event universally and most sincerely deplored, and would cause many a man to take the field against the daring scoundrels. Further reports are looked for with anxiety, but not without hope; things may be all right.

Chavez.

This redoubtable cut-throat is credited with a little picayune robbery of this sort: A few days since a Frenchman came limping barefooted into Cerro Gordo, having been robbed of his boots and four bits in cash (all he had), on the trail from Hunter's Ranch at a point about sixteen miles East of Cerro Gordo. The robbers were some three or four Mexicans who explained to Johnny that they were hunting stock. But Johnny failed to fully understand the "necessity" of their taking his boots and cash too, in aiding them to find a lot of lost mules and jackasses, and the more the sharp rocks cut his bare feet, the more he failed to appreciate the humor of the joke.

Improvements.

We note the framing of two new residences this week; one by P. W. Bennett, Esq., adjoining his present residence, and the other by A. W. Eibeshutz in the rear of the store. P. P. Garrish is at work, with heavy tackling etc., removing the old Bend City bridge and laying the foundation at the new crossing down the river.

Arrested.

Deputy Sheriff W. S. Moore, armed with a warrant of arrest, brought from Bishop four prisoners under charge of "Conspiring to Kill." These are J. W Inman, W. T. Wiswall, Fred. Swartz and John Clark. Their examination before Justice Schalten will commence to-day.

To Be Removed.

The brothers of N. Perasich, deceased, are making are making arrangements, we understand, to remove his remains to Lone Mountain Cemetery, San Francisco.

For Darwin.

Register McCallum, U. S. Land office will pay Darwin a visit in a few days

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—"Dar," says Sambo, "de President hab signed dat cibbil rights bill. Now we can go out an' hook turkeys jiss like de white folks."

—A postal card picked up in the street at Norwich, Conn., the other day, bore this solemn appeal: "Deer mary for the luve of God send me a pare of pants."

—A Kansas hypochondriac, meditating upon the death of a dog-fancier in his neighborhood, gives vent to the mournful thought: "Our great men are petering out sort o' rapid like, these times. Whisky kills most on 'em; some tumbles overboard, and 'casionally one gets hung."

—"Wife," said the victim of a jealous rib one day, "I intend to go to camp meeting on Tuesday evening to see the camp break up." "I think you won't," replied she. "I'll go, if I see fit." "You'll see fits if you go." He did not go—probably on account of the rain.

—Says a floating item: "Every species of snake may be permanently driven away from an infested place by planting geraniums." In this connection would it be deemed impertinent in us to suggest to the editor of The Courier-Journal that he plant a few geraniums in his boots.

—The recent birth of quadruplets in Baltimore is paralleled in a similar event in Brattleboro, Vt. The parent's name is Hahn, and the family are very poor. Hundreds of people visit the infants every day. An admission fee is charged, and the little ones are already earning from $50 to $100 a week each. They continue healthy and are likely to live. They were christened Sarah, Mary, Kate and Jennie.

—A couple of our valley farmers yesterday came along Main street, says The Montana Herald, and sat down on a box in front of a blacksmith shop to talk over some business. One of them was heard to say: "As I was saying you can have the four-acre lot for—whoop! Thunder and blazes—ouch—dash it—gosh all firelocks?" and danced around for two or three moments before the piece of hot iron he had sat down on dropped from beneath his coat tail to the sidewalk and the bystanders found out the cause of his apparent lunacy.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

State or Local Civil Authorities Calling for United States Troops as a Posse Comitatus.

1st. (See Scott's Military Dictionary, page 466). A Sheriff or Marshal, for the purpose of keeping the peace and pursuing felons, may command all the people of his county to attend him, which is called the posse comitatus, or power of the county.

Can U. S. troops be employed as posse comitatus? Their service does not give them residence in the county where stationed. (Ib. p. 467).

In cases where it is lawful for the President to call forth the militia, he may employ the land or naval forces of the United States. (Ib. p. 131).

It is only when obstructions to the laws are too formidable to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial procedure, that the President is authorized to use military force. (Ib. p. 432).

No civil officer should call for U. S. troops until he is convinced that such a measure is necessary. (Ib. p. 280).

In calling for troops he should have the sanction of the State and general Government.

If there is no time to wait for such sanction, the call must be made on the highest officer in command of troops, giving him all the particulars for the necessity, &c. (Ib. p. 281).

The civil officer has no authority in directing military operations.

The commanding officer alone has authority to determine the number of troops to be employed.

Should any case occur, which admits of no delay, civil and military officers must then act according to the emergency and to the best of their judgment.

The tendency of States is to restrict the authority of the general Government over the internal affairs of the people of the States. (Ib. p. 229).

On all occasions when troops are employed in restoring or maintaining public order among their fellow citizens, the use of fire-arms, is obviously attended with loss of life or limb to private individuals; and for these consequences, a military man may be called to stand at the bar of a criminal court. If the homicide was necessary for securing the execution of the laws then it is justifiable, otherwise it is murder. (Ib. p. p. 264, 265).

A soldier, has by law, deadly weapons put into his hands, to be employed not only in defense of his life when attacked, but in support of the execution of the laws, and in defense of the property of the United States, and the liberty of any citizen, he doubtless may use the weapons, not only when his own life is danger, but also when there is imminent danger that he may by violence be disabled to execute his trust, without resorting to the use of those weapons; but when the life of the soldier is exposed to no danger, to make use of mortal weapons, which may destroy life, it is impossible to expect any countenance to, or shelter for, the inhuman act.

Troops to fire on a mob without sufficient cause or justification, would be murder. (Ib. p. 267).

Troops to fire on any one, unless necessary for the safety of their trust, even though orders be given to do so, would be murder. (Ib. p, 268).

A single sentinel aiming his loaded rifle at a mob, and threatening to fire upon them if they approach the place for the defense of which he may be placed on duty, may succeed by the terror thus created, though at great risk to himself; if after the announcement of his intentions the mob were to press forward, he would be justified at law in firing at them upon his own responsibility. (Ib. p. 269).

Would not the presence of a large force of United States troops, often prevent blood shed?

The right of U. S. troops to interfere in quelling a felonious riot, whether with or without superior military orders, or the direction of a civil magistrate, is quite clear, and beyond the possibility of mistake. (Ib, p. 270).

Military men have failed in their duty through excess of caution.

If the mob were committing a felony, and could not be prevented from so doing by other means, the military might, and ought to be ordered to fire upon them.

Every individual (soldiers included) may lawfully interfere to suppress a riot, prevent acts of felony, treason, and rebellion. Not only is he authorized to interfere for such purpose, but it is his duty to do so; and if called upon by a magistrate, he is punishable in case of refusal. (Ib. p. 272).

Every one is justified in doing what is necessary for the faithful discharge of the duties annexed to his office.

All persons (soldiers included) who assist in the suppression of mobs are to be considered acting as duty required.

It would be the height of imprudence to intrude with military force, except upon the requisition of a magistrate, unless in those cases where the civil power is obviously overcome, or on the point of being overcome, by the mob. When the magistrate has charged the military officer with the duty of suppressing a riot, the execution of that duty is wholly confided to the judgment and skill of the military officer, who thence-forward acts independently of the magistrate until the service required is fully performed. (Ib. p. 273).

The magistrate cannot dictate to the officer the mode of executing the duty; and an officer would (Ib. p. 274) desert his duty if he submitted to receive any such orders from the magistrate.

Neither is it necessary for the magistrate to accompany the officer in the execution of his duty.

A military officer may act without the authority of a magistrate, if he chooses to take the responsibility; (Ib. p. 275) and he may be assured that whatever is honestly done by him in the execution of that object, will be supported and justified by the common law. The law acknowledges no destinction in this respect between the soldier and the citizen.

Where danger is pressing and immediate, and from the circumstances of the case no opportunity is offered of obtaining a requisition from the proper authorities, the military like the citizens, not only may, but are bound to do their utmost, of their own authority, to prevent the perpetration of outrage, to put down riot and tumult, and to preserve the the lives and property of the people. (Ib. p. 276).

A military officer refusing or failing, on a proper occasion, to bring into action against a mob, the forces under his command, would be guilty of an indictable offense at common law, and might be prosecuted accordingly for breach of duty, independent of his liability to military censure.

The commanding officer alone is responsible with respect to the requisition of a magistrate, its terms, grounds, or sufficiency; the enlisted soldier has no knowledge of them. The orders of the commanding officer which they are bound to obey, and not permitted to canvass, are obligatory on them; and for its sufficiencp they are not responsible.

Soldiers are employed not to subvert, but to preserve the laws, (Ib. p. 277).

More forbearance is expected from regular soldiers than from citizens. If a soldier fires without orders from his proper officer, (Ib. p. 279) he is guilty of murder. (Ib. p. 278).

[NOTE:—The foregoing is mostly all from English decisions].

Are they sufficient for U. S. troops to be governed by?

2d. (See Kauty, Custom of Service, paragraph 739). It is apparent, that it is intended that U. S. troops shall aid and assist to maintain the local law, and it is made the commanding officer's duty to do so.

Does this only apply when military men are accused by local or State law?

3rd. (See Scott's Analytical Digest of the Military Laws of U. S., Note 15, p. 362). The obligation of the military, in common with all citizens, to obey the summons of a Sheriff, must be held subordinate to their paramount duty as members of a permanent military body. Hence the troops can act only in their proper organized capacity under their officers, and in obedience to the immediate orders of those officers. The officer commanding troops summoned to the aid of a Sheriff must also judge for himself, and upon his own official responsibility, whether the service required of him is lawful and necessarry, and compatible with the proper discharge of his ordinary military duties, and must limit his action absolutely to proper aid in execution of the lawful precept exhibited to him by the Sheriff.

If time will permit, every demand from a civil officer for military aid, should be forwarded to the President for his orders; and in all cases the highest commander whose orders can be given in time to meet the emergency, will alone assume the responsibility of action. By a timely disposition of troops where there is reason to apprehend a necessity for their use, and by their passive interposition between hostile parties, danger of collision may be averted. (Sec. of War to Gen. Meade, Aug. 25, 1868).

"As it is generally lawful and proper for the military commander to send his troops wherever he may apprehend a necessity for use: it is much better thus to prevent such necessity than to wait until it has actually arisen." (Sec. of War to Gen. Buchanan, Sept. 14, 1868).

"The Supreme Court has held that as the duties of a commanding officer were imposed by the Government, under conditions of grave responsibility, and necessarily involved the exercise of discretionary powers, he could not be made amenable for injuries resulting from actions within his authority, that were not influenced by malice, corruption, or cruelty; and, hence, (Ib. p. 378) that in any action against him the burden of proof, that the officer exceeds his authority, is upon the party complaining; the rule of law being that the acts of public officers on public matters within their jurisdiction, and where they have discretionary powers, are to be presumed legal till shown by others to be unjustifiable: it is not enough to show that he committed an error of judgment, but it must have been a malicious and willful error." January term, 1849, Wilkes vs. Dinsman. (Ib. p. 377, Note d).

If the power exercised by a commanding officer has been within the limits of a discretion confided to him by law, his orders would justify the subordinate, even if the commander had abused his powers, or acted from improper motives; but where no discretionary power exists in the commander, the order, if illegal does not justify the subordinate; and "upon principle, independent of the weight of judicial decisions, it can never be maintained that a military officer can justify himself for doing an unlawful act, by producing the order of his superior. The order may palliate but it cannot justify." (Mitchell vs. Harmony, 13 Howard 134). "Except in a plain case of excess of authority, a military subordinate should be held excused, in law, for acts done in obedience to the orders of his commanding officer. The rule is applicable, whether the legality of the order depends upon a fact or upon a question of law." United States Circuit Court, Ninth Circuit, District of Cal., February term, 1867, McCall vs. McDowell.

Is it the duty of a commanding officer to assist local State officers, when called upon by them in emergencies?

Is it discretionary with a commanding officer to assist or not when so called upon?

4th. (See California Penal Codes, Sec. 150). Every male person above eighteen years of age who neglects or refuses to join the posse comitatus or power of the county, * * * to aid and assist in preventing any breach of the peace, or the commission of any criminal offence, being thereto lawfully required by any Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff, Coroner, Constable, Judge or Justice of the Peace, or other officer concerned in the administration of justice, is punishable by fine of not less than fifty nor more than one thousand dollars.

Does that include U. S. troops?

Homicide is justifiable when committed by public officers and those acting by their command in their aid and assistance, when necessarily committed in overcoming actual resistance to the discharge of any legal duty. (Ib. Sec. 196).

Homicide is also justifiable when committed by any person, in lawfully suppressing any riot, or in lawfully keeping and preserving the peace. (Ib. Sec. 197).

The homicide appearing to be justifiable or excusable, the person indicted must, upon his trial, be fully acquitted and discharged. (Ib. Sec. 199).

Would U. S. troops come under these sections, if they were to assist said local officers, without orders from the President?

A person must not be held to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence at or absence from a place while employed in the service of the United States. A person must not be considered to have gained a residence in any precinct into which he comes for temporary purposes merely, without the intention of making such precinct his home. (Ib. Political Code Sec. 1239)

5th. (See U. S. Revised Statutes, Sec. 1289). When an officer is honorably discharged from the service, he shall be allowed transportation and subsistence from the place of his discharge to the place of his residence at the time of his appointment, or to the place of his original muster into the service.

When a soldier is so discharged he has the same allowances, to the place of his enlistment into the service. (Ib. Sec. 1290).

Does not the above, State and U. S. laws, prove that neither officers nor men of the regular army, are residents of place where serving?

In case of an insurrection in any State against the Government thereof, it shall be lawful for the President, on application of the Legislature of such State, or of the Executive, when the Legislature cannot be convened, to employ the land and naval forces of the United States, to suppress such insurrection. (Ib. Sec. 5297).

Whenever insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combinations, or conspiracies in any State so obstructs or hinders the execution of the laws thereof, * * * and the constituted authorities of such State are unable to protect the people in their rights * * * it shall be lawful for the President, and it shall be his duty, to take such measures, by the employment of the land and naval forces of the U. S, or by other means, as he may deem necessary, for the suppression of such insurrection, domestic violence, or combinations. (Ib. Sec. 5299).

Ibid. Several sections give authority to to certain United States civil officials to call upon U. S. troops for aid and assistance.

OPINION.

From a careful study of the foregoing authorities, I am clearly of the opinion.

1st. That U. S. troops can be employed as a posse comitatus to preserve the peace, when requested by State or local civil officers. The U. S. troops are not part of the strength of the county.

2d. A large force of U. S. troops should always be taken on such occasions, so as to create awe in the rioters.

3rd. It is discretionary with the commanding officer of U. S. troops, whether or no he shall assist State or local civil officers, in cases of emergency.

4th. No State or local officers can command or give any order to U. S. troops; they may request assistance in cases of necessity.

5th. If U. S. troops were so to assist, and in the execution of preserving the laws of the State, they were to take life or limb of the rioters, it would be justifiable homicide.

6th. If time will permit, Sec. 5297. Revised Statutes of the United States should be complied with.

7th. When time will not permit of complying with Sec. 5297 Ibid, the State or local civil officer, should lay the facts before the commanding officer of U. S. troops and request assistance.

8th. If the commanding officer decides to render the assistance requested, he must go himself in command, and assume all the responsibility; he cannot delegate this duty to a subordinate.

9th. After the Sheriff has informed the commanding officer of his inability to preserve the peace, he, the commanding officer, shall assume supreme control, until order is restored.

10th. Great discretion must be exercised by the commanding officer of U. S. troops, as they should have more forbearance than undisciplined citizens.

11th. But when the necessity arrives, no feelings of compunction should prevent the commanding officer from giving the command to fire upon the mob, and so continuing to fire until the rioters or mob disperse.

12th. I believe the foregoing to be the intentions of the U. S. and State laws.

13th. No blank cartridges are issued to United States troops.

He Didn't Care.

A newly married couple from somewhere down the Lansing Road, says The Detroit Free Press, were riding in a Grand River car yesterday, and the groom insisted on holding the bride's hand in his big red paw. "Oh! no, don't!" she said as she jerked her hand away. "Oh! luv, let me hold yer hand jest for ten minutes!" he pleaded. "Shoo! don't you see they are looking at us!" she whispered. "They are, eh?" he replied, looking up and down the car. "Wall, now, I'm going to put my right arm right round ye, and if any fellow in the car dares to spit crooked, I'll get up and mop the floor with him until I wear him up to his shoulder-blades!" His arm encircled her, and the other passengers looked as solemn as if they were on their way home from a funeral.

—The loss of a set of false teeth did not prevent a marriage at Cairo. The bride tied a handkerchief over her mouth and told the minister to "goth aheath"

—A French paper says: "It is a sad blow at American morals when a great temperance orator like Mr. Beecherlee is charged with stealing seven hogs and a calf." Let the great trial go on.

Matters Political.

Three political State Conventions are to takt place in this State in June. The Republicons open the ball on the 10th of that month, then comes the Independents on the 22d and the Democrats on the 29th. The games will all be made prior to July 4th, so as not to divert the patriotic minds from a full observance of the duties of that great day. Here, in Inyo, so little is said about it, one would think our people are all so fastidiously virtuous, not a man thinks of plunging into the filthy pool. But appearances are deceptive. No doubt a few can be found to sacrifice themselves when the call is made, and especially among the old stagers. There is scarce a chance for more than two parties in this county. P. S. We have to offer a slight amendment to the above: See the call for the meeting of the Democratic County Central Committee.

The Little Orphan's Dream.

Some little time since, Geo. Stinson & Co., art publishers of Portland, Maine, placed us under obligations for the "Little Orphan's Dream," which is said to be, and which we believe is the finest steel engraving ever published in this country. We would certainly attempt to convey some idea of its beauties, both of design and exicution, if we thought we could do it justice, but feeling sure we would fail in that we can only say it is a large picture worthy of a place in anybody's parlor. Some of the leading New York papers devoted nearly a column in its description. It is sold, through agents, only, by subscription, at $5 per copy for the proofs.

A Brave Book.

As perhaps most of our lady readers will remember the above was the heading of an advertisement lately published by us, of Mrs. E. B. Duffey's book "What Women should know." From an examination of the book itself we can say with truth that we think it is just what its title indicates. It is a work for all to read with profit. Its authoress is evidently not only a talented, but a good and brave woman and knows what she talks about. Address A. L Bancroft & Co., San Francisco.

Diminutive Rhody.

The recent election in Rhode Island resulting in no choice of Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, it will devolve upon the Legislature to make the choice. There was no election in some districts for members of the Legislature, and their election has to be run over. The liquor question is causing excitement that disturbs the politics of that State.

The Great Trial.

The Beecher-Tilton trial still drags its slow length along, and is likely to do so for some weeks to come. The great preacher's evidence in his own behalf seems to explain things very satisfactorily for his friends and the public generally, save in the matter of so much promiscuous kissing and weeping and "true inwardnesses."

Resigned.

Treasurer Spinner, whose curious autograph everybody who ever saw a greenback ought to know, has resigned as Treasurer of the United States. The President in accepting it, expresses the warmest regards for him personally, and a high appreciation of his probity and patrotism.

Comes Again.

State Senator George W. Cassidy has returned to Eureka and resumed his duties as editor-in chief of that excellent journal. This may account for the re-appearance of The Sentinel on our table, where, for some weeks past it has been remarkably scarce.

Wined and Dined.

General Crook, the Indian fighter who has been transferred from Arizona to command of the Platte division, when at San Francisco lately, was dined in grand style at the Lick House by the prominent citizens, and was fully deserving the honors he received.

Alida.

Travis & Pittman and Frank Higgs have leased Gen. Page's mill at Alida. Travis, who is now in town, goes to Alida on Monday to make necessary business arrangements. These parties have purchased the celebrated Death Valley mine, and will undoubtedly show a splendid Summer's work.—[Borax Miner, April 17.]

The Gold Hill News.

This paper, which we consider the best and by far the honestest of the "bonanza dailies," lately attained its 24th year, and grows better as it grows older.

THE RAILROAD.

The Los Angeles Herald and Express both contain very encouraging and important news in reference to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. According to a letter received by Mr. Temple from Colonel Crawford, then in Washington, the latter had had a full and very satisfactory conference with Senator Jones on the affairs of the road. The Senator said he was determined to push the work straight along, and as rapidly as possible, until it is completed clear to this place. The matter of a through road to connect with the Union Pacific was contemplated, but is left as an after consideration. And here, we will remark, we have wondered that the Union Pacific company has never turned their attention to this route as a means of securing an outlet of their own on the Pacific instead of that via the Columbia river, the one for which they have been working for a long time, and now with prospects of success, mainly to command an independent position with regard to the Central. This route certainly presents superior advantages and inducements in various ways, and whether with or without the backing of the Union Pacific, will very soon give that road the independent route to a Pacific port it has so long desired, and encounter the opposition of the Central accordingly.

The fear of this opposition and the final absorption by the grasping Central of our road has done more to prevent people locally interested from risking their money in its support than all other circumstances combined. And now the most encouraging item of news in relation to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad is, not so much that Crawford is purchasing and paying the cash for vast quantities of iron and rolling stock for it, which he is doing, as that Jones, Parke and their associates pledge themselves to the people of Los Angeles and all interested that they will fulfill their bond with them to the very letter, and their investment will be respected in good faith. They indignantly deny that they ever for a moment contemplated a sale of the road to the Central. As Parke and Jones now both hold important positions in the directory of the Panama Steamship company, and still greater mining and landed interests on the line of this road, their own safety compels them to maintain this faith, even if a lack of honor might permit them to do otherwise.

Meantime active work goes steadily along on the road all the way from Santa Monica to the Cajon Pass, and it is now deemed a certainty that it will be but a few weeks or months at the furthest till the cars are spinning over that entire distance, and but a few months till they do the same to this very town. So mote it be.

PACIFIC COASTERS.

The Apaches are killing and robbing the citizens of Sonora again.

Rumor says that Senator Jones has made extensive mining purchases at Wallapai, Arizona

The Marysville and Downieville stage, with a full load of passengers, was stopped and robbed of $5,500 by a single highwayman on the 14th instant.

The trotting horse, Sam Purdy, has been sold by J. R. Keene to G. W. Kellogg for $50,000—the highest price ever paid for a horse in Americ. This horse was bred in this State.

The other day Los Angeles voted $12,000 for school improvements.

The fruit men of Nevada county estimate the loss of fruit in the State by the late frost at $2,000,000.

The Odd Fellows, of Sacramento, have appointed Committees to furnish information, and relief, if necessary, to immigrants from the East who are members of the order.

The trial of John D. Lee and W. H. Dame, at Salt Lake, for being connected with the Mountain Meadow massacre, has been postponed to the next term of Court to enable the prosecution to bring on certain witnesses.

The widow of the late Horace Hawes, of San Jose, is said to be Nevada Governor Bradley's intended.

Some Eastern correspondents want to know how many lawyers there are in Los Angeles, and the question staggers The Herald's arithmetic.

Sunday School Convention.

The annual convention of the California State Sunday School Association will be held this year at Sacramento, May 18, 19, and 20. Much care is being taken by the State Committee to make the exercises of practical value to Sunday School workers. Every Sunday School in the State is desired to elect and send delegates. Programmes can be obtained by addressing A. H. Post, State Secretary, San Francisco.

Have Disappeared.

The long icicles that formed between the telegraph poles, at the sag in the wire, the other day during the time the tearful Beecher-Tilton dispatches passed, thawed loose and dropped off. We saw a few romantic old maids gathering them as relics, and some other persons of a more practical turn of mind picked up some fragments in the vain hope that they might prove of use as a wash for freckles.—[Enterprise.

Belleville Bullion.

The first shipment of bullion from the Northern Belle mill was made on last Tuesday morning. There were six bars, averaging a little more than 900 fine. The total value of the shipment was about $9,200.—[Borax Miner.

Our Darwin Letter.

DARWIN, April 18.

MESSRS. EDS:—After an absence of some weeks from this place (enjoying the comforts of the metrop. of the county), I returned on Wednesday, and find things going ahead in a spirited style.

MINING MATTERS.

The Defiance, under the workmanship of that old bed-rock pounder, Geo. Snow, has struck the back ledge, at least, a large body of ledge matter, and is now working through the ledge. The Christmas Gift has three shafts down to the depth of 50 feet, and in each is to be seen a five-foot body of very fine hard ore. The miners feel sanguine that they have located in and say they defy any camp to show as much ore on the dumps, for the amount of work done, as is to be seen here in Coso district. The mines are showing up well, and on every dump may be seen a large pile of first class ore. It does seem strange that some one does not put up

A CUSTOM FURNACE.

I am certain he could get more ore than he could possibly smelt, and at a reasonable figure. As for the facilities for working, they are better than any other smelting district I have ever seen—and that is every one of note on the coast. Plenty of wood but ten miles off, and down grade the entire distance to haul it. As for

WATER,

Mr. Beaudry told me yesterday that he could furnish 150,000 gallons any time there is a demand for that quantity. And, in this connection, let me say that his first load of pipe arrived last night. Laying it will begin immediately. He has the ditch for it completed to within plowing distance of town, and can finish it in two days.

Our camp was under considerable excitement over the escape of Tom Star, the man who killed Jas. Russell, but has now subsided. Lafe Gill was appointed Constable, and had him in charge when he made his escape. Quite a number of shots were fired at him as he was running, and before he abandoned his horse to take to the rocks A party came in from Little Lake yesterday, and says Star got to that point on Friday, the 16th, crazy. That he was duly cared for and after recovering his faculties, told

THE FOLLOWING STORY:

He had come from Panamint; had got lost, and had had no water for three days. Also, that he had fallen in with Chaves, who had a band of fourteen men; that they had "gone through" him, but found him broke; asked if he knew any of the party, and telling them no, they let him go; that Chaves had a 16-shooter, two pistols and large field glass; that the whole party were similarly armed and well mounted. Chaves refused to give him a drink of water from his canteen; he had suffered a thousand deaths during those three days.

The party who gave me this information says he he knows Star, and is certain it was he, although Star told him his name was Jim Adams.

SIN MAS' DEPUTY.

Our Ores.

[From The Panamint News, April 17.]

For a long time we have been satisfied that our mines were producing a better class of ores than many gave them credit for. The concentrators, which have been pretty thoroughly tested, have demonstrated this fact. Instead of finding so large a per cent. of copper and other mineral, denominated "base," it is shown that there is a much greater amount of chlorides than was supposed in those ores which were not put down in the list of free milling, and they are of so high a grade that it is believed that a resort to roasting and finally making the silver bullion right here, will prove more profitable than shipping the concentrations to Swansea. In the absence of chlorides concentration does well enough, perhaps, but there is so little specific gravity as between the chlorides and the gangue, it is almost impossible to save the chlorides—the richest part of the ore. By preparing the ore in a roasting furnace the chlorides are saved by amalgamation, and where there is so little per cent. of copper and other base metals, it will be found more profitable to destroy them entirely. We have some ores carrying very little chlorides, and with these the concentrating process may be adopted. At anyrate we are very glad the Company have determined upon the introduction of the Stetefeldt, as the shipment of bullion will advertise our mines to a degree beyond anything that can be devised.

Senator Stewart and some of his principal helps, have gone below to send up one if not two, Stetefeldt furnaces.

Lusus Naturæ.

We were recently shown by A. Bowen, on Tule river, a sample of one of dame nature's many freaks. It was a young chicken with four legs, four wings, two necks, one head and two bodies. The two bodies were joined together by the breast bones apparently being grown together. In a standing position they faced each other. Nature certainly over-reached herself in this instance, and as a consequence the unfortunates died.—[Visalia Delta.

A Chance for Women.

James Gamble, General Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has assumed supervision of the Department of Telegraphy connected with Heald's Business College of San Francisco, in order to educate pupils, in a practical and scientific manner, for service in the company. Selections will be made from the most advanced of the pupils to fill all vacancies occurring on the lines of the Company.

Letter From Round Valley.

ROUND VALLEY, April 15, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—The weather in this part has been cold and blustry. Spiteful old Boreas, knowing that we, sturdy Grangers, are anxious to seed the earth, must howl and kick up heap o' dust. However, farming goes bravely on in spite of high winds and "dull times in Panamint."

TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.

Mr. J. Rowan has sold his farm of 160 acres to Mr. Merriman, in order to more effectually co-operate with his brother in the lumber businesss, both of whom are experienced saw-mill men. Also Mr. Laird has disposed of his farm of 320 acres. to Messrs. Horton & Parsons, who have already turned under many an acre of its green sod. Mr. Bowman has quit agriculture, having sold his farm to Mr. Frank Ganter. Mr. B. does not retire from his profession—will continue to manipulate the persuading goad stick, whoa hush Buck! Mr. Jasper Shiply has also sold his entire land estate to an (ig?) noble red man.

ERRORS TYPO AND TOPOGRAPHICAL.

It annoys editors to request them to correct insignificant mistakes. Trying on a clean shirt or fight a duel may be preferable. However, the school children of Round Valley, do read THE INYO INDEPENDENT, and those ambitious youths who take away the prizes want you and everybody to know their proper names. One little fairy says she don't like the sobriquet "Silis," (as reported) but she bears the pretty name of Lizie Olds. The other young maiden's name is Charlotte, not "Charley," both of whom captured first and second prizes The topographical error occurred in placing the Wiswall-Lewis tournament in R. V. Would yees villify our character? The deed was done on Bishop, 'ave ye plaze, among the Grangers and Vigilantes. That's funny! A more peaceable community than R. V. does not exists this side the "Summer Land." Not even a decent dog fight can be scared up. No events worth chronicling. No scandal! What a dearth of news! A conscientious, regular correspondent of a newspaper would be tempted here to commit suicide in order to furnish his favorite paper with a fresh sensational item. Mr. Snob desires an

"OPINION."

The genial face of Assessor Dillon was lately beaming among us, and being that he is competent to form an "opinion as is an opinion," he gave us one relative to Piute District, which is to the effect that a small slice of that promising camp is in Inyo, but the greater portion of it being in Mono county. We beg leave also to inform the half million [million if you please. EDS] readers of THE INDEPENDENT, that even a small portion of the north end of Round Valley is in Mono—just a small patch sufficient to raise a dozen watermelons—hence Mono can boast of its mineral and agricultural resources.

DOWN IN MACK'S DEEP SHAFT.

How often have we heard the remark made that the ledges of Hot Spring Hill were "too thin"—of the "case knife strata"—would soon "peter out," etc. Such is the fact respecting many of the so called "ledges," but a visit to Mr. Mack's celebrated Commanche mine, is sufficient to convince the most skeptical that said ledge is a true fissure vein. At the instigation of the efficient foreman, we descended the shaft. Stopping occasionally on the ladder to examine fine, prominent chimneys of rich ore, Mr J. would laughingly ask, "Are you deep enough—are you tired?" "No," was the reply, "let's touch bottom." "The deeper the better, and the more of it," said he. The shaft is down 450 feet. At the bottom a drift has been started, nearly the whole width of which shows rich mineral—very little waste rock between the walls. The hanging wall is smooth as glass, and the vein pitches nearly perpendicular. The mine is well opened and timbered, and a vast amount of ore could be taken out. providing the hoisting apparatus were more complete, a deficiency which Mr. Mack calculates to speedily supply.

When scratching diligently many years go, on those hills. we thought that a strata three or four inches thick of rich, black mineral—"the pure quill," was an "awful" big thing; but what think ye, wise ones, of a vein several feet wide, of the same quality and at a depth of 450 feet! This is no exaggerated statement; ye disbelievers go and see for yourselves, and be convinced that real a bonanza has appeared in Hot Spring Hills.

Having dug considerably in mines, prior to learning how to dig potatoes, this hombre felt anxious, that day, to put in a few licks on the "big bonanza," as Dr. Griswold appropriately calls it, but feeling rather giddy, asked the foreman the cause of it. "Ah," he replied, "the lager beer man, Kremcow, the fat, jovial, big bellied man was down here yesterday (it being St. Patrick's day) and of course the miners tapped him." All correct. It was "foosht rat."

Some Words for Spellers.

[From The Inter-Ocean.]

The following test was printed in this paper some time ago, previous to the first appearance of the spelling epidemic. It is reproduced now, by request. It is cleverly arranged, with a view to presenting as many difficult words as possible in as small a space as possible, and there are probably few even "gifted" spellers, who can write the whole from dictation without some blunder: The most skillful gauger I ever knew was a maligned cobbler, armed with a poniard, who drove a peddler's wagon, using a mullein stalk as an instrument of coercion to tyrannize over his pony shod with calks. He was a Galilean Sadducee, and he had a phthisicky catarrh, diptheria, and the billious intermittent erysipelas. A certain Sibyl, with the sobriquet of "Gypsy," went into ecstasies of cachinnation at seeing him measure a bushel of pease, and separate saccharine tomatoes from a heap of peeled potatoes, without dyeing or singeing the ignitible queue which he wore or becoming paralyzed with a hemorrhage. Lifting her eyes to the ceiling of the cupola of the Capitol to conceal her unparalleled embarrassment, making a rough courtesy, and not harassing him with mystifying, rarefying, and stupefying innuendoes, she gave him a couch, a bouquet of lilies, mignonette and fuchsias, a treatise on mnemonics, a copy of the Apocrypha in hieroglyphics, daguerreotypes of Mendelssohn and Kosciusko, a kaleidoscope, a dram phial of inecacuanha, a teaspoonful of naphtha for delible purposes, a ferrule, a clarionet, some licorice, a surcingle, a carnelian of symmetrical proportions, a chronometer with a movable balance-wheel, a box of dominoes, and a catechism. The gauger, who was also a trafficking rectifier and parishioner of mine, preferring a woollen surtout (this choice was referable to a vacillating, occasionally recurring idiosyncrasy), wofully uttered this apophthegm: "Life is checkered; heresy and villany shall be punished" The sibyl apologizingly answered: "There is a ratably an allegeable difference between a conferrable elipsis and trisyllable diæresis." We replied in trochees, not impugning her suspicion

A CARD.

TO THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING BEEN A sufferer for over twelve years from a terrible disease of my ears, that was pronounced by several of the best physicians of San Francisco and Los Angeles, as a congenial ulceration of the membrana tympani, and having tried innumerable plans of medical treatment, which I have endured with the greatest patience and hope for recovery, but without any benefit, on the contrary I was desperate of being absolutely deaf, and was suffering an intense pain in my head, with a very annoying suppuration that at times made me despise my own existence But now, what an immense difference! Since I came in Lone Pine I consulted with Dr. P. G. Gelcich, our gentlemany and worthy County Physician, who pronounced my case very hard but curable, and he did cure me in a few months by his assiduous and kind treatment, and I feel entirely in a new existence for which I shall be eternally indebted to my benefactor, and I take this opportunity to tender him publicly this acknowledgement of my heartiest gratitude and wishes for his prosperity, hoping that all the afflicted of our community will avail themselves of his kind, intelligent and efficient treatment

Toll Road to Death Valley.

People who want to visit the famous Death Valley proper, can now do so with all the comforts of wheeled vehicles. Hunter, Porter and John Shepherd have completed an excellent road from the Panamint connection, over the hills to Rose Spring District (where the two first named have some mines that will doubtless make them a fortune some of these days), thence into Death Valley. After reaching the valley there are no obstacles on the face of the country to prevent loaded teams going direct to Lida Valley, and all that region, and at the same time save about one hundred miles travel over any other route from the south. An application for the establishment of toll rates on this road is to be made at the next meeting of the Supervisors.

Didn't See Him at All.

It turns out that the elder Hitchcock was altogether mistaken about his having seen Welch as mentioned last week. Still he was quite convinced he had "seed him," and, the Sheriff being absent, so notified Under Sheriff Swearingen, who, in less then an hour's time was on the track, and following it up several miles on the road towards the San Carlos mill, and long enough to find out to a certainty that the supposed Welch, was none other than a jolly raftsman on his way to bring down another section of his stranded raft. And that is all there is about Welch having been seen, or heard of in these parts.

The Law in Relation to It.

On the first page of this issue will be found a very complete brief, by Captain Macgowan, in relation to the laws governing a military posse comitatus. This has been called out by reason of some differences of opinion in regard to a commanding officer's duty, with respect to civil matters in certain recent local occurrences, but will be found applicable and pertinent in all such more national in character. So far as our knowledge extends it is the most complete and best substantiated document of the kind extant.

Where the Error Was.

A gentleman, the father of several interesting children, called on a lady here the other day just after the cold snap. The destruction of the fruit prospect was remarked. Then, the lady observing her visitor looking at her little child, thought to inquire after the welfare of his own, saying, "are your little ones doing well?" "Well" said he with the fruit trees in his mind, "I have hopes the most of them will live, but I noticed that a few were frozen when I was among them the last time!"

That Shinplaster.

We have received two solutions of the shinplaster compound interest problem, one by "Average Scholar," of Irving School District, the other by a scholar nearer at home, who seems to average just the same. The proposition was, substantially, what would be the amount, interest and principal, of our $30 Continental Shinplaster, dated May 10, 1775, at six per cent compounded semi-annually, till May 10, 1875? The answer is, $11,080 67x.

The Cerro Gordo School.

We hear that this school up there in the shadows of the furnace smoke, Miss Rose Eudey, teacher, is flourishing remarkably well. There are about 17 pupils attending. There is no public school house, but the Cerro Gordoites are bound to have one, and not let the school languish for want of funds either—in a short time, the other day, something near $1,000 cash was subscribed by a few toward those purposes.

Camp Burnt.

The high winds the other day, blew fire from where J. R. Turner, of George's Creek, had been cooking into his camp or house, causing its complete destruction together with everything it contained. It is quite a severe loss to him, though in actual dollars and cents the total does not foot up high into the hundreds. He was away from home at the time.

Transposed.

By a misreading of copy, the fare and time figures of the Southern Stage Line to Los Angeles, became transposed in the advertisement. The time is 48 hours and the fare $40 instead of the reverse—a clear saving of $8 cash and a gain of eight hours more riding.

Fixed Up.

Jo. Ferabach has supplied his brewery with entirely new machinery and fixtures, and renovated and fixed up his rooms generally so that all favoring him with a call will find accommodations and everything else of the best.

Corralled.

Sheriff Moore received a notification from the Sheriff of Kern county to the effect that Tom Star, the slayer of Russell was then in his hands. On receipt, Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore started immediately to Kern to bring Star over.

Officers Needed.

It seems that Lone Pine has neither a Justice of the Peace or Constable residing there at this time, both of which are needed, to judge by the Chinaman's distress, as stated thus by a correspondent:

"This morning one of our long tailed inhabitants accosted me with: "Wats 'em name, policeman, all same ketch 'em teif," and I was sorry to tell him "me no got 'em." Then he wanted a Justice of the Peace; had to tell him, "me no got 'em Justice too." Then that Chinaman switched his tail and set his foot on the floor frantically, and said with a swear "wat for I pay $15, $20 for taxes every year?" We told him "you bet." Then he said, "'spose him killie me no got 'em police, no got 'em Justice too, all same, son of [a female dog] run away;" we said, "yes very sad but true," and as he went his way he talked very fast in an unknown tongue, we guess he was praying for "Melican man" who supplied him with the article he paid taxes for. Not only the Chinaman, but all law abiding tax paying citizens would like one or both of the above mentioned officers in Lone Pine."

The only way to obtain the appointment of the desired officers, is to name them in a petition and send it up to the Board of Supervisors who meet in regular session a week from next Monday. The matter, in that case, will be attended at once, without doubt.

Road Completed.

John Shepherd has completed the toll road from the foot of the Lake, via Darwin and the new survey, through to the foot of Panamint Canyon, and it is now said to be a splendid road for any kind of teams. Shepherd did most of the work with his Indians, under command of Captain George, and we are told that the way the Captain and his men slashed sage brush, and made rocks and dirt move, could not be surpassed by any equal number of white men that ever made road for wages. The heavy freight teams and stage to and from Panamint and the railroad now pass through Shepherds Canyon on this road, the same canyon which a few months since, caused so many people to have colicky spasms because of its badness. Toll gates will not be established on this route for a few weeks yet.

Pine Mountain.

Broder, Moffat & Co., have the machinery for their furnace at Pine Mountain now on the road, and intend to have it in operation at the earliest possible moment. There was one circumstance, however, which, it was thought, would effectually put a stop to this part of the programme. This was that some miners over at Pine Mountain had jumped the furnace site, and if it turned out that it was done to obtain a piece for it from Broder's supposed necessities, the furnace would not be built at all, as he, John Broder, don't believe in being imposed on and won't stand it. But we hear that that was not the object and that it is all right.

May Pic Nic.

Mr. Shepherd informs us that his fine place at George's Creek, is at the disposal of May Day pic-nickers, a number of whom, from this place, contemplate availing themselves of the opportunity. So far as now known nothing but a free and easy pic nic is to be undertaken. In other words, everybody is at liberty to go and enjoy himself, herself, and itself, as best suits him, her and itself, without expectation of any organized effort. A band of music, however, will be on the grounds, no unlooked for adverse circumstances interfering.

Personal.

W. J., better known as Billy Lake, having spent several business months in Panamint returns here with a view of rehabitation....Judge Arick also of Panamint paid this place another professional call this week....Mrs. P. Reddy started on her trip to the East Wednesday. Her worser half accompanied her as far as Bishop, where he has some legal business to attend to.

Held to Answer.

Francisco Cortez, brought before Justice Schalten on a charge of being one of the two parties who robbed and tied Major Henning at the Toll house last week, tried hard to prove an alibi but failed, and being positively identified as one of the robbers, was held to answer.

Paper Hanging

Wm. Goodman, now at Panamint, requests us to state to all those needing work done in his line, that he will be here for that purpose by the 1st of May. He is one of the best paper hangers and upholsters we know of.

Shooting at Panamint—Man Killed.

Judge Arick came in from Panamin a few days since and informed us that just as the stage was starting, two men, whose names we give below, got to shooting at each other, and from the appearance of at least one of them he thought he had received a death wound. The News of the 17th gives the following account of it, but, as we since learn McKinney died in a few hours after that issue was published:

Yesterday morning, about six o'clock, just previous to the departure of the stage, Robert McKinney and James Bruce met in front of the Panamint Bank, where the stage starts from, and some words having passed between them relative to a gun which had been borrowed from a third party, they proceeded to settle the matter with revolvers. Some seven or eight shots were fired, the result of which is that McKinney received four wounds and Bruce two. McKinney's wounds are located as follows: one in the right hip, being the most serious; one in the right wrist, fracturing some of the small bones; one in the right arm, above the elbow, a flesh wound; and one through the calf of the right leg. Dr. Wells attended upon McKinney and extracted the ball from the hip. His patient is doing well. He says the greatest danger to be apprehended is from tetanus, one of the nerves of the arm being much injured. Bruce's wounds are: one in left fore-arm, just above the wrist, ranging upward and causing a compound comminuted fracture; one just above the hip, ranging upward through the flesh and muscles. Dr Bicknell attends Bruce, and extracted the ball from near the surface in the back. His patient, also, is doing well How it is possible that both escaped being killed, we cannot see, as we understand they were but a few feet apart, when firing commenced.

Discharged.

Saturday last, Deputy Sheriff Dad Moore brought in one Juan Trujero, charged with being one of the Little Lake gang of robbers. The examination was concluded Wednesday and the prisoner discharged, he proving conclusively that at the time of the robbery and for several days before and after he was at a ranch north of this place and could not possibly have been at Little Lake. It was also proven that in personal appearance he so nearly resembles one of the parties known to belong to the gang as to be readily mistaken by a person not intimately acquainted with him, and hence the error in identification.

Origin of the Moquis.

Most of the Pueblo tribes call themselves the descendents of Montezuma—the Moquis, however, have a quite different story of their origin. They believe in a great Father living where the sun rises; and in a great Mother, whose home is where the sun goes down. The Father is the father of evil, war, pestilence and famine; but from the Mother are all joys, peace, plenty, and health. In the beginning, of time the Mother produced from her western home, nine races of men in the following primary forms: First, the Deer race; second, the Sand race; third, the Water race; fourth, the Bear race; fifth, the Hare race; sixth, the Prairie-wolf race; seventh, the Rattle snake race; eighth, the Tobacco-plant race; and ninth, the Reed-grass race All these the Mother placed respectively on the spots where their villages now stand, and transformed them into the men who built the present Pueblos. These race distinctions are still sharply kept up; for they are believed to be realities, not only of the past and present, but also of the future; every man when he dies shall be resolved into his primeval form; shall wave in the grass, or drift in the sand, or prowl on this prairie as in the beginning.—[From advance sheets of Bancroft's Native Races, vol. III (mythology).

Water Blockade.

The bridge across Green River, on the Union Pacific Railroad, has been burned. Orders have been promulgated not to sell any tickets east of that point until further notice. In addition to this the Bitter Creek country is flooded so as to render it impassable for trains.

State Line District Mining Laws.

At a meeting of the miners of Deep Springs, at the house of N. Gilbert on the 27th of March, A. D. 1875, G. W. Smalley was chosen Chairman, and J. R. Westervill, Secretary.

The object of the meeting as stated by Mr. Harbin, was for the formation of a new district, to embrace certain territory within which mines exist but not included in any other organized district at this time. Therefore,

Resolved, That the new mining district shall be known as the STATE LINE DISTRICT, and bounded as follows: On the East by Sylvania District; on the South by Waucoba; on the West by Pine Mountain; on the North by Cottonwood Creek and the State line.

Resolved, That officers of the district shall consist of a Recorder, whose duty shall be to keep a suitable set of books, open to the inspection of the miners of said district; to record the transactions of meetings; to record all claims in the order of their filings; to visit in person any mines when called on, for which he shall receive one dollar for each claim recorded, and fifty cents for each mile traveled in going to view any mine, except for such mines as have been previously recorded in other district records; such claims to be recorded free; the Recorder shall be the judge of the assessment work to be done according to United States Mining laws.

Resolved, That the Recorder's office shall, until the next meeting, be kept at the house of W. Gilbert; shall continue in office for one year or until his successor shall be elected and qualified; and it shall be his duty to post notices for ten days previous to the expiration of the year, calling for an election of officers.

Resolved, That we recognize the United States Mining laws as just and equitable, and hereby adopt the same for the government of this district.

On motion, M. J. Graham was duly elected Recorder for the ensuing year.

G. W. SMALLEY, President.
J. R. WESTERVILLE, Secretary.

Lower California.

We incline to the belief that men who are now living will see the day when the traveler may start at the northern line of Mono county, and traverse the whole tremendous stretch of country to the end of the Peninsula of Lower California, without being able to get out of the clatter of a quartz mill. Of course such a belief seems extravagant, but we have no doubt whatever of its being realized. We think that we see signs that indicate that development in Lower California is already about to set in, and this arises mainly through the agency of one of the most indomitable men in California, and a Catholic priests at that, Father Ubach, of San Diego. This gentleman has a parish which would contain many a metropolitan see. He is sent for on sick calls to go down to Lower California, frequently a distance of 400 miles, and has been making these extensive trips for years. This has given him an opportunity of thoroughly seeing the mineral resources of Lower California. He has always taken an interest in the poor people of that part of Mexico, who, shut out from intercourse with the outside world to a considerable extent, certainly need a persevering and sagacious friend. They have found all that in Father Ubach. He marked the richness of the mines near San Rafael, one of which La Trinidad, yielded $80,000 in pockets in merely sinking the shaft; and, through his efforts, the attention of outside capitalists is being called to the thorough merits of this mining section. One ledge of surprising richness, near San Rafael, has been incorporated. It is divided into twenty six thousand shares of $50 each. The officers are mainly San Diegans, and persons of high character, comprising such men as Dr. Wm. A. Winder and District Attorney Hotchkiss. We welcome any movement which has a tendency to direct to Lower California the attention which the mineral riches of that fine territory deserve and we would suggest to those capitalists who have not chosen to invest in Panamint, Bear Valley, or other of the mining district immediately tributary to Los Angeles that, before they go north again, they should investigate the Lower California gold mines a little. It can do no harm and may be the means of fortune to many of them.—[Los Angeles Express, April 13.

The Papal Muddle Increasing.

A special dispatch to The Herald by cable from Paris says that a war is again threatened involving Russia, Italy, Germany and France. Bismarck is the promoter of this war, and the Papacy is the pretext. Many signs indicate that the illustrious Chancellor's intellect, long the wonder and admiration of the world, has become enfeebled, and in his fractiousness, he is even seeking battle with the gigantic shadows of a sick brain. The aggressive attitude of Prussia was doubtless real, and was the cause of the conference at Venice. There is also a strong belief that Russia, alarmed for the safety of her Baltic provinces, will look with favor upon the project of a new quadruple alliance, including France, against Prussia.

Cast Them Out. If there are any diseases which deserve the name demoniac, Dyspepsia is one of them. It racks and tears the system like a veritable fiend, and renders life a burden. The medicines of the dispensary will not expel it. Cast it out with DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS. There is no form of indigestion or liver complaint that can withstand this potent tonic and alterative. How They Do It.

A Washington special gives the following details of the frauds recently brought to light in the contract bureau of the Postoffice Department. The detection was effected by a clerk in the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, who has charge of the Arkansas and Texas routes. Kettle, who is chief conspirator, has succeeded in obtaining sixty contracts for carrying mail in Texas, and has been so successful in corrupting clerks in the department that he became bold and assumed that all the clerks were corrupt and that they all could be used for his purposes. The lettings in which frauds occured, commence on the 1st of next July. Those for Texas had been awarded. Of these, Kettle and a man named Trouplin, of Michigan, succeeded by fraud in obtainiug sixty. His success made him bold and he had the presumption to approach Sickles, the clerk, with the offer of a liberal bribe to secure the latter. Sickles, who proved to be a rare exception among clerks, exposed Kettle's overtures. Three weeks ago the Postmaster General received a letter saying that frauds were being committed and that a counterfeit stamp of the Department was being used; that by a connivance of clerks, the figures of the lowest bids were obtained by outsiders; that by means of counterfeited stamps, bids could be slipped in which never came before the officers. An examination was made of Kettle's bids. The marks on bids did not seem to be entirely regular, and the official stamp was submitted to the Treasury experts, who pronounced it genuine. The Postoffice Department was not satisfied. Special agents were charged with the case. Baltimore engravers were visited and a clue was found which led a Washington engraver, Lutz, to confess that he made the counterfeit for three men. Those three men afterward proved to be Kettles, the contractor, and Channel and Ratherothe, employees of the Department.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Hutch's Canyon.

Wm. Adams's writes to The Eureka Sentinel, April 20, as follows.

EDS. SENTINEL:—Thinking perhaps that a few lines from an old resident of Eureka in relation to matters in this vicinity might not prove uninteresting to some of your readers, I concluded to send you a short communication. The location of our mine and mill is in what is known as Hutch's Canyon, in Esmeralda county, about three miles from the California line, and at the north end of the White mountains, twenty-five miles west of Columbus, and fifteen miles east of Benton, which is in Mono county, California. A. E. Davis, of Eureka; John Howell, our present superintendent; some San Francisco parties, and myself, purchased the property a few months ago. We think we have made a good purchase. We have an abundance of wood and water, and a very rich mine. The mine is about three miles from the mill and at the upper end of the same canyon, with a good, easy grade. We have twenty five men at work on the road, which will soon be completed, and we expect to have the mill running in about six weeks. Our mine is not very large; the vein is only about three feet wide, but the ore is very heavy, being all metal with but little quartz. There is probably as much ore, in weight, coming out of this three foot vein as from a quartz vein double that width. It is a combination of iron, zinc, lead and silver, and will work from three to four hundred dollars per ton. I am confident that this White mountain range is one of the best mineral belts on the coast. For fifty or sixty miles south of here, along the range, claims are being opened, all of which look well, and it is the best opening for prospectors that I know of. Wood is abundant, and there is plenty of water all along the mountains. We get at a cheap rate plenty of hay, grain, flour, etc., from Owens Valley, which is about forty miles south of here, with a good road. The climate is about the same as in Eureka. I intend to prospect here this Summer, as I am confident there will be plenty of good ledges found during the season. There are valuable mines at Benton, and the two mills of five and ten stamps are kept busily at work crushing the high grade ore. I intend to remain here most of the season, but will visit Eureka before next Fall.

Coso.

There is considerable talk about the new district of Coso, situated a short distance from Panamint, and several gentlemen of this city contemplate starting for there in a few days. The report of the discovery of new diggings is to the prospector like the sound of the trumpet to the war horse; and tell an old forty-niner that a new camp has been found, and he commences rolling up his blankets forthwith. This morning we heard one of this genus expressing his intention to start at an early day. Said he: "I've been to every excitement from Gold Lake to South Mountain, and I've mined in every camp from 'Tuwollomy' to Frazer River. Since I come over on this side of the mountains I've traveled over every mountain and desert plum to Death Valley. I haven't nevet got rich a'prospectin'; but I know there is good diggins in the country, and I'm a'going to keep on a huntin' 'em till the 'old man' calls me home to glory. I haint got much money for travelin' expenses; but I can live on the smell of a dish-rag for nine days, and I'm a'goin' to start afoot at sun-up next Monday mornin'." The distance from here to Coso is over 250 miles, over a barren and desolate country most of the way; but that will not deter this or any other old prospector from starting to go there "afoot and alone."—[Reese River Reveille.

In a Happy Condition.

There are at present but very few non-producers in this community. While just now there is no great rush in business generally, all, or nearly so, produce sufficient to pay expenses. This is a happy condition of things during the prevalence of dull times, and different to what is generally the case in mining towns during a depression of business.—[Belmont Courier.

Giant Powder.

[From The Mining and Scientific Press.]

The jury in the inquest relative to the recent explosion ot Rincon Point went out to the Giant Powder Works on Monday last to witness a series of experiments with the powder. The Mayor, members of the Board of Supervisors, and a number of other gentlemen were present. The manufacturers desired to prove to the jury and others that the powder would not explode by contact with fire, but would simply burn up, unless the proper agents were used to explode it. Giant powder, it may be stated, is a compound of nitroglycerine and infusorial earth. The particles of glycerine are absorbed in the earth, as if by a sponge, and when ignition takes place, either by loose powder or powder cartridged, a continuous and very hot flame is the result, until all is consumed but never an explosion.

The experiments were carried on a few hundred yards from the Superintendent's residence, in the sand hills on the other side of the Golden Gate Park. Boxes of Nos. 1 and 2 powder were carried to the spot, as well as a few boxes of cartridges and some percussion caps. Out of a box of fifty pounds of No. 1 giant powder Mr. Varney dug a half spadefull, and set it off with a piece of punk. It simply burned up. The box of powder from which it was taken was then ignited with a fuse, but no cap, and it burned up in a fierce, broad mass of flame. A box of ordinary cartridges was then burned in a similar manner, but the combustion in this case was less rapid, as the powder was packed together and burned slower. One of the cartridges being cut in two, one portion was burned loosely, and the other was placed over a heavy beam of wood, with a percussion cap inserted. At last came the shock and a shower of dust. The four ounces of dynamite shatterred the beam into fine splinters. A 50-pound box of cartridges was now placed under an upright pole triangle, and a weight of 100 pounds was allowed to descend upon it from a height of thirty or forty feet. Except in smashing the box and bursting the cartridges, it had no effect. This shows that simple percussion will not ignite the powder. A fire being lighted, two shovelsful of loose powder were thrown into the flames; and then cartridges were thrown in, and they all burned up. A 50-pound can of No. 2 powder was then ignited. Its conflagration lasted a couple of minutes. Then five pounds of No. 1 powder were packed tightly in a box and placed among the live embers. The powder simply burned away.

A quantity of loose giant powder was then taken in a box and set on fire. When half consumed a bucket of water was thrown upon it and the fire quenched. The remaining half of the powder, now saturated with water, was then exploded with a cap. This experiment astonished all present, who had no idea such a thing could be done.

Experiments were now made to demonstrate the extraordinary strength of the powder. Into a mortar with a bore for a 32-pound ball a quarter of an ounce of ordinary black blasting powder was inserted as a charge. It sent the ball a distance of precisely nine feet. The same quantity of No. 2 giant powder hurled the ball in a graceful arch a distance of 443 feet; and a quarter ounce of No. 1 powder sent the ball 45 or 50 feet further. A quarter ounce was also tried without a cap. Not enough powder was developed to send the ball out of the mortar. Thirty grammes (almost an ounce) of blasting powder was next applied to discharging a 32-pound ball vertically. This was done by placing the ball in a cavity in the upper side of a solid iron surface. When placed in this hollow the ball was not quite half imbedded, and rested directly on the powder. The ball did not rise at all. With the same quantity of giant powder it shot straight upward about 1,000 feet. Half a pound of powder, looking like ordinary damp sawdust, was poured loosely on an 8x8 stick of timber, without being tamped or otherwise confined, and when exploded with a cap, it cut the heavy timber clean in two without splintering it at all.

Those present were thoroughly convinced that when caps are not stored beside the powder, though it is inflammable and gives out a strong heat, it is an explosive not at all dangerous to handle. They were also convinced that if 150 pounds of powder had exploded at Rincon Point it would not have left a vestige of Hathaway's warehouse, or even the Marine hospital. The general opinion is that when the powder in the box on the floor caught on fire from the sparks from Clark's pipe, the blaze set fire to the fuse which was affixed to the cartridge on the table, and thereby exploded only the 15 pound cartridge, which caused the damage.

Facts About the Bible.

A prisoner condemned to solitary confinement obtained a copy of the Bible, and, by three years careful study, obtained the following facts:

The Bible contains 5,686,489 letters, 773,602 words; 31,173 verses, 1,189 chapters, and 66 books.

The word "and" occurs 46,377 times.

The word Lord occurs 1,855 times.

The word reverend occurs but once, which is in the 9th verse of the 11th Psalm.

The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter J.

The finest chapter to read is the 19th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

A Lunatic's Fatal Freak.

An atrocious tragedy was committed in Toquerville, Utah, which for some unaccountable reason was not reported by telegraph. Richard Fryer, who has lately labored under the hallucination that he was a second Jesus Christ, entered his house in the evening, and found Thomas Batty, a friend of the family, lighting a fire in the grate. Believing that Batty was an emissary of the devil, who was trying to burn his premises, the lunatic rushed for a pistol and shot him through the head. Mrs. Fryer, paralyzed with fear, crouched in a corner, and was shot through the heart by her demoniac husband. The next thing he did was to go to a cradle where his infant child was lying asleep, and deliberrtely blow its brains out. This was the crowning act of the almost unparalleled tragedy. Fryer then sallied forth into the village, armed with a revolver and a gun, proclaiming himself the Lord, and saying that he had slain the devil, and several of his imps. The Sheriff, being unable to arrest Fryer, and fearing that still other lives might be sacrificed, killed him with a shot from a navy revolver Batty, Mrs. Fryer, the babe and the slayer of them, all were buried on St Patrick's day from the same house.—[Rocky Mountain News.

Matrimony in America.

In ideal matrimony the husband and wife are not absorbed into each other by any means. They remain totally separate individuals, with their own aims, desires, and loves, but blending as it were into one whenever union is necessary. The wife in this marriage is no slave or toy of her husband, but his equal, companion, friend, and adviser, inspirer, stimulator, and even agitator. Him she meets with open, frank eyes, not in the barbarous fashion of Western Europe abashed and submissive; and him she leads on to a higher and nobler life, not administering to his base material comforts and ease, but urging him ever onward and upward. The ideal husband, knowing her to be his equal in every respect, mental and moral, naturally regards her with the deeper veneration that she is physically his inferior. This ideal condition, according to the account of many foreign observers, actually exists somewhere in this country,—where we have never seen stated, but probably not in Connecticut, Indiana or Illinois.—[The Galaxy.

SOME MORE OF IT.

The Bakersfield Courier once more rushes to the defence of J. Earl and favors us with a few more senseless remarks as to the origin and motives of our "charges against Josiah Earl seriously affecting his character as a member in high position in the order of Grangers and as an honest and upright member of society." Referring to the latter clause we reply, that taking the old settlers, or those who have had any opportunity to know, or any intimate acquaintances with that distinguished trickster, that there is not one in all Inyo county to-day that does not believe just what we said, and moreover, there are plenty of them who will swear that such is their belief. In regard to the first clause, we would direct the attention of our amiable nib to certain transactions now going on at Grange Headquarters, San Francisco, and also invite his close analysis of those documents and resolutions to which he refers as being so conclusively contradictary to our position. No equal number of resolution ever drawn up could more effectually evade any expression or endorsement of the man's character, before he became a Granger, or what, judged therefrom, might be favorably guaranteed hereafter, than did those. True, they say they don't think Mr. Earl intended any wrong in the telegram forgery, but that expression of belief was predicated on the "High Grange" authority of two men associated in the same office, and to some extent in the same objects with Mr. Earl, and about neither of whom does any one here know any more than just what they say of themselves and for themselves, and their chum, which last was too limited and too negative in character to entitle it to any other consideration than as a mere inquiry marking the line of the desired answer. But as the local Grange here, did not feel called upon to treat the charges against Earl in any other than their strictest Grange application ignoring the very issue which, coming from those who know him best, must make or break him as worthy of public confidence, they, by such quasi endorsement to their brethern elsewhere say he is the right man in the right place, and are yet willing to share the responsibility of keeping him there. That is a family matter with which we shall not for the present at least, interfere. But as The Courier tells its readers that, "this consists of flat contradictions of THE INDEPENDENT'S charges by leading Grangers of San Francisco, and resolutions of confidence expressed by the Independence Grange on the 10th ultimo,' etc., we would suggest that it devote a little space, as did we, to the reproduction of those "incontrovertible documentary evidences," just to show its readers that it can misrepresent facts just as of yore.

The Pope's Troubles.

Speaking of the old story, lately revived, that the Pope is considering the possibility of his finally taking up his residence in the United States, a New York paper facetiously remarks: "The Pope's American friends, if they are wise, will warn the Holy Father against becoming an immigrant to this country. In the antique seclusion of the Vatican he is a spiritual potentate, a successor of St. Peter, and an infallible sovereign of the Church. Here he would have to pay a poll tax, give his name to the street directory compilers, be interviewd by reporters, read the Beecher trial, and —horrible thought—possibly be defendant in legal proceedings himself. What sanctity, divinty or infallibility could hold out against such levelling influences as these? Think of the Pope receiving proposals from an American 'lecture bureau,' or neglecting to have his sidewalk cleaned, or being nominated for Congress, or riding in a street car. His Holiness will shun the disillusion which awaits him here."

Horses Shot.

A disease recently appeared among the government horses at Benicia, which was pronounced glanders by the Veterinary Surgeon. It spread to such an extent it became necessary to shoot them. The Vallejo Chronicle says:

"Thirty-seven horses and three mules were shot at the Benecia Barracks Saturday. Five or six diseased horses had also been shot at times previous to Saturday. But there is no likelihood that the disorder can be arrested until every horse owned by the Government at the barracks has been killed, after which there will be a grand holocaust of stables, saddles, bridles, drinking buckets, clothes, blankets, and even spurs worn by the cavalrymen. Then no more horses will be brought to the barracks for a year, by which time it is believed the contagion will have vanished.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE WITH THEM.

The rush of immigration to this State this Spring, is unprecedented since the days of "'49 and the Spring of '50," and in some respects, is becoming alarming. These immigrants are mostly very poor, coming as they do from regions of grasshopper devastation; the question is, What is to be done with them? Where are they to find immediate employment to keep soul and body together until able to maintain themselves in homes of their own? The State needs all these and thousands more, but unfortunately, not so many utterly dependent ones all at once. Even if such were able to buy a garden spot from some of the big land grabbers with which the State is cursed, it takes months to put it in a condition to give a living in return and how, without money, credit or chance to obtain other employment, are they to live in the meantime? Without undertaking to solve this problem we will, as briefly as may be, state what inducements for such are offered by Inyo county.

This is both an agricultural and a mining county. Its prospects in the latter are not excelled by an equal area if any portion of the Pacific Coast. Its agricultural capabilities are quite extensive, and capable, under certain conditions, of supporting a population many times greater than is now found here. But a very small portion of the fertile lands of this valley is under cultivation or even claimed. But they are two reasons why no material increase of our agricultural population should be encouraged. The first is that the cheaply available water for irrigating purposes, is almost entirely taken up and in use. This obstacle in the way of a large addition to our farming population can, however, be easily removed and enough water obtained to open ten times as many farms, and just as productive, many of them, as we now have. But it will take capital (not a large amount), to accomplish this. The second, and the most important reason may be understood from this: The market for farm produce is exclusively local, and in the main, probably ever must be. At present it is limited and the supply about equals the demand, therefore an increase of the supply would be disastrous to the whole producing interest, and of itself, perhaps would not proportionately aid in the development of the market, i. e., the mining interest upon which every other in this county is dependent.

We can hardly speak in terms too extravagant of the great number and value of our mines. If they were but half developed or but half in a productive shape, we think it quite probable this county alone, with its farms, mines and shops, could give profitable employment to a very large proportion, possibly all of these immigrants. But they are not developed and it takes both time and money to make even a start, toward their development. An influx of a large number of poor immigrants, if it did not retard, will not of itself much promote the development of the only interest that can insure them a prosperous living. Everything is contingent upon the progress made in mining operations, and that progress again is to be worked out only by capital which comes in but slowly—too slow to make it advisable to encourage a large number of poor immigrants, whether miners or farmers or mechanics' to come here and wait. Inyo, quite as much as any other county in the State wants, and in due time, can accommodate, a vast increase in population, and now will extend a welcome and equal chances to all who come, but if it should come, and out of proportion to the advance in mining interests, which requires other capital than mere stout arms, it would be more of a misfortune all around than an advantage to any.

But we will undertake to say that, as things now are without reference to other advancement that must naturally follow, there is an opening now for a number of different kinds of tradesmen, carpenters and blacksmiths perhaps excepted, and some additional agriculturists to do very well. In this town, for instance, we need a tinner, shoe and harness maker, jeweller, etc., and some or all of same in other places in the county. Such could make a fair living with a very good chance of doing much more than that. Besides these, a well fitted machine shop and small foundry at some central point would command quite an extensive business, taking the county through. A few industrious farmers can also find homes and make a good living. The inducements for prospectors is certainly better now than they have ever been heretofore, first, because the chances for good strikes are just as good and numerous as could reasonably be desired, and secondly, the advance of the railroad is certain to make them all available much sooner, according to the prospect as viewed by capitalists. But, to sum up in a few words, we need capital for our mines before we need any more population without capital.

NOT A PLEASANT STATE OF AFFAIRS.

There exists throughout the county an unusual amount of dissatisfaction at the way county affairs are managed. This applies particularly to criminal matters. It was without doubt, the prime cause of the late Vigilante manifestations. It is figured up that some seventy murders and homicides of various degrees of criminality have disgraced the annals of this county, and of the entire number of participants, but one has been convicted and none at all brought to final justice. Parties, otherwise willing, say they won't turn out to capture robbers and murderers, now having things their own way in this county, simply because their labor will be in vain as regards any chances of bringing them to condign punishment according to law. Tax payers, and some of our heaviest too, say they will pay no more taxes in a county that can afford them no better protection either for life or property. They will sacrifice their property if need be, and quit it for good, unless more energy, ability and determination is shown in the execution of the law. If the duly elected officers cannot themselves capture bold marauders ranging the country at will, then let them summon a force strong enough to do it, and the county foot the bills. Private citizens cannot turn out as thief and murderer takers, each on his own responsibility and expense. They feel that if they did and were successful they must take the law in their own hands and visit summary punishment on the guilty ones, or no punishment, nothing but expense, will follow.

The foregoing is a fair statement of public sentiment as it reaches us. It touches both the Sheriff and District Attorney, possibly the Judiciary. It is unfortunate and to a great degree an underserved condemnation. There is a condition of affairs existing here very far from pleasant or satisfactory, but the share of it for which these officers are held responsible is very much exaggerated. The responsibility must be divided up among the people—grand juries, petit juries and unwilling or contumacious witnesses. The law requires lawful proof of the commission of crimes, before it visits punishment, and this kind of proof is much oftener wanting than most people think. Still, it is too often that justice is cheated by the easy admission of the merest technicalities, and between the two, people lose confidence either in the law or its executors, often unjustly enough as regards the latter.

But setting these matters all aside it is manifest some active, energetic field work must be done to route or capture these bandits, or traveling people will have to hold up, stop business, and thus starve them out. This last has its odjections, and it would be better for the Sheriff to organize a sufficient force and strain his authority to the utmost in respect to the cost, and take the field and keep it till the business is consummated. He is the officer to whom the people look, and who is charged with the responsibility. This county had better incur a debt of $10,000 or more, if necessary, rather than permit these things to continue as they now are doing. If the Board of Supervisors can do so, without a violation of their oath of office, let them offer a reward for the capture and conviction of these scoundrels.

Piute District.

BISHOP CREEK, April 18.

MESSRS. EDS:—I purpose giving you a short generalization of my recent observations in Piute Mining District.

This district, lying mostly in the northeastern corner of Mono county, California, is quite well supplied with pinyon and cedar timber. Also, there are several nice, small streams of pure water running in the various canyons, and a goodly number of perennial springs interspersed among the hills.

The stratification is quite regular, and there are many quartz ledges. These leads are generally well defined, which with the regularity of the accompanying strata, indicates that they are true fissure veins.

Many of these leads are large—from 9 to 20 feet wide and some of them seem to extend from the low foot-hills, at an angle with the main line of the Inyo (White Mountain) range, half way to the summit, and their concomitant formation, to where it is hidden from mortals gaze, under the virgin snows that now adorn that region at present.

Nearly all the leads bear metals—abundance of iron and copper pyrites—with indications of the ores improving as depth from the surface is attained. And, if the precious metals are present in moderate quantities per ton, only part of what the ores appear to contain, considering the number, size and continuity of the leads, the yield must aggregate in an amount approaching immensity.

It would be well for mining experts and capitalists to take a look at this promising locality, and not devote all their time and attention to one or two places in our extensive mineral region, but "spread themselves," so as not to be too great respecters of persons.

PERAMBULATOR.

EARL, THE "GRANGER."

[From The San Francisco Chronicle, April 21.]

On Saturday last a large number of our prominent merchants, capitalists and landowners in this city received the following circular:

GRANGERS' AND PEOPLES' UNION EMIGRANT AID SOCIETY, J. Earl, General Agent, No. 415 California and No. 6 Leidersdorf streets.

SAN FRANCISCO (Cal.), April 17, 1875.

Dear Sir: So large a number of emigrants are arriving, and so many more are preparing to come, that it becomes absolutely necessary that prompt action should be had to provide them with information, work and land. In view of perfecting an organization for this purpose, please favor us with your presence and advice at our office, Grange Headquarters, No. 6 Leidersdorf street, on Monday, the 19th day of April, at 2 P. M., prompt.

Among those invited to be present are W. C. Ralston, I. Freidlander, W. S. Chapman, G. D. Roberts, Leland Stanford, D. D. Colton, M. S. Latham, Captain H. Y Fasterby, W. H. Park, W. B. Carr, E. V. Joice, J. B. Haggin, Lloyd Tevis, Colonel Hollister and many others.

Respectfully yours, J. EARL.

In accordance with this call, a large number of gentlemen responded, and active measures to carry out the objects proposed were decided upon. The Mayor of the city presided, and was appointed one of a Committee to take subscriptions and otherwise prosecute the work.

Mr. Earl, as the agent of the Grangers' Emigration Bureau, made a speech sketching a vast emigration scheme, advocating the city's taking the Mechanics' Pavilion or some other spacious building and fitting it up as a boarding house where the new comers could be temporarily cared for. He thought, also, that the organization should adopt a colossal plan of irrigation, move to cut up the vast tracts of land in the interior and parcel them out to the settler. * * Mr. Crocker thought should take the lead in looking out for the emigrants, and most of the speakers took the same view. Throughout the whole meeting, than which none more important for the interests of the State has ever been held, the gentlemen, with hardly an exception, addressed Mr. Earl as representing the Grangers as head of their Emigration Bureau. It is well at the beginning of such a vast and substantial movement as this promises to be that Mr. Earl's real relations to the Grangers of the State should be fully understood. He has taken the responsibility upon his own shoulders of calling together the wealthiest men of the State, and tacitly assuring them of the support of the Grangers in any scheme of emigration which may be agreed upon. The Committee appointed to take subscriptions may be already at work, and those giving will do so under the belief that the Grangers of the State are at the back of Mr. Earl. It happens, unfortuneately, there is no such an organization as the officially recognized by the Patrons of Husbandry of this State. The cause of its springing so suddenly into existence may be surmised from the following resolutions, adopted by the Executive Committee of the State Grange at a meeting held on the 7th instant, and which has heretofore been withheld from publication:

GRANGERS' AND PEOPLES' UNION EMIGRANT AID SOCIETY

WHEREAS, An impression prevails among Patrons that the Emigrant Aid Union was formed under the direction, and is under the control of the Executive Committee of the State Grange; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the State Grange have no connection whatever with the Emigrant Aid Bureau, established by the Committee on Emigration appointed at the last annual meeting of the State Grange, and are therefore not responsible in any way for the acts of said Bureau. W. H. BAXTER, Secretary, Cal. State Grange, P. of H.

The Committee on Emigration is at present engaged in examining into serious charges against Mr. Earl, which have come from various parts of the State through interior newspapers and other sources. The gentleman admits that he receives no salary for his labors on behalf of the Grangers. He does not conceal that he acts as a real estate agent—receiving liberal commissions therefor—for parties owning large tracts of land, but maintains that his financial interests does not influence his advice to emigrants regarding the sections most advantageous to settlers. [What follows is but a synopsis of The Chronicle's lengthy but interesting report, our space being too limited to give it full.—EDS. INDEPENDENT.]

This followed the subsidy dispatch given heretofore:

O. H. Kelly, Washington.—The telegram sent to Sargent last Thursday, proposing aid to the Southern Pacific Railroad, was sent without the knowledge or consent of the Executive Committee or myself. W. H. BAXTER.

On the same day this followed:

SAN FRANCISCO, January 28, 1875.

We, the undersigned, desire to state that the telegram sent to Hon. A. A. Sargant and others on Thursday, the 23d instant, was the result of a conference of a number of our Grangers at head quarters, believing it would meet the approval of all. At our suggestion it was signed.

W. H. Baxter, J. E. Earl, J. Kellogg, J. J. Gardner.

Baxter explained the little inconsistency observable in the two telegrams by showing the reporter a copy of the original of the second dispatch, which makes the matter clear. It read: "at our suggestion was signed by W. H. Baxter's assistant clerk." [As Josiah was never known to steal anything heavier than a saw-mill, is it reasonable to suppose he would thus commit both a forgery and an erasure? But his "intentions" were good!—EDS.]

The opinion held by the Executive Committee of Mr. Earl's connection with this ill-looking business is shown by another resolution, adopted by the meeting on the 7th, which also now makes its first appearance in print:

Resolved, After the considerations of the charges preferred against Josiah Earl and others for sending a dispatch to our Senators and Representatives in Congress, we find the action of Bro. Earl and others in getting up and sending the same in the name of the Executive Committee, was an error of judgment, was without their knowledge or authority, is reprehensible in the highest degree, and is unqualifiedly condemned.

Mr. Earl was not aware that the reporter was in possession of this resolution, so he asserted positively that he was backed by the Executive Committee, and was responsible to them.

A number of the leading Grangers were very solicitous to have the facts of Earl's rascalities suppressed for fear of damaging the Grangers.

The Chronicle in addition to the above and more in kind, editorially reviews the situation, pronouncing our own Josiah, who presided with such kindness over Independence Grange, an IMPOSTER! Our identical Josiah an imposter! Everybody knows he was a rascal, that he took pride therein, but who would have thought he was a nasty imposter, and that there was no such thing belonging to, or acknowleged by the Grangers as this institution he is running in their name. He is the General Agent, President, Cashier, etc., and membership combined of the "Grangers' and Peoples' Union Emigrant Aid Society." When you see Josiah you see all there is of that "Society," unless Bros. Doyle and Blanchar figure in the back office somewhere. If Josiah didn't over do everything so much he might wear a little longer among rank strangers.

Didn't Get Him.

When Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore got to Bakersfield, he found that Star had been released on habeas corpus and was gone, so he had to come back without him. Star explained that he had been under arrest at Darwin; that he had killed Russell purely in self-defense, but knowing that the Vigilantes were bound to hang somebody, he made his escape.

Cast Them Out. If there are any diseases which deserve the name demoniac, Dyspepsia is one of them. It racks and tears the system like a veritable fiend, and renders life a burden. The medicines of the Dispensary will not expel it. Cast it out with DR. WALKER'S VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS. There is no form of indigestion or liver complaint that can withstand this potent tonic and alterative. The newly discovered California roots and herbs, from which it is prepared, are of more value to mankind than all the gold of the Pacific States.

A CARD.

I, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING BEEN A sufferer for over twelve years from a terrible disease of my ears, that was pronounced by several of the best physicians of San Francisco and Los Angeles, as a congenial ulceration of the membrana tympani, and having tried innumerable plans of medical treatment, which I have endured with the greatest patience and hope for recovery, but without any benefit, on the contrary I was desperate of being absolutely deaf, and was suffering an intense pain in my head, with a very annoying suppuration that at times made me despise my own existence. But now, what an immense difference! Since I came in Lone Pine I consulted with Dr. P. G. Gelcich, our gentlemany and worthy County Physician, who pronounced my case very hard, but curable, and he did cure me in a few months by his assiduous and kind treatment, and I feel entirely in a new existence for which I shall be eternally indebted to my benefactor, and I take this opportunity to tender to him publicly this acknowledgement of my heartiest gratitude and wishes for his prosperity, hoping that all the afflicted of our community will avail themselves of his kind, intelligent and efficient treatment.

Hospital Matters.

The matter of the care of the indigent sick elsewhere than at the County Hospital and re-letting of Hospital contracts will occupy an important place in the deliberations of the Board of Supervisors the coming week. Bids are to be opened on Monday. Dr. Wells, of Panamint, will attend and propose some plan for the care of the indigent persons at that place. The doctor, has, as we have reason to know from various sources, acted the part of the good Samaritan to many such out there, and without doubt is entitled to remuneration for so doing. We are satisfied he will receive the fullest compensation the law will permit. We may say further, as our own opinion, that the Board will willingly enter into any arrangement for the care of the indigent sick at that place which will subserve the purpose without incurring risk of impositions, such as have occurred heretofore. This is the first, (regular) meeting that has taken place since any known necessity existed for such action, and that is the only reason why nothing has been done about it. Had a petition been presented at any time, asking for immediate action, there is no doubt a special meeting would have been called for the purpose. But it would be entirely contrary to usage and good policy to take such a step merely at the request of a single individual, however, responsible or reputable, unless, within the knowledge of some one or more members of the Board, an exigency required extraordinary action. As a rule, a petition signed by enough responsible citizens to give it proper weight, is essentially necessary to secure a special meeting for the transaction of any unusual matter of public interest. Otherwise, it would be possible to have such meetings, costing the county $25 or $30 for each day, every week or two, or in effect, a continual session. Dr. Wells brings a petition signed by nearly everybody in Panamint, praying an order for the care of the helpless at that place, and as before stated, it will doubtless be complied with.

Personal.

J. A. Brown, our lengthy young friend with Harris & Rhine, came in from Panamint this week, partly, as we understand it, to see if anybody had forgotten him during his several month's absence, but principally as an armed escort for Dr. Wells He was armed with a ferocious deadless, which he is satisfied, would have "gone off" quick enough if those greasers had got hold of it....Dr. J. T. Wells, late of the Navy, but now in extensive practice at Panamint, is making this place a visit. The doctor has hosts of friends at Panamint, and wherever he goes....P. Reddy and Paul Bennett, Esqs, have been up to Bishop in connection with legal and mining matters. In view of recent occurrences, we think it not out of place to mention that Mr. Reddy tells us privately he never had a pleasanter time, nor met with warmer and more general expressions of friendship and good feeling than on this occasion, and, for obvious reasons, is very much gratified thereat. Mr. Bennett paid a visit to Piute District where he and Mr. Gregg have some mining interests, but whether of much value he is not yet able to say. The ledges are very large and numerous, but whether the ore runs "high up" or "only muddlin'" is yet to be determined....D. E. Hunter, lately from the same district is favorably impressed with its prospects....V. Beaudry was here twice this week, between times having gone back to Lone Pine, intending to go Cerro Gordo on the same stage which was robbed that evening; but for some reason, concluded to return here, thereby saving the unpleasant experience of being tied up and robbed, perhaps something much more serious....V G, Thompson, of Darwin, reports affairs out there as distressingly placid.

Satisfied.

Lieut. Wotherspoon, with a small detachment, made due inquiry into the murder of the Indian at Cerro Gordo, and is satisfied that it was the work of the two Mexicans, both well known, but whose names we have forgotten. For a time the Indians were quite determined to go on the war path against the whites, but think better of it now. The Mexicans had the Indian employed in corralling some stolen cattle, but why they murdered him does not appear.

Completed.

P. P. Gerrish, contractor, has finished moving and rebuilding the Bend City bridge, and we are told it is much better as to approaches, point of location, height from the water and construction than the old one. It will be offered for acceptance at the meeting of the Board next Monday.

For Sheriff.

No candidates are prominently before the public here yet for any of the offices, but we have it from pretty good authority, that Steve Gregg will consent to run for that of Sheriff if his friends so will, as we are satisfied a vast number of them do desire. Heretofore, Steve has positively declined to take any nomination.

Gone After It.

A. B. Elder, who is a practical, well qualified furnace man, has gone to San Francisco, to purchase Broder's furnace machinery for Pine Mountain, and is to build and put it in running order. The machinery may be expected to arrive within three weeks.

Stage Robbed—More Outrages.

About 5 o'clock Wednesday evening two mounted Mexicans met the ascending stage on the "yellow grade," about two miles below Cerro Gordo, and covering Jake Chase, the driver, and Mr. Cartier, on the box with him, and the only passenger, with shotguns, ordered him to drive on to more level ground near by. Jake drove on, got there, and was told to stop. One of the Mexicans then tied both fast to the box, took about $25 from Jake and about $75 from Cartier and three of the horses. But before starting away, Rafael Dias rode up. They corralled him, horse and all, and riding off about 10 miles tied him up, with orders to keep quiet and they would come back soon and turn him loose. All they took from him was his hair rope. He soon after got loose and made his way to Lone Pine, to the relief of his friends, who had heard the news and thought he was murdered. Jake and Cartier worked and struggled and swore, a great deal, and finally got loose and went on to town, whence an Indian was despatched to this place with the news, arriving at 3 in the morning. Deputy Sheriff, W. L. Moore, finding he could not raise a party here soon after started off alone to join one from Cerro Gordo, known to be ready to start after the robbers.

According to Hoyle.

The wilds of Arkansas was eclipsed the other day, not over a hundred thousand miles from Bishop Creek. The scene occured in a Justice's Court as follows: "May it please your Honor," said one of the parties in the suit appearing as his own attorney, in concluding a long reading of law from "Olney" which had set his Honor, the Court, to dozing; "a contract is the meeting of intelligent minds. I ask your Honor if that is not law?" "Yes, yes," said the Court, suddenly waking up, "that's law according to Hoyle!" His Honor, who is of a religious turn, spent two hours in trying to explain that he meant "Olney" not "Hoyle." In the same Court an ancient limb of the law wore out the patience of the Court with his platitudes, and was ordered to sit down. The limb, ever equal to the situation, thundered out, "I am here to maintain our rights." "Sit down" said the Court. "I will not sit down; we know our rights and —" "Sit down," yelled his Honor, "or I'll knock you down." He sat down.

Shut Down.

About the 8th of April Beaudry's furnace shut down, it was generally supposed for the usual repairs. It remains shut down and is likely to for an indefinite term. The reason is the big chimney of ore in the Union is exhausted, and the mine has yielded no ore for two months past. Pending the law suit it is not deemed advisable to spend money in hunting for more ore, so every man in the mine has been discharged and all work upon it suspended. Belshaw has ore enough on his dump to keep his furnace running about four months longer. The outlook for Cerro Gordo is not pleasant just for the time being. The Union has been the main stay of this portion of the county but, should it yield no more, there are plenty of other mines on that hill quite as promising as it ever was at the same stage of development. Besides that, the Potosi tunnel goes ahead, and is bound to make big strikes.

Teaming Accident.

Yesterday a week ago, Green Hitchcock, Thos. Hill and others had quite a time of it down there at the river, near Bend City bridge. Green was crossing the new river on a temporary bridge with a six-horse team heavily loaded, when the bridge gave way, letting nearly the entire outfit into the stream. The wreck of the bridge, however, held in such a manner as to prevent horses and wagon from being washed down stream, and in course of an hour or so and a pretty hard struggle, all were gotton out without any damage to speak of. Hill, in swimming about, got chilled and came near being drowned.

The Post Contracts.

Captain Macgowan, Commanding Post, has been officially notified that the time for opening bids has, pursuant to request, been extended to May 1st—to-day. We are in receipt of the information that THE INDEPENDENT was not included among the War Department official papers in the order issued for 1874, hence it was that no advertisement could be sent us; but hereafter, the Chief Quartermaster proposes to make application for an order to publish in the local paper all such advertisement in order that all bidders may have due notification; all of which is proper and satisfactory.

Good.

A strong detachment from Co. D. Captain Macgowan himself in command, passed yesterday morning, early, going to Cerro Gordo, or somewhere down there to guard the mails. This is at the request of Postmaster Rowley. One liberal minded Cerro Gordo gentleman, has, we understand, guaranteed that the commanding officer won't have to pay the incidental expenses of the military out of his own pocket, as has been the case heretofore in such expeditions. With a strong force of citizens to cooperate it is quite likely something effective might be accomplished now. We think it likely it will be done. The troops, we learn, take 30 days' rations.

Steamer Wrecked.

The steamer Ventura struck a rock during a dense fog near Monterey on the 19th ultimo, and with the cargo, is a total loss. All the passengers, 137 in number were saved. Among Inyo shippers losers by this misfortune is Dr. Gelcich, of Lone Pine, who had on board a complete set of hospital furniture, and F. Duprat of the same place who loses quite a bill of liquors, etc., for his saloon. This INDEPENDENT firm is likely loser some stationery, but hopes to survive the loss.

Bogus Coin.

As the last camel to break the straw's back, the Inyo public are now afflicted with a considerable amount of bogus coin—$5 and $2,50 "gold" pieces. A friend down at Cerro Gordo landing sends us one of the fonmer, broken in two, which he collected from a party on the 27th April, bound for Darwin. There were four in the party, traveling with a two horse team. These coins are composed of some base metal very thinly plated with gold and to the eye, as perfect as if genuine, but, aside from light weight and lack of ring, a pin scratch is sufficient to show their baseness. We hear of them in numerous other instances, since D. P. Tarpey and others introduced them into Panamint.

Assessing.

Assessor Dillon is making good progress in his work having got through with the northern portion of the county, Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo. The list at the latter place seems discouragingly low this year; the temporary failure of the Union mine, having a depressing effect on property values of all sorts.

An Old Stager.

D. R. McKinney, better known here as "Brice" McKinney, died in Kernville a few days since.

Stage Time.

Southern stages will leave Lone Pine every alternate day, at 1 o'clock, P. M., instead of 3, A. M., as heretofore.

A Mystery Solved.

The following, addressed to Jas. E. Parker, our late junior, at Virginia City, will have a special interest to many of our readers, since it clears up a mystery as to the fate of Hahn, one of "Wheeler's Lost Guides," about whose disappearance there was much feeling and no little suspicion of foul play. As all the parties named are well known in this county, we give the letter very nearly complete:

NEWARK, WHITE PINE CO., NEV., April 4th, 1875.

JAMES E. PARKER, ESQ. — SIR:—Thinking that you, in common with the people of Inyo, are unaware of the fate of C. F. R. Hahn, the old resident of that county, I thought I would send you the following account of his disappearance and subsequent history, as I have learned it from my former and present partner, Fred Fink.

Fred. left Utah and went to the San Juan, Colorado, excitement in search of placer gold, and while in Puebla, on the Arkansas River, heard a man mention the name of a man by the name of Hahn having been killed in a drunken row on a ranch near there, a couple of weeks before; asked the man what his initials were and was told that they were "C. F. R" Fred than told the man of the disappearance, and subsequent suspicion of the people of Inyo county of the murder of Hahn. This man then told Fred that Hahn had told him the following story in relation to his departusture from the Wheeler expedition: Hahn went in search of water, as related by the members of that expedition, found the spring dry, and being afraid to return to the party with the news of no water stripped the saddle from the mule, mounted bare back—threw away some unimportant papers to further mislead any one searching for him, and struck out for Arizona; but about this time hearing of great strikes being made in Colorado, he turned for that Territory; arrived upon the Arkansas river and located a ranch; had got pretty well improved when he, as usual, got drunk and in a quarrel with his next neighbor was shot and died in a few hours afterwards. This happened a year ago the 20th of December, 1874, or in other words on the 20th of December, 1873. Fred, to be sure of his information, asked the man if he had ever heard Hahn mention Cerro Gordo, he replied that Hahn had often told him of the rich mines there, and of him being the discoverer of them, and many other things that confirmed the opinion of his being Charles Frederick Rineholt Hahn.

Fred and myself are now engaged in this place mining, and have very fair prospects. Give our respects to all our old friends in Independence. We may be back there next Winter if things turn out well with us this Summer.

A. J. CLOSE.

Letter From Cerro Gordo.

CERRO GORDO, April 27.

SUBSIDED.

MESSRS. EDS:—The late excitements which have been agitating us here for some time seem to have subsided almost entirely. The town has once more assumed its peaceful state, which was so rudely broken by the depredations of the bandits on our frontiers. Jackasses and mules once more are allowed to return to their accustomed haunts and revel amid the sagebrush and rotten stumps.

SOLDIERS.

We were quite surprised the other day to find soldiers in the camp, but soon learned that their mission was peaceful. Indeed, I believe that their presence had a salutary effect on a few of the dark skinned denizens who roam through the wilds of Cerro Gordo, at untimely hours.

FESTIVE.

A party of marriageable young ladies and gentlemen went down to the Cerro Gordo Landing, the other day for the purpose of taking a sail in the steamer and enjoying themselves as best they might. Dancing was carried on until a late hour, but the steamer not appearing the party did not realize the expectations which filled their bosoms when they left Cerro Gordo. The journey to and fro was made in a bullion wagon, and everybody seemed to be in good spirits—especially the one who waking up after an hour's sleep, found a goat in bed with him.

BUSINESS.

The Union furnace is still running and it is all that keeps the town alive.

Everything is very quiet—and I might say without much exaggeration, that if a mouse was to run across the street, the echo of his feet would attract sufficient attention to cause a pursuit of him by a crowd yearning for excitement.

IN TIME OF PEACE, ETC.

Target shooting with pistols appears to be in vogue, but not being an expert myself I will refrain from making comments on the shooting—suffice it to say for the benefit of strangers, that at a distance of 500 yards from the target, they will probably be out of immediate danger. One wag, with whose views I do not entirely coincide, avers, with much emphasis, that two yards behind the target, is amply safe, even for a poor man with a large family.

More rumors have just started into circulation (regarding robbers) but I believe the stories to be as improbable as the one the little darkey told his mother:

Cæser—"Mama, George went and bit my year."

George—"No I didn't, ma, he bit it hisself." VINDEX.

The Immigration Question.

The following communication has been called out in answer to an editorial in The Evening Bulletin, "How Shall Immigration be Guided?" It consists, in the main, of an extract from the semi-monthly circular of Charles Clayton & Co., and is worth perusal and attentive consideration:

One of those periodical excitements in regard to immigration to California is now in existence throughout the Atlantic States, and every overland train is crowded, and the indications are that there will be no falling off, but an increase. The question arises, What shall we do with them? In order that we may be able to render some assistance in answering, we respectfully solicit correspondence from the intelligent and progressive men to whom our circular is sent, setting forth the inducements offered by their particular section of the State. They will want to know whether land can be purchased in small tracts, and at about what price per acre. You understand, perhaps better than ourselves, what a new settler desires and expects, and without being interrogated, will know what other information it will be advisable to embrace in your correspondence. You are deeply interested in everything that may be means of increasing the production of your county, and to that end should render all the assistance in your power to the new comer. The question is one that will not admit of delay—one of vital importance to the State, to the immigrant and yourself. We will give general publicity to any information you may be pleased to convey.

Our intention is, if we meet with encouragement and co-operation from landed proprietors and others interested, to classify all information forwarded to our office, and place it on file for the benefit and guidance of intended settlers.

We propose doing this work gratuitously, without charge to either buyer or seller, as we are both anxious and willing to do our part in maintaining the favorable impression existing in the States in regard to California.

Resspectfully yours,

CHARLES CLAYTON & CO.,

As Usual.

The engineers of the Southern Pacific, under the order of Judge Underhill, are now engaged in laying out a town site about three miles from the corporate limits of this city. So the location of the depot is finally determined and our people feel badly. To be so near, and, yet so far from a railroad, is indeed trying to the feelings of the sensitive who have boasted with confidence that the road must pass through town. Some who were once skeptical, are now of the opinion that had the people of this place moved in concert with the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, the Southern Pacific would have treated the city of San Bernardino with more consideration. There is perhaps yet time to cooperate with the Independence road if some few of our leading citizens would move promptly in the matter.—[S. B. Cor. L. A. Herald.]

SCISSORINGTUMS.

—Common pleas—please shut the door.

—The jurors on the Tilton-Beecher trial receive the magnificent remuneration of two dollars per diem and their dinner.

—He had a jockey style of cap on, a leather band around his waist, his trouger legs tucked inside his boots and was aged 15. "Milk and spelling matches for babies," he exclaimed, curling up his upper lip; "but as for me gimme base ball!"

—A colored congregation Dayton have decided to forgive their clergyman for betting on three-card monte and losing $90 of festival money. One of the deacons remarked: "We is all human, and de game is werry exciting."

—A stingy husband accounted for all the blame of the lawlessness of his children in company by saying his wife always gave them their own way. "Poor things; it's all I have to give them," was the quick reply.

—Customer—"I want a mourning suit." Shopman—"What is the bereavement, may I ask?" Customer—"My mother-in-law." Shopman—"Mr. Brown, show the gentleman to light affliction department.

—"Augustus, dear," said she tenderly pushing him from her as the moonlight flooded the bay-window where they were standing, "I think you had better try some other hair dye; your mustache tastes like turpentine."

—The other day a postmaster, on entering his office, had his olfactory nerves disagreeably assailed. On questioning a boy in the office as to the cause, the facetious youth replied: "I don't know, sir; but perhaps the smell comes from some of the dead letters."

—A clergyman in one of our Eastern cities was met by a seedy looking man with a flask of whisky in his pocket, who inquired, "Sir is this the nearest road to the almhouse?" "No, sir," replied the clergyman, pointing to the bottle; "but that is."

—The name of Richard Atchinson receives honorable mention twice in the same issue of The Danville (Ill). Commercial. First his name appears under the heading of "Divorces Granted," and again under "Marriage Licenses." After a man has once been through the mill, he requires no such time as three weeks for courting.

—"My very d-e-e-r children," said a traveling Sunday school gimlet. "I love you so much I could talk all day to you, but time forbids. But I h-o-p-e to meet you in heaven, and then——" "I hope he won't," said a restless red-headed boy, "he'll talk us to death; won't he Jim?"

—"Hair's gettin' a little thin, sir," said the barber. "Young man," said John Henry, looking down upon him from the height of a solemn experience; "young man, when you are married you will never allude, in that thoughtlesss manner, to domestic afflictions. No; don't apologize. My feelings are blunted. But is there not some mysterious unguent—some soft, seductive compound—that makes the hair more slippery to the grasp?"

—The other day a New York lady went to pay her respects to one of the latest arrivals on the list of babyhood, when the following colloquy took place between her and the little four-year-old sister of the new comer. "I have come for that baby now," said the lady. "You can't have it," was the reply. "But I must; I came over on purpose," urged the visitor. "We can't spare it at all," persisted the child, "but I'll get a piece of paper and you can cut out a pattern."

Singularly True.

Many doctors, says The Louisville Courier-Journal, don't advertise, but whenever there is a petition to be signed and published, they are all on it with a big M. D.

A Conundrum.

What is the difference between the sun, when at its meridian height, and Henry Ward Beecher?—[Ex.

Well, we should say there was considerable difference. One is above the earth and the other is on it.—[Humboldt Register.

No Accidents.

More than a month has elapsed since a serious accident has occurred in any of the Comstock mines. It is seldom that so long a time passes without some misadventure. Proper care and safety inventions are reducing the number of accidents constantly.—[G. H. News.

Presence of Mind.

Professor Wilder, of Cornell University, gives these short rules for action in case of accident:—For dust in the eyes, avoid rubbing, dash water into them; remove cinders, etc., with the round point of a lead pencil. Remove insects from the ear by tepid water; never put a hard instrument in the ear. If an artery is cut, compress above the wound; if a vein is cut, compress below. If choked, get upon all fours, and cough. For light burns, dip the part in cold water; if the skin is destroyed, cover with varnish. Smother a fire with carpets, etc.; water will often spread burning oil, and increase the danger. Before passing through smoke, take a full breath, and then stoop low, but if carbon is suspected, walk erect. Suck poison wounds, unless your mouth is sore. Enlarge the wound, or, better, cut out the part without delay. Hold the wounded part as long as can be borne to a hot coal or end of a cigar. In case of poisoning, excite vomiting by tickling the throat, or by water and mustard. For acid poisons, give acids; in case of opium poisoning give strong coffee and keep moving. If in water, float on the back, with the nose and mouth projecting. For apoplexy, raise the head and body; for fainting, lay the person flat.

MEDICAL.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's

CALIFORNIA VINEGAR

BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Commissioner Burdett.

[From The Lyon County (Nev.) Times, April 24.]

If any Government on the face of the earth has ever been cursed with a set of such wilfully ignorant boobies as at present disgrace some of the departments at Washington, we have failed to read its history. If a citation is needed to qualify the assertion, we point to the recent decision of Commissioner Burdett, of the United States General Land Office, on the application of one Bishop, a Piute Indian, who recently applied to Register McCallum, of the Local Land Office, at Independence, California, to file a pre-emption on a tract of Government land. * * * * *

Aside from the manifest injustice, such a decision would inflict upon all Indians, of whatsoever tribe, who really have a desire to throw aside and abandon their life of a Government-fed vagrant, and adopt the mode of life adopted by the whites—the decision of Commissioner Burdett is in direct conflict with a Congressional enactment, passed at the last session, which provides that an Indian—no matter of what tribe—may dissolve his tribal relations, and by individual declaration, sever all responsible connection with his tribe. The Territorial Enterprise says that, in addition to this right, the Congressional act referred to also allows an Indian so severing his tribal relations, to draw his Government annuities just the same as though he still adhered to his tribal alliance. We do not know how this is, but presume it is the case. If it is, it is going a little too far with Government graciousness toward a vagabond and bothersome proportion of its citizens. But to virtually lock the door of civilization, as this ruling does, against the few Indians who may now, or may hereafter, desire to become peaceable and self-sustaining, would be committing a blunder that ordinary common sense would have avoided. Ever since the management of Indian affairs was taken from the control of the War Department, the whole series of experiments, looking to the mutual benefit of whites and Indians, have been a list of complete and disgraceful blunders, but not in our recollection has there ever been issued to a Department order evidencing so much stupidity as the one referred to. Commissioner Burdett "has written himself an ass."

An Austinite's Views.

A Reese River man, temporarily residing in one of the San Francisco hotels, writes to The Reveille, "Through the center of the house a shaft is sunk, and it contains a cage, in which the guests ascend and descend from the different levels. I live on the first level, and Senator Farrell lives on the third level; but you have to go through several drifts and crosscuts to get from the shaft to his stope, and he is talking of sinking a shaft down to my level. Maria has got stuck (or, as they say here "struck") after the cage, and employs the principal portion of her time in riding from cellar to garret and back. The rooms are furnished with hot and cold water and gas, and bells to summon servants, and every desire can be accommodated by a twist of the hand. The proprietor has had to put in new wires three times since I have been here."

Galena.

John Sellers came in from Fish Lake last night, and reports the discovery of an immense ledge of silver-bearing galena on Indian Creek, about three miles east of widow McAfee's farm. The discovery was made by Piutes, and quite an excitement was raised in Fish Lake when it became known. Old prospectors claim to have known for years the existence of this ledge, but the land marks had been forgotten, and many parties who have gone out to locate it have been disappointed. The Indians guided a party of Fish Lake boys to the ledge, which is in the White Mountains east of Fish Lake Valley, and we are informed that 1,500 feet of it have already been located.—[Borax Miner, April 24.

Lost in the Storm.

The Lyon County (Nev). Times details at length an interesting story of John Carling's terrible experience while lost during the storm about the 7th of April. Mr. Carling had cattle ranging in the Big Bend country, and fearing the herd would wander away during the storm and extreme cold, his brother-in-law, himself, and one other, all resident near Churchill, started on horseback to look them up and bring them in. The party traveled all day without seeing the herd and at night camped about twenty miles from Churchill. On the following morning the three started out again, in different directions, and with the understanding that they were to meet at the camp in the evening if unsuccessful. Carling did not return. The others started on his track the following day.

"On the morning of the fourth day, the searching party emerged from the mountains upon the edge of

and at a deserted cabin near Black Springs, having traveled over 200 miles. On entering they were overjoyed to find their lost comrade had recently been there, and were rewarded a few moments later by discovering both horse and rider a short distance away. Both were in a famished and almost dying condition, and had it not been for this opportune arrival of help yet another tragedy would have been added to the melancoly history of that Sahara of death. Mr. Carling was soon made comfortable with food and fire, and was able to give an account of his wanderings. After becoming and either not daring to trace his long, wearsome trail back again, or hoping to find speedier relief, he determined to pursue a straight course until he found shelter and food. But imagine his despair, as at last, after all his determined struggles and patient sufferings, he emerged from the enveloping wilderness only to find himself on the edge of Death Valley—that terrible waste of alkali plain, on whose blistered, barren surface lie bleaching the scattered bones of those who year after year have undertaken its pilgrimage. It will be remembered that a number of herders and a band of six thousand sheep, which they were attempting to drive across into the Coso country, perished on this desert last Summer. The heat at that time was most intense, and the hot winds swept the alkali waste like the burning Sorocco of the African desert, carrying death to every living thing beneath its and wings. The remains of these Mr. Carling saw, and in his faint and half delirious state what wonder if he imagined he beheld the unsepulchered host rising up before his bewildered vision!—the

with fleshless, beckoning fingers, alluring him to their fate!—the skeleton flocks capering hither and thither over the snowy expanse—skeleton horses neighing a plaintive welcome to his own jaded beast; and heard the weird melodies of the marching dead, as they sentineled their phantom herds. To attempt to cross the sixty miles of plain was to approach the deadly Upas, while to remain on its desolate confines was no less than death by starvation; and Mr. Carling was resigning himself to his fate, when the voices of his companions reached his ears. When Carling first entered the cabin he found two pieces of tallow candles which he devoured. He had despaired of ever reaching home, and taking a little piece of brown paper, in which the candles were wrapped,

HE WROTE HIS WILL,

bequeathing his property, worth $50,000, to his wife and children, and also recorded the date and circumstances of his adventure, that those who should find his body might also have a clue to its identity. Luckily for him his companions persevered in their search, his friends are spared that grief, and he lives to recount his most fortunate escape. We congratulate Mr. C. and are glad to learn that he is almost entirely recovered from the effect of his eventful trip.

Spanish Belt.

A visit to this district a few days ago satisfied us that the owners of mines in that vicinity mean business this Summer. Those not engaged in developing their mines or prospecting, are applying their energies and skill in the architectural line. "Many mansions" are in progress—done in stone—of the Doric order. Permanency seems to be the order of the day, without regard to expense. We like to see such improvements, having an idea of our own in regard to such matters. An experience of many years in new mining camps has taught us to notice some things, and among others is this, that the prospector, although he may not be aware of the fact himself, has a natural intuition as to the permanency of a new camp, and makes his improvements accordingly.—[Belmont Courier.

The Heroic Treatment.

An illustration of the power of one poison to counteract another in the human system a recent case in South Bend, Indiana, furnishes a highly important and interesting instance. Dr. Harris was called to the relief of a would-be suicide, and administered the successful antidote. The person had taken between forty and fifty grains of opium, and was last dying. He could no longer swallow, his extremities were cold and had turned black, while his respirations only numbered between six and seven to the minute. This last of itself seemed to indicate that all hope was gone, as anything less than eight respirations had heretofore been known as a sure precursor of death. As a last resort the doctor determined to try what is known as the heroic treatment, and he accordingly, with a hypodermic syringe, injected two-thirds of a drachm of nux vomica, dissolved into a teaspoonful of water, beneath the skin over the heart, stomach, spine and on each arm above the elbow, and on the calf of each leg. The quantity of nux vomica would have been the death of any well man in existence, but in antagonism to the opium, it was in this seemingly hopeless case as an agent of life, and in fifteen minutes the man was sitting up in bed, conscious, and rapidly recovering.

Another case of heroic treatment is told by The Springfield (Mass.) Republican of the way B. A. Leonard, a dumb man, residing in Southbridge, recently recovered his voice. He lost it about a year ago, while recovering from an attack of cerebro spinal meningitis, but a few mornings since he was awakened about four o'clock by a sense of oppression and faintness. He became conscious enough to understand that gas was escaping from a coal stove, and that he would soon die unless he could get fresh air; so, after many falls and tumbles he gained the outside of the door, where he fainted, but was soon aroused by the lapping and tugging of a faithful Newfoundland dog. Then the thought came to him that his wife and child were in the house, and though he had not spoken for months he called loudly for help. His cries, united with the howls the dog set up, soon roused a neighbor, to whom he told his troubles, and again fainted, and was insensible for two hours. On recovering he was unable to talk, but the doctor, on hearing the case, caught an idea, and ordered him to visit the gas house and breathe air in the purifying-room. After spending an hour and a half there he could talk in a whisper, and has since steadily regained the perfect use of his voice.

Centennial Medals.

In order to enable the public to distinguish Centennial Medals issued from the United States Mint by order of Congress, the United States Centennial Board of Finance have found it necessary to issue the following:

U. S. CENTENNIAL BOARD OF FINANCE, PHILADELPHIA, March 24, 1875.

It being deemed essential "that medals with appropriate devices, emblems and inscriptions commemorative of the Centennial Anniversary of the Declaration of Independence" should be officially issued, the Congress of the United States, by Special Act approved June 16, 1874, directed the same to "be prepared at the Mint for the Centennial Board of Finance, subject to the provisions of the fifty-second section of the Coinage Act of 1873, upon the payment of a sum not less than the cost thereof, and all the provisions, whether penal or otherwise, of said Coinage Act against the counterfeiting or imitation of coins of the United States shall apply to the medals struck and issued under the provisions of this act." These Medals have been prepared and issued, are now being sold by the Centennial Board of Finance and its agents, and the profits arising therefrom strictly applied in aid of the preparation for the celebration of the anniversary which the medals commemorate. They are the only medals relating to the great events of 1876 officially issued, and may be readily distinguished from any of the tokens styled Centennial medals and issued by private parties for their individual profit, from the fact that in addition to the design and other wording, the larger medals have stamped upon them, "Act of Congress, June, 1874," and the others "By authority of the Congress of the United States."

These official medals are of four kinds—small gilt at $1; large bronze at $2; coin silver at $3; large gilt at $5; or all enclosed in one case at $11. Cautionary notice is hereby given that the Centennial Board of Finance intends to avail itself of the protection and privilege granted by the acts of Congress above mentioned, and that the highly penal provisions for publishing, counterfeiting or imitating the authorized official medals will be strictly enforced against all infringment and violation.

JOHN WELSH,
Prest. Centennial Board of Finance
FREDERICK FRALEY, Secretary.

How to Make Them.

White rolls should be mixed and set to rise the evening before, and made into rolls half an hour before baking in the morning. A pint of warm milk fresh from the cow, with salt, and a half a cup of yeast stirred up quite stiff with flour, and molded until it springs under the touch of the fingers, makes a most delicious, light, short roll.

Bogus Colony Schemes.

Some of the southern county papers are sailing into The Sacramento Record-Union with extraordinary fierceness, all because that paper has warned immigrants to beware of bogus colony schemes. We have no reason of knowing how much of truth there is about these bogus colony schemes, but it strikes us The Record-Union puts the case pretty fairly in this extract, supposing such schemes to exist, whether in the middle or southern counties:

The interests of this journal are circumscribed by no geographical limits narrower than those which indicate the wide area loosely styled the Pacific Coast. It is as much concerned for the prosperity of the Southern as for the Northern or Central counties. But it is, above all, concerned for the permanent establishment of a thrifty population wherever the soil will sustain them, and it holds that the kind of colonization schemes which it has denounced are in their essence hostile to the welfare of the intending settlers, and only conducive to the aggrandizement of greedy adventurers, who thrust themselves in between the immigrant and the land, and pretend to be actuated by public spirit when they are doubling the cost of his farm to him, and pocketing out of its purchase price, a moiety which they have not earned, which represents no value transferred by them, and for which all that has been done is to play the middleman between the original owner and the purchaser.

State Teachers' Convention.

A call has been issued, pursuant to resolutions adopted by the State Board of Education, cordially inviting teachers and superintendents of schools to meet in convention at the State Normal School, San Jose, on the 10th and 11th of June. It is hoped the Convention may result in the formation of a live State Teachers' Association, at the annual gathering of which, as in other States, teachers may discuss those general questions pertaining to the subject of education so needful to have well examined, inaugurate measures for the elevation of their profession and renew and widen their acquaintance with each other. No such Convention has been held in this State for three years past.

The Black Hills.

An Omaha despatch of April 28 says: "The party of sixteen miners taken out of the Black Hills by the military will arrive here to-night on a special train. The delegation of Indian Chiefs on their way to Washington are hourly expected at Cheyenne, where they will be taken charge of by Agent Saville, who will take them East. They are reported to express a strong desire to cede their interest in the Black Hills to the Government. It is reported that the Government contemplates the establishment of a military post at Harney's Peak, in case the country is thrown open to settlers."

Marks Convicted.

The second trial of John J. Marks upon an indictment for the crime of embezzlement of the public moneys while holding office as one of the State Harbor Commissioners, terminated April 28, in a verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment," and the defendant will now probably have to expiate his offense by serving a term at San Quentin. The former verdict against him was set aside and a new trial ordered on the ground that he was convicted upon the uncorroborated testimony of his accomplice, Callahan.

The Attorney-Generalship.

Attorney-General Williams, of Oregon, has resigned his position, and Judge Edward Pierepent, of New York, has accepted it. Williams, it is said, goes home to attend to politics there in his own interest. The President, in his letter of acceptance of the resignation, expresses a high appreciation of the zeal and efficiency of Williams' administration of his office.

Remarkable.

William Squires, of Nostocton, Oregon, offers to furnish the Centennial Commission with a fir plank 100 feet long and 12 feet wide. This is offering a great deal; but he goes further, and proposes to build a fac simile of Noah's ark out of the same wood as the patriarch used.

Connecticut Election.

An official canvass of the vote returned to the Secretary of State gives Governor Ingersolls an official majority of 6,521, or about 1,000 more than the average majority of the rest of the Democratic State ticket.

Another Plague.

Tennessee planters are complaining of the unprecedented destruction of mules and cattle by the buffalo gnats. It is estimated that within the ten days preceding April 27, $100,000 worth of stock have been killed by them within a radius of a hundred miles of Memphis.

THE HOSPITAL.

It will be seen by the report of proceedings elsewhere given, that the Board of Supervisors thought it best to continue the present system of having a fixed amount, or contract for the care of the indigent sick of the county. Various plans were considered, involving more time and talk than all other affairs under consideration, combined. On the whole it was thought this plan had fewer objections than any of the others. It was obvious some special provisions had to be made for Panamint, and this fact made a satisfactory solution more difficult to arrive at. To adopt the per diem system for that and other places having similar claims would be but to invite fraud, while on the other hand, to determine everything to one locality would be both unjust and impracticable.

Dr. Wells presented bills to the amount of $1,100 for medical services to indigent sick persons at Panamint. These, to the amount of $700, being properly certified as rendered to such as could not be removed to the County Hospital at Lone Pine, and to persons having no means of their own, were allowed. There is no question but that it was right enough they should be, but we have not now the space to explain in detail the peculiar conditions surrounding the nice questions involved in this departure from the policy adopted heretofore.

Of the several bids for the Hospital offered, Dr Gelcich's was the lowest. This was at his own offer, further reduced to the extent of $600, which amount he waived as so much toward the payment of maintaining a separate hospital accommodation at Panamint, and with this understanding the award was made in his favor. As the matter stands then, Dr. Gelcich takes the Hospital on the same terms and conditions as last year, Panamint district being excluded by special arrangement. At this writing we are not prepared to state definitely the arrangement for Panamint, further than that a branch hospital by contract is to be established there, intended for the accommodation of the indigent sick of that district only, and that all others have to look to the County Hospital as heretofore.

The Independent Party.

[From The Visalia Delta.]

It is an undoubted fact that many of the politicians of this county are disposed to determine the course of the coming breeze before launching their frail crafts upon the tempestuous ocean of politics. The fact is, that the fusion of Democrats and Republicans in the last legislature for the purpose of putting a rider upon Governor Booth, and their repeal of the law taking the harbor commission out of the hands of tricksters, has done much to impress the people with the idea that parties are only held together by the cohesive power of public plunder. The address of the so-called peoples' party deals mainly in facts patent to every reader. And though we have no hope of seeing a party organized that political tricksters will not seek to control, still the entire absence of pledges or obligations to "support the regular nominees" offers a tempting chance to many people to rebuke those politicians who talk of nothing but "carpet-baggers" and "civil rights" before the people, and when it comes to legislating think of nothing but "additional land grants" and "quieting land titles." The time is ripe, however, for the independent voter to demand of all parties the nomination of candidates worthy of the public confidence. This nominating the great land grabber of the coast as Democratic candidate for Surveyor General, while his deputy quietly gobbles up the Republican nomination for the same position, with the understanding that the hard names they gave each other in the canvass are all to be compromised, while their stealing of a half million more or less is to be divided, is—as an apt saying would have it—"a little too thin." We must have a man for Surveyor General whose record is spotless of fraud in such matters. We must have a man in the legislature who comprehends the principles upon which a common wealth is founded and who can devise a system for uniting reclamation with irrigation and navigation instead of the mere squandering of money obtained by sacred trust. We want a man in Congress who knows enough of the resources of his district not to give away, as a mere means of enabling a company to straighten its line of road, a whole valley capable of sustaining a population equal to the whole United States in time of the revolution.

Washing Cotton Goods.

Washing cotton goods without injuring the colors is done by placing the goods in a bucket of rain water so hot that the hand can not be held in it, and added to this as much bran as an eighth part of the fabric would weigh. Stir it lightly with a stick and let it come to a boil. Let it cool until the goods can be washed out as usual, then rinse and dry, and you will find the clothes pure and clean, and the colors bright as ever.

Swindling Emigrants.

Two employment agents at Virginia City, Nevada, were snatched up a few days ago for swindling emigrants out of a few dollars, on a pretence of furnishing them employment. The swindlers were adjudged guilty on seven distinct charges, and on the first, each fined $200, with the alternative of 90 days in jail.

Our Darwin Letter.

DARWIN, May 4th, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—Since my last items to you, there has been several

CHANGES OF OWNERSHIP

in some of our most prominent mines. Mr. C. E. Hoffman, of Santa Clara, has bought the "Lucky Jim," and Mr. G. D. Roberts, of San Francisco has bought Bill Gill's interest in the "Christmas Gift." Mr. Roberts is now one of the largest mine owners in this district. I understand that the intention of these parties is to commence developing their mines immediately, and that Mr. Hoffman will return here in two or three weeks for the purpose of building a furnace. Mr. H. is a gentleman of long experience in the furnace business, both in this country and Europe, and I think from his actions while here, that he means biz. Being a practical assayer, he has sampled and assayed ore from most of the mines in the district and is well satisfied with the result. I learn from a reliable source that will be shipped by the 5th of May for Pine Mountain. Mr. Colp, one of the Lucky Jim owners arrived from San Francisco last night; he had a pretty rough time of it—the met him near Borax Lake, tied him down and relieved him of his gold watch and about two hundred dollars. There were two others in company with Mr. Colp bound for Panamint and were all served alike. The crowd was relieved of about five hundred dollars, beside their jewelry. They were traveling in a wagon and had camped to get dinner when four Mexicans rode up and ordered them to

MR. BRODER'S FURNACE

"BUFFALO GNATS"

"HEAVE UP,"

and they "heaved." So they tied up three of the boys and made the other cook something for the "Gnats" to eat, then let one untied and told him if he left or untied the others, they would come back and kill him. They said they did not want to hurt them, but would like to catch and

KILL BELSHAW OR BEAUDRY,

and a few others from Darwin.

Now, Messrs. Editors, this is getting to be a fine state of affairs and I do really think that if Government, State, and County officials can do nothing, then it is high time that the citizens of this prosperous county organize, so as to bring these highwaymen, robbers and thieves to justice, and put an everlasting stop to these outrages, before capitalists conclude that this is not a safe and agreeable country to invest their capital in. I saw a letter from a gentleman in San Francisco yesterday, stating that business men were to come here on account of the Mexican bandits, and that if business called them to both Bakersfield and Independence near the same time, that fear of the above mentioned bandits, who infest the lower part of our county, would compel them to go to Bakersfield, then return to San Francisco, then via Aurora to Independence, traveling twice the distance and occupying twice the time necessary.

Now, Messrs. Editors, if either of you should conclude to visit Darwin for items, be on the "qui vive" until some action is taken. [It looks like we would have to stay at home a long time if we wait for that.—EDS.]

ITEMS OF NEWS.

The Sutro tunnel is now in a distance of 9,070 feet.

Less wood will be run down Carson river this season than any year during the last ten.

Philosopher Pickett has been set at liberty by order of the Supreme Court for which body he manifested a very profound and well merited contempt some eight months ago, and for which he was fined and imprisoned. The fine was remitted.

A Louisville woman lately sued a lodge of Knights of Pythias for $50,000 for having fatally injured her husband during the initiation ceremonies.

The Coast Survey party are at Reading, preparing to climb Mount Shasta for the purpose of making an examination as to the erection of a monument on the summit.

A Milwaukee, Wisconsin, despatch of April 28, says one-third of Oskosh was in ashes, and the last engine had been burned up. They had resorted to blowing up buildings as the only hope.

Quicksilver has been discovered in abundance in Chloride valley, Arizona.

Rover, who chopped Sharpe literally to pieces, Humboldt county, Nevada, has been held to answer.

Los Angeles and Independence Railway.

Mr. S. A. Tuttle, the Purchasing and Supply Agent of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, yesterday received a letter from Colonel Joseph U. Crawford, the Chief Engineer of the road, dated at New York, April 11. That gentleman was about to hold a conference with Jay Gould, President of the Union Pacific Railway, and Messrs. Jones, Park and Sidney Dillon. The prospect that the Independence Railway will soon form a junction with the Union Pacific is quite promising. Work on the wharf and wharf houses is being pushed so as to be ready for the ties and iron by the 1st of July. Enterprise is the characteristic of Col. Crawford and his associates, and Los Angeles is fortunate in having such energetic engineers interested in her railway projects.—[Los Angeles Herald, April 28.

Don't Agree with Josiah.

Phœnix Grange, No. 104, P. of H., of Jackson county, Oregon, is decidedly opposed to the action of the National Grange in recommending Congress to aid in the construction of the Texas Pacific Railroad by an appropriation of $30,000,000 to a private corporate monopoly. So it "resolved" some at the last meeting.

—An inside dental expense—having a tooth filled.

Cerbat, Arizona.

A private letter from a well known Inyoite and earthquake sufferer to a friend of ours gives the following interesting items of news relating to Cerbat and vicinity. The letter is dated March 28.

This place is dull as the d—l; just across the street stands Elder's furnace, a monument for an uncalled for failure, although the ores are very base and hard to reduce. There is granite and fire clay in the lead ore that is easy to get away with, as well as a large amount of sulphur. We are just on the eve of a great mining enterprise and probably

A GREAT EXCITEMENT.

At last the mate for the world renowned Comstock has been found, and by Jack McCracken, whose name it bears. The ledge is an immense one and crops out boldly for six thousand feet; a crosscut has been run through a body of rich ore for about twenty feet wide and several shafts at different points all show splendid ore. Judging from the opinion of old and experienced miners among whom Messrs. Dave Buell, Raines and many other old hands at the bellows, who all unite in saying that the great belle and the Comstock of Nevada bids fair to have a noble mate and glorious rival. There are large quantities of ore that is very rich assaying as high as $2,700 per ton, and is said to average all through the vein $200 per ton. The mine is situated in the Wallapai mountains about 100 miles from Cerbat by the wagon road, and much nearer by the trail, in a southerly course; about 25 miles from Aubery Landing on the Colorado River, 12 miles west from Greenwood on the Big Sandy, where Bob Stein, Raines & Co., have a ten-stamp gold mill (the one that the Moss company built at the river). The mill started a few days since on ore from the Greenwood mine, owned by the mill company. Raines and Tipton left here on the 26th instant en route to California, traveling on time, having bought out the boys at Mineral Hill for a large sum, and paid enough down to make it interesting.

MINERAL HILL

is south of the McCraken mine and distant six miles, and is a complete net work of mines 3,000 feet long by 1,800 feet wide, and the prospects are more than good for an extraordinary large and rich deposit of ore. It was bought by Raines in the interest of Jones, that old king of miners. The ores taken out are horn silver with rich red oxide. Look out for a real live city to have its birth and grow to a power in the land which shall soon bring the iron horse to our midst and cause poor Lo, the Apache, to be counted amongst the things that were, but is not, having tasted to fullness the draughts of civilization and taken a back seat, which shall cause many an old settler to smile for joy and take another nip, for yours truly has not forgoten the time when he used to hold his 18lb shot gun in one hand and his hair on with the other. By the way Raines has made some large offers for interests in the McCracken in the

and will, without doubt, secure a large interest yet. A Mr. McNevins, and I think, Col. Dave Buell have already bought 3,000 feet, I think for $240,000—not bad to take. There is said to be many other mines in the Owen District, the same place in which Mineral Hill and the McCracken are situated, that bid fair to be big and rich. So you see that old Inyo county must for she is bound soon to have a great rival, and the above prospective great wealth is not all, nay, only a small part. There is much rich ore here in Cerbat and Mineral Park that is bound to come from good mines, and the day is not far distant when the numerous rich bars of bullion will prove my words to be true. There also comes a whisper that there are not far distant to which the trail of the white man will soon be broken, and the sands be made to give up there untold treasures. How much truth there may be in the above I cannot say, but no less a mine hunter than Raines thinks enough of the report to follow the man, who found the place years ago and whose party were all killed but two out of a band of 23 men. A choice party of good fellows that can be depended upon will start out on Raines' return, say in about two months, and take their chances of finding buckets of gold, or leaving their beautiful hair for Lo to adorn the best room in his wigwam. Had I my old muscle back again, yours truly would take the chance of one bucket full. ***

GRAND JURY REPORT.

TO THE HON COUNTY COURT, STATE OF California, county of Inyo. We, the Grand Jurors impanelled for the May Term of the County Court, have the honor to submit the following report, viz:

1st. We have found two indictments for murder.

2d. That we have found two indictments for assault with intent to commit murder.

3d. That we have found one indictment for robbery.

That we have examined into the County Jail and its surroundings and find—

1st. That the cells are not sufficiently ventilated to preserve the health of a prisoner confined therein for any length of time.

2d. That there is a large crack in the south wall of the East cell, opposite to an outside window, said crack being large enough to admit the passage of small tools, to enable a prisoner to free himself from shackles or even bars.

3d. That the back door of the Court House is broken and needs repairs.

And we therefore recommend,

1st. That the cells be supplied with sufficient fresh air to preserve the health of its inmates, but in such a manner as not to weaken the strength of said cells.

2d. That the crack in the south wall of the East cell be, as early as practicable, repaired and made whole.

3d. That the transom over the outside door to the Jail, and back door to the Court House be supplied with hinges, or the sash removed, and iron bars put in, not more than five inches apart, instead.

4th. That the back door of the Court House be repaired in such a manner as to make it secure and strong.

5th. That the old jail and water closet be removed to some place farther away from the Court House. We offer this recommendation because of danger from fire, and the filthy condition of both buildings.

That we have examined into the County Records and found them correct, and kept in a neat business like manner, so far as we are able to judge and we also take pleasure in tendering the County Clerk and Sheriff our thanks for courtesy shown us while in the performance of that duty.

That we have given much thought to our Hospital affairs, and would therefore recommend that the contract for the care of the indigent sick be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, and separate arrangements of a similar character be made for Panamint.

And with the above, fulfilling all of our duties as Grand Jurors for the May Term of the Hon. County Court, we have the honor to ask our discharge.

RICHARD HILTON, Foreman of the Jury.

The Old Central Committees.

As the only obtainable record of the respective (Republican and Democratic) County Central Committees appointed at the Conventions of 1873, is found in our files, we herewith give the names of those appointed at that time, and whose appointments hold good to the present: Republican—R. C. Loomis, Lone Pine; A. J. Gould, Cerro Gordo; J. R. Westerville, Fish Springs; J. C. Kingsley, Bishop Creek; D. Campbell, Sr., Big Pine; W. W. Vaughn, Round Valley; J. P. M. Perhan and P. W. Bennett, Independence. Democratic—Thos. Laspeyre, A. N. Bell, W. L. Hunter, F. P. Ball, S. P. Moffat, D. B. Curtis and Ben Blackmore. As will be seen elsewhere this party now has a new committee. The Republicans have done nothing.

Democratic County Central Committee.

The Democratic County Central Committee, of this county, met in Independence on the 5th instant. In the absence of S. P. Moffat, D. B Curtis was appointed Chairman pro tem. On motion the Committee was enlarged by the appointment of J. W. P. Laird of Round Valley, John Crough of Darwin, and Dr. Wells of Panamint. J. A. Lank was added to the Committee to fill the vacancy occasioned by the absence of Laspeyre, and W. A. Baker in the absence of Blackmore of Big Pine.

In San Luis Obispo.

Rockwell Loomis is passearing down among the country people in San Luis Obispo, but will be home again about the middle of this month. He tells us there are a number of old Inyoites down there, and all prospering. Among these are his brother A. M., and F. K. Miller, Esq.

Temperance Matters.

Rev. Mr. Jennings has been delivering temperance lectures or talks to the Bishop Creek and Big Pine Lodges, and we hear that meetings there on Saturday and Monday nights respectively, were very well attended and a most encouraging interest was manifested.

To Hay Makers.

Thinking we may benefit some of our readers we propose to do a little gratuitous, special advertising. In The Rural Press of May 1st is a full description, with cuts, of the fameous Price or Petaluma hay press. Knowing something of these presses and hay business generally, we are sure the introduction of two or three of these presses into this valley would be of great advantage to all the parties concerned, particularly where hay has to be hauled long distances to market. Then, a solid, compact bale is of considerable more value than the same amount of hay loosely bundled together as come from the extemporized presses mostly in use in this valley. A bale of our hay here, coming from a Petaluma press, with six ropes, as they should always have for transportation, will weigh about 300 pounds, and not be larger than from the common press. The average work with four good men and a span of horses with a Petaluma press is not less than 20 tons per day, and under favorable circumstances, often as high as 24 tons Contrast that, and the quality of work done, with the three or four tons and loose bales of the common press. The improved press weighs 2,600 pounds, and costs, we think about $300 at the factory. We have no data as to the price, and it may be higher than stated. Originally they sold at about $1,000. It requires no particular skill to run these presses. "Anybody that knows enough to turn a grind stone" can do it. It is manufactured by the Price Press Co., 17 Front street, San Francisco.

A Success.

We are pleased to know that Mr. Chaquette's sheep-shearing machine has proved a perfect success, and that a wealthy company has been incorporated to go into the business of manufacturing and putting them in market. As our local readers are aware, Mr. Chaquette went on to Washington last Fall to get the machine patented. This he succeeded in doing with but little trouble. Until the last few days he has been absent all this time, mostly in San Francisco, perfecting the machine, etc., and working under difficulties by reason of lack of means, quite sufficient to have utterly discouraged a less determined man. But he met with kind friends at last, and has, without question, succeeded in inventing a machine that must prove of great value. The machine has a capacity of perfectly shearing some 400 sheep per day, requiring but one man to attend to it. In addition to this he has also invented and patented a hand shear, far superior to anything of the kind heretofore in use. The special improvement is, that the merest novice can use these shears without cutting the sheep in the least. These shears are included in the Wool Clipping Incorporation above referred to.

Still at It.

The bandits keep up their licks very well. Besides the robbery and tying up mentioned in our Darwin letter, word comes that on Wednesday the station keeper at Panamint Junction, at the head of Shepherds canyon, was tied by the Mexicans. The stage from Panamint then coming up the driver and passengers, in all to the number of six, were similarly spansled and left to their meditations while the robbers sacked the establishment, selected two of the best stage horses and vamosed the ranch. We have no further particulars. People to the greasers—"You have spit in my face twice, you have struck me once, you have impugned my courage, and this thing is becoming exceedingly monotonous, but if you do rouse the sleeping lion within my breast I can't answer for the consequence!"

Hospital Report.

Following is an abstract of County Physician Dr. Gelcich's report to the Board of Supervisors of patients treated from May 6, 1874, to the same date, 1875. The total number of patients admitted was 78; discharged cured, 64; discharged improved 8; died 6; total days treatment 2,520. Thirty-six causes for treatment, including but three from gun shot wounds, are mentioned. The causes of death are: Leaded 1; gastro enteritis 1; dysentery 1; thermopsysis 1; pericardities 1; aneurism of the heart 1.

Mr Gustavus V. Norton.

We learn that this gentleman had an important surgical operation (removal of the head of the thigh bone), performed upon him on May 1, by Dr. J. T. Wells of Panamint. Dr. White, his attending physician, believes that he will now soon recover, though in a disabled condition. Our readers will recall him as having been shot at Panamint by Kirby some months ago—on very slight provocation—and we know him to be a worthy man who has the sympathy of his own district.

The Grand Jury.

Henry Hopper, Geo. L. Drake, Alex. McClery, J. N. Doyle, John Viel, S. C. Slausen, J. R. Moffit, C. Meysan Isaac Hitchcock, D. E. Hunter, E Robinson, W. T. Wiswall, A Montgomery, Henry Premer, and R. Hilton, Foreman.

Personal.

Judge Leander Quint, of San Francisco, and who has a wide reputation as a lawyer, is attending Court here, appearing as counsel for Ashim, and also in the Promontorio mining case, for the defense in both suits.

Discharged.

Cortez, the Mexican under arrest for robbing the toll-house and tying up Henning, the gate keeper, Cerro Gordo road, was discharged, the Grand Jury failing to find a bill against him.

That "Tribute"

Is scarcely suited to our columns, and is respectfully declined.

Our Bishop Letter.

BISHOP CREEK, May 6, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—Saturday last was the 1st of May, and persuant to a time-honored custom, was celebrated here. An arbor was erected at the school house Friday, and filled Saturday by the elite of Bishop Creek. Mr. Wainright, teacher of Irving School, is entitled to great credit for his exertions in making the affair a success, for success it was considering the short time allowed for building.

THE QUEEN,

Miss Mary McCrosky, a pretty brunette, was well adapted for the position and wore her honors with ease and grace. She was escorted by her maids of honor, four in number representing the seasons: Miss Annie Yaney, Spring; Miss Rhoda Smith, Summer; Miss Addie Inman, Autumn, and Miss Katie Mallory, Winter. Six knights, six pages and six zephyrs, conducted Her Majesty to her coronation, Master John Mallory performing that ceremony. The ceremony of coronation finished, dinner was commenced and a hearty, jolly time succeeded. After dinner, dancing, and so about 12 o'clock P. M. the day closed. Long live our Queen, and may her life be as bright and sunny as the May morning which made her Queen.

OTHER THINGS.

Piute Mining District still occupies the same locality on the mountain that it did. It is my opinion that the leading owners are holding off to sell. By leading owners I mean those that purchased last Fall a year ago; however, they may commence work.

PLACER MINING

is paying better than ever. The mines west of this place are looking more and more encouraging, and a hydraulic is talked of. Tuttle Wright and others are working them.

IMPROVEMENTS.

John Mills has completed a good blacksmith shop at the town of Bishop, also Dr. Middleton a neat, comfortable dwelling. Other improvements are contemplated.

Au revoir, STUMPY.

The Courts.

We are not prepared to give proceedings of the County Court, but believe nothing more than Grand Jury matters have occupied its attention. No business of importance has been transacted in the District Court, which has adjourned from day to day, waiting the action of the Grand Jury. On Friday Ashim was arraigned for murder, Quint, defendants counsel, introducing affidavits in support of a motion for a change of venue. District Attorney Snelling asked time to prepare counter affidavits, and for the arrival of assistant counsel for the prosecution, expected from Carson. Not decided at time of closing our columns last evening. After being taken under advisement Judge Reed declined to try Reddy's suit for libel against John Clark, but will secure the attendence of another Judge to hear the case July 15th to which time this Court will be adjourned.

May Day.

There was not a general turn out from here on May Day, but the few who did go to Shepherds and up the country had a very enjoyable time. The Messrs. Shepherds have the nicest place in this section. They are fitting it up with excellent taste,—fine fountain, the best swing in the country, trees, walks and shrubbery, and a warm welcome to pic-nickers.

Mining Matters.

Business at Darwin, Kearsage and Pine Mountain begins to have quite a flattering outlook, as may be seen by advertisements, and letters elsewhere in this issue.

Passed.

Owing to ill-health of the senior, and a crowd of other than newspaper business, we are obliged to pass without notice a number of things and occurences worthy of special mention.

Matters of Interest.

Matters of considerable local interest will be found in each of several letters from correspondents published this week.

Inyo Incorporations.

The Panamint Mining and Concentration Works has filed articles of incorporation. The object is to do a general milling and mining business The capital stock is $5,000,000, divided into $100 shares. The Trustees are: Wm. Sherman, Pardon M. Bowen, Clinton Gurnee, D. A. McDonald and A. W. Scott. Also, the Union Smelting and Mining Company. Capital stock $250,000. Trustees: J. C. White, Henry P. Wood, S. Jewett, P. Taylor and J. Tyler, Jr

Text Books.

The Supreme Court, April 18th, through Justice Wallace—all the Judges concurring—affirmed the decision of Judge Ramage, of the Sixth District Court, which declared the proceedings of the State Board of Education, for changes of school books, void without the prescribed official notice, which was not supplied by mere publication through a newspaper

Held to Answer.

Messrs. George and Hinton, of the San Francisco Post, have been held each in the sum of one thousand dollars, to answer before the Grand Jury to a charge of having libeled Chief of Police Cockrill. The Justice held that the defendants failed to show either the truth of the libelous article, or any justifiable motive for its publication.

Railroad Time at Allen's Camp.

The first train of cars entered Allen's Camp (Caliente) on Sunday, at 12 o'clock. Hereafter trains will arrive at Bakersfield, from the north, at half-past six, A. M., and leave at half-past ten, P. M. Passengers for Los Angeles will leave Bakersfield depot at 6:40 A. M, and go via Allen's Camp and Tehachepi. The route by Fort Tejon is abandoned, and when the telegraph line is finished along the railroad, Fort Tejon, one of the most charming mountain locations, will be left thirty miles from the great route of travel. The world is moving. The old landmarks established by the Overland Mail interests before the war, have disappeared from public view. From the pine-covered top of Tehachepi one may soon look upon the iron horse winding his heavy way towards the Great Desert, across which he will soon hasten, and exchange the smoke of civilization for that of the wigwam on the bank of the Colorado.—[Southern Californian.

A CARD.

I, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING BEEN A sufferer for over twelve years from a terrible disease of my ears, that was pronounced by several of the best physicians of San Francisco and Los Angeles, as a congenial ulceration of the membrana tympani, and having tried innumerable plans of medical treatment, which I have endured with the greatest patience and hope for recovery, but without any benefit, on the contrary I was desperate of being absolutely deaf, and was suffering an intense pain in my head, with a very annoying suppuration that at times made me despise my own existence But now, what an immense difference! Since I came in Lone Pine I consulted with Dr. P. G. Gelcich, our gentlemany and worthy County Physician, who pronounced my case very hard, but curable, and he did cure me in a few months by his assiduous and kind treatment, and I feel entirely in a new existence for which I shall be eternally indebted to my benefactor, and I take this opportunity to tender to him publicly this acknowledgement of my heartiest gratitude and wishes for his prosperity, hoping that all the afflicted of our community will avail themselves of his kind, intelligent and efficient treatment

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Onio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art, so soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

What the Grangers are Doing.

[From The San Francisco Bulletin.]

Despite the predictions and hopes of their enemies, the Grangers still flourish. We find their headquarters, No. 6 Leidesdorff street, contantly thronged with members of the Order from different parts of the State, and all express a degree of interest and confidence that no slight reverse can seriously impair. For the benefit of those who have caviled at the movement, or trembled lest the farmers go beyond their depth in business, we herewith present a brief summary of their achievements, together with an outline of their probable ventures.

THE FIRST GRANGE.

The first Grange was instituted at Napa City on the 8th of March, 1873, by W. H. Baxter, National Deputy, with thirty charter members. Since that time there have been organized within this jurisdiction, including the State of Nevada, 256, with a present average membership of seventy-five, making a total of over 18,000. The weekly meetings of the subordinate granges are occasions of social enjoyment and improvement. Especially has the monthly harvest feast become famous, not only for the munificence of the feast of good things but for the unconstrained flow of soul. A good Granger will not allow any ordinary business to interfere with his attendance upon these meetings. One who has not had an opportunity to observe can scarcely believe when told the wonderfully improving effect of the social contact of the Grange—how much latent thinking power has been waked up and developed, and what new vigor has been infused into the dispirited community of famers.

In the subordinate Grange male and female are on terms of absolute equality, there being nothing in the constitution to prevent a sister from becoming even a master. Indeed, the men do not hesitate to attribute the great success of the movements to the guidance of woman's unerring instinct, and we are quite sure that the moderation which has usually characterized it is the result of her prudent counsel. Aside from all business projects, we regard the Grange as a success, in that it is developing nobler manhood and womanhood among its members. But the discussions of the weekly meetings have been productive of tangible results in the shape of banks, co-operative unions, warehouse companies, etc., as follows:

BANKS.

The Grangers' Bank of California was organized and went into operation July 1, 1874. The capital stock is $5,000,000 of which $3,000,000 is subscribed. J. V. Wester, of Alameda is President, and Alexander Watson, Cashier. Its place of business is 415 California street. During the few months of its existence it demonstrated its necessity and grown into great favor with those for whose benefit it was created.

The Farmers' Bank of Colusa was established about the same time, with a capital of $250,000, all of which was subscribed. As a local institution, under judicious management, it is a perfect success, and has benefitted its patrons by relieving them of the necessity of borrowing money on call of men who were most likely to call just when wheat was on the rise.

The Farmers' Bank of Dixon (Solano county) went into operation less than a year ago with a capital of $200,000, and like the others is to-day giving testimony to the fact that farmers can conduct even a banking business with safety and profit.

The Farmers' Co-operative Union of San Jose, including banking in its articles of incorporation. It, however, does only so much of a banking business as will accommodate its regular mercantile customers. Of this, more under another head. Other local banks are projected, and we doubt not, the Grangers of California will one day be able to handle all their money and divide the exchange among themselves.

BUSINESS ASSOCIATIONS.

Here is another class of incorporations, all of which have grown into existence within the past year. First among them in point of time, and we believe also in magnitude, is the Farmers' Co-operative Union of San Jose. The capital stock is $100,000, of which the entire amount is subscribed. This Association set out by purchasing the stock and good will of Pfister & Co. for $30,000. They have since increased the stock to perhaps $80,000, have spread out so as to occupy several large store-rooms, and are in a most flourishing condition. They include in their invoices hardware, agricultural implements and a general line of groceries.

The Grangers' Union of Stockton started a little more than a year ago with $250,000 capital, but by careful management has achieved a greater success in proportion to the actual investment than any similar institution on the coast.

The Grangers of Los Angeles being far removed from San Francisco early felt the necessity of doing something for themselves, and organized last summer a co-operative store with $25,000 capital. They invested in such implements of husbandry as were adapted to that section and a general stock of groceries. The result has been as in every other case, satisfactory, even beyond expectations. For though they may not be able to put goods on the local market any cheaper than other merchants, they realize the difference between buying at wholesale for cash, and buying at retail on time, which affords quite a net sum saved, at least to the stockholders.

Encouraged by the success of the experiments mentioned above, the Visalia Grangers have just opened a similar institution with a capital of $100,000. At Grand Island, Colusa county, one has recently been inaugurated, as also one at Meridian, Sutter county, but neither of these has been in operation long enough to show a balance sheet. Santa Barbara just now announces an incorporation with a capital of $50,000, and we doubt not will soon give a good account of herself. San Buenaventura is also on the way, and sundry other places are discussing the matter, with every probability of soon reaching the point of incorporation. Everywhere the local merchants have displayed more or less hostility toward these enterprises, until they become satisfied that if the Grangers were only let alone they would pursue the "even tenor of their way" without making war on any legitimate business, and gradually have matters adjusted themselves so as to work without friction.

Still another set of projects, yet more in harmony with strictly agricultural pursuits and purposes have been set on foot by the Grangers. We mean for storing grain. Companies have been organized and warehouses have been built as follows: At Modesto, Stanislaus county; at Merced City, Merced county; at Antioch, Contra Costa county. In other places warehouses have been leased, and in others they are projected to be built. Before the close of another season we shall probably see granger warehouses at Vallejo, Collinsville, Monterey, and other points convenient and accessible to large ships, and also at sundry stations along the lines of the railroad in the interior. Thus it will be seen that when the Grangers talk of "handling their own products" they do not mean merely hauling them to town in their own wagons and selling them to the first bidder. They mean a vast system that will secure the producer a fair price—mutual protection against the impositions and extortions of middlemen.

Deserving of special and separate mention is the

GRANGERS' BUSINESS ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA.

This is designed to be the head and center of the system of incorporations. It was incorporated on the 17th of March, with a capital of $1,000,000. Its place of business is San Francisco, and its manager-elect, T. J. Brooks of Stockton. The object of this association is not as has been stated, to go into a general merchandising but to deal as factor and broker, and not otherwise; in all kinds of agricultural produce, live stock, wool, agricultural implements and general merchandise. Also, to ship grain and other produce to foreign and domestic ports. They say: "As Grangers, it is not our purpose to make war upon any legitimate business, nor to interrupt commerce in any of its established channels. But we propose to protect ourselves by all proper means, and to avoid all unnecessary expense in the transportation of our products, thereby securing better pay for our labor and the use of our capital." The Directors of the Association are representative men from among the wool-growers, fruit-growers, grain-growers, dairymen, etc., and they constitute a Board that will compare favorably with any similar body of men on the Coast. The Business Manager is now at his post (which is temporarily at No. 6 Leidesdorff street), and expects, as soon as a suitable locations can be secured to open out in due form. If managed with the same prudence that has marked the conduct of their other enterprises, there is no reason why this house should not become one of the foremost in magnitude and profit. The general agency, of which it is the outgrowth and successor, under the management of I. G. Gardner, has secured vast benefits to its patrons, though limited in its operations by want of capital. So satisfactory has been that experiment that Grangers are willing to risk a capital stock of $1,000,000 in its enlargement. If they succeed, who will be hurt? If they fail who will rejoice?

THE [illegible] MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY is another achievement, the present standing of which, after an existence of less than a year, would be ground of congratulation to any incorporation. It was worked up to its present efficient condition by J. D. Blanchar, a gentleman of long experience in insurance who had retired to the quietude of a farm on account of ill health. He was a member of Napa Grange, and entered into the movement with his whole soul, appreciating, as most farmers could not, the great advantages of co-operation. The company was instituted with a capital stock of $100,000 to insure farm property on the mutual plan, at its actual cost, thereby saving to the farmers the amount they were obliged to contribute in other companies to cover losses on city property. A "cash plan" was also introduced, so as to enable the company to take risks on town property, granger stores, warehouses, etc. At the last meeting of the Directors a proposition was made to further increase the capital stock to $300,000. The risks amount to about one million and a half, with no losses, and the company is classed A 1 by the Commissioner.

Not yet content, but rather encouraged by their success in other directions, the Grangers have also established for the purpose of aiding immigrants in their search for cheap homes and profitable employment. At the last session of the State Grange, held in Stockton, a Committee on Immigration was appointed with R. C. Haile of Solano, as Chairman, and O. L. Abbott of Santa Barbara, as Secretary. Josiah Earl was made General Agent, with headquarters at 6 Leidesdorff street, and though he has met with serious obstacles and has been severely criticized in certain quarters, it is claimed that he has accomplished a great deal of good. But whatever opinion may have been held as to the past, Mr. Earl has now an opportunity, with the flood of immigration pouring in upon us, of accomplishing a lasting benefit to the State. A meeting of prominent citizens, including ex-Gov. Leland Standford, Charles Crocker, I. Friedlander, Llyod Tevis, Gen. Colton and others was held at Grange headquarters on the 19th ultimo to see what could be done toward enlarging the usefulness of this Bureau; and the co-operation of these gentlemen was pledged to enable it to carry out its benevolent design. It only remains for those who have information that would be valuable to immigrants to communicate with the Bureau, or publish the same in some newspaper of large circulation, that it may be properly disseminated.

In addition to what has already been mentioned, the Grangers of the Salinas Valley have constructed a from Salinas City to Monterey, that they might get their grain from the field to the ship at the nearest point, and at the least cost. The Salinas is a large, fertile valley, opening out to the coast with a first-class harbor, and there is no reason why its produce should not be shipped direct to European markets, thus avoiding the expensive carrying and handling via San Francisco. The Grangers saw the opportunity, seized it, and have made a grand success of the project without detriment to any other interest. Other projects of a similar character are under discussion with promises of success, and we see no reason why the Grangers, if they have the means, should not become railroad builders as well as anybody else.

We have in this article done little more than to enumerate the undertakings of this curious, close-mouthed community, who have heretofore been regarded as only fit geese for sharps to pick. If Providence should favor them with a few more good crops, there is no telling what they might undertake. As it is, with a hard year staring them in the face, they are cheerful, in the confidence that they save from the speculators will make up any ordinary deficiency of yield. GRANGER.

San Francisco Officials.

Proceedings have been instituted against Stewart Menzies, a San Francisco Supervisor, looking to his removal from office on account of illegal letting of contracts. Marks has already been convicted and Assessor Rosener is undergoing trial on a charge of numerous rascalities. Giles M. Gray, Collector of the Port, is under investigation for official misconduct, and is charged with spiriting away an important witness to save himself from conviction. Wm. Goveneur Morris, now a Treasury Agent, is doing his dirty best to save his pals. That man has about as bad a record as any official or man outside of prison walls that we know of. Altogether, San Francisco ought to be passably happy, if a pack of official thieves, school masters and such, tends to make a city happy.

A Confidence Man.

We find this among the "Stealings" of the Eureka Sentinel:

A confidence man who gives his name as Major Wilson has been operating successfully in Carson. Last Friday he got $75 from Mr. Willis, a druggist on the strength of a note against some party at Camp Independence, from which place he pretended to bail. He also succeeded in bilking a merchant out of a suit of clothing; after which he left, it is is supposed, in the direction of Reno.

This is "Byrd Wilson," who recently received his discharge from Co. D., Camp Independence. Wilson is a man of some education and capable of better things. A short time ago he made a pretence of committing suicide, shooting himself slightly in the side with a pistol.

Fire at Sumner.

The railroad depot at Sumner, Kern county, caught fire on the night of the 6th instant, and was totally destroyed, together with a large amount of freight, much of it, no doubt, belonging to merchants and others in this county. The Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, among others, lose 300 tons of corn. The total loss will foot up to about $75,000. It is supposed the fire caught from the locomotive of the 10 o'clock train which had left but a short time previous to the breaking out of the flames. This news comes through a private letter.

Southern Californian.

Julius Chester now comes out as the editor and proprietor of the above named Bakersfield paper, which, under its later management has been running in the name of a publishing company without any known editor or owner. Well, Julius makes a number one paper out of it, and discounts The Courier so far, that that vile sheet is never mentioned any more, except now and then when it forces notice by some foul and indecent fling or misrepresentation. Mr. Hudnut had better sell for anything he can get. That's our unbiased advice.

Brutal.

A prize fight came off near Virginia City, May 4, between Jim Chatham and Bing Williams. Fifty-three rounds were fought when Chatham was declared winner, his opponent having bitten his arm severely. The moral of the affair is that an immense crowd from Virginia City witnessed the brutality, betting as they would on a horse race as to the result. The crowd were much disgusted because the decision resulted from what in prize parlance is called a "foul."

Newspaper Change.

V. K. Strode has disposed of his interest in The Tulare Times to M. A. Butz, late of St. Louis, Missouri. Until quite recently we have seen but little of The Times since it came under Mr. Strode's management, but he has evidently been quite a success as an editor. Shakspeare, Smith or some other great poet has said "But me no buts," but we have no reason to suppose that need affect Butz of The Times.

Virginia City Election.

The municipal election in Virginia City, on the 3d, resulted in the election of J. C. Currie (Democrat) for Mayor, C. A. White, Chief of Police, and J. S. Harding (Dem.) for Assessor. The Republicans elected the City Treasurer and all the Aldermen.

Free Masonry and the Catholics.

The Unita Catolica of Rome comments in bitter terms on the installation of the Prince of Wales as head of the Order of Masons in Great Britain, and declares that this act identifies the Angelican policy of Protestantism with Masonry.

The Black Hills.

Several more expeditions of prospectors are on the way to the Black Hills, despite the efforts of the military to cut them off.

GRANGERS AND AGENTS.

We are indebted to "J. Earl, Manager," for several circulars, two of which have much to say about that meeting of "prominent citizens." The circular proper is in these words under the title of "Immigrant Bureau."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1st, 1875.

DEAR SIR;—I take the liberty of sending you one of our circulars, at the same time to ask you to co-operate with us and ask your county officials and people to do the same; and would beg leave to suggest, that a bureau (one or more) be formed in your county at once, acting with us; forwarding to us as soon as possible all desirable information, relative to Government lands or other for sale, and situations for those seeking homes and employment among us.

J. EARL,
Manager.

Another of these is headed "Bureau of Information for Immigrants" and gives the names of Mayor Otis, J. Friedlander, O. Adolphe Low, C. J. Cressey, and John Morton, as its managing committee. These two paragraphs are from this circular:

The above named Committee have formed such a Bureau and appointed J. Earl, as Manager and I. G. Gardner, late Agent of the California State Grange, Assistant.

The Committee having selected the appointed Agent of the Grangers' Emigrant Committee and the late Business Agent of the State Grange as their Manager and Assistant shows a friendly disposition and desire to unite with us in our enterprises as Grangers that we should not ignore; and as this institution is to be sustained by the people at large, we therefore appeal to you as Grangers, and ask your co-operation and support, and to take immediate action and select some person in your Grange to receive orders for help.

J. EARL,
Manager.

If Mr. Earl had had the honesty to sign himself "Special Agent of California Land Thieves," W. C. Chapman, Carpentier, Friedlander et als., instead of Grangers' General Agent as he has heretofore, it would have been well. But he assumes to sail under Grange colors and has the effrontry to ask that organization to endorse and support him.

One of the fundamental principles of the Grange organization was, without question, for mutual protection, not so much with respect to sale of crops and rights to purchase of the necessaries of life, or to war against monopolies as an leading principle, but to protect its members in their individual rights of possession to lands and homes. The records of this State show innumerable instances where poor farmers have been coolly and deliberately robbed of their lands, one after another, by actual force of arms, perjury and unblushing chicanery. What could a poor man, acting alone, without money, friends or influence, or the time to spare from the continuous effort to obtain his daily bread for himself and family, do, when set upon by one of these wealthy land sharks but pack up his goods and "move on." How many such, taken one at a time, have such perjured villains deliberately robbed and driven off their farms, their homes by every right of justice, law and equity, but not theirs when forced into an unequal contest with a wealthy scoundrel, backed by corrupt officials! If any one wishes to know how this is, let him not only scan the less than half told story of the late Swamp Land Investigating Committee, but ask the many poor farmers in Contra Costa, and in fact, in nearly every county in the State, who have thus been ruthlessly robbed and turned adrift. Settlers' Leagues were formed here and there in the hope of giving protection to individual members, perfectly helpless when acting alone against powerful land sharks, whose moneyed influences shaped legislation and controlled officials from the very General Land Office down. Those leagues were rarely successfull because their field of action was too narrow. Then came this national organization, capable and powerful enough to make head against corporate and individual thieves in this line, of every class. Of all yet offered this powerful organization held out the best hopes to the struggling settlers on public lands of this State. It promised protection from these land thieves, in whose clutches settlers, acting individually, were no more than a chicken in the talons of a hawk. The organization was and is abundantly able, not only to protect its members one and all in their rights of purchase and sale as against corporate monopolies of all kinds, but against these literal ground sharks sailing around and gobbling up their homes one after another. It was certain the organization had the power to take care of the rights of its own members, whether rich or poor, if not those of the general Government, which was being robbed with scarce a show of concealment. Seeing this the robbers went systematically to work to secure a voice in its management and have so far succeeded that to-day, one of the most unscrupulous of the whole lot, though unsuccessful in his own intents of land stealing, stands as the representative agent of the very organization created to put down such as he. He has a hundred times boasted of his intimate relations and mutual interest with the railroad land monopolists; a kind, however, in point of honor and value returned for their stealings, standing a head and shoulders above that meaner class, those land thieves who take all and give nothing whatever in return, and whose commissioned agent he now also acknowledges himself to be. He wants to heal the bloody chasm. He, J. Earl, Granger, asks his brethern of the Grange to lock hands with the most notorious land thieves of the State. Is he, saying nothing about his private rascalities, a fit man to be permitted to control an organization so diametrically opposed to him and his kind? Why, the very simple fact of his endeavor to commit the organization to that subsidy scheme, so utterly at variance with not only Grange principles but of the people of this State at large, ought to hoist him higher than Guilderoy's kite. True, the Executive Committee have emphatically repudiated him, but he still assumes to be agent for the Grangers, and just so long as he is recognized as such, just so long the organization stands committed to a false position, which must end in cided harm if not its ruin.

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 5th sensibly touches up this matter at length but we can give but this extract:

Is such a man as this Mr. Earl the proper person to place at the head of an emigrant aid society? Taking this official report as evidence, could a more unscrupulous and more unfit person be named for the position? He tried to get hold of an immense tract of land by fraud and by the dispossession of actual settlers. He comes here and starts a land office, telegraphs to Sargent to vote for another land grab in favor of the Southern Pacific and usurps the name and authority of the Grangers to extend further and similar "aid" to emigrants from the East. Let no such man be trusted. He is the last man whose name should appear in connection with any association honestly intended for the benefit of those who desire an interest in the soil of California.

The objects of the Emigrant Bureau are most praiseworthy and should be fostered by every good citizen. But Mr. Earl is not the man to head such an organization. Let him "step down and out," and a more suitable agent be appointed; and if not, let every citizen who has pledged to aid the society with money withhold the amount of his subscription. This seems to us the only means of securing the "right man in the right place."

Bureau of Information.

Following is a copy of a circular sent us for distribution. We give it place in our columns in preference, thinking it may be of value to some of our readers, and because we have good reason to believe Hoag and the institution he represents is worthy of confidence:

SACRAMENTO, April 25th, 1875.

DEAR SIR:—The Sacramento Valley Bureau of Information, organized for the purpose of furnishing the immigrants now arriving among us in large numbers, with labor, and furnishing those who may be in want of good and trustworthy help with such help, is now ready to receive orders for labor and to fill them.

Please send your order for such labor as you may want immediately or at any future time, giving the kind of labor wanted, the work to be done, and price you propose to pay. Also if there are any public works going on in your vicinity, wanting labor, please give us this information, the name of the Superintendent, etc.

Also, if there are lands for sale or rent, on reasonable terms—the quality, and a full description of the same, who owns them, and any other information you may deem valuable to the Bureau or the immigrant.

The expense of this organization are paid by voluntary contributions, no charges being made either against the immigrant or those who may be benefitted by the information, and to facilitate the development given them.

The only objects are that of giving reliable information to the immigrants of lands for sale and to let, labor wanted, and other beneficial information, and to facilitate the development of the State

No speculation will be permitted in any department of this organization.

Soliciting your hearty co-operation with the Board, I am,

Very Respectfully,

I. N. HOAG,
Secretary.

The Pacific Coast Readers.

A. L. Bancroft & Co., publishers of the above named readers, which were adopted by the State Board of Educationa, publish a lengthy circular in which they refer to State Superintendent Bolander in any others then complimentary terms. The Supreme Court declared the adoption void for the reason that due notice (six months) had not been given. For this omission Bolander was responsible. The merits of the book were in no manner involved in that decision. The book is said to be quite as good, if not superior to the one it was to replace, and such being the case, a strong point in favor of the book rests upon the fact that it is wholly a home production. Not anticipating the adverse judgment of the Court, Bancroft & Co., immediately after the adoption of their reader, went to work to prepare for the demand, and have printed and bound ready for sale, some forty thousand copies, all of which must remain unsold on their hands, and all by reason of Bolander's neglect of duty, in the matter of not giving the required notice. The circular charges the Superintendent with being a zealous advocate of the Eastern monopolies engaged in publishing school books, and hence his motive in opposing the Pacific Reader.

Indian Homesteaders.

We find in The Visalia Delta a copy of a circular from Commissioner Burdett to Registers and Receivers, giving instructions under the new law of Congress in relation to Indian Homesteaders. Since Register McCallum's return, we also find that a copy of the same has been received at this Land Office.

The act was approved March 3, 1875. The subtance of it we have given heretofore, but will repeat that any Indian, born in the United States, abandoning his tribal relations, being 21 years of age, or the head of a family, may, pursuant to forms in use heretofore, enter not to exceed 160 acres of Goverment land as a homestead, and shall be intitled to a patent for the same at the expiration of five years, and for five years thereafter is denied the right to alienate his title in any manner, nor cannot be deprivd of the same by virtue of any decree of court. He forfits no annuities, money or lands accruing to his tribe by having thus dissolved his tribal relations.

The law further provides that all Indian homesteads heretofore admitted, stand intact, certain conditions to be considered. Land officers are instructed to accept Indian applications under this law. It is a little curious that Burdett, in refusing to admit Mike's pre-emption right, as he did but a few weeks ago, should not have made the slightest reference to this homestead law, as affording a contingent relief. The law had been approved and in his hands for a month or more.

This law will undoubtedly do more to settle Indian troubles in certain sections than any thing else that has ever been done for them, and yet at the same time the sum total of the lands likely to come under their exclusive control will scarce be missed anywhere. The denial of their right of alienation is an excellent feature of the law and is important.

General News Items

The construction of the new revenue steamer for service on the Pacific coast has been awarded to the Oregon Works of Portland, Oregon, for $92,000 currency, that being the lowest bid.

A Washington special says that the bond of Postmaster Parker of New Orleans is a family affair. General Butler, his brother-in-law, assumes $200,000; his nephew by marriage, Governor Ames of Mississippi, $100,000, and the father-in law of his daughter $100,000.

The Mexican Commissioners to the Centennial Exhibition arrived at Philadelphia, May 3, and met at the office of the Director-General to make definite arrangements for the accommodation of the Mexican exhibitors. In the after noon they visited Fairmount Park to inspect the buildings and grounds.

There has been another victim of lynch-law in Iowa. The body of George W. Kirkham, a reputable farmer living in Polk county, was found, May 4, hanging to a tree near Mitchellsville, a small station on the Rock Island Railroad. It is supposed that the deed was done by the mob that tried to do the same thing with Samuel E. Parson last December, a few days after the hanging of Howard.

Captain Fake's License as Shipmaster has been formally revoked, on account of the loss of the Ventura.

Sheriff Gilmore, of Eureka, Nevada, has gone to Panamint after Small and McDonald, the alleged highwaymen.

Good Words.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT mentioned the fact that The Sentinel was not received at that office for some time. The fault was ours. The Sentinel's mailing clerk inadvertently omitted THE INDEPENDENT from the printed list of addresses and the error was not discovered for several weeks. We like THE INDEPENDENT; it is a good local paper; one of the best of our weekly exchanges, in fact, and The Sentinel is desirous of exchanging with it ad infinitum. —[Eureka Sentinel.

Thanks, and we can say that we missed The Sentinel, during the time it failed to connect, a good deal more then we cared to acknowledge. And here in this connection we also owe The Gold Hill News, a very warm "thank" for its latest complimentary allusion to THE INDEPENDENT.

For Sale.

The Kern County County Courier is for sale. Now that Bakersfield has an enterprising paper, Mr. Hardnut is awakening to the fact that his contemptible, cut-throat system of journalism will no longer pay, and is doubtless desirous of flying to Josiahs' bosom to take stock in some of his swindles, hence this offer. Here is a chance for some working printers to take The Courier's material and do something in the way of making an honest living. But it will be a hopeless undertaking, so long as a single feature of the present abortion is left recognizable by decent people.

Cavalry Coming.

We understand that a troop of U S. Cavalry from San Francisco, are now en route for this county. We believe it was through Capt. Macgowan's influence that this is the case. The Captain, we know, is determined to do all in his power to put a stop to the outrages of those bandits, and to protect people as well as United States mails. This last he can do, and is doing, with his infantry, but well mounted men, and in strong force, are essentially necessary to accomplish anything of consequence in driving off the vagabonds at this time infesting the highways and by-ways of the southern portion of the county. The cavalry in detachments, will continue in the field till Fall if necessary, and scout the entire region occupied by the outlaws, through which none but well armed parties can now travel with impunity. We think Gen. Schofield and Capt. Macgowan are both entitled to our thanks for their prompt and willing action in this matter, let the results be little or much.

An Escape and Recapture.

Two weeks since David Akers made an assault on a young member of the Hitchcock family, for which he was arrested and indicted for an assault with intent to kill. Last Monday evening while in charge of Deputy Sheriff Upton, he asked leave to talk with two of his brothers whom he met in the street, after having been out in company with the officer. Upton acceded, and not wishing to overhear the conversaton stepped off a few paces, leaving Oregon Akers and the prisoner talking, one on each side of the horse the former rode, the prisoner being on the off side, the other with his hand containing the bridle reins on the horse's neck. Suddenly, as if by a preconcerted arrangement, David was on the horse's back and leaving the place at full speed. A strong party started immediately and by considerable maneuvering about the old man Akers place at Georges Creek, got posession of the escaped gentleman and returned him to jail. He appears for trial on Monday. Upton did his whole duty in his efforts to recapture the flown bird.

Another Bandit Outrage.

A private letter from Darwin dated on the 5th gives the particulars of another outrage at the hands of those Mexican "Buffalo Gnats." Bart. McGee of Bishop Creek, was caught about ten miles from Shepherd's Canyon, by two Mexicans, and kept a close prisoner, the most of the time, securely bound, for 28 hours. For a long time one of the bandits was resolutely determined to murder their prisoner, but at the urgent persuasion of the other, after much debate they gave up that idea and told him to go directly to Darwin, otherwise they would kill him anyhow. He did so, coming into Darwin on the 5th. The robber took his horse and entire outfit and all the money he had about him. The robbers told McGee that their party was composed of eight, but he saw only those two. Oh, if the Amador Volunteers would only come over here and drive the gnats away!

Mono and Around.

Register McCallum returned a few a few days ago from a two weeks' tour through Mono and the northern portion of this county. He says Mono is in a decidedly prosperous condition, her numerous resources, particularly mineral, opening up splendidly. The talk is that a new court-house is to be built at Bridgeport. Some fine quicksilver mines have been discovered near Bridgeport, which is becoming quite a flourishing mining center. Crops everywhere were full as promising as they ever are at this season of the year.

School to Close.

The Independence School will close an eight months' term on Friday of the coming week. As everybody knows the State and county school money combined are entirely inadequate to maintain even a five months term here and notwithstanding the liberal donations of the Dramatic Club, and two or three individuals to whom application was first made, there will be full $200 yet to raise by subscription or taxation. Miss Graham, the teacher, has performed her duties perfectly well and satisfactory, and has earned every cent of her salary.

Boy Struck Down with a Pistol.

One Dick Robinson at Panamint got offended at some trifling remark made by a boy named Govan, connected with The Panamint News office, and struck him down with a pistol, inflicting a severe if not dangerous wound. Robinson was brought to Darwin for preliminary examination, but as Justice Hanson is not there it has not taken place yet.

Agreement of Sale Filed.

The agreement of sale of the Lucky Jim (Darwin) mine was filed for record in the Clerk's office on the 11th. The purchaser, C. E. Hoffman, gives to James Furguson and his partners in the mine, the sum of $15,000 cash and 3,000 shares of stock in an incorporation to be formed and including the Lucky Jim.

New Stock.

L. Wood has just opened out a very complete stock of dress and fancy goods, provisions, tobacco, toys and all kinds of things in his line. His new stock is well worth looking at whether you want to purchase or merely satisfy a curiosity.

Welch Found Dead.

Three days since word came that the body of E. P. Welch, the escaped murderer, was found lying in the sage brush but a short distance from the eastern bank of Owen's river, opposite Big Pine, and less then half a mile below the bridge. The discovery of the remains was made by J. C. Sears, while riding about in search of cattle. Justice Campbell, being notified, called a jury, which, after due investigation, was satisfied the remains were those of Welch. They were lying about fifty yards from the main traveled road on that side of the river, and no doubt have lain there since the second or third night of the escape, over two months ago. The body had been much torn by wild animals, but not enough so to render identification a matter of any uncertainty to intimate acquaintances. The clothing was precisely the same as he wore when he left the prison. In the pockets were found naught but an empty vial labeled laudanum, neatly tied up in cloth and a key made out of a German silver spoon, part of the manufacturer's name yet visible. This key fitted the shackles Welch wore, as proven by comparison with the Sheriff's key. Mrs. Welch, then in this place, hearing the news of the discovery, was affected beyond measure. She, and subsequently, Sheriff Swearingen, Coroner Wayland, and others, started as soon as possible to the ground, to confirm the identification and give the remains internment, which closing scene of this most sorrowful history of crime and affliction, the doings of whisky throughout, is to take place to-day at the cemetery south of this place. Here, then, we have a satisfactory explanation of the profound mystery attending the movements of the unhappy criminal after his escape. Save his foot-prints for a mile or so from the jail, not a trace of the escape's subsequent movements of any kind has come to light until now, when he is found dead. There is hardly a doubt but that in his frantic efforts to reach a place of temporary safety and succor, and in his debilitated state of body, he overdid himself, possibly the first night, and died from exhaustion or the effects of the laudanum. The fact of the laudanum vial being found in his possession indicates that he had previously resolved to take his own life when all other hopes of escaping the scaffold had passed away.

Since the foregoing was in type we have received a a copy of the verdict of the Coroner's jury, and an account in detail of the investigation, which is substantially the same as above given. The verdict is as follows:

We, the jury, believe from the evidence, this to be the body of E. P. Welch, and that he came to his death from causes to us unknown. Signed—A. P. Mann, C. Engle, C. T. Stoughtenborough, J. W. McMurry, L. Powers. A. Halverson, S. J. McMurry.

A. WAYLAND,
Coroner.

Big Pine, May 12, 1875.

The "Gnats" Fooled by a "Biled" Shirt.

Those knights of the road Lopez and Jose Guerro, interviewd Scott Broder and Tom Hubbard the other day on the trail from Haiwai to Monache where Scott has cattle. The "gnats" rode along with them for awhile before making a demand for coin or valuables. When the demand was made and complied with they got thirty cents in cash, both gents having so far prepared for a contingency of this sort they didn't have any more. Their horses and provisions were next taken. The greasers believing Scott a subject for charity because he was not strikingly well dressed, gave him an old stage horse in exchange for his own; Hubbard was unfortunately taken for a bloated aristocrat, all because he had advanced the thirty cents and wore a "biled" shirt, so he wasn't allowed a horse or anything to comfort him. The Mexicans said they were after Barrows of Cerro Gordo, whom they would kill at the first opportunity. Broder politely pointed out the inconsistency of their avenging their supposed wrongs upon everybody. He was told that was none of his business. Scott can't argue knotty points very well so he quit.

COUNTY COURT, J. A. HANNAH, Judge.

Additional to Probate business, the following is the sum of the transactions of Judge Hannah's Court other than what has passed to the District Court proceedings:

The Grand Jury having found no indictment against Cortez, he was discharged from custody.

Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Cruz Lopez and Jose Guerro for robbery; David Akers and Thomas Garroll, assault to commit murder, admissible to bail in the sum of $2,500 each.

Akers, being under arrest, was arraigned on the 8th, and requested the Court to appoint counsel; R. W. Woolard was so appointed, and granted till Monday the 10th to plead to the indictment. The prisoner being out of town at that time, he was allowed till Monday, the 21st, to put in an appearance, to which time the Court then adjourned.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, MONO CO., CAL., May 12th.

MESSRS. EDS:—As I am of the opinion that "Snob" has either left the country or respectfully declined to give you an item, I therefore beg leave to offer you a synopsis of times around Benton, in order that your multifarious readers may know that there is such a place, also to take cognizance of a few remarks which your Round Valley correspondent made some time ago, while the aforesaid "Snob" was trying to make himself notorious driving a quill and slinging "Arnold's writing fluid" as though it was only worth a bit per barrel.

COULDN'T PASS.

Although your Round Valley correspondent called "Snob's" attention to the latest map (on some occasion), but when he came to be examined in geography, he could not pass the examination, but refered the geographical question to some one else. And, in speaking of the latest agricultural resources of Mono county, he makes a desperate effort at sarcasm by saying that a small portion of Round Valley is in Mono county, about enough to raise a dozen water melons on. But my R. V. friend is again deficient in the geography of this country, and thinks your readers are. Eds., allow me to inform him that there is a valley in the northern part of this county, as large, as well watered and will produce as much grain as both Round Valley and Bishop Creek. So much for the agricultural resources of this county.

That lumber business which your R. V. correspondent spoke of as having changed hands is wholly in this county, and every foot of lumber that R. V. uses (that is worth a cent), comes from this county.

ALL QUIET.

General Contentment and Happiness are paying us a visit, and all seem to be doing well. Business assumes a somewhat livelier form, and everything bids fair to give good times this summer. A. Mack's mill started up this A. M. on very rich ore and turning out the bullion in quantities unknown to any one but himself. The mill at Hutch's Canyon will soon be complete, and will evidently be well done, as Mr. Wickland is the boss mechanic. The road to the Indian Queen mine is completed, so that teams can drive to the dump. I am informed by one of the workmen in the Indian Queen that they brought down at one shot twenty tons of ore which mills $500 per ton without assorting.

A. B. Williams' little five-stump mill is grinding away and is always ready for its rations of ore and never fails.

Madam rumor says that two of the most prominent mines in the Blind Spring District are about to be sold, one to a New Company, and the other to a Virginia Company. But there has never been a dollar brought to this town and invested in mines and I think from the present prospects, that if there never is a dollar of capital imported or invested, that we will still live, for every mill, dwelling, barn, store-house and every article of merchandise that is here now was taken out of our mines, besides the cost of keeping up other expenses.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Mr. Wheeler has built a small but neat residence in Partzwick, which is quite an addition to that little burgh. Mr. Farber has commenced building a cozy little coop and the supposition is that he intends to—well no matter. Mr. Lawson has just received 4,000 feet of lumber from Big Pine and we believe contemplates building if nothing more. Mr. E. R. Miner has sold his residence to Mr. T. M. Byrne, and taking everything into consideration I think there will be "some things did here" before long.

AT—TORNEY.

Heavy Incorporation.

The New Coso Mining Company incorporated May 3d, to mine for gold and other precious metals in this State. Capital stock, $10,000,000. Directors —L. L. Robinson, J. W. Gashwiler, H. T. Templeton, E. M. Fry, George D. Roberts. The particular point of mining operations of this responsible incorporation, is, as its name indicates, at Darwin, and we have reason to think they intend to make things move there before long.

Steamer Explosion.

The river steamboat Senator running on the Willamette, Oregon, exploded her boiler on the 6th instant causing the death of nearly her entire crew.

Don't Want It.

It is said Hon. S. O. Houghton don't want to be Congressman for this district any more, and will decline the nomination.
